Steel Talks End Without Agreement

Union Leader Says Proposal 'Unacceptable'

"Totally unacceptable." United Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald said of a counter-proposal brought here by industry negotiators after a secret meeting with top steel executives in New York earlier in the day.

"We see little hope of accomplishing an agreement," the chief industry negotiator, R. Conrad Cooper, said after a two-hour negotiating session in a local hotel broke up with the two sides still far apart.

Representatives of the union and the industry were due to meet again Sunday at a hearing scheduled by President Eisenhower's fact-finding panel as a preliminary to obtaining a back-to-work order from the courts.

HEARING

But that hearing is not designed as a bargaining session, and no further industry-union talks aimed at bringing the 95-day strike to an end were scheduled.

McDonald was obviously angry as he walked out of the meeting to give reporters his side. He said management had insisted on what he termed "infamous demands" for changes in the work rules at the steel mills.

The companies insist such changes are needed to increase efficiency.

The situation seemed to point to early action by Eisenhower to seek a court injunction which would send the workers back to the mills for 80 days. Negotiations would continue during the 80 days, but the union would be free to resume the strike early next year.

The President's fact - finding board, which scheduled its final hearing Sunday morning, is due to report to the White House on the situation Monday morning.

Thereafter Eisenhower will be free under emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act to seek a strike-ending injunction.

Chairman George W. Taylor of the fact - finding board said he had no plans to try to get the negotiations resumed Saturday the positions of both sides," Taylor said. "Evidently, they are closer together than they were.

"Our job is to get the facts for the President."

Taylor's statement that the two sides appeared to be closer together was not borne out by any

Collection Gains Are Reported In United Drive

United Fund givers in the Twin Cities had by yesterday upped the total contributions to $88,526.12, or slightly over 40 per cent of the $225,919.72 goal set for this year.

General Campaign Chairman James W. Moore praised the West Monroe fund workers, led by Buddy Harrelson, who have already reported collecting 75 per cent of last year's total in this first week of the campaign.

Special recognition was also accorded Northeast State college, which reported a finished drive with 70 per cent over last year's

Three Of Nation's Top Ten Teams Handed Losses

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Northwestern's Cinderella kids, once the whipping boys of the Big Ten, staggered to a 20-7 victory over Michigan Saturday and narrowly missed the same fate that overtook three of the other top teams in the country.

Georgia Tech, fourth-rated team in teh current Associated Press poll, was nipped by Auburn 7-6; Purdue, No. 6, fell before Ohio State, 15-0 and Iowa, No. 9, was clobbered by Wisconsin, 25-16.

The Air Force Academy also had its 14-game unbeaten streak shattered by Oregon 20-3. Oregon continues unbeaten.

Louisiana State, No. 1, was involved in a night game with Kentucky, and Texas, No. 3 behind Northwestern, played Arkansas under the lights.

Northwestern, which fumbled six times, needed a pair of sensational touchdown drives and two goal-line stands to ward off the upset-minded Wolverines.

Auburn, which had its 24-game unbeaten skein snapped earlier in the year, made a bid to climb back into the top 10 with its triumph over Georgia Tech. The margin of victory was Ed Dyas' extra point.

Injury-crippled Purdue, which had been rated Northwestern's top rival for the Big 10 title, never could get started against Ohio State. The Buckeyes, shut out in

Govt. Will File New Voting Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph M. F. Ryan, acting chief of the Justice Department's civil rights division, said Saturday the government would soon file a new suit in an unnamed southern state in support of Negro voting rights.

He told United Press International it would be a few weeks but would not say where. Meantime, he said, he has not yet received a request from the Civil Rights Commission to rush a Supreme Court appeal of a Louisiana federal court's decision that the commission's hearing procedures on Negro voting rights are unconstitutional.

He said he had written to Commission Chairman John A. Hannah requesting instructions. But he said he was certain there would be an early appeal. Hannah said the request has been made.

Ryan has been acting chief of the division since W. Wilson

Beating Case Claim Denied At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Three local police officers here yesterday denied hitting a Monroe man who was in critical condition at the Confederate Memorial Center with a head injury, which he said was inflicted by the officers who arrested him here on October 3.

Jack Caples, 28, was rushed here from Monroe, Friday where he reportedly told attendents at E. A. Conway Memorial hospital in Monroe that his injury was sustained when he was beaten by Shreveport policeman who arrested him.

'ROUTINE'

His condition last night was reported to be "very poor" by hospital attendents. He was unconscious through last night.

Reports at the Shreveport police department show that Caples and Horace Bryan, 23, were picked up on the night of October 3 at the 1700 block of Tulane street, after residents called in a complaint on them.

Sgt. W. D. Greene said the arrest was routine and that no

Shipyard Strike Comes To End

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The eight-week West Coast shipyard strike was ended Saturday with union approval of a three-year contract calling for an over-all wage increase of 27 cents an hour for more than 12,000 workers. The yards resume work Monday.

Industry spokesman said it will be at least a month before the yards get back to normal production, hampered by departure from the area of skilled craftsmen. South San Francisco's Bethlehem yard, for example, planned to start with less than half of its 2,600 working force.

Art Takes Spotlight At Caldwell Festival

COLUMBIA (Special) — An enthusiastic crowd of over 1,000 persons in festive outfits and fashions of bygone eras, turned out for the fourth annual Caldwell Art Festival held in the Community Center here yesterday.

The grounds of the outdoor art show, largest such exhibition in the state, were arranged with tables of displays including ceramics, sculpture and handicrafts. Approximately 750 pictures were hung from wires strung between trees.

The pictures represented the efforts of elementary school, high school students, and adult artists from all over the state.

The Columbia High School band opened the day's activities with an hour of "festival airs," under direction of Mrs. Charles Polland.

The morning session was devoted to a demonstration by Arthur C. Morgan, the famed Shreveport sculptor who did a portrait head in clay of J. V. Spatafora of Monroe.

During the short adjournment for lunch members of the Columbia Band Boosters served sandwiches, taste - tempting pies and cakes, coffee and cold drinks in an outdoor patio, surrounded by palm trees.

Summit Talk May Come In Late October

Informants Say Ike Ready For Western Meet

BONN, Germany (AP)— President Eisenhower was reported Saturday to have proposed a Western summit conference in Europe sometime around the end of this month.

Authoritative informants said Eisenhower had told the government chiefs of Britain, France, and West Germany he is ready to meet with them to work out plans for a forthcoming top-level conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The word from Eisenhower was said to be contained in letters to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle, and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The West German government and the U.S. Embassy here confirmed that Adenauer had received a letter from Eisenhower Saturday but declined to disclose its contents.

It was learned, however, that the President had agreed with Adenauer's proposal that the Western government chiefs confer among themselves before moving into an East-West meeting with Khrushchev.

The informants said that if all goes well an East-West summit meeting can be scheduled for Geneva Dec. 7.

This would be a week before the start of the annual Paris meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's foreign ministers, who presumably would be able to discuss the results of the summit talks.

Fall From Roof Of House Fatal To Bastrop Man

BASTROP (Special) — Tilford B. Flowers, 59, was fatally injured yesterday about 6 p.m. when he fell from the roof of his new home. He died about 30 minutes later from "basal skull fractures," according to hospital authorities.

Flowers began last April building his new home, and was putting some final touches to the roof when the fatal mishap occurred.

A neighbor, identified as David Gross, reported that he heard Flowers crying for help across the street, and rushed over to the scene, where he found the injured man on the back porch. An ambulance was summoned, but a mistake in the location of the house delayed arrival until about 30 minutes later, it was reported.

Flowers's wife was working at the time and was later notified of her husband's fatal fall from the almost-completed home.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete last night, but will be announced by Jones Funeral Home of Crossett, Arkansas.

Cooler Weather Heads For Area

Twin Cities residents are in for cooler weather during the next couple of days, the forecaster says. Skies will be mostly cloudy through tomorrow, with scattered showers mostly in the afternoon.

Yesterday's high was 77, low was 55, as compared to Friday's readings of 70 and 49.

NBC Not To Follow CBS Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. said Saturday that the solution to crooked quiz TV shows is not to kick all quiz shows off the air, but to keep sharper watch for skullduggery in the future.

It said it would not follow the lead of its major rival, the Columbia Broadcasting System, which announced Friday an end to all television shows involving big cash awards or expensive prizes.

"The American public has been seriously misled and deceived through the rigging of certain quiz shows," NBC acknowledged in a statement. "The networks, NBC included, must accept their share of responsibility for this breach of public faith.

"However, NBC does not accept the premise that all programs offering substantial prizes—whether quiz, panel, audience participation or contest shows—are inherently dishonest.

"These program forms virtually parallel the life of broadcasting, radio as well as television. Millions of Americans like and want them. We do not believe that amputation of one of the oldest and best-liked program forms is the answer to television's current difficulties."

NBC said it was not clear how far CBS intends to go, adding that the dropping of one or two daytime quiz shows would not be "particularly significant."

U.S. Hits Reds On Spy Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)— The United States Saturday accused the Soviet Union of seizing the security chief of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and trying to force him by threats and bribery into becoming a spy for the Soviets.

In a sensational new twist to Washington-Moscow relations, the State Department reported that threats of physical violence, offers of bribes and a trumped up charge of espionage were used without avail against the security officer, Russell A. Langelle.

"They also threatened to take unspecified action against his wife and three small children who reside with him in Moscow," the department said.

When the U.S. Charge d'affaires Edward L. Freers, protested to the Soviet Foreign Ministry, Langelle was accused of espionage against the Soviet Union and ordered out of the country.

The United States rejected this charge, but under diplomatic custom it has no recourse other than to bring him home. Langelle and his family will leave as soon as possible.

A reduction in gas rates did the trick

The Monroe consumer price index for September remained at the same level as the March index, but fell seven tenths of one per cent below the level one year ago.

The consumer price index, a statistical measure of chances in prices of such goods, is prepared by the division of research at LSU's college of business administration.

BIZARRE CASE

Motherwell Jokes But Eyes Gallows

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP)— Larry Lord Motherwell peered through the cell bars and cracked, "I guess they'll have the trial soon. The gallows is already built."

The smooth-talking construction worker joked in his cell in this tiny Sierra mining town, population 350. He has pleaded innocent to slaying Pearl Putney, 72-year-old well-to-do widow, whose bones were found Aug. 16 in deep woods near neighboring Sierraville.

The Sierra County grand jury considers the bizarre case Oct. 26.

Motherwell, 43, joked about the gallows—but it is there. Erected in 1857, the structure stands only 50 feet from the modern County Jail. Motherwell can see it from his cell window.

Unused since 1885, it is still in working order, and is preserved as an historical monument to attract tourists to this once bustling, rowdy mining town.

Travelers today come to this quiet community of 350 persons mainly to admire the beauty of the mountain forests.

One tourist, Alma Freeman of Rio Oso, Calif., was hunting pine cones Aug. 16 when she came onto a skull and some bleached bones. These turned out to be the remains of Mrs. Putney, widow of a Washington, D. C., professor.

Mrs. Putney was last reported

Residents Warned To Evacuate

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Judith aimed 75 mile an hour winds at the heavily-populated Tampa Bay area on the West Florida Coast Saturday night and advance squalls lashed most of South Florida.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Miami warned beach residents along a 200 mile stretch of coast line to evacuate the beaches before the storm hit. The Bureau said the center of the storm was expected to strike in the Tampa area late Saturday night or early Sunday.

Late last night, the center of the 10th tropical tempest of the season was approximately 300 miles southwest of Tampa. It was moving to the north-northwest at 17 miles an hour.

The storm blossomed into a hurricane suddenly Saturday evening from a tropical depression that developed in the southeastern Gulf of Mexico.

RAPID

The rapid buildup to hurricane strength caught emergency agencies along the Gulf Coast by surprise and they huddled in hurriedly called meetings Saturday night to make plans

Officials of the Gulf Coast municipalities in the Tampa Bay area met with disaster agencies to decide their course of action. Mass evacuations were expected, especially along the low Gulf Coast beaches just west of St. Petersburg.

The Coast Guard headquarters here went on a hurricane readialert. A spokesman said there had been no reports of missing vessels in the storm. He said a lone shrimp boat was limping into Tampa with engine trouble but was well behind the storm center and in no apparent danger.

Fringe squalls in advance of Judith swept over the Metropolitan Miami area starting about noon. Torrential rains hit some sections of the city and wind gusts up to 45 miles an hour bowled over a few trees and temporarily knocked out power to some neighborhoods. A few plate glass windows were smashed.

The storms ended in Miami as the squalls moved up the state. Heavy gusts hit Fort Lauderdale

Gen. Marshall To Be Buried In Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall, mourned throughout the free world as a soldier, statesman and humanitarian, will be buried with simple honors Tuesday in Arlington National Cemetery.

It was his wish that the services be held to a minimum.

The body of the five-star general of the Army, who died at 78 Friday night after a long illness, will lie in repose in the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington National Cathedral from noon Sunday until noon Tuesday.

Canon Luther D. Miller of the cathedral, which is Episcopal, will conduct services Tuesday afternoon at the Ft. Myer Chapel, adjoining the Arlington Cemetery. Burial will be private.

ORDER

By order of President Eisenhower, who called Marshall's passing "a cause for profound grief," the American flag was lowered to half staff on all public buildings and military installations and will remain that way until after the last rites.

Eisenhower owed his own rapid rise through the ranks of senior officers at the start of World War II in large part to Marshall.

Marshall served as Army chief of staff during World War II and later as secretary of state and secretary of defense. He was the author of the postwar Marshall Plan which brought him the Nobel

U.S. Hits Reds On Spy Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)— The United States Saturday accused the Soviet Union of seizing the security chief of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and trying to force him by threats and bribery into becoming a spy for the Soviets.

In a sensational new twist to Washington-Moscow relations, the State Department reported that threats of physical violence, offers of bribes and a trumped up charge of espionage were used without avail against the security officer, Russell A. Langelle.

"They also threatened to take unspecified action against his wife and three small children who reside with him in Moscow," the department said.

When the U.S. Charge d'affaires Edward L. Freers, protested to the Soviet Foreign Ministry, Langelle was accused of espionage against the Soviet Union and ordered out of the country.

REJECT

The United States rejected this charge, but under diplomatic custom it has no recourse other than to bring him home. Langelle and his family will leave as soon as possible.

As detailed by the State Department, the sensational incident.

Consumer Price Rates Here Are Report Subject

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Families of city wage earners and clerical workers in Monroe are paying less for their consumer goods and services, a Louisiana State University report showed Saturday.

A reduction in gas rates did the trick

The Monroe consumer price index for September remained at the same level as the March index, but fell seven tenths of one per cent below the level one year ago.

The consumer price index, a statistical measure of chances in prices of such goods, is prepared by the division of research at LSU's college of business administration.

BIZARRE CASE

Motherwell Jokes But Eyes Gallows

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Larry Lord Motherwell peered through the cell bars and cracked, "I guess they'll have the trial soon. The gallows is already built."

The smooth-talking construction worker joked in his cell in this tiny Sierra mining town, population 350. He has pleaded innocent to slaying Pearl Putney, 72-year-old well-to-do widow, whose bones were found Aug. 16 in deep woods near neighboring Sierraville.

The Sierra County grand jury considers the bizarre case Oct. 26.

Motherwell, 43, joked about the gallows—but it is there. Erected in 1857, the structure stands only 50 feet from the modern County Jail. Motherwell can see it from his cell window.

Unused since 1885, it is still in working order, and is preserved as an historical monument to attract tourists to this once bustling, rowdy mining town.

Travelers today come to this quiet community of 350 persons mainly to admire the beauty of the mountain forests.

One tourist, Alma Freeman of Rio Oso, Calif., was hunting pine cones Aug. 16 when she came onto a skull and some bleached bones. These turned out to be the remains of Mrs. Putney, widow of a Washington, D. C., professor.

Mrs. Putney was last reported

Residents Warned To Evacuate

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Miami warned beach residents along a 200 mile stretch of coast line to evacuate the beaches before the storm hit. The Bureau said the center of the storm was expected to strike in the Tampa area late Saturday night or early Sunday.

Late last night, the center of the 10th tropical tempest of the season was approximately 300 miles southwest of Tampa. It was moving to the north-northwest at 17 miles an hour.

The storm blossomed into a hurricane suddenly Saturday evening from a tropical depression that developed in the southeastern Gulf of Mexico.

RAPID

The rapid buildup to hurricane strength caught emergency agencies along the Gulf Coast by surprise and they huddled in hurriedly called meetings Saturday night to make plans

Officials of the Gulf Coast municipalities in the Tampa Bay area met with disaster agencies to decide their course of action. Mass evacuations were expected, especially along the low Gulf Coast beaches just west of St. Petersburg.

The Coast Guard headquarters here went on a hurricane readialert. A spokesman said there had been no reports of missing vessels in the storm. He said a lone shrimp boat was limping into Tampa with engine trouble but was well behind the storm center and in no apparent danger.

Fringe squalls in advance of Judith swept over the Metropolitan Miami area starting about noon. Torrential rains hit some sections of the city and wind gusts up to 45 miles an hour bowled over a few trees and temporarily knocked out power to some neighborhoods. A few plate glass windows were smashed.

The storms ended in Miami as the squalls moved up the state. Heavy gusts hit Fort Lauderdale

Gen. Marshall To Be Buried In Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall, mourned throughout the free world as a soldier, statesman and humanitarian, will be buried with simple honors Tuesday in Arlington National Cemetery.

It was his wish that the services be held to a minimum.

The body of the five-star general of the Army, who died at 78 Friday night after a long illness, will lie in repose in the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington National Cathedral from noon Sunday until noon Tuesday.

Canon Luther D. Miller of the cathedral, which is Episcopal, will conduct services Tuesday afternoon at the Ft. Myer Chapel, adjoining the Arlington Cemetery. Burial will be private.

ORDER

By order of President Eisenhower, who called Marshall's passing "a cause for profround grief," the American flag was lowered to half staff on all public buildings and military installations and will remain that way until after the last rites.

Eisenhower owed his own rapid rise through the ranks of senior officers at the start of World War II in large part to Marshall.

Marshall served as Army chief of staff during World War II and later as secretary of state and secretary of defense. He was the author of the postwar Marshall Plan which brought him the Nobel

IN STATE LAWS

High Court Ruling May Cause Change

JACKSON, Miss., (UPI) — The U. S. Supreme Court ruling this week in the Robert Lee Goldsby case could increase the number of Negro voters in Mississippi. But it is more likely to cause a change in the state's laws on court procedure.

The ruling has been interpreted as an indirect attack on the state's voter - registration laws, under which there are less than 30,000 Negroes registered.

These laws and constitutional provisions were recently upheld when attacked directly by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in the Federal courts. White officials hope to keep them on the books for a long time to come.

The Goldsby ruling simply makes it necessary for there to be Negro voters in each county if Negroes are to be prosecuted for crimes against whites. More than 20 of the state's 82 counties now have no Negroes registered.

Goldsby is a St. Louis Negro who was convicted in Carroll county in 1954 for the murder of a white woman. The fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals said he didn't have a fair trial because there were no Negroes on the jury. The state said there couldn't be because no Negroes were registered to vote in the county, a prerequisite for jury duty. The court said it couldn't believe that with more than half the population Negro, none was qualified to vote.

The U. S. Supreme Court refused to review the case, leaving the lower court decision standing.

The state, then, can do one of two things if it wants to enforce the laws through regular court procedure: It can see that Negroes are registered to vote and called to jury duty in every county, or it can change the laws on criminal procedure.

One possibility is to allow the state to seek a change of venue. Under present law only the defense can ask for the trial to be moved to another county. In the Goldsby case, the problem would be solved quickly if the state could try him in a county where Negroes have been empaneled on juries.

Some states do not require jurors to be qualified electors. They have other requirements, which, if adopted in Mississippi, would make it possible for all 82 counties to call Negroes to jury service.

Actually, if only a few Negroes had been registered and called to jury service in recent years in Carroll county, this probably would have satisfied the legal requirements which have been in effect for many years. The Federal courts assumed that since none was registered they must be barred from voting — whether through the legal requirements which include atest on the constitution, or otherwise.

State officials hope to map a plan for getting around the decision and still maintain voting requirements. Legislation on the matter can be expected in the 1960 session or sooner.

17 Race Horses Die As Blaze Sweeps Farm

CONVENTRY, R.I. (UPI) — At least 17 valuable race horses, valued at "well over $100,000," were destroyed in a general alarm fire which swept the showcase farm of manufacturer William J. Beattie early today.

A former Canadian national champion and Buckeye Handicap winner, Park Dandy, was among the horses destroyed.

Only three of 20 horses in the huge barn escaped death in the fire, but all three were injured and authorities feared they might have to be killed.

Beattie, a lace manufacturer, told autorities the flames broke out shortly before 5 a.m. when a watchman went to investigate the sound of a barking dog.

A member of the household said, "The whole barn was in flames. We couldn't do anything for those wonderful horses. It was the best crop of horses we had ever had. There were some wonderful 3-year-olds and those darling colts. It was terrible."

Blind Man Faces Possible Life Sentence

A jury convicted Henry E. Thomas, 44, of Detroit, of second degree murder Friday in the Aug. 10 slaying of Gus Cooper, 69. Thomas has been blind since birth. Cooper had only one leg.

Police said Thomas had cornered Cooper in a bathroom and stabbed him 17 times in a fight that erupted from a drinking party.

Recorder's Court Judge Gerald W. Groat delayed sentencing until Nov. 19.

Lower Rates By Air Set

HONOLULU (UPI) — New low tourist rates will be introduced for air travelers from South America to North America, it was announced Friday by the Western Hemisphere conference of the International Air Traffic Assn.

A spokesman also announced that first class air rates from Latin America would be hiked about 3 per cent.

The spokesman said all other passenger and cargo rates in force would remain unchanged beginning next April between the two continents—including the surcharge for jet travel.

Primaries Of 1960

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 40 per cent of next year's political convention delegates will be chosen in primaries, and the voters in many instances will have an opportunity to state a presidential preference while choosing them.

A research job just completed by the Republican National Committee shows that 16 states and the District of Columbia will pick delegates in primaries, with the other 34 states selecting by convention or party committee.

In some of the primary states the voter may express a preference among potential nomines by voting directly for a candidate in a sort of popularity contest. In other states, he may make his choice indirectly by voting for delegate candidates who are supporting a particular aspirant to the presidency.

Some of the primary results are only advisory on the state delegations. Other state laws pledge their convention delegations in varying dgrees.

States holding primaries — the first is in New Hampshire March 8—will name 624 delegates to the Republican convention in Chicago July 25. This is 47 per cent of the 1,331-delegate total. But the primary states of Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania pick their 10 delegates at large each in convention or by party committee, and Indiana names all of its 32 delegates in convention. This cuts the delegates chosen by the voters in a nation to a little more than 40 per cent.

The same primary states will elect delegates with 698 of the 1,521 votes in the Democratic convention to be held in Los Angeles July 11. This is 46 per cent, but this ratio is reduced some by eliminating at large delegates, whose number is not yet available.

Since 1956, Minnesota and Montana have discarded the presidential primary.

NEW HAMPSHIRE — Primary March 8. Statewide preference vote for presidential and vice-presidential candidates, and direct election of delegates. The preference vote itself is only advisory, but delegates may run pledged or favorable to a candidate.

Consent of the presidential candidate is not required to get on preference ballot, but a candidate must take affirmative action to withdraw his name. In the case of a pledged delegate, his declaration must be printed on the ballot if the presidential candidate files his consent to it before Feb. 6.

WISCONSIN—April 5. No direct presidential vote. Direct election of all delegates who may be pledged. A pledged delegate must file an affidavit promising to vote for his preference until the candidate polls less than 10 per cent of the total convention vote. Consent of presidential candidate is required.

ILLINOIS—April 12. Statewide preference vote not binding on delegates. District delegates elected in primary with no indication of prference. Delegates at large named in convention, uninstructed. Consent of presidential candidate not required.

NEW JERSEY—April 19. Direct presidential preference vote and election of delegates who may run pledged or unpledged. There are no instructions to delegates, but candidates for delegate may, with the consent of the presidential candidate, have his name placed opposite theirs on the ballot. In that event it is assumed the delegates are morally bound.

Consent of the presidential candidate is not required for the preference vote, but a candidate may keep his name off the ballot by filing a declination on or before March 16.

MASSACHUSETTS — April 26. Direct election of delegates whose preference may appear on ballot, in which case they are assumed to be morally bound. No direct preference vote. Delegate preference may appear on ballot only with consent of presidential candidate.

PENNSYLVANIA—April 26. Direct presidential preference vote and election of district delegates. At-large delegates may be elected or named by committee, depending on rules of states committees. Candidates for delegates may pledge themselves to presidential candidate receiving the highest number of votes in the state or district. Consent of presidential candidate not required.

INDIANA — May 3. Statewide preference vote. All delegates named in state conventions. Delgates must support on first ballot presidential candidate receiving the highest number of primary votes in a district or the state as a whole depending on whether he is a district or at large delegate, and provided the person is actually a candidate at the national convention. Consent of presidential candidate is required for primary contest.

OHIO — May 3. No preference vote. Direct election of delegates who must state their first and second choices for presidential nominee. Delegates morally bound. Consent of presidential candidates is required of both first and second choices.

WEST VIRGINIA—May 10. Direct presidential preference vote, not binding, and direct election of unpledged delegates. Consent of candidate required.

NEBRASKA — May 10. Statewide preference vote and direct election of unpledged delegates Written consent required for candidate's name on ballot.

MARYLAND—May 17. Preference vote for presidential candidate or uninstructed delegation. Primary elects delegates to state convention which names delegates to national convention bound by results of the primary. Consent of candidate required.

OREGON—May 20. Direct preference vote for president and vice president, and election of pledged delegates. Names of candidates may go on ballot by petition or at discretion of secretary of state. A candidate entered by petition may not have his name removed from ballot, but he may strike his name if entered by secretary of state by filing an affidavit.

FLORIDA—May 24. Direct election of slates of delegates whose preferences, if any, appear on ballot. Delegates expressing a preference only morally bound. Consent of candidate not required.

CALIFORNIA — June 7. Direct election of slates and delegates who must express preference. No separate preferences vote directly for president. Consent of candidate required. Delegates bound to support their preference to best of ability.

NEW YORK—June 7. No preference vote. District delegates only elected in primary. At-large delegates named by state committees within 15 days after primary. Delegates unpledged. No consent required.

SOUTH DAKOTA—June 7. No preference vote. Direct election of delegates who may be pledged, but only morally so. Consent of presidential candidate is required if delegates state a preference.

ON WHITE HOUSE TRIAL

Republican Made Biggest Outburst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats made more political noise this week, but Republicans made the biggest news: Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is going to invade Vice President Richard M. Nixon's California.

Nixon wasn't exactly dismayed by this most-open-so-far indication that New York's Rockefeller means to battle it out with him for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

"I'm sure Gov. Rockefeller will receive a friendly welcome in California," Nixon said.

The Nixon camp had some news of its own for those who would like to head him off. The word was that Nixon will rest in Florida for 10 days and then resume his campaigning more vigorously than ever.

Since Nixon already has been running like a firehorse, it must be his way of saying—in the manner of the late Al Jolson—that "You ain't seen nothing yet."

Graham pronounced Nixon "every inch a Christian gentleman: the best trained man for the job of president in American history."

Tommy told Nixon, a pen pal of his, that "You are the best vice president I ever heard of."

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, commented that he has to assume there'll be a Nixon-Rockefeller contest at the GOP convention next year. He added hopefully:

"I think it's going to be a relatively simple job to unify the party after the convention."

Rockefeller, like most others in both parties, continued to say he is not a candidate. This is in line with the feeling in U.S. politics generally that it is immoral, indecent, dangerous and bad politics to declare yourself early in the game.

The New York governor did agree that others are likely to read a candidacy into his California journey. He plans two public appearances there, in Los Angeles Nov. 12 and in San Francisco the next day, and expects to meet with political leaders.

The big noise in the Democratic presidential campaigning came at the Atlantic City convention of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers Union. There are a million members of his union, practically all of them old enough to vote.

One after another, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and Sen. Hubert humphrey of Minnesota came to the convention to pay their respects to Reuther and his mighty throng.

Kennedy declaimed: "I come to you as a friend of labor." He was cheered.

Next Symington told the unionists: "Your success is America's success." He was cheered, too.

Then Humphrey, whose middle name isn't Horatio for nothing, made his pitch. He showered Reuther with compliments. He praised the union without stint for its "magnificient, forward-looking program."

The delegates went a little wild. They gave Humphrey a 15-minute ovation, peppered with songs and the firing of cap pistols.

But if Humphrey was the darling of the auto workers, Kennedy could take heart from this report by Sen. Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio):

Young said he'd choose among Kennedy, Symington, Humphrey and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Johnson continued to tell one and all he is not a candidate. But if given the nomination, he said, "I would have to take a look at it."

Sen. Young's list omitted his colleague, Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), who said, a little grimly:

"I should not be counted out as a probable and potential candidate in the Ohio primary."

Lausche was talking about the state primary to show presidential preferences. He was only a little less outspoken than his neighbor across the Ohio River, Gov. Albert B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky.

Chandler remarked at the Southern Governor's Conference in Asheville, N.C., that he'll be bidding for the Democratic nomination. He added he'd rather take on Nixon than Rockefeller at the polls.

Chandler at the same time predicted the Republicans would settle on Rockefeller. Curiously enough, two New York correspondents of the official Russian organ Izvestia agreed with Chandler on this.

Izvestia also suggested that American candidates had better get on the Nikita Khrushchev bandwagon since, as they saw it, the Red Premier had proved so very popular in the United States.

Still, there was no rush for Mr. K.'s coattails.

Also on the fringes of politics this week:

1. A Norfolk, Va., barber named Graham Gray announced for president. Gray's foreign platform: "I'm not worried about anything that other countries might have that we don't."

3 Candidates Change Status In Rapides

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — Three candidates ousted by the Rapides parish Democratic executive committee quit the party Friday and changed their registration to "a no party status."

They are John Roberts, Durwood Johnson and W. T. Hilger. The action was reported by Registrar of voters C. L. Bushnell.

Robert said bluntly he intended to qualify as an independent candidate for sheriff in the general election next April.

He said he was more or less chosen to run by the other ousted candidates. Four candidates besides those who withdrew from the party were thrown out by the executive committee.

CONFERS WITH IKE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Llewelyn Thompson, U.S. Ambassador to Russia, confered wtih President Eisenhower Friday preliminary to his return to Moscow. Thompson has been vacationing in this country since Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev went back to the Soviet Union from his visit here.

High Court Ruling May Cause Change

JACKSON, Miss., (UPI) — The U. S. Supreme Court ruling this week in the Robert Lee Goldsby case could increase the number of Negro voters in Mississippi. But it is more likely to cause a change in the state's laws on court procedure.

The ruling has been interpreted as an indirect attack on the state's voter - registration laws, under which there are less than 30,000 Negroes registered.

These laws and constitutional provisions were recently upheld when attacked directly by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in the Federal courts. White officials hope to keep them on the books for a long time to come.

The Goldsby ruling simply makes it necessary for there to be Negro voters in each county if Negroes are to be prosecuted for crimes against whites. More than 20 of the state's 82 counties now have no Negroes registered.

Goldsby is a St. Louis Negro who was convicted in Carroll county in 1954 for the murder of a white woman. The fifth U. S. BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Production in quantity of a high-performance accelerometer for use in the U.S. Army's sergeant surface - to - surface guided ballistic missile is being carried out by Bell Aircraft Corp., officials announced Friday.

Designed and developed by Bell's avionics division, it is being manufactured and tested at the firm's Cleveland, Ohio, avionics laboratory under contract to the Sperry Utah Engineering Laboratory, Salt Lake City. Sperry is prime contractor for the Sergeant missile.

Primaries Of 1960

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 40 per cent of next year's political convention delegates will be chosen in primaries, and the voters in many instances will have an opportunity to state a presidential preference while choosing them.

A research job just completed by the Republican National Committee shows that 16 states and the District of Columbia will pick delegates in primaries, with the other 34 states selecting by convention or party committee.

In some of the primary states the voter may express a preference among potential nomines by voting directly for a candidate in a sort of popularity contest. In other states, he may make his choice indirectly by voting for delegate candidates who are supporting a particular aspirant to the presidency.

Some of the primary results are only advisory on the state delegations. Other state laws pledge their convention delegations in varying dgrees.

States holding primaries — the first is in New Hampshire March 8—will name 624 delegates to the Republican convention in Chicago July 25. This is 47 per cent of the 1,331-delegate total. But the primary states of Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania pick their 10 delegates at large each in convention or by party committee, and Indiana names all of its 32 delegates in convention. This cuts the delegates chosen by the voters in a nation to a little more than 40 per cent.

The same primary states will elect delegates with 698 of the 1,521 votes in the Democratic convention to be held in Los Angeles July 11. This is 46 per cent, but this ratio is reduced some by eliminating at large delegates, whose number is not yet available.

Since 1956, Minnesota and Montana have discarded the presidential primary.

NEW HAMPSHIRE — Primary March 8. Statewide preference vote for presidential and vice-presidential candidates, and direct election of delegates. The preference vote itself is only advisory, but delegates may run pledged or favorable to a candidate.

Consent of the presidential candidate is not required to get on preference ballot, but a candidate must take affirmative action to withdraw his name. In the case of a pledged delegate, his declaration must be printed on the ballot if the presidential candidate files his consent to it before Feb. 6.

WISCONSIN—April 5. No direct presidential vote. Direct election of all delegates who may be pledged. A pledged delegate must file an affidavit promising to vote for his preference until the candidate polls less than 10 per cent of the total convention vote. Consent of presidential candidate is required.

ILLINOIS—April 12. Statewide preference vote not binding on delegates. District delegates elected in primary with no indication of prference. Delegates at large named in convention, uninstructed. Consent of presidential candidate not required.

NEW JERSEY—April 19. Direct presidential preference vote and election of delegates who may run pledged or unpledged. There are no instructions to delegates, but candidates for delegate may, with the consent of the presidential candidate, have his name placed opposite theirs on the ballot. In that event it is assumed the delegates are morally bound.

Consent of the presidential candidate is not required for the prefrence vote, but a candidate may keep his name off the ballot by filing a declination on or before March 16.

MASSACHUSETTS — April 26. Direct election of delegates whose preference may appear on ballot, in which case they are assumed to be morally bound. No direct preference vote. Delegate preference may appear on ballot only with consent of presidential candidate.

PENNSYLVANIA—April 26. Direct presidential preference vote and election of district delegates. At-large delegates may be elected or named by committee, depending on rules of states committees. Candidates for delegates may pledge themselves to presidential candidate receiving the highest number of votes in the state or district. Consent of presidential candidate not required.

INDIANA — May 3. Statewide preference vote. All delegates named in state conventions. Delgates must support on first ballot presidential candidate receiving the highest number of primary votes in a district or the state as a whole depending on whether he is a district or at large delegate, and provided the person is actually a candidate at the national convention. Consent of presidential candidate is required for primary contest.

OHIO — May 3. No preference vote. Direct election of delegates who must state their first and second choices for presidential nominee. Delegates morally bound. Consent of presidential candidates is required of both first and second choices.

WEST VIRGINIA—May 10. Direct presidential preference vote, not binding, and direct election of unpledged delegates. Consent of candidate required.

NEBRASKA — May 10. Statewide preference vote and direct election of unpledged delegates Written consent required for candidate's name on ballot.

MARYLAND—May 17. Preference vote for presidential candidate or uninstructed delegation. Primary elects delegates to state convention which names delegates to national convention bound by results of the primary. Consent of candidate required.

OREGON—May 20. Direct preference vote for president and vice president, and election of pledged delegates. Names of candidates may go on ballot by petition or at discretion of secretary of state. A candidate entered by petition may not have his name removed from ballot, but he may strike his name if entered by secretary of state by filing an affidavit.

FLORIDA—May 24. Direct election of slates of delegates whose preferences, if any, appear on ballot. Delegates expressing a preference only morally bound. Consent of candidate not required.

CALIFORNIA — June 7. Direct election of slates and delegates who must express preference. No separate preferences vote directly for president. Consent of candidate required. Delegates bound to support their preference to best of ability.

NEW YORK—June 7. No preference vote. District delegates only elected in primary. At-large delegates named by state committees within 15 days after primary. Delegates unpledged. No consent required.

SOUTH DAKOTA—June 7. No preference vote. Direct election of delegates who may be pledged, but only morally so. Consent of presidential candidate is required if delegates state a preference.

ON WHITE HOUSE TRIAL

Republican Made Biggest Outburst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats made more political noise this week, but Republicans made the biggest news: Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is going to invade Vice President Richard M. Nixon's California.

Nixon wasn't exactly dismayed by this most-open-so-far indication that New York's Rockefeller means to battle it out with him for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

"I'm sure Gov. Rockefeller will receive a friendly welcome in California," Nixon said.

The Nixon camp had some news of its own for those who would like to head him off. The word was that Nixon will rest in Florida for 10 days and then resume his campaigning more vigorously than ever.

Since Nixon already has been running like a firehorse, it must be his way of saying—in the manner of the late Al Jolson—that "You ain't seen nothing yet."

Graham pronounced Nixon "every inch a Christian gentleman; the best trained man for the job of president in American history."

Tommy told Nixon, a pen pal of his, that "You are the best vice president I ever heard of."

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, commented that he has to assume there'll be a Nixon-Rockefeller contest at the GOP convention next year. He added hopefully:

"I think it's going to be a relatively simple job to unify the party after the convention."

Rockefeller, like most others in both parties, continued to say he is not a candidate. This is in line with the feeling in U.S. politics generally that it is immoral, indecent, dangerous and bad politics to declare yourself early in the game.

The New York governor did agree that others are likely to read a candidacy into his California journey. He plans two public appearances there, in Los Angeles Nov. 12 and in San Francisco the next day, and expects to meet with political leaders.

The big noise in the Democratic presidential campaigning came at the Atlantic City convention of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers Union. There are a million members of his union, practically all of them old enough to vote.

One after another, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and Sen. Hubert humphrey of Minnesota came to the convention to pay their respects to Reuther and his mighty throng.

Kennedy declaimed: "I come to you as a friend of labor." He was cheered.

Next Symington told the unionists: "Your success is America's success." He was cheered, too.

Then Humphrey, whose middle name isn't Horatio for nothing, made his pitch. He showered Reuther with compliments. He praised the union without stint for its "magnificient, forward-looking program."

The delegates went a little wild. They gave Humphrey a 15-minute ovation, peppered with songs and the firing of cap pistols.

But if Humphrey was the darling of the auto workers, Kennedy could take heart from this report by Sen. Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio):

Young said he'd choose among Kennedy, Symington, Humphrey and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Johnson continued to tell one and all he is not a candidate. But if given the nomination, he said, "I would have to take a look at it."

Sen. Young's list omitted his colleague, Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), who said, a little grimly:

"I should not be counted out as a probable and potential candidate in the Ohio primary."

Lausche was talking about the state primary to show presidential preferences. He was only a little less outspoken than his neighbor across the Ohio River, Gov. Albert B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky.

Chandler remarked at the Southern Governor's Conference in Asheville, N.C., that he'll be bidding for the Democratic nomination. He added he'd rather take on Nixon than Rockefeller at the polls.

Chandler at the same time predicted the Republicans would settle on Rockefeller. Curiously enough, two New York correspondents of the official Russian organ Izvestia agreed with Chandler on this.

Izvestia also suggested that American candidates had better get on the Nikita Khrushchev bandwagon since, as they saw it, the Red Premier had proved so very popular in the United States.

Still, there was no rush for Mr. K.'s coattails.

Also on the fringes of politics this week:

1. A Norfolk, Va., barber named Graham Gray announced for president. Gray's foreign platform: "I'm not worried about anything that other countries might have that we don't."

3 Candidates Change Status In Rapides

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — Three candidates ousted by the Rapides parish Democratic executive committee quit the party Friday and changed their registration to "a no party status."

They are John Roberts, Durwood Johnson and W. T. Hilger. The action was reported by Registrar of voters C. L. Bushnell.

Robert was ousted as a candidate for sheriff, Johnson for assessor, and Hilger for police juror.

Robert said bluntly he intended to qualify as an independent candidate for sheriff in the general election next April.

He said he was more or less chosen to run by the other ousted candidates. Four candidates besides those who withdrew from the party were thrown out by the executive committee.

CONFERS WITH IKE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Llewelyn Thompson, U.S. Ambassador to Russia, confered wtih President Eisenhower Friday preliminary to his return to Moscow. Thompson has been vacationing in this country since Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev went back to the Soviet Union from his visit here.

SINCE 'WORLD' BEGAN

News-Star--World Writer Is Cited

TALLULAH (Special) — Since National Newspaper Week is in progress throughout the United States, it seems an appropriate time to salute the News-Star—World's oldest correspondent in years of service.

Mrs. Erle Read of Tallulah has been correspondent for the Morning World since about the time the paper was established in Monroe in 1929. She became a member of the News-Star staff when it was purchased by the Morning World about one year later. Mrs. Read has served as a correspondent for both papers continuously since.

CONNECTIONS

And her journalistic activities have not been confined to the Monroe papers. She has served as "stringer" for the Times Picayune in New Orleans, the Vicksburg Evening Post in Vicksburg, Miss., and for the Memphis Commercial Appeal in Memphis, Tenn.

When asked how she had managed to stay with the one paper so long, Mrs. Read replied that when her husband passed away she received a floral sympathy offering from the staffs of the papers. "I guess I just have a soft spot in my heart for you all."

TEACHER

Mrs. Read is a retired first grade teacher. She taught practically all her classes in Tallulah and Madison Parish. She taught for a few years in Lafayette Parish and spent four years in Ruston. But the rest of her time has been devoted to reporting for the Monroe papers and educating the children of the Madison Parish - Tallulah area.

She said that she took on the job originally from her sister-in-law. She said that in those days she "needed the money to pay orthopedic doctors to care for my son."

BIGGEST STORY

Mrs. Read said that she believed the biggest story she had covered was the Dowdy Murder Case a few years back. The case involved the dynamite murder of a man for an insurance collection. She said that the man was lured to a shack near Tallulah and blown up to make his body unrecognizable to enable the perpertrators to collect on a policy.

She said that she does not like —particularly —to cover this gory type story. However, it is necessary at times, she said.

One of Mrs. Read's big achievements in reporting was beating the rest of the state in getting election returns.

She was asked by Associated Press wire service to help them in her area with the returns.

THRILL

Mrs. Read said that she got a big thrill out of that — not because of her part in it — but because of the splendid cooperation she received from election officials.

Mrs. Read uses her own typewriters in preparing her copy. She said that it is done by her "hunt-and-peck" system, but it is not noticeable if that is her way. Her copy is always neat and ready to use.

And if you think a person who is active in the newspaper business does not have time for a few extra - curricular activities just, look at what she does in her "spare" time.

Mrs. Read is active in chruch work. She is a member of the First Methodist Church here and has served as president of the Weslyan Service Guild for two years. She teaches a Sunday School class for first - grade-age children. And she is communion steward in the church.

AFFILIATIONS

She is a member of the Tallulah Book Club. She is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary teacher's fraternity. She has served as president of the organization for two years.

Since retiring from teaching, Mrs. Read has done some private teaching and is occasionally asked to substitute in the primary grades in Tallulah.

Mrs. Read — in summing up her newspaper work — said that she is "never satisfied with anything I do."

GOOD RELATIONS

She said that in her 30-plus years of reporting, her contacts have been generally good. Of course, there is always a small amount of unpleasantness connected with reporting, but Mrs. Read seems to have come in contact with very little. She said that every one is cooperative and that few times has she had any difficulty.

And just as an afterthought to all her work, Mrs. Read decided to get her college degree in 1947. She finished at Louisiana Tech in the days when degrees were not given. So, in order to be up with everyone else in her profession—teaching, that is — she decided to go back to school and get the sheepskin. And she did just that.

She confessed that at first she felt a little out of place, but decided, after making all "A's" during the first semester, that it wouldn't be so bad. And bad it wasn't for in 1947 she got the elusive degree.

And keep in mind that, during all these other activities, she has reported Tallulah and Madison Parish news for the two Monroe papers faithfully.

OLDEST CORRESPONDENT — Mrs. Erle Read prepares another story for the News-Star—World at her home in Tallulah. Mrs. Read has served as staff correspondent for the two Monroe papers continuously since the Morning World was founded in 1929. Mrs. Read, a retired teacher, is being recognized this week in observance of National Newspaper Week.

Gas-Loaded Train Derails, No Injuries

PRATTVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — Twenty-one cars of a Gulf, Mobile and Ohio freight train piled up near here Saturday in a spectacular train wreck involving several gas-loaded tank cars. No one was injured.

At least three of the derailed cars were carrying butane gas and one was reported leaking. The immediate area, a swampy section about three miles north of here was blocked off and workers used extreme caution as they started to clear the wreckoge.

A railroad spokesman said the train was on a run from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery on the mainline to Mobile when the cars suddently started leaving the track.

They were strewn over the tracks and piled up in ditches on both sides. Cause of the wreck was not determined.

The spokesman said it would take approximately two days to clear the tracks.

Strike Hurts Bolivia On Transportation

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—Bolivia's entire land and air transportation facilities and the light, power and telephone systems were paralyzed by a nationwide strike today despite a union agreement to call off the work stoppages.

The union of railroad workers and the Department of Labor Friday night signed an agreement whereby the strikers would return to their jobs "at once."

But at the last minute the union negotiators withdrew approval and said they wished to continue bargaining. Labor Minister Anibal Aquilar Penarrietta refused to negotiate unless the workers returned to their jobs.

Archbishop Hits NEA On Religion

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The archbishop of Los Angeles has criticized the National Education Assn. because, he said, it is fighting to keep the teaching of God out of public schools.

J. Francis Cardinal McIntyre was here for the Holy Name Socety convention.

He said Friday the NEA is indirectly fostering juvenile delinquency. He said the NEA's 70,800 members were dominated by those espousing what he called progressive education without God.

The American progressive educational system, the cardinal went on, is the basic cause of juvenile delinquency.

Negro Free From Jail In Miss.

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Negro integrationist Clyde Kennard, jailed twice since he attempted to enroll at an all-white college here, was released from jail Saturday.

Constables arrested the 30-year-old farmer Wednesday night after he failed to post $1,400 bond or file an appeal to his conviction for reckless driving and whisky possession.

Kennard's Negro attorney, R. Jess Brown of Jackson, said Kennard was released when he posted the bond and notice of appeal was filed.

Brown issued a statement in which he warned," from my experience at Hattiesburg, look out for a rough attorney in the court when my time comes to represent the plaintiff."

Kennard, arrested on the campus of Mississippi Southern College after his enrollment application was rejected, was convicted in justice of the peace court Sept. 29.

He appealed to Forrest County court but the lower court was upheld this week because he and his attorney failed to show up in court. They said they were not advised that the case was to come up Monday.

Parakeet

A pale blue parakeet who obviously has taken a liking to the phrase "free as a bird" has been sighted during the past two weeks feeding in the back lawn of 1005 South Grand street, along with general run of sparrows, blackbirds, and mocking birds.

The parakeet, described as unusually large, seems content enough for the present time, but worry was expressed as to his position when colder weather arrives. Anyone missing such a pet may call FA 2-8474 at 1005 South Grand.

Candy Drive

"Operation Krafty" is the name of the Monroe Jaycees' annual Haloween caramel candy sale, in which members sell caramels during the holiday week to raise funds for its many youth and welfare projects.

A new project this year for the Jaycees is a youth camp in the country for underpriviledged children. Also under consideration, officials said, is an "underpriviledged children's Christmas shopping tour, in which the children would be allowed to buy a gift for an unfortunate loved one.

Clinic

Monroe Jaycees are sponsoring a bowling clinic for all Monroe High School students from 4 to 6 p.m. each day during the next two weeks.

There will be no charges, according to Jaycee officials, for bowling or instructions. Jaycee members or certified instructors will help the student to learn bowling or to improve his game.

Any student interested in participating in the program may contact the principal of his high school for further information.

Monroe Couple Tulane Area Event Leaders

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Alymer E. Montgomery, Jr., of 1804 Island Drive, Monroe, have been appointed Monroe area chairmen for Tulane University's 1959 homecoming to be held Oct. 21-24, Douglass V. Freret, homecoming general chairman, has announced.

Montgomery is an attorney and a 1954 law graduate of Tulane. Mrs. Montgomery is a 1954 graduate of Newcomb College, women's division of Tulane.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will coordinate all Tulane homecoming activities among Tulane alumni in the Monroe area, Freret said.

The university's 1959 homecoming will feature reunions meetings of some 40 graduating classes, annual meetings of alumni clubs in Tulane's schools and colleges and the annual homecoming dance, scheduled for Oct. 23 at the Roosevelt hotel.

Special feature of this year's homecoming, Freret said, will be the dedication of the university' new $2,650,000 University center to be held at 4:30 p.m., Oct. 24.

At 3:30 p.m. Oct. 24, dedication ceremonies will be held for the "Monk" Simons memorial swimming pool in the University center, which is named in honor of the late athletic trainer at Tulane.

The "Outstanding Alumnus Achievement Award" of Tulane school of Business administration will be presented in special ceremonies at 6:30 p.m., Oct. 23, at the Pontchartrain hotel.

The 1959 homecoming will be climaxed by the homecoming football game between Tulane and Georgia Tech, scheduled for 8 p.m., Oct. 24 at Tulane stadium.

Former School Official Dies, Rites Are Held

WINNSBORO (Special) — Funeral services were held Saturday for John L. McDuff, 85, of Chase, who died Friday night at a local clinic following a brief illness. He was a retired superintendent of schools in Franklin Parish.

Mr. McDuff was retired in 1947 from his superintendent's post after serving for 30 years. Before that he taught school for 17 years, mostly at Chase and Gilbert. He was a graduate of Louisiana State Normal, now Northwestern State College at Natchitoches. He moved to Franklin Parish as a small boy.

Funeral services were held at the Gilbert Methodist Church with the Rev. R. K. Friedrick officiating. Interment was in the Chase cemetery under the direction of Young's Funeral Home of Winnsboro

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Buleah McDuff, Chase; two sons, A. L. McDuff, Jackson Miss., and W. L. McDuff, Grand Cane; two daughters, Mrs. Flora K. Pipes, Collinston, and Miss Delane McDuff, Chase; one brother, T. P. McDuff Sr., Chase; one half-brother, E. K. McDuff, Monroe, and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers were B. R. Gunn, W. B. Glover, Walter Richardson, F. E. Lyles, F. P. Talbert and M. D. Teel.

Retired Deputy Dies, Rites Set

EVA (Special) — Robert Henry Young, 91, died early Saturday morning at 6 o'clock at his residence at Eva, La. following a short illness. He was a retired deputy sheriff.

Funeral services will be 11 a.m. Sunday at the residence, with burial in Lone Pine Cemetery in the Eva community under direction of Hixson Brothers of Jena. The Rev. W. Carlin will officiate at services.

Teams Inch Closer To Trapped Men

SILVERPEAK, Nev. (AP) — Sweating rescue teams burrowed closer Saturday to three miners trapped since Friday deep in a mountain tunnel cave-in, but there was no estimate of how long it would take to reach the missing men.

As three-man teams pressed rescue operations, hopes that the three were still alive diminished.

A mountain of earth and boulders the size of automobiles collapsed on a mine shaft where James Robinson of Mina, Samuel Sickles of Tonopah and Bill Delorme of Redding, Calif., were digging silver ore at 2:30 a.m. Friday.

CHANCE

"There's a good chance they were killed before they knew what hit them," said Manager Jim White of the U. S. Mining & Million Corp. "But there's always the possibility they survived and we'll keep digging until we find out."

Teams using mucking machines, picks and shovels tunneled from three angles toward the 200-300 foot level, where the three men were working.

"If we don't find them there," White said, "we'll have to start probing the mountain. That may take weeks."

A radio communications system was installed to connect Silverpeak with the mines, which lie about 23 miles to the west. Silverpeak, in remote western Nevada, has the nearest telephone.

West Monroyan Fatally Stricken On Hunting Trip

Bruce Cosby, 44, died Saturday afternoon in Caldwell Parish after suffering a heart attack while squirrel hunting. He was a resident of West Monroe.

Funeral services are incomplete, but will be under the direction of Hixson Brothers.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Lorene B. Cosby; four sons, Bruce Cosby, Davis Cosby, Kenneth Cosby, and Mark Wayne Cosby; one daughter, Dianne Cosby, all of West Monroe; four brothers, Laurl Cosby, California; Buford Cosby, Columbia; Aubrey Cosby and Leroy Cosby, both of West Monroe; three sisters, Mrs. Crystal Anthony, Monroe; Mrs. Irene Harrington, West Monroe; Mrs. Laura Williams, Shreveport; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Cosby, West Monroe.

Bi-Parish Fair Winners Listed

Horsemanship, ages up to ten, Jerry Alford; ages 10 through 15, Larry Russell; adult, Charles Robinson, all of Winnsboro.

Lowry Russell, superintendent of the horse show, said that 63 horses were entered.

Service Held For Retired Teacher Here

Mrs. Jessie Wossman Granberry, 75, a retired school teacher who had lived most of her life in Monroe, died Friday night and funeral services were held Saturday at 3:30 p.m. in the Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel.

Interment was held in the Riverview Cemetery.

Mrs. Granberry, who taugth the sixth grade in Barkdall-Faulk school until she retired in 1949, was recognized as a great lover of nature.

SANCTUARY

After retirement, she purchased a five - acre plot of woodland south of Bastrop, where she developed a small - scale sanctuary around her home. The scene there is one of plots of wild flowers, bird baths and feeding stations, manmade lakes or small ponds for fish reserves, and landscaped paths and yards.

Mrs. Granberry attended Monroe high schools and later Louisiana Normal School, now known as Southwestern State College.

She is survived by two daughters, Miss Jessica Granberry, New Orleans, and Mrs. Marrion Carpenter, Bastrop; two sisters, Miss Julia C. Wossman, Monroe; Mrs. Lena W. Garnett, Washington, D. C., and three grandchildren.

Noe And Long Stump Around North Areas

SPRINGHILL (Special) —Candidate for governor, James A. Noe rejoined Gov. Earl Long and their stumping caravan as it weaved its way to the northwest tip of the state Saturday, making 5 speaking appearances.

Also touring with the Noe and Long forces were Public Service Commissioner Ernest Clements, a veteran state solon and state senator Estes Cole, a member of the state board of education.

In high spirits, Noe ridiculed Jimmie Davis' claim last week that he (Davis) favored increasing old age benefits in order to help those pensioners who must spend a large part of their welfare check for drugs and medicine.

VIEW

"That just gives you a small idea about how little Davis knows about the present workings of the state and the old age pension fund. For his information, the Long organization long ago provided that a sick and needy pensioner would get up to $109.00 a month when he needed extra drug and medical assistances. Jimmy just ought to stick to 'peace and harmony' and leave the subject of government to those who had a hand in it."

Although laboring under the handicap of a heavy cold, Earl Long flaild at Davis too, asserting that he would be no more than a "puppet governor" if he succeeded in getting into office.

"Just look at all those scoundrels who are there behind him. High Hat Sam Jones, Leander Perez, Ted Dunham, Frank Ellis and Jimmy Comiskey. Why, because they all know that Davis is a weakling and that they can control him."

He stated that unless the one cent gas gathering tax is renewed next May, many of the state sponsored hospitals, school, pensions and benefits might come to an end.

Tri-Parish Fair Set For Opening

TALLULAH (Special) — Residents of East Carroll, Madison and Tensas parishes will have all day Monday to enter their exhibits in the Louisiana Delta Fair in Tallulah, according to J. R. Gilfoil, secretary. Adult livestock exhibits are open to everyone.

A large number of entries of high quality are expected in all departments Gilfoil stated. Entries in Adult Beef Cattle Division have already been received from Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana. The Louisiana Delta Fair is expecting an exhibit of beef cattle second only to the Louisiana State Fair.

PREPARING

Four - H Club, FFA and FHA members are busy collecting and preparing their exhibits. Many educational booths have been reserved for the above mentioned organizations plus other civic, garden and other clubs and organizations.

Clerks will be ready to receive exhibits at 8:00 a.m. on Monday and will continue receiving them until 8:00 p.m. All exhibits must be entered and in place by closing time on Monday, except where special exception is made. Judging of all the women's and agricultural exhibits will start Tuesday morning, October 20, at 10:00 o'clock.

Wednesday, October 21st, is School Day for white students and they will be admitted free of charge until 6:00 p.m. Wednesday is also livestock judging day. All of the junior swine, sheep, poultry, beef and dairy calves will be judged Wednesday. Judging of Adult Herefords, San Gertrudis and Brahmans will also be held Wednesday. Judging of Adult Short Horns, Angus and Red Poll will be done on Thursday, October 22nd.

School Day for the colored students will be Friday, October 23rd. They will be admitted free of charge until 6:00 p.m.

The Blue Grass Shows will have plenty of entertainment for both adults and children after they have made a tour of the fair buildings. These shows are known for their rides, games and shows.

In the commercial building the newest of automobiles and appliances will be on exhibit.

Comedy Team Member Sued

SANTA MONICA, Calif. AP — Jimmy Ritz of the Ritz Brothers comedy team has been sued for divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Jidith Lee Ritz said they separaged Wednesday after six years of married life.

She said Ritz' weekly earnings are $10,000 and asked $2,500 monthly alimony and support for the couple's child, Alison Paula, 4, and $15,000 in legal fees.

and rain spread over south-central Florida.

Torrential rains and high winds hit Englewood, 12 miles south of Sarasota on the Gulf Coast in the evening.

At Naples, south of the hurricane alert area, Civil Defense workers, firemen and police were on a standby alert. But Civil Defense Director Walter Donovan said the storm was expected to by-pass his area of Collier County. He said Naples experienced a couple of small squalls with winds of about 25 miles an hour but no damage was done.

The coast guard warned all vessels in the St. Petersburg area to head for port at once. Airplanes from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard Air Station spread out over the area, summoning small aircraft and fishing vessels to port.

The Coast Guard fliers took to the air in a last minute aerial sweep before flying their planes inland and out of the path of the hurricane.

Emergency hurricane warnings were ordered hoisted from Punta Gorda, Fla., to Cedar Keys. Gale warnings were up from St. Marks south through the Florida Keys on the West Coast of Florida, and from Jupiter, Fla., to Savannah, Ga., on the Eastern Seaboard.

An advisory said Judith, the season's 10th tropical storm, reached hurricane intensity with winds of 75 miles an hour after slowly building up power.

The advisory said the storm center was located about 130 miles southwest of Naples, Fla., and was moving north-northeastward at 12 to 15 miles an hour.

The weather bureau said the storm likely would hit the coast near the Tampa Bay area late Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Winds of 45 miles an hour in advance of the storm began raking the heavily-populated South Florida area Saturday afternoon.

The Weather Bureau cautioned shore dwellers in this area to start preparations immediately. But a check of communities along the coastline at St. Petersburg showed little if any actual preparations were underway.

Advance squalls from the storm struck a gusty, wet blow at the metropolitan Miami area. Wind gusts up to 45 miles an hour knocked over trees and tore down power lines.

The Weather Bureau said due to the brief life of the hurricane, maximum tides were expected to be only about five feet above normal. But these tides were expected to cause some coastal flooding from Everglades City to Tarpon Springs.

Even five foot tides could be expected to creep into many of the beach cottages along the low island beaches separated from St. Petersburg by Boca Ciega Bay.

In Tampa, it was feared that torrential rains might create flash floods. The area was still saturated from an abnormally heavy fall rainy season.

The Weather Bureau said occasional squalls would move across the Gulf Coast south of Cedar Keys Saturday night. These squalls would be attended by winds of about hurricane force beginning late Saturday and continuing into Sunday forenoon.

Typhoon Hits Okinawa, Kills At Least 28

TOKYO (AP) — Typhoon Charlotte left 28 known dead and $300,000 damage on Okinawa Saturday and churned northeastward toward Japan.

No deaths were reported among Americans on the big U. S. island bastion, but Okinawa was still without electricity, telephone and utilities.

The island was lashed by 90 to 150 miles-per-hour winds Friday night..

U. S. military sources said damage was relatively heavy, particularly to highways, buildings and military installations, which have been put on an emergency basis.

Okinawa police said the major loss of life had been caused by landslides, one of which killed 20 persons at Ogimi village in northern Okinawa.

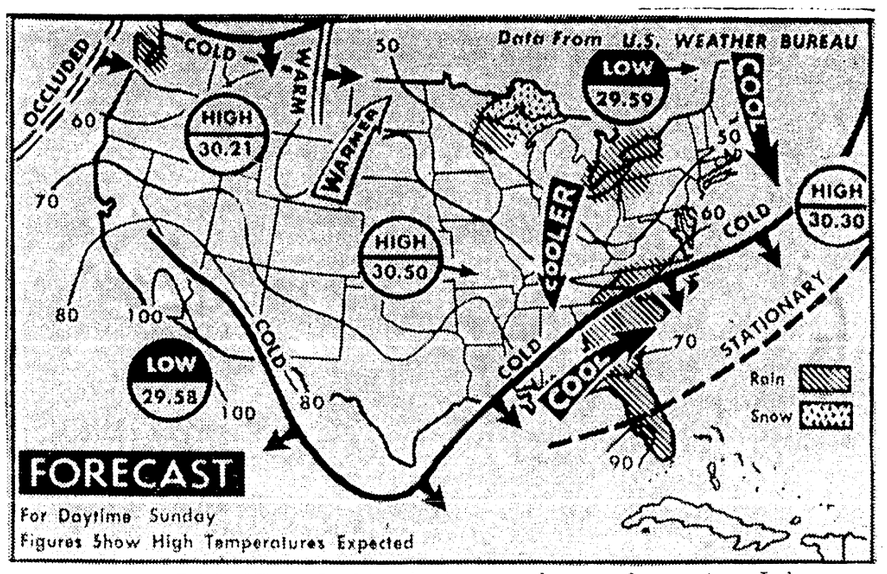
Lt. Gen. Donald P. Booth, U.S. high commissioner on Okinawa, issued a statement of condolence to the Okinawan families who lost their kin and suffered injuries in the storm that brought flash floods to the lowlands.

At least 20 American families were evacuated from the low-lying Awase area to a nearby schoolhouse. One American newsman was marooned 10 hours as his car stalled near a low-lying sea wall.

Typhoon Charlotte's next possible target, Japanese weathermen indicated late Saturday night, could be the tiny Izu Islands off central Honshu, 200 miles southeast of Tokyo. They emphasized, however, that it was possible the year's 18th typhoon, packing center winds of 98 m.p.h., could veer east and thus spare the Japanese archipelago.

Most Japanese profoundly hope it will. It was just three weeks ago Saturday that Japan suffered its worst typhoon disaster in modern times. Typhoon Vera struck a savage blow on Sept. 26 and the toll, still incomplete, stands at 5,000 dead and missing.

A new typhoon christened Dinah was spotted by U. S. Air Force and Japanese weathermen 300 miles west of Guam Saturday afternoon. It was reported moving northwest at 15 m.p.h. with center winds up to 167 m.p.h. Dinah, the 19th typhoon of the year, is not expected to affect any land areas.



WEATHER FORECAST — Light rain and scattered rain showers are in store today for Southeast, while light rain is on tap for western New York and light snow showers for western Lakes area. It will be cool over eastern third of the nation; warmer for most of the western two-thirds. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Owner Harassed Over Carhops

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A drive-in restaurant owner who hires male Negro carhops said Saturday he does not know if he will keep them in the face of harassment from crowds of white men.

Tommy Priakos said 60 to 75 men hampered his operations with "nickel business" four nights this week. They took every seat and jammed his parking lot with automobiles, he said.

REALIZES AMBITION

NEW YORK (AP) — Christopher Plummer is realizing one of his main acting ambitions in first London appearance.

Plummer, who has scored several Broadway successes, is to have the title assignment in Tyrone Guthrie's modern - dress version of "Hamlet," due for spring presentation.

The Canadian - born actor's most recent role here was the devil in "J. B." During the play run Plummer told interviewers that a role he had long wanted to play was the melancholy Dane.

U.S. Hits Reds On Spy Charge

probably without exact precedent in U.S.-Soviet relations, occurred only Friday.

U.S. officials were baffled by the affair and puzzled as to what effect it will have on "the spirit of Camp David" which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been promoting since his conference with President Eisenhower last month.

S. R. Striganov, deputy chief of American affairs in the Soviet Foreign Ministry, told Freers "competent" Soviet Authorities had reported that Langelle had been doing intelligence work.

The U.S. Embassy and State Department took this to mean recognition by Striganov that Soviet police or secret agents of some kind were involved in the action against the American diplomat.

The affair began, the State Department said, when Langelle stepped off a bus a block away from the U.S. Embassy office building at 9 a.m. Friday, Moscow time.

"He was immediately surrounded by five men in civilian clothing who seized his arms, covered his mouth, and forcibly dragged and carried him to a Zim automobile parked in a nearby alley," said the protest note which the State Department made public.

"He was then driven to a nearby building on Vorovskovo Street, where the men forced him to leave the automobile and enter the building."

State Department officials said Langelle understands Rusisan and speaks it to some extent. They did not know what language was used in his encounter with the five men. Many Soviets speak English well.

In the building Langelle "produced his diplomat card, protested the forcible seizure, and asked to be allowed to communicate with the American Embassy," the note continued.

"Mr. Langelle was then forced to remove his topcoat, which was searched by the men. One of the men produced a notebook, which he said belonged to Mr. Langelle, but which, in fact, Mr. Langelle had never seen before. The man used a chemical solution on the pages of the notebook to develop supposedly concealed writing and then identified the writing as referring to Soviet state secrets."

This man was said to have accused Langelle of engaging in espionage against the Soviet Union.

The five men—described by the State Department as "unidentified Soviet authorities"—then began to question Langelle about his duties in the Embassy.

"When Langelle refused to enter into any conversation with them, they began to threaten him," the note said. "They asserted that Mr. Langelle's diplomatic immunity had been revoked and that he therefore was subject to imprisonment. They threatened him with physical violence."

The note said the men also made a veiled threat against Langelle's wife, the former Miriam McCleery, and their three children, Linda, 7, David Pierce, 5, and Mary, 2.

Gen. Marshall To Be Buried In Arlington

Peace Prize in 1953. He died at Walter Reed Army Hospital of age, complicated by strokes and kidney disease.

Tributes poured in. Eisenhower sent a personal message of condolence to Marshall's widow, Katherine Tupper Marshall.

Former President Harry S. Truman, on a speaking trip in Texas, was visibly saddened by news of Marshall's death.

"He was a great general, a great secretary of state, and a great secretary of defense," Truman said. "As a military man, he was the best since the days of Robert E. Lee."

Former President Herbert Hoover called Marshall "an outstanding figure in American life."

"He will be remembered with gratitude by people all over the world," Hoover said in New York.

Marshall's death leaves only two five-star Army generals: Douglas MacArthur and Omar Bradley.

Among the honorary pallbearers at Marshall's funeral will be M. Sgt. James W. Powder, 62, who served the general as aide, driver and friend from 1934 to 1945.

Summoned from his retirement home in St. Petersburg, Fla., to perform this one last act, Powder told newsmen simply: "I was his aide, and I looked out for him."

total contributions. Chairman of the college drive was Alva S. Huffman, of the Northeast faculty.

For the first time, a new division of the campaign this year is the "chain store" division, Moore said. This special division is made up of employees and officials of chain stores in the Twin Cities, and have already shown tremendous gains in contributions this year.

In reviewing the progress of the campaign, Moore commented that "while early reports are extremely encouraging, we must recognize that his part is the 'easy money' portion of the drive." He encouraged United Givers Fund workers to continue calls and to "work diligently toward achieving the earliest possible goal date."

REALIZES AMBITION

Plummer, who has scored several Broadway successes, is to have the title assignment in Tyrone Guthrie's modern - dress version of "Hamlet," due for spring presentation.

The Canadian - born actor's most recent role here was the devil in "J. B." During the play run Plummer told interviewers that a role he had long wanted to play was the melancholy-Dane.

U.S. Hits Reds On Spy Charge

probably without exact precedent in U.S.-Soviet relations, occurred only Friday.

U.S. officials were baffled by the affair and puzzled as to what effect it will have on "the spirit of Camp David" which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been promoting since his conference with President Eisenhower last month.

S. R. Striganov, deputy chief of American affairs in the Soviet Foreign Ministry, told Freers "competent" Soviet Authorities had reported that Langelle had been doing intelligence work.

The U.S. Embassy and State Department took this to mean recognition by Striganov that Soviet police or secret agents of some kind were involved in the action against the American diplomat.

The affair began, the State Department said, when Langelle stepped off a bus a block away from the U.S. Embassy office building at 9 a.m. Friday, Moscow time.

"He was immediately surrounded by five men in civilian clothing who seized his arms, covered his mouth, and forcibly dragged and carried him to a Zim automobile parked in a nearby alley," said the protest note which the State Department made public.

"He was then driven to a nearby building on Vorovskovo Street, where the men forced him to leave the automobile and enter the building."

State Department officials said Langelle understands Rusisan and speaks it to some extent. They did not know what language was used in his encounter with the five men. Many Soviets speak English well.

In the building Langelle "produced his diplomat card, protested the forcible seizure, and asked to be allowed to communicate with the American Embassy," the note continued.

"Mr. Langelle was then forced to remove his topcoat, which was searched by the men. One of the men produced a notebook, which he said belonged to Mr. Langelle, but which, in fact, Mr. Langelle had never seen before. The man used a chemical solution on the pages of the notebook to develop supposedly concealed writing and then identified the writing as referring to Soviet state secrets."

This man was said to have accused Langelle of engaging in espionage against the Soviet Union.

The five men—described by the State Department as "unidentified Soviet authorities"—then began to question Langelle about his duties in the Embassy.

"When Langelle refused to enter into any conversation with them, they began to threaten him," the note said. "They asserted that Mr. Langelle's diplomatic immunity had been revoked and that he therefore was subject to imprisonment. They threatened him with physical violence."

The note said the men also made a veiled threat against Langelle's wife, the former Miriam McCleery, and their three children, Linda, 7, David Pierce, 5, and Mary, 2.

Gen. Marshall To Be Buried In Arlington

Peace Prize in 1953. He died at Walter Reed Army Hospital of age, complicated by strokes and kidney disease.

Tribues poured in. Eisenhower sent a personal message of condolence to Marshall's widow, Katherine Tupper Marshall.

Former President Harry S. Truman, on a speaking trip in Texas, was visibly saddened by news of Marshall's death.

"He was a great general, a great secretary of state, and a great secretary of defense," Truman said. "As a military man, he was the best since the days of Robert E. Lee."

Former President Herbert Hoover called Marshall "an outstanding figure in American life."

"He will be remembered with gratitude by people all over the world," Hoover said in New York.

Marshall's death leaves only two five-star Army generals: Douglas MacArthur and Omar Bradley.

Among the honorary pallbearers at Marshall's funeral will be M. Sgt. James W. Powder, 62, who served the general as aide, driver and friend from 1934 to 1945.

Summoned from his retirement home in St. Petersburg, Fla., to perform this one last act. Powder told newsmen simply: "I was his aide, and I looked out for him."

total contributions. Chairman of the college drive was Alva S. Huffman, of the Northeast faculty.

For the first time, a new division of the campaign this year is the "chain store" division, Moore said. This special division is made up of employees and officials of chain stores in the Twin Cities, and have already shown tremendous gains in contributions this year.

In reviewing the progress of the campaign, Moore commented that "while early reports are extremely encouraging, we must recognize that his part is the 'easy money' portion of the drive." He encouraged United Givers Fund workers to continue calls and to "work diligently toward achieving the earliest possible goal date."

Govt. Will File New Voting Suit

White resigned Oct. 3. He defended the division's record in prosecuting the voting cases. He said critics, including some commission members, apparently did not grasp the legal complexities involved.

The commission said in a recent report to President Eisenhower that not a single Negro had been unable to vote as a result of the division's actions. A leading member of the commission, former Virginia Gov. John S. Battle, has resigned.

The commission met last Wednesday for the first time since it received a new two-year lease on life from Congress. Hannah announced afterwards it would hold no more hearings on voting records until the Louisiana case was settled.

Ryan said the three cases brought by the division, two of which are awaiting consideration by the Supreme Court, take up most of the important legal questions that have arisen under the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

One of the cases before the Supreme Court, originating in Georgia, broadly tests the constitutionability of the Civil Rights Act. Ryan said he hoped the court would hear arguments before the end of the year and rule on it before spring.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers has said he would like to argue the case in person. He has signed his name to the government brief.

The other case before the court deals with the question of who should be held principally responsible for denials of voting privileges. The government argues that the state, not the voting registrars is responsible.

This case originated in Alabama where the government argues that the state, not the voting registrars, is responsible.

The case originated in Alabama where the government claims the registrars blocked Negro voting then resigned to avoid responsibility.

scuffle took place. The probe was at a standstill until Monday, when the records at the Monroe, hospital would be looked into.

Caples was arrested by Monroe police Friday in a Monroe street and charged with being drunk and disorderly. He later fell into a coma and a physician was called at E. A. Conway hospital after Caples failed to regain consciousness after two hours.

He was rushed to the Confederate Memorial hospital in Shreveport for further observation.

Hospital authorities in Monroe last night reported that Caples was a patient there, but did not recall any instance of his accusing Shreveport police of beating him.

Monroe Police Chief J. C. Kelly Jr. stated that he was familiar with Caples, because of numerous past arrests on charges of disturbing the peace and being drunk and disorderly. However, he indicated no knowledge of the alledged accusation by Caples against Shreveport police.

He indicated the matter was more or less a routine for the department and considered nothing outstanding in the case.

Steel Talks End Without Agreement

of the public comments from Cooper and McDonald.

There had been optimism 24 hours ago that the union's latest offer might pave the way for fruitful bargaining, but Cooper said Saturday night that it contained what he called highly inflationary cost increases. Also, he said, it contianed no solution to the problem of work rules.

McDonald denounced the companies' proposal to change the work rules, telling newsmen: "We will never give the steel companies the unilateral right to use a blacksnake whip on the backs of our workers."

McDonald's face was grim and his answers to questions were short.

Asked whether the companies' offer was an improvement over one advanced recently in Pittsburgh, McDonald snapped: "No, it was worse."

Cooper, however, indicated the industry had given some ground in its second offer in an effort to meet the union's objection to the changes in work rule practices. But he did not specify what concessions were proposed.

But the union "still remained adamant," he said, against any change in the work rules.

In response to a question, Cooper said he would not say that negotiations had collapsed because both sides have expressed willingness to meet again, but that no further meetings were scheduled.

Both McDonald and Cooper said they had no plans to initiate new bargaining talks.

Cooper was questioned about the fact that he and McDonald met reporters separately, whereas on previous occasions they have sat side by side in talking to newsmen.

Did this indicate, he was asked, that there was a bitter argument.

"I wouldn't say there was a bitter argument—there was a failure to agree," Cooper replied.

As to any prospect that union and management will get together soon again, Cooper said he was willing, but: "I don't see any profit at the moment in a new meeting. I don't know whose move is next."

Aside from the work rules, the two sides remained far apart on questions of money. Cooper continued that a union compromise advance' Friday would still cost the companies twice as much as they are willing to grant in their latest offer.

Cooper said that as a counter-proposal the industry submitted a three-year agreement. He said this called for improvements in pensions, insurance and supplemental unemployment benefits in the first year of the pact and wage increases in each of the next two years.

The industry spokesman said the companies had given the union proposal careful analysis. Though it had been described as being "a scaled-down" demand, he said, the companies found that its effect on the industry's payroll was substantially understated.

Union sources had described the Steelworkers' proposal as a 21-cent-hourly, two-year pact. In the first year there would have been only pension, insurance and other fringe benefit improvements, and in the second year a wage increase, bringing the overall payroll cost increase to 21 cents.

Cooper said the industry's analysis indicated the employment cost per man would be increased nearly 20 cents an hour each year—not over two years.

The result, he said, was that "same substantial demands for inflationary cost increases."

Cooper estimated the industry counterproposal, if accepted, would give Steelworkers gains of approximately 10 cents an hour per year.

The industry negotiator conceded that the union and management negotiators put different costs estimates on their proposals. He said he difference is that the union counts the gain to the worker while the industry considers the ultimate increase in total payroll cost including such extra expenses as higher Social Security tax and unemployment taxes.

Cooper estimated that the union's last demand calls for about twice as much as the industry is prepared to give, as measured by its last offer.

Cooper said the industry is standing by this twofold objective: first, keeping the wage settlement low enough to avoid promoting a new inflationary spiral, and second, obtaining work practice changes which the industry considers necessary if it is to achieve progress and production economies.

It was this latter industry position to which McDonald objected most vehemently.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell proposed Saturday night that Congress authorize a system of fact-finding boards to spotlight big labor disputes in the hope of spurring settlement before they blossom into major strikes.

Mitchell said experience in the current steel strike demonstrates a new mediation technique is President well ahead of the time needed for use by the nation's that the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act must be invoked.

The labor secretary, in remarks prepared for the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Assn., also said the time has come for labor and management in industries generally to go to work full time to make the collective bargaining process work.

"What we must seek out and find," he said, "is some middle way between the danger of government dictation on one hand and on the other the danger of unbridled freedom that leads to crisis.

"What we must find is some way between license and compulsion that preserves our free institutions and yet averts threats to the public welfare."

He said there was no question but that the steel strike was harmful: It hurts the worker; it hurts the steel industry; it hurts the nation."

seen with Motherwell Aug. 15, 1958, in Marysville, Calif., 60 miles southwest of here. She reportedly was carrying $50,000 in cash and securities, funds to be used on a "last fling." None of these assets turned up.

Motherwell, an ex-convict whose recent years have been marked with deaths of persons close to him, was Mrs. Putney's traveling companion. Several times motel registrers showed "Dr. and Mrs. Motherwell." He has said the "Dr." stood for "driver."

He was picked up in Atlanta, Ga., on Aug. 25. He insisted he let Mrs. Putney in Las Vegas, Nev.

Three times married, the husky, Bible-quoting handyman was arrested last Jan. 18 in Las Vegas. He was returned to Frederick, Md. for questioning in the death of his 14-month-old daughter, Heather.

Bones of the baby were dug up on a farm. Motherwell said the baby, a mongoloid, died in 1954 of natural causes. A grand jury refused to indict and Motherwell was freed.

He was divorced from his first wife. His second, the mother of the dead child, drowned in her bathtub in Washington, D. C., Nov. 7, 1953. The death certificate reported it an accident.

In seeking an indictment in the Putney death, Dist. Atty. Gordon I. Smith plans to question witnesses from throughout the United States.

Wisconsin's victory over Iowa stamped the Badgers as a club to be contended with in the Big 10 chase.

But Mississippi, one of the powerhouses of the tough Southeastern Conference, crushed Tulane, 53-7, and two Eastern titans — Syracuse and Penn State—recorded victories. Syracuse clubbed Holy Cross, 42-6, and Penn State downed Boston College, 21-12.

Mississippi is No. 5, Syracuse No. 8 and Penn State No. 10 in the AP poll.

The Ivy League, which usually doesn't have much to brag about, has produced the only unscored on major team in the country. The distinction belongs to Yale, which topped Cornell 23-0. But the Elis still will have their hands full if they are going to win the title.

Penn, the favorite, remained unbeaten with a 36-9 decision over Brown. Penn and Mississippi surrendered points for the first time this season.

Art Takes Spotlight At Caldwell Festival

with an impressive performance by the Monroe Youth Orchestra under the direction of Eloy Fominaya. The 31 young musicians gave impressively beautiful renditions of several pieces. Their major work was "Symphony for Young People," by Williams.

The group attended the Art Festival by chartered bus and spent the day enjoying festivities. Their co-sponsors are the Monroe Charity League of Monroe.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon of Monroe, gave an informative and entertaining lecture on Louisiana folk music, accompanied by Miss Hermoine Driscoll. Mrs. Coon sang various folk songs and discussed the history of folk music in Louisiana. Critics at the event said, "Her gracious charm and her personality were a perfect compliment to her subject."

One of the traditionally popular features of the festival was the style show. Many children's, teenage and adult fashions found in local dress shops were modeled. Darden's, Werners, Godfrey's and Village Shoppe participated.

The final part of the program was a talk by Warren C. Ogden, editor of Dixie Roto of the Times-Picayune, entitled, "The Most Fascinating Roosevelt Woman, and I Don't mean Eleanor."

His story, taken from his book, "Tales of the Mississippi," was as fascinating as the title he developed, officials of the festival said.

The climax of the day was a tea sponsored by the Columbia Garden Club.

The festival is sponsored each year by the Caldwell Parish Library. Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, library board member, and Miss Willie Mae Seab, parish librarian, co-sponsor the show. Since its beginning in 1956, the Art Festival has grown in size and merit each year, officials said.

Officials yesterday announced awards.

The Tales of the Ouachita story writing contest was won by Nelda Thames in the high school class, and Mrs. J. Metris Bell in the adult class.

Jorenda Reynolds won second place in the competition.

Summit Talk May Come In Late October

senhower specifically had proposed the Western conference be held in Paris but officials here tended to believe that was the likely site. Geneva was considered a possible alternative.

Adenauer indicated Saturday he would press to make the question of disarmament the chief topic in East-West talks. He told German journalists this is the No. 1 problem facing the world and that summit talks would prove how serious the Soviet Union is in its quest of world peace.

Disarmament also was the probable topic of a letter received by Adenauer Saturday from the Soviet Premier. It was in response to a personal letter dispatched by Adenauer to Khrushchev Aug. 28 in which he appealed to the Soviet leader to begin negotiations on controlled disarmament. There was no immediate word as to whether and when the letter would be made public.

The West Germans would prefer to keep the Berlin question off the agenda of East-West summit talks and refer it to a further meeting of foreign ministers.

The Geneva foreign ministers' conference which ended in August failed after 10 weeks to achieve a solution, and Adenauer is known to believe that a Berlin solution is unlikely to be achieved in a short conference.

Should Eisenhower's reported plans materialize, it would mark the second trip to Europe for him inside two months. He went to Bonn, London, and Paris at the end of August for talks before Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

SELLS OVERSEAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Before it has arrived on Broadway, the overseas rights to a new Joseph Hayes play are being assigned.

NBC Not To Follow CBS Suit

tion these shows on the off-the-air list and they apparently will be retained.)

On the other hand, "we consider it confusing," NBC said, to exempt shows offering say $1.000 in prizes and ban $2,500 shows.

It asked: "Can honesty be equated with the size of the prize?"

It concluded: "NBC's answer to this serious and perplexing problem is to accept the challenge of devising and implementing every conceivable safeguard that our resources and our abilities can fashion. We think that is the primary task facing the networks—rather than abdication of their function of continuing to offer a full range of those program types preferred by the viewing audience."

Congressional probers have just begun to turn their attention to CBS and two famous discontinued shows, "The $64,000 Question" and "The $64,000 Challenge."

Stanton announced in New Orleans Friday night the big-money shows were out. He specified "The Big Pay-off," "Top Dollar" and "Name That Tune." In addition to the two $64,000 shows, CBS has abandoned since last year "Dotto" and "For Love or Money."

and clerical workers were selected for the costs study.

The index level for September at Monroe was 116.6. The figure for March, 1959, and September 1958, was 117.4.

This means, since the index is based on a base period of 1947 through 1949, that it cost nearly $1.18 to buy what cost one dollar in the years immediately after World War II.

The researchers said there was an increase in all major goods and services during the past six months except in food and housing. But the increases were offset by the reduction in gas rates.

Govt. Will File New Voting Suit

White resigned Oct. 3. He defended the division's record in prosecuting the voting cases. He said critics, including some commission members, apparently did not grasp the legal complexities involved.

The commission said in a recent report to President Eisenhower that not a single Negro had been unable to vote as a result of the division's actions. A leading member of the commission, former Virginia Gov. John S. Battle, has resigned.

The commission met last Wednesday for the first time since it received a new two-year lease on life from Congress. Hannah announced afterwards it would hold no more hearings on voting records until the Louisiana case was settled.

Ryan said the three cases brought by the division, two of which are awaiting consideration by the Supreme Court, take up most of the important legal questions that have arisen under the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

One of the cases before the Supreme Court, originating in Georgia, broadly tests the constitutionability of the Civil Rights Act. Ryan said he hoped the court would hear arguments before the end of the year and rule on it before spring.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers has said he would like to argue the case in person. He has signed his name to the government brief.

The other case before the court deals with the question of who should be held principally responsible for denials of voting privileges. The government argues that the state, not the voting registrars is responsible.

This case originated in Alabama where the government argues that the state, not the voting registrars, is responsible.

The case originated in Alabama where the government claims the registrars blocked Negro voting then resigned to avoid responsibility.

Beating Case Claim Denied At Shreveport

scuffle took place. The probe was at a standstill until Monday, when the records at the Monroe, hospital would be looked into.

Caples was arrested by Monroe police Friday in a Monroe street and charged with being drunk and disorderly. He later fell into a coma and a physician was called at E. A. Conway hospital after Caples failed to regain consciousness after two hours.

He was rushed to the Confederate Memorial hospital in Shreveport for further observation.

Hospital authorities in Monroe last night reported that Caples was a patient there, but did not recall any instance of his accusing Shreveport police of beating him.

Monroe Police Chief J. C. Kelly Jr. stated that he was familiar with Caples, because of numerous past arrests on charges of disturbing the peace and being drunk and disorderly. However, he indicated no knowledge of the alledged accusation by Caples against Shreveport police.

He indicated the matter was more or less a routine for the department and considered nothing outstanding in the case.

Steel Talks End Without Agreement

of the public comments from Cooper and McDonald.

There had been optimism 24 hours ago that the union's latest offer might pave the way for fruitful bargaining, but Cooper said Saturday night that it contained what he called highly inflationary cost increases. Also, he said, it contianed no solution to the problem of work rules.

McDonald denounced the companies' proposal to change the work rules, telling newsmen: "We will never give the steel companies the unilateral right to use a blacksnake whip on the backs of our workers."

McDonald's face was grim and his answers to questions were short.

Asked whether the companies' offer was an improvement over one advanced recently in Pittsburgh, McDonald snapped: "No, it was worse."

Cooper, however, indicated the industry had given some ground in its second offer in an effort to meet the union's objection to the changes in work rule practices. But he did not specify what concessions were proposed.

But the union "still remained adamant," he said, against any change in the work rules.

In response to a question, Cooper said he would not say that negotiations had collapsed because both sides have expressed willingness to meet again, but that no further meetings were scheduled.

Both McDonald and Cooper said they had no plans to initiate new bargaining talks.

Cooper was questioned about the fact that he and McDonald met reporters separately, whereas on previous occasions they have sat side by side in talking to newsmen.

Did this indicate, he was asked, that there was a bitter argument.

"I wouldn't say there was a bitter argument—there was a failure to agree," Cooper replied.

As to any prospect that union and management will get together soon again, Cooper said he was willing, but: "I don't see any profit at the moment in a new meeting. I don't know whose move is next."

Aside from the work rules, the two sides remained far apart on questions of money. Cooper continued that a union compromise advanced Friday would still cost the companies twice as much as they are willing to grant in their latest offer.

Cooper said that as a counter-proposal the industry submitted a three-year agreement. He said this called for improvements in pensions, insurance and supplemental unemployment benefits in the first year of the pact and wage increases in each of the next two years.

The industry spokesman said the companies had given the union proposal careful analysis. Though it had been described as being "a scaled-down" demand, he said, the companies found that its effect on the industry's payroll was substantially understated.

Union sources had described the Steelworkers' proposal as a 21-cent-hourly, two-year pact. In the first year there would have been only pension, insurance and other fringe benefit improvements, and in the second year a wage increase, bringing the overall payroll cost increase to 21 cents.

Cooper said the industry's analysis indicated the employment cost per man would be increased nearly 20 cents an hour each year—not over two years.

The result, he said, was that "same substantial demands for inflationary cost increases."

Cooper estimated the industry counterproposal, if accepted, would give Steelworkers gains of approximately 10 cents an hour per year.

The industry negotiator conceded that the union and management negotiators put different costs estimates on their proposals. He said he difference is that the union counts the gain to the worker while the industry considers the ultimate increase in total payroll cost including such extra expenses as higher Social Security tax and unemployment taxes.

Cooper estimated that the union's last demand calls for about twice as much as the industry is prepared to give, as measured by its last offer.

Cooper said the industry is standing by this twofold objective: first, keeping the wage settlement low enough to avoid promoting a new inflationary spiral, and second, obtaining work practice changes which the industry considers necessary if it is to achieve progress and production economies.

It was this latter industry position to which McDonald objected most vehemently.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell proposed Saturday night that Congress authorize a system of fact-finding boards to spotlight big labor disputes in the hope of spurring settlement before they blossom into major strikes.

Mitchell said experience in the current steel strike demonstrates a new mediation technique is President well ahead of the time needed for use by the nation's that the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act must be invoked.

The labor secretary, in remarks prepared for the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Assn., also said the time has come for labor and management in industries generally to go to work full time to make the collective bargaining process work.

"What we must seek out and find," he said, "is some middle way between the danger of government dictation on one hand and on the other the danger of unbridled freedom that leads to crisis.

"What we must find is some way between license and compulsion that preserves our free institutions and yet averts threats to the public welfare."

He said there was no question but that the steel strike was harmful: It hurts the worker; it hurts the steel industry; it hurts the nation."

seen with Motherwell Aug. 15, 1958, in Marysville, Calif., 60 miles southwest of here. She reportedly was carrying $50,000 in cash and securities, funds to be used on a "last fling." None of these assets turned up.

Motherwell, an ex-convict whose recent years have been marked with deaths of persons close to him, was Mrs. Putney's traveling companion. Several times motel registrers showed "Dr. and Mrs. Motherwell." He has said the "Dr." stood for "driver."

He was picked up in Atlanta, Ga., on Aug. 25. He insisted he let Mrs. Putney in Las Vegas, Nev.

Three times married, the husky, Bible-quoting handyman was arrested last Jan. 18 in Las Vegas. He was returned to Frederick, Md. for questioning in the death of his 14-month-old daughter, Heather.

Bones of the baby were dug up on a farm. Motherwell said the baby, a mongoloid, died in 1954 of natural causes. A grand jury refused to indict and Motherwell was freed.

He was divorced from his first wife. His second, the mother of the dead child, drowned in her bathtub in Washington, D. C., Nov. 7, 1953. The death certificate reported it an accident.

In seeking an indictment in the Putney death, Dist. Atty. Gordon I. Smith plans to question witnesses from throughout the United States.

Wisconsin's victory over Iowa stamped the Badgers as a club to be contended with in the Big 10 chase.

But Mississippi, one of the powerhouses of the tough Southeastern Conference, crushed Tulane, 53-7, and two Eastern titans — Syracuse and Penn State—recorded victories. Syracuse clubbed Holy Cross, 42-6, and Penn State downed Boston College, 21-12.

Mississippi is No. 5, Syracuse No. 8 and Penn State No. 10 in the AP poll.

The Ivy League, which usually doesn't have much to brag about, has produced the only unscored on major team in the country. The distinction belongs to Yale, which topped Cornell 23-0. But the Elis still will have their hands full if they are going to win the title.

Penn, the favorite, remained unbeaten with a 36-9 decision over Brown. Penn and Mississippi surrendered points for the first time this season.

Art Takes Spotlight At Caldwell Festival

with an impressive performance by the Monroe Youth Orchestra under the direction of Eloy Fominaya. The 31 young musicians gave impressively beautiful renditions of several pieces. Their major work was "Symphony for Young People," by Williams.

The group attended the Art Festival by chartered bus and spent the day enjoying festivities. Their co-sponsors are the Monroe Charity League of Monroe.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon of Monroe, gave an informative and entertaining lecture on Louisiana folk music, accompanied by Miss Hermoine Driscoll. Mrs. Coon sang various folk songs and discussed the history of folk music in Louisiana. Critics at the event said, "Her gracious charm and her personality were a perfect compliment to her subject."

One of the traditionally popular features of the festival was the style show. Many children's, teenage and adult fashions found in local dress shops were modeled. Darden's, Werners, Godfrey's and Village Shoppe participated.

The final part of the program was a talk by Warren C. Ogden, editor of Dixie Roto of the Times-Picayune, entitled, "The Most Fascinating Roosevelt Woman, and I Don't mean Eleanor."

His story, taken from his book, "Tales of the Mississippi," was as fascinating as the title he developed, officials of the festival said.

The climax of the day was a tea sponsored by the Columbia Garden Club.

The festival is sponsored each year by the Caldwell Parish Library. Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, library board member, and Miss Willie Mae Seab, parish librarian, co-sponsor the show. Since its beginning in 1956, the Art Festival has grown in size and merit each year, officials said.

Officials yesterday announced awards.

The Tales of the Ouachita story writing contest was won by Nelda Thames in the high school class, and Mrs. J. Metris Bell in the adult class.

Jorenda Reynolds won second place in the competition.

Summit Talk May Come In Late October

senhower specifically had proposed the Western conference be held in Paris but officials here tended to believe that was the likely site. Geneva was considered a possible alternative.

Adenauer indicated Saturday he would press to make the question of disarmament the chief topic in East-West talks. He told German journalists this is the No. 1 problem facing the world and that summit talks would prove how serious the Soviet Union is in its quest of world peace.

Disarmament also was the probable topic of a letter received by Adenauer Saturday from the Soviet Premier. It was in response to a personal letter dispatched by Adenauer to Khrushchev Aug. 28 in which he appealed to the Soviet leader to begin negotiations on controlled disarmament. There was no immediate word as to whether and when the letter would be made public.

The West Germans would prefer to keep the Berlin question off the agenda of East-West summit talks and refer it to a further meeting of foreign ministers.

The Geneva foreign ministers' conference which ended in August failed after 10 weeks to achieve a solution, and Adenauer is known to believe that a Berlin solution is unlikely to be achieved in a short conference.

Should Eisenhower's reported plans materialize, it would mark the second trip to Europe for him inside two months. He went to Bonn, London, and Paris at the end of August for talks before Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

SELLS OVERSEAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Before it has arrived on Broadway, the overseas rights to a new Joseph Hayes play are being assigned.

tion these shows on the off-the-air list and they apparently will be retained.)

On the other hand, "we consider it confusing," NBC said, to exempt shows offering say $1,000 in prizes and ban $2,500 shows.

It asked: "Can honesty be equated with the size of the prize?"

It concluded: "NBC's answer to this serious and perplexing problem is to accept the challenge of devising and implementing every conceivable safeguard that our resources and our abilities can fashion. We think that is the primary task facing the networks—rather than abdication of their function of continuing to offer a full range of those program types preferred by the viewing audience."

NBC has been the target during the current congressional investigation of crooked quiz shows, with one of its brightest ex-stars, Charles Van Doren, under subpoena to answer some real-life questions about his appearance on "Twenty-One" when hearings resume Nov. 2.

Congressional probers have just begun to turn their attention to CBS and two famous discontinued shows, "The $64,000 Question" and "The $64,000 Challenge."

Stanton announced in New Orleans Friday night the big-money shows were out. He specified "The Big Pay-off," "Top Dollar" and "Name That Tune." In addition to the two $64,000 shows, CBS has abandoned since last year "Dotto" and "For Love or Money."

and clerical workers were selected for the costs study.

The index level for September at Monroe was 116.6. The figure for March, 1959, and September, 1958, was 117.4.

This means, since the index is based on a base period of 1947 through 1949, that it cost nearly $1.18 to buy what cost one dollar in the years immediately after World War II.

The researchers said there was an increase in all major goods and services during the past six months except in food and housing. But the increases were offset by the reduction in gas rates.

LITTLE THEATRE

Comedy, 'Janus' Season's Opener

By JOHN CALE

Retreating from the heavily populated casts of "Pajama Game" and "Detective Story" of last year, the farce, "Janus," with a cast of five opened the Monroe Little Theatre's current season Friday at Selman Playhouse. With no performance set for tonight, the plan will continue through Wednesday.

There was a capacity turnout at the theatre — now back in conventional style following last year's ventures into the "arena" style. The audience was a little slow to warm up to some of the witticisms immediately following the opeing, but the players wisely held their fire and did not force their lines. As a result, the first nighter group of judges, professional people, teachers and housewives were laughing from the depths by the middle of Act II. "Janus" was as good a piece of comic stage work as this critic ever hopes to see.

Julius Cahn, president, Little Theatre announced the association's membership drive for the season was in progress. He said the plans for the new theatre were moving into the final stages and actual work would begin soon.

IN DEMAND

With a full house at the play on Friday, when interest in area football games ran high, it may be safely concluded the time has come for Little Theatre to grow into new quarters. This plus the fact that for the past two seasons the well made sets onstage seem more permanent than the Selman Playhouse itself.

"Janus" — named after the two - faced Roman god — was the author of best-seller books in the play. He WAS, at least, to literary agent "Miss Addy," played by Margaret Fryant who was in love with the money the arrangement was making her. But to the audience and other people involved in the comedy, "Janus" WERE really two people; Jessica, played by Jo Brian and Denny, played by V. P. Dalrymple. Jessica's husband, Gil, Dr. Ed Brown's first role in a Little Theatre production, and Mr. Harper, the internal revenue watch dog played by William J. Haddad, completed the cast.

It was a relief to see a comedy with no crusading woven into the works by the playwright. In all probability, Carolyn Green who worte the play as a vehicle for actress Margaret Sullivan, never suspected it would last longer than the one stint. But the comic germ of the plot — the puritanical rigidity of the Federal Income Tax form when it locates an unmarried couple or anything else making money — hits home to far too many Americans. When the taxpayers don't fit the pattern of life as set up by the bureau, the result is comedy that's apt to endure.

UNDERPLAY

With so few actors in the cast, the demand for near - perfect performances was evident. All five of the "Janus" players delivered well both in lines and in fleeting "Now what?" glances to the audience. Dr. Brown deserves special mention for fitting into the part and spirit of the play even though it was his first tour of acting. Otherwise it was simply a matter of director Ivan Uttal's artistic underplay of lines and situations which could have been spoiled by too much pressure and too fast a pace. The "slow motion ballet" near the end of Act I was a good example of how a husband should be told his wife has been "collaborating" with another man in the book writing game.

About the only flaw to satisfy the ultra - critical was someone's attempt to "perc" coffee in a drip pot. That's how closely this critic looked at "Janus," which is highly recommended for all who have reached the age of tangling with a tax form.

Bastrop Youth Shot While On Squirrel Hunt

BASTROP (Special) — A 17-year old Bastrop youth was shot while squirrel hunting in Ward 9 near here about 6 p.m. yesterday.

David Walthall was taken to a local hospital in a private car, where authorities said he had sustained wounds in the left hip and leg. He was not considered in critical condition.

The mishap occurred as young Walthall was hunting with a companion, Roy Cook, 19. He had been kneeling near a tree and was hit as he started to rise.

It had not been officially established last night who fired the shot, but hunting companions stated that they did get a glimpse of a white man leaving the scene.

Investigation into the incident was to continue, authorities said.

Four From Delhi Hurt In Crash In Mississippi

DELHI (Special) — Four Delhi people were involved in an accident early Saturday morning near Indianola, Mississippi, while en route to Oxford to attend the Ole Miss football game.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McEacharn and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cooper are hospitalized in Indianola as a result of injuries received when their car was hit by an old bus loaded with cottonpickers which turned directly in front of the Delhi car.

A fifth passenger, Miss Pat Cafe, niece of Mrs. McEacharn was not injured.

Mrs. Cooper suffered a broken collar bone; Mrs. McEacharn fractured ribs and the two men sustained cuts, bruises and abrasions about the head.

Franklin Parish Cotton Tempo Up Over Last Year

WINNSBORO (Special) —T. B. Dickey, manager of the Union Compress and Warehouse Co., said that the compress had received 30,475 bales of cotton Saturday.

On the same date last year, only 18,214 bales had been received, he said. The total amount of cotton placed in the compress last year was 29,420 bales. In 1958, approximately 41,000 acres were planted, and this year approximately 53,000 will be harvested.

Unofficial estimates put between 45,000 and 47,000 bales this year to be harvested.

Three Persons Charged Here

Three persons were arrested yesterday by police officers in the Twin Cities and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Two were arrested by West Monroe police: Grayson J. Wilks, 32, of 208 South 6th street, Monroe; and Allyn Robert Scribner, Box 126, Winnsboro.

Monroe police arrested David Elia Frisby, 33, of 605 West Boulevard, Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

Baton Rouge Man Killed In Car Crash

BATON ROUGE (UPI) —Robert N. Bailey, 28, of Baton Rouge died today when his car smashed into the rear of a parked trash truck.

Assistant District Attorney Scallon Walsh said Bailey evidently was moving at a high rate of speed.

Fire Department Averts Disaster

WINNSBORO (Special) — What could have been a disasterous fire was averted by the Winnsboro fire department early Saturday morning.

Miss Fanny Arnold, night nurse at Roger's Clinic, noticed smoke coming from the kitchen at about 1 a.m. She called Mrs. Pauline Sullivan, supervisor of nurses, and the two women found a deep-fat fryer blazing. They tried to smother the fire and called the fire department.

Homer E. Lowry, assistant fire chief, said that the fryer had been left on and that a faulty thermostat let the grease get hot enough to burn. Besides the fryer, the only damage was smoke damage.

LITTLE THEATRE

Comedy, 'Janus' Season's Opener

By JOHN CALE

Retreating from the heavily populated casts of "Pajama Game" and "Detective Story" of last year, the farce, "Janus," with a cast of five opened the Monroe Little Theatre's current season Friday at Selman Playhouse. With no performance set for tonight, the plan will continue through Wednesday.

There was a capacity turnout at the theatre — now back in conventional style following last year's ventures into the "arena" style. The audience was a little slow to warm up to some of the witticisms immediately following the opeing, but the players wisely held their fire and did not force their lines. As a result, the first nighter group of judges, professional people, teachers and housewives were laughing from the depths by the middle of Act II. "Janus" was as good a piece of comic stage work as this critic ever hopes to see.

Julius Cahn, president, Little Theatre announced the association's membership drive for the season was in progress. He said the plans for the new theatre were moving into the final stages and actual work would begin soon.

IN DEMAND

With a full house at the play on Friday, when interest in area football games ran high, it may be safely concluded the time has come for Little Theatre to grow into new quarters. This plus the fact that for the past two seasons the well made sets onstage seem more permanent than the Selman Playhouse itself.

"Janus" — named after the two - faced Roman god — was the author of best-seller books in the play. He WAS, at least, to literary agent "Miss Addy," played by Margaret Fryant who was in love with the money the arrangement was making her. But to the audience and other people involved in the comedy, "Janus" WERE really two people; Jessica, played by Jo Brian and Denny, played by V. P. Dalrymple. Jessica's husband, Gil, Dr. Ed Brown's first role in a Little Theatre production, and Mr. Harper, the internal revenue watch dog played by William J. Haddad, completed the cast.

It was a relief to see a comedy with no crusading woven into the works by the playwright. In all probability, Carolyn Green who worte the play as a vehicle for actress Margaret Sullivan, never suspected it would last longer than the one stint. But the comic germ of the plot — the puritanical rigidity of the Federal Income Tax form when it locates an unmarried couple or anything else making money — hits home to far too many Americans. When the taxpayers don't fit the pattern of life as set up by the bureau, the result is comedy that's apt to endure.

UNDERPLAY

With so few actors in the cast, the demand for near - perfect performances was evident. All five of the "Janus" players delivered well both in lines and in fleeting "Now what?" glances to the audience. Dr. Brown deserves special mention for fitting into the part and spirit of the play even though it was his first tour of acting. Otherwise it was simply a matter of director Ivan Uttal's artistic underplay of lines and situations which could have been spoiled by too much pressure and too fast a pace. The "slow motion ballet" near the end of Act I was a good example of how a husband should be told his wife has been "collaborating" with another man in the book writing game.

About the only flaw to satisfy the ultra - critical was someone's attempt to "perc" coffee in a drip pot. That's how closely this critic looked at "Janus," which is highly recommended for all who have reached the age of tangling with a tax form.

Bastrop Youth Shot While On Squirrel Hunt

BASTROP (Special) — A 17-year old Bastrop youth was shot while squirrel hunting in Ward 9 near here about 6 p.m. yesterday.

David Walthall was taken to a local hospital in a private car, where authorities said he had sustained wounds in the left hip and leg. He was not considered in critical condition.

The mishap occurred as young Walthall was hunting with a companion, Roy Cook, 19. He had been kneeling near a tree and was hit as he started to rise.

It had not been officially established last night who fired the shot, but hunting companions stated that they did get a glimpse of a white man leaving the scene.

Investigation into the incident was to continue, authorities said.

Four From Delhi Hurt In Crash In Mississippi

DELHI (Special) — Four Delhi people were involved in an accident early Saturday morning near Indianola, Mississippi, while en route to Oxford to attend the Ole Miss football game.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McEacharn and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cooper are hospitalized in Indianola as a result of injuries received when their car was hit by an old bus loaded with cottonpickers which turned directly in front of the Delhi car.

A fifth passenger, Miss Pat Cafe, niece of Mrs. McEacharn was not injured.

Mrs. Cooper suffered a broken collar bone; Mrs. McEacharn fractured ribs and the two men sustained cuts, bruises and abrasions about the head.

Franklin Parish Cotton Tempo Up Over Last Year

WINNSBORO (Special) —T. B. Dickey, manager of the Union Compress and Warehouse Co., said that the compress had received 30,475 bales of cotton Saturday.

On the same date last year, only 18,214 bales had been received, he said. The total amount of cotton placed in the compress last year was 29,420 bales. In 1958, approximately 41,000 acres were planted, and this year approximately 53,000 will be harvested.

Unofficial estimates put between 45,000 and 47,000 bales this year to be harvested.

Three Persons Charged Here

Three persons were arrested yesterday by police officers in the Twin Cities and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Two were arrested by West Monroe police; Grayson J. Wilks, 32, of 208 South 6th street, Monroe; and Allyn Robert Scribner, Box 126, Winnsboro.

Monroe police arrested David Elia Frisby, 33, of 605 West Boulevard, Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

Baton Rouge Man Killed In Car Crash

BATON ROUGE (UPI) —Robert N. Bailey, 28, of Baton Rouge died today when his car smashed into the rear of a parked trash truck.

Assistant District Attorney Scallon Walsh said Bailey evidently was moving at a high rate of speed.

Fire Department Averts Disaster

WINNSBORO (Special) — What could have been a disasterous fire was averted by the Winnsboro fire department early Saturday morning.

Miss Fanny Arnold, night nurse at Roger's Clinic, noticed smoke coming from the kitchen at about 1 a.m. She called Mrs. Pauline Sullivan, supervisor of nurses, and the two women found a deep-fat fryer blazing. They tried to smother the fire and called the fire department.

Homer E. Lowry, assistant fire chief, said that the fryer had been left on and that a faulty thermostat let the grease get hot enough to burn. Besides the fryer, the only damage was smoke damage.

REGISTERED CALF AWARD—Holding prize Hereford is Billy Jim Spillers, who was awarded animal by West Monroe Civitan Club for outstanding work in 4-H. Nearby is John Birdsong, fair secretary - manager, and men on left include Kenneth Garrison, Garland Hammons, and Elmer Russell.

CLIMAXING VALLEY FAIR

Calhoun Youths Awarded Calves

Two Calhoun high school farm boys have been awarded each a registered heifer calf in connection with outstanding work in 4-H projects during the past year.

Two West Monroe organizations, the Rotary Club and the Civitan Club each year award a dairy or a beef animal to an outstanding farm youth in connection with the Ouachita Valley Fair.

A registered Hereford heifer was awarded by the Civitan Club to Billy Jim Spillers, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Spillers, Downsville. Billy is a senior 4-H club member and was awarded the animal on the basis of his Standard 4-H Report Form, a detailed report of the farm project undertaken by a club member.

CHOSEN

Young Spillers was chosen to receive the award by a judging committee made up of area men not connected with the agricultural extension service.

Requirements for receiving the award include that the recipient be at least 12 years old, have at least two years of active 4-H club work left after the current parish fair, have had at least one year of active club work prior to the award, have at least three acres of good pasture or its equivalent, and participate in the parish fair.

In addition, extra points are considered for the personal record during the past year for leadership, activity, for being an officer in the 4-H club or an officer in church or in school.

According to Elliott L. Branch, assistant county agent, the person receiving this award each year is allowed to keep the animal to begin building his own herd of cattle. The recepient is allowed to choose between a beef breed and a dairy breed of cattle, Branch explained.

Another award of a registered guernsey dairy calf was awarded by the Rotary Club to Ronnie Collie, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Collie, Calhoun.

Young Collie had also shown outstanding work in developing his 4-H project during the past year and was awarded the animal by the judging committee on the same basis as tthe other award.

Requirements to receive the award include the participant must live on a Grade A dairy, must be active in 4-H work, and must agree to exhibit the award animal at all fairs and livestock shows.

The Rotary Club's award is presented on a "chain project" basis. Through this setup, the recipient is required to return to the club the first heifer calf born by the award animal. This second calf is consequently awarded another year's winner.

Steel Hopes Save Mart From Plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — Glowing hopes that the steel strike might be settled within days rescued the stock market from a decline this week and put it substantially ahead on average.

It was the third straight week that the market had been dominated by alternate hopes and fears concerning settlement of the longest steel strike in the nation's history.

"Investors and traders focused as much attention on the new ticker as on the stock ticker," said one broker.

The shoe was beginning to pinch on the national economy. Because of the steel shortage, General Motors, the world's largest automotive producer, boosted its total layoffs to 60,000 employes and contemplated the possibility of ending car production by Nov. 1.

The week had an inauspicious start, making a small gain in the dull Monday session when only 1,750,000 shares were traded, the smallest since February 1958.

As the effects of the steel strike became more depressing, the market slid off on Tuesday and underwent a fairly sharp setback on Wednesday.

The rally of Thursday and Friday was triggered by word from the government's chief fact finder that the steel strike might be ended without use of a Taft-Hartley injunction. News of the union offer buoyed stocks greatly on Friday.

Actor Errol Flynn Returns To H'Wood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Errol Flynn comes home Sunday to the town he captivated and shocked for nearly a quarter of a century.

The final hours of his Hollywood career will be etched in sharp contrast to the manner in which he lived.

His body will be in a closed coffin from the moment it arrives. The solid bronze casket in which he will be buried will remain closed during Episcopal funeral services and there will be no final procession past the bier. All will be in keeping with Episcopalaian rites.

Photographers, who captured Flynn in some of his wildest off-screen high jinks, will not be permitted in the church of the Recessional where services are to be held Monday at 10 a.m. But they will be permitted to take pictures as the casket is carried from the church by pallbearers—as yet unnamed.

Forest Lawn Memorial Park, which is handling arrangements, said these are the wishes of Flynn's widow, actress Patrice Wymore.

A private interment will follow. The actor died Wednesday in Vancouver of a heart attack. He was 50.

Three of the women in his life —Miss Wymore, Nora Eddington, his second wife, and youthful Beverly Aadland, his 17-year-old protege who was with him when he died, will attend the funeral.

The Rev. Kermit Castellanos of All Saints Episcopal church of Beverly Hills, will conduct the services which will be open to the public. The church of the Recessional accommodates 300 persons and is prepared to handle an overflow of another 200.

Flynn's body is scheduled to arrive here Sunday at 10 a.m. by train from Vancouver.

It was still uncertain whether the actor's parents, Prof. and Mrs. Theodore Flynn of St. Albans, England, would be here when their son is laid to rest. One report said they were flying to California. But another said the elder Flynn was too ill to travel.

Miss Aadland flew back to Hollywood Friday night and immediately caused a commotion when she tripped over a restraining log at International Airport and fainted.

Flynn's private secretary, Ronald Shedlo, tried to keep photographers away from the prostrate blonde actress, waving a cane at them and yelling, "You barbarians Why don't you leave us alone?"

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Herald - Express said Saturday night Flynn had ignored Miss Aadland in his will. It quoted New York Attorney Justin Golenbock as saying Flynn left everything—reportedly several million dollars —to his four children by three different marriages. Golenbock, described as the actor's chief counsel, was also quoted as saying Flynn left a provision for his parents.

The will reportedly was drawn two years ago.

West Europe Mourning Late General

LONDON (UPI) — Western Europe Saturday mourned George Catlett Marshall as the "instrument of rescue" in war and peace through his military genius and the aid program that bore his name.

In Bonn, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer sent a cable to President Eisenhower expressing "deep inner Regret" over Marshall's death in Washington.

"The German people never want to forget George C. Marshall," Adenauer said. "His name is bound with one of the greatest deeds of human help and brotherly love."

Newspapers from London to Stockholm paid tribute to the man whose name had become a byword in the grim days of World War II and the economic chaos that followed it.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, said in Paris the death of Marshall was a loss "to all who cherish freedom."

French Marshal Pierre Alphonse Juin, retired commander of Allied forces in Central Europe, said "I believe his memory will be glorified" as "a shrewd and clear - sighted statesman."

London newspapers hailed him as a savior of Europe.

"Twice in our time the new world has come to the rescue of the old and each time the instrument of the rescue was General George Catlett Marshall," said the Daily Mail.

The Daily Telegraph said that "as the author of the Marshall Plan and the sponsor of the European recovery program he dominated international relations as no man has done since Woodrow Wilson."

It added, "he was the symbol of his country's new leadership in world politics."

The Times of London called him "the creator of the greatest military force ever known in the new world."

Copenhagen newspapers called him "a great American."

In Stockholm, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter said the Marshall Plan was "the foundation on which post-war Europe slowly was built.

De Volkskrant of Amsterdam called him "the architect of peace and prosperity...he did not meddle with politics, he stood above it and therefore dominated the politicians."

Discussion Set On Master Plan Conductor

The Master Plan for Monroe will be discussed tomorrow at a noon luncheon of the Jaycees at 12:30 in the Penn Hotel.

Taking part in the discussion session will be Roy Johns, chairman of the Ouachita Regional Planning Commission; Marvin Hale, resident city planner; George Parsons, director of city planning, and special guest Arch Winter, professional city planner from Mobile, Alabama.

The group will cover the component parts of the master plan, including the 15 basic data maps of existing conditions, the land use maps, the future plan for downtown areas, the major street plan, the school and parks plan, the transportation plan and the community and neighborhood plans.

VOTE TO DELIST

NEW YORK (UPI)—Governors of the New York stock exchange voted to delist the 5 per cent cumulative preferred shares of Phillips-Van Heusen Corp., effective at the opening of business, Monday, Oct. 26. The exchange said that company retirement of these shares through the years has reduced them below the point which the board considers suitable for trading. Shares still publicly held amount to 4,615, the exchange said.

Theft Admitted By Youth Here

A 16-year-old Monroe Negro juvenile admitted to West Monroe police he had taken articles from a local business where he was employed, it was reported yesterday.

The youth, who was employed by Bibson's Wholesale store on Cypress Street, was apprehended by police as he left work and was found to have articles stolen from the business in his possession. He was placed in the Ouachita Parish Detention Home pending further hearing.

Family Friend Dies After Viewing Body

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An old family friend collapsed and died and later a wild disturbance broke out when police closed the doors of the funeral home at the viewing of the late Mario Lanza.

An estimated 5,000 persons paid final tribute to the 38-year-old tenor Friday night at a South Philadelphia funeral home. Saturday. Requiem Mass was celebrated in the church where Lanza began his singing career.

Antoinette Marzano, 71, an old friend of the Lanza family, collapsed and died after passing the casket. She was talking with Lanza's 83-year-old grandfather, Salvatore, when she fell.

The disturbance broke out when police ordered the doors of the funeral home closed at midnight. About 2,000 persons were left standing in line. They rushed forward, crowding around policemen and attempting to scramble under a wooden barricade.

But Lanza's grandfather put an end to the melee when he told police: "These people have stood in line to see Mario, I will wait for them to pass." The doors were reopened.

The Mass was celebrated at the Roman Catholic church of St. Mary Magdalene where Lanza once was an altar boy. It was in this church at the age of 18 that Lanza made his first public appearance singing "Abe Maria" at a funeral.

Lanza, who died in Italy Oct. 7, will be buried in California.

The final hours of his Hollywood career will be etched in sharp contrast to the manner in which he lived.

His body will be in a closed coffin from the moment it arrives. The solid bronze casket in which he will be buried will remain closed during Episcopal funeral services and there will be no final procession past the bier. All will be in keeping with Episcoplaian rites.

Photographers, who captured Flynn in some of his wildest off-screen high jinks, will not be permitted in the church of the Recessional where services are to be held Monday at 10 a.m. But they will be permitted to take pictures as the casket is carried from the church by pallbearers—as yet unnamed.

Forest Lawn Memorial Park, which is handling arrangements, said these are the wishes of Flynn's widow, actress Patrice Wymore.

A private interment will follow. The actor died Wednesday in Vancouver of a heart attack. He was 50.

Three of the women in his life—Miss Wymore, Nora Eddington, his second wife, and youthful Beverly Aadland, his 17-year-old protege who was with him when he died, will attend the funeral.

The Rev. Kermit Castellanos of All Saints Episcopal church of Beverly Hills, will conduct the services which will be open to the public. The church of the Recessional accommodates 300 persons and is prepared to handle an overflow of another 200.

Flynn's body is scheduled to arrive here Sunday at 10 a.m. by train from Vancouver.

It was still uncertain whether the actor's parents, Prof. and Mrs. Theodore Flynn of St. Albans, England, would be here when their son is laid to rest. One report said they were flying to California. But another said the elder Flynn was too ill to travel.

Miss Aadland flew back to Hollywood Friday night and immediately caused a commotion when she tripped over a restraining log at International Airport and fainted.

Flynn's private secretary, Ronald Shedlo, tried to keep photographers away from the prostrate blonde actress, waving a cane at them and yelling, "You barbarians Why don't you leave us alone?"

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Herald - Express said Saturday night Flynn had ignored Miss Aadland in his will. It quoted New York Attorney Justin Golenbock as saying Flynn left everything—reportedly several million dollars—to his four children by three different marriages. Golenbock, described as the actor's chief counsel, was also quoted as saying Flynn left a provision for his parents.

The will reportedly was drawn two years ago.

West Europe Mourning Late General

LONDON (UPI) — Western Europe Saturday mourned George Catlett Marshall as the "instrument of rescue" in war and peace through his military genius and the aid program that bore his name.

In Bonn, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer sent a cable to President Eisenhower expressing "deep inner Regret" over Marshall's death in Washington.

"The German people never want to forget George C. Marshall," Adenauer said. "His name is bound with one of the greatest deeds of human help and brotherly love."

Newspapers from London to Stockholm paid tribute to the man whose name had become a byword in the grim days of World War II and the economic chaos that followed it.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, said in Paris the death of Marshall was a loss "to all who cherish freedom."

French Marshal Pierre Alphonse Juin, retired commander of Allied forces in Central Europe, said "I believe his memory will be glorified" as "a shrewd and clear - sighted statesman."

London newspapers hailed him as a savior of Europe.

"Twice in our time the new world has come to the rescue of the old and each time the instrument of the rescue was General George Catlett Marshall," said the Daily Mail.

The Daily Telegraph said that "as the author of the Marshall Plan and the sponsor of the European recovery program he dominated international relations as no man has done since Woodrow Wilson."

It added, "he was the symbol of his country's new leadership in world politics."

The Times of London called him "the creator of the greatest military force ever known in the new world."

Copenhagen newspapers called him "a great American."

In Stockholm, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter said the Marshall Plan was "the foundation on which post-war Europe slowly was built.

De Volkskrant of Amsterdam called him "the architect of peace and prosperity...he did not meddle with politics, he stood above it and therefore dominated the politicians."

Discussion Set On Master Plan Conductor

The Master Plan for Monroe will be discussed tomorrow at a noon luncheon of the Jaycees at 12:30 in the Penn Hotel.

Taking part in the discussion session will be Roy Johns, chairman of the Ouachita Regional Planning Commission; Marvin Hale, resident city planner; George Parsons, director of city planning, and special guest Arch Winter, professional city planner from Mobile, Alabama.

The group will cover the component parts of the master plan, including the 15 basic data maps of existing conditions, the land use maps, the future plan for downtown areas, the major street plan, the school and parks plan, the transportation plan and the community and neighborhood plans.

VOTE TO DELIST

NEW YORK (UPI)—Governors of the New York stock exchange voted to delist the 5 per cent cumulative preferred shares of Phillips-Van Heusen Corp., effective at the opening of business, Monday, Oct. 26. The exchange said that company retirement of these shares through the years has reduced them below the point which the board considers suitable for trading. Shares still publicly held amount to 4,615, the exchange said.

Theft Admitted By Youth Here

A 16-year-old Monroe Negro juvenile admitted to West Monroe police he had taken articles from a local business where he was employed, it was reported yesterday.

The youth, who was employed by Bibson's Wholesale store on Cypress Street, was apprehended by police as he left work and was found to have articles stolen from the business in his possession. He was placed in the Ouachita Parish Detention Home pending further hearing.

Family Friend Dies After Viewing Body

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An old family friend collapsed and died and later a wild disturbance broke out when police closed the doors of the funeral home at the viewing of the late Mario Lanza.

An estimated 15,000 persons paid final tribute to the 38-year-old tenor Friday night at a South Philadelphia funeral home. Saturday, Requiem Mass was celebrated in the church where Lanza began his singing career.

Antoinette Marzano, 71, an old friend of the Lanza family, collapsed and died after passing the casket. She was talking with Lanza's 83-year-old grandfather, Salvatore, when she ell.

The disturbance broke out when police ordered the doors of the funeral home closed at midnight. About 2,000 persons were left standing in line. They rushed forward, crowding around policemen and attempting to scramble under a wooden barricade.

But Lanza's grandfather put an end to the melee when he told police: "These people have stood in line to see Mario, I will wait for them to pass." The doors were reopened.

The Mass was celebrated at the Roman Catholic church of St. Mary Magdalene where Lanza once was an altar boy. It was in this church at the age of 18 that Lanza made his first public appearance singing "Abe Maria" at a funeral.

Lanza, who died in Italy Oct. 7, will be buried in California.

Industrial Drop Forecast Soon

NEW YORK (UPI) — A slight slowing down in industrial activity is foreseen by the experts.

This may seem to be bad news but it has its bright spots and they include:

1. With business easing a bit it will require less money to operate and that will mean more plentiful supplies of money in turn producing some easing in rates.

2. A dip in production will call for a stimulant early next year—and that stimulant could very well be a cut in individual and corporate income taxes.

Economists as well as business men recognize that the prolonged steel strike has bitten into our business recovery deeper than any one had anticipated. The result is a rejiggering of estimates on fourth quarter results which had been lauded as new record breakers to come.

The U.S. Treasury took the measure of the money market and found that a 5 per cent rate on a 4-year-and-10 - month note issue was more than right to attract investors in quantity.

People were willing to pay more than par for the new notes. Investors drew out savings to buy the issues. Some sold Treasury savings bonds. Some took money planned for use in the stock market for the issue. Thus, the notes competed with the mortgage market, with savings, with the Treasury itself.

All of this could mean that bonds will come into favor again. Yields on high grade bonds have been running well above 5 per cent in many instances. The yield is the return one gets for investment in an issue and it is determined by the interest paid and the price of the bond. Meantime, yields on stocks have fallen sharply because their prices have risen.

There hasn't been such a wide divergence between stock and bond yields since 1929, but this doesn't mean we are heading into a depression such as the one that hit us 30 years ago. It means that there will be a change in investment buying in the not distant future. People will be more willing to buy bonds and less willing to buy stocks. Easier money would help bonds.

Even so, the stock market still is held in high esteem in Wall Street and Main Street. Stocks have been fairly well liquidated and they face a great deal more selling as traders adjust their holdings to the tax situation.

Many will sell stocks over the next few weeks to establish tax losses and tax profits. This type of selling should be out of the way in December when high dividend and interest payments will provide funds for reinvestment in stocks in time for the traditional year-end rally.

Even though industry may temporarily slow up its expansion plans it isn't going to curtail production if it can keep on selling goods. There has been nothing to indicate that this cannot go on for a long time.

Kitchen Knife Saves Life

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—A doctor used a kitchen knife for emergency chest surgery to save a man's life.

Percy Knight, 52, is doing well at Methodist Hospital. He suffered a heart attack while being examined by Dr. William B. Wallace, who said the man appeared to have died.

The physician took a kitchen knife, opened the chest cavity and massaged the heart for more than an hour until Knight could be removed to the hospital.

Actor Reported In Good Shape

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Barry Fitzgerald, whimsical Irish actor, was reported today to be making good progress after his brain operation. Fitzgerald, 71, underwent surgery Thursday in St. Vincent's Hospital. He entered the hospital with a suspected brain tumor.

Tower Slated In Washington For Erection

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) —A Dutch carillon tower will be erected in Washington in December to commemorate Dutch gratitude for U.S. military aid during World War II and Marshall Plan aid in the post-war period.

A token tower was presented in 1952 by Queen Juliana on her U.S. visit.

Today, 100 tons of the prefabricated steel construction left for the United States aboard the Dutch freighter Kamperdyk. In a fortnight, 50 more tons will be shipped.

Site Selected For Caldwell Health Unit

COLUMBIA (Special) — The Caldwell Parish police jury has chosen the site of the present Health Unit as the location for the new Health Unit to be erected in the near future.

A committee composed of President Carl Williams and Secretary C. D. Chapman has been authorized to execute the deed when terms have been reached.

The new building will cost an estimated $20,000. Of this amount the parish has completed a two year property tax of one-half mill which netted them approximately $6,782.00. The state board of liquidations has provided $8,000.00 and an additional $10,620 has been promised by the federal government.

Beuford Jacka, West Monroe Architect, has made a preliminary drawing of the proposed building, which is subject to the approval of the body.

No date for the actual construction of the Health Unit has been set, but it is believed that construction will begin as soon as possible negotations have been completed.

Problems Of Heating Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With cold weather coming—or in some parts of the nation already arrived —home owners are thinking about the traditional wintertime problem of heating the house.

More and more houses these days have automatic heating systems. Set the thermostat for a desired temperature and it activates the heat source necessary to maintain that temperature.

With this in mind, here are some money-saving tips from the National Association of Home Builders:

Temperature controls should not be changed at frequent intervals. Setting controls high does not make the furnace work faster or heat the house sooner. It just makes the furnace operate longer.

For example, you take a winter vacation and shut down the thermostat to save unnecessary fuel costs while you're away. When you return the house is too cold. Setting the thermostat at 85 degrees won't warm the house to the 70 degrees you desire any faster than if you set the thermostat at 70. What will happen is that you'll burn up more fuel than necessary making the house hotter than you want it.

If the house is being aired, set back the thermostat. When windows and doors are closed again, return the instrument to the desired temperature setting.

The Home Builders Association recommends a 10-degree setback at night for conventional types of heating systems. Many thermostats are integrated with clocks so that they automatically make the setback at a prescribed time.

If you open your bedroom windows to get more air at night be sure to close off the bedroom from the part of the house you want to keep warm. If you have a warm air heating system, turn off bedroom radiators or close the register.

Because bedroom doors often have space at the bottom, throw a small rug across this opening to prevent cold air from leaking through and chilling the rest of the house.

If you have a garage under or attached to the house, keep the garage doors closed. They are a prime source of cold air. Vents under houses should also be closed during the heating season to prevent cold air from chilling floors.

Close the damper when your fireplace is not in use. A chimney flue is a direct passage for warm air to escape. As it flows out, cold air comes in.

Try to have good air circulation around radiators and convectors and do not insulate them. If decorative covers are used, select types that have openings at the bottom for entrance of cold air and space at the top for heated air to move out into the room. Drapes restrict air circulation around radiators and dust or dirt prevents free heat movement.

Bethel Temple Opens Meeting At New Center

Starting today, Bethel Temple Evangelistic Center, located at 1502 Cypress in West Monroe, is beginning a two week "Deeper Life Conference," according to Ralph Mahoney, pastor.

Rev. E. A. Heeley of Bothwell, Ontario, Canada will be the featured speaker in the conference. Rev. Heeley travels over 10,000 miles most years to fill the pulpit for conferences, camp meetings and revivals. His simple, yet deep, understandable messages have made him popular wherever he has gone. He is truly one of Canada's foremost spiritual leaders, Rev. Mahoney said.

Bethel Temple is now located in their new facilities on Highway 80 in West Monroe. The building formerly occupied by Kilpatricks has been remodeled to facilitate the church. Services will be conducted at this new location nightly during the conference at 7:30 p.m.

Local Churches To Help UNICEF Fund Campaign

Several churches in the Monroe - West Monroe area have announced preparations to participate in the annual "Trick or Treat" canvass of funds for UNICEF, a spokesman for the organization announced today.

It was pointed out the organization — the United Nations Children's Fund — is working in more than one hundred countries to reduce child suffering. It was explained all funds collected by UNICEF are matched by the countries to which they are sent.

Local churches taking part are McGuire Methodist, St. Paul's Methodist, First Methodist and the churches of that denomination in Sterlington and Fairbanks.

Calvary Church To Open Revival

The fall revival at Calvary Baptist Church, 812 Mississippi street in Monroe, will open at the 11 a.m. service today, according to Rev. D. W. Nix, pastor.

Revivalist for the occasion, which will include services at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. throughout the week, will be Rev. W. E. Spencer from the Mount Vernon Baptist Church.

HOMECOMING

A homecoming day has been slated at Antioch Methodist Church on the Jonesboro Road outside West Monroe, it was announced today.

Officers of the church said activities at the church would begin with the morning worship period and continue into the afternoon with lunch on the ground and a singing period thereafter.

Laymen Fill Pulpits While Clergy Listens

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Sunday, Oct. 18 will be observed as "Layman's Sunday" in thousands of American churches, and pastors will turn over their pulpits to laymen for the day. Reversing the procedure, UPI religious writer Louis Cassels has asked a prominent clergyman to serve as guest columnist for this occasion.

——M

By the Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton
Bishop Coadjutor for the Episcopal Diocese of Washington
Written for UPI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This Sunday lay people will speak from many pulpits while the clergy sit back and listen. It is a good time to consider just what is the layman's vocation and where and how he can best serve his church.

The vocation of the layman today has come to the front.

From the weekly worship and eductaional services of the churches people in increasing numbers go forth to their homes and their daily work. "By their works ye shall know them" and by their lives is evidenced the depth and reality of their religious faith and conviction. It can be a matter of pious words and empty charitable gestures or it can be a fiery spark that flames into life and love of God in other lives.

The church is the community that has this awareness, to which is committed the communication of this good news to a world that does not know. How then are we to communicate to others God's life and love? It is here that the laymen are desperately needed. It is they who know best how to speak to each other, in understandable terms, how to draw other lay people into the community and services of the churches.

Today we are living in an era of change, a culture largely urban. Rural and small town life are a very small factor in our national life.

Yet the church is still set up in the pattern of the English or German small towns of centuries ago when the church was at the center of a comparatively small settled community in which everyone knew everyone else and the parson knew them all. It still uses preaching as its chief and almost sole means of communication. This in face of the fact that the needs of men are different in this culture, much more complex and much greater, for the very things the Gospel has to offer.

Our laymen move with the times and speak the language of the day. Because they can and do carry the churches with them into the world, the world has become a great deal more ecumenical than the churches are. It's also true that political systems and nations and industries are much more missionary minded than the churches and spend more on missionary work.

More and more the churches are reaching out to enlist the skills developed in the secular world and use them to broaden and deepen their outreach. More and more they are seeking to incorporate in their life a nucleus, a core of trained and experienced laymen who are willing to dedicate their lives, their time and their talen to God while continuing to function in their familiar sphere. It is the vocation of the layman, as of the priest, to love God and his neighbor as himself and to serve his church by living what he believes.

Revival Set At New Chapel Hill

A revival has been slated to open today at the New Chapel Hill Baptist Church on the Whites Ferry Road, West Monroe, it has been announced.

Rev. Connie Ward, pastor, will fill the pulpit for the occasion and services have been scheduled for 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. daily. Mrs. P. M. McDonald will be in charge of the music.

Rev. Fuller At Victory Baptist

The Rev. Willard Fuller, evangelist, will fill the pulpit as guest speaker today at the Victory Baptist Church, 1317 Southside in Monroe, it has been announced. He will preach at both morning and evening services.

Evangelist Fuller recently held a series of revival services at the church in which the organization noted one of its best revival efforts.

Church officers extended an invitation to members and friends of the church to attend Sunday's special sermon by Rev. Fuller and said a full time nursery at the church was provided.

Highland Park Slates Revival

A revival was scheduled to open today at Highland Park Baptist Church on Roberts Avenue in Monroe, according to the pastor, Edgar Wiggins, who will also serve as evangelist. Tom Wafer will serve as song director. Services will be held at 7 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. throughout the week, according to the announcement.

Open House Set At Local Church Today

Members and friends of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of Monroe were invited to attend an open house slated at the church from 3 to 5 p.m. today, according to Rev. Wayne Gray, pastor. The event is being sponsored by officers of the church.

The church has completed recently an educational - fellowship building; made additional improvements in appointments and facilities in the sanctuary and has added two members to the staff.

On this occasion the facilities of the church will be open to the public, and Miss Nyleen Barnett, director of Christian education, and Mrs. Lloydelle Birdsong, choir director, will be presented to the members and friends of the congregation.

As a part of activities of the day the Ouachita Parish High School ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Birdsong, will sing at the morning worship service at 11:00.

Mother Seton Canonization In Process

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton, who took another step toward canonization last week, is still a long way from becoming one of the many thousand saints on the Roman Catholic calendar.

The announcement by Pope John XXIII that the American-born nun has "passed the 'antepreparatory' stage" means she is somewhere in the midddle of the canonization process, with the highest hurdles ahead.

The Catholic Church doesn't take sainthood lightly.

Mother Seton, who could become the first native American saint, died in 1821, but canonization proceedings did not get under way on the lowest official level (the Baltimore diocese) until 86 years had passed.

Four years later, the documents painstakingly collected and examined in Baltimore were forwarded to Rome to a "postulator," a sort of clerical attorney who would plead her case before the Congregation of Rites.

Further examination by a commission in Rome, delayed by World War I, lasted another 29 years. It was not until 1940 that her cause was formally introduced and she was being considered for beatification.

Catholic spokesmen in the United States are not sure exactly how far along the road toward beatification — the last step before canonization — Mother Seton has passed.

Apparently these three points have met approval: She has a reputation for sanctity; she has not been venerated publicly; and her writings, even personal letters, express the saintly ideals.

She can be pronounced beatified — and bear the title "blessed" — only after the church has satisfied itself that two miracles can be attributed to her intercession.

Church spokesmen say it is unlikely that beatification can be considered and approved until 1960 or even much later.

QUESTION: Can you explain to me why the celebration of Easter by Roman Catholic and Protestant churches does not coincide with the Jewish Passover and the Eastern Churches Easter festivals?

ANSWER: To the members of the Roman Catholic and to many Protestant groups, the date of Easter usually given is determined by the moon and not the Gregorian calendar. This decision was made at the council of Nicea, the first major ecumenical council after Constantine made a formal acceptance of Christianity. The date has since that been the first Sunday after the first full moon on or after the vernal equinox (March 21). Therefore Easter, as observed by Western churches can come any time from March 22 to April 29.

The inquiring Christian is caused to wonder at this when it became apparent that before this time, non - Christian religions had observed their spring festivities with full ritual at that time. Happily, the true Christian faith does not hinge upon dates or forms, but according to the Scriptures, "Let no man therefore judge you in meat or in drink, or in respect of a festival day, or of the new moon or of the Sabbaths." (Colossians 2:16, Douay Version.)

DR. W. L. MCCOLGAN

West Monroe Presbyterians Set Revival

Rev. W. L. McColgan, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Pine Bluff, Arkansas, is the evangelist for a spiritual emphasis program at Memorial Presbyterian Church next week.

Dr. McColgan will preach at 7:30 p.m. today in the first of a series of evangelistic sermons extending through Thursday evening, October 22. He will also bring a series of sermons at 10:00 a.m. Monday through Friday on the Apostles' Creed, according to Dr. Hugh E. Bradshaw, pastor.

Dr. McColgan was born in Norton, Virginia, graduated from Davidson College in Davidson, N. C. and entered Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia. Upon graduation from seminary, Dr. McColgan accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church of St. Charles, Missouri. His next pastorate was in Clarksville, Tennessee, from which he came to the pastorate of First Church, Pine Bluff, Arkansas. Dr. McColgan has a wife, a daughter who is a student in Marseille, France, and two sons in high schools of Pine Bluff.

Bethel Temple Opens Meeting At New Center

Starting today, Bethel Temple Evangelistic Center, located at 1502 Cypress in West Monroe, is beginning a two week "Deeper Life Conference," according to Ralph Mahoney, pastor.

Rev. E. A. Heeley of Bothwell, Ontario, Canada will be the featured speaker in the conference. Rev. Heeley travels over 10,000 miles most years to fill the pulpit for conferences, camp meetings and revivals. His simple, yet deep, understandable messages have made him popular wherever he has gone. He is truly one of Canada's foremost spiritual leaders, Rev. Mahoney said.

Bethel Temple is now located in their new facilities on Highway 80 in West Monroe. The building formerly occupied by Kilpatricks has been remodeled to facilitate the church. Services will be conducted at this new location nightly during the conference at 7:30 p.m.

Local Churches To Help UNICEF Fund Campaign

Several churches in the Monroe - West Monroe area have announced preparations to participate in the annual "Trick or Treat" canvass of funds for UNICEF, a spokesman for the organization announced today.

It was pointed out the organization — the United Nations Children's Fund — is working in more than one hundred countries to reduce child suffering. It was explained all funds collected by UNICEF are matched by the countries to which they are sent.

Local churches taking part are McGuire Methodist, St. Paul's Methodist, First Methodist and the churches of that denomination in Sterlington and Fairbanks.

Calvary Church To Open Revival

The fall revival at Calvary Baptist Church, 812 Mississippi street in Monroe, will open at the 11 a.m. service today, according to Rev. D. W. Nix, pastor.

Revivalist for the occasion, which will include services at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. throughout the week, will be Rev. W. E. Spencer from the Mount Vernon Baptist Church.

HOMECOMING

A homecoming day has been slated at Antioch Methodist Church on the Jonesboro Road outside West Monroe, it was announced today.

Officers of the church said activities at the church would begin with the morning worship period and continue into the afternoon with lunch on the ground and a singing period thereafter.

Laymen Fill Pulpits While Clergy Listens

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Sunday, Oct. 18 will be observed as "Layman's Sunday" in thousands of American churches, and pastors will turn over their pulpits to laymen for the day. Reversing the procedure, UPI religious writer Louis Cassels has asked a prominent clergyman to serve as guest columnist for this occasion.

——M

By the Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton
Written for UPI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This Sunday lay people will speak from many pulpits while the clergy sit back and listen. It is a good time to consider just what is the layman's vocation and where and how he can best serve his church.

The vocation of the layman today has come to the front.

From the weekly worship and eductaional services of the churches people in increasing numbers go forth to their homes and their daily work. "By their works ye shall know them" and by their lives is evidenced the depth and reality of their religious faith and conviction. It can be a matter of pious words and empty charitable gestures or it can be a fiery spark that flames into life and love of God in other lives.

The church is the community that has this awareness, to which is committed the communication of this good news to a world that does not know. How then are we to communicate to others God's life and love? It is here that the laymen are desperately needed. It is they who know best how to speak to each other, in understandable terms, how to draw other lay people into the community and services of the churches.

Today we are living in an era of change, a culture largely urban. Rural and small town life are a very small factor in our national life.

Yet the church is still set up in the pattern of the English or German small towns of centuries ago when the church was at the center of a comparatively small settled community in which everyone knew everyone else and the parson knew them all. It still uses preaching as its chief and almost sole means of communication. This in face of the fact that the needs of men are different in this culture, much more complex and much greater, for the very things the Gospel has to offer.

Our laymen move with the times and speak the language of the day. Because they can and do carry the churches with them into the world, the world has become a great deal more ecumenical than the churches are. It's also true that political systems and nations and industries are much more missionary minded than the churches and spend more on missionary work.

More and more the churches are reaching out to enlist the skills developed in the secular world and use them to broaden and deepen their outreach. More and more they are seeking to incorporate in their life a nucleus, a core of trained and experienced laymen who are willing to dedicate their lives, their time and their talen to God while continuing to function in their familiar sphere. It is the vocation of the layman, as of the priest, to love God and his neighbor as himself and to serve his church by living what he believes.

Revival Set At New Chapel Hill

A revival has been slated to open today at the New Chapel Hill Baptist Church on the Whites Ferry Road, West Monroe, it has been announced.

Rev. Connie Ward, pastor, will fill the pulpit for the occasion and services have been scheduled for 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. daily. Mrs. P. M. McDonald will be in charge of the music.

Rev. Fuller At Victory Baptist

The Rev. Willard Fuller, evangelist, will fill the pulpit as guest speaker today at the Victory Baptist Church, 1317 Southside in Monroe, it has been announced. He will preach at both morning and evening services.

Evangelist Fuller recently held a series of revival services at the church in which the organization noted one of its best revival efforts.

Church officers extended an invitation to members and friends of the church to attend Sunday's special sermon by Rev. Fuller and said a full time nursery at the church was provided.

Highland Park Slates Revival

A revival was scheduled to open today at Highland Park Baptist Church on Roberts Avenue in Monroe, according to the pastor, Edgar Wiggins, who will also serve as evangelist. Tom Wafer will serve as song director. Services will be held at 7 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. throughout the week, according to the announcement.

Open House Set At Local Church Today

Members and friends of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of Monroe were invited to attend an open house slated at the church from 3 to 5 p.m. today, according to Rev. Wayne Gray, pastor. The event is being sponsored by officers of the church.

The church has completed recently an educational - fellowship building; made additional improvements in appointments and facilities in the sanctuary and has added two members to the staff.

On this occasion the facilities of the church will be open to the public, and Miss Nyleen Barnett, director of Christian education, and Mrs. Lloydelle Birdsong, choir director, will be presented to the members and friends of the congregation.

As a part of activities of the day the Ouachita Parish High School ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Birdsong, will sing at the morning worship service at 11:00.

Mother Seton Canonization In Process

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton, who took another step toward canonization last week, is still a long way from becoming one of the many thousand saints on the Roman Catholic calendar.

The announcement by Pope John XXIII that the American-born nun has "passed the 'antepreparatory' stage" means she is somewhere in the middle of the canonization process, with the highest hurdles ahead.

The Catholic Church doesn't take sainthood lightly.

Mother Seton, who could become the first native American saint, died in 1821, but canonization proceedings did not get under way on the lowest official level (the Baltimore diocese) until 86 years had passed.

Four years later, the documents painstakingly collected and examined in Baltimore were forwarded to Rome to a "postulator," a sort of clerical attorney who would plead her case before the Congregation of Rites.

Further examination by a commission in Rome, delayed by World War I, lasted another 29 years. It was not until 1940 that her cause was formally introduced and she was being considered for beatification.

Catholic spokesmen in the United States are not sure exactly how far along the road toward beatification — the last step before canonization — Mother Seton has passed.

Apparently these three points have met approval: She has a reputation for sanctity; she has not been venerated publicly; and her writings, even personal letters, express the saintly ideals.

She can be pronounced beatified — and bear the title "blessed" — only after the church has satisfied itself that two miracles can be attributed to her intercession.

Church spokesmen say it is unlikely that beatification can be considered and approved until 1960 or even much later.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Can you explain to me why the celebration of Easter by Roman Catholic and Protestant churches does not coincide with the Jewish Passover and the Eastern Churches Easter festivals?

ANSWER: To the members of the Roman Catholic and to many Protestant groups, the date of Easter usually given is determined by the moon and not the Gregorian calendar. This decision was made at the council of Nicea, the first major ecumenical council after Constantine made a formal acceptance of Christianity. The date has since that been the first Sunday after the first full moon on or after the vernal equinox (March 21). Therefore Easter, as observed by Western churches can come any time from March 22 to April 29.

The inquiring Christian is caused to wonder at this when it became apparent that before this time, non - Christian religions had observed their spring festivities with full ritual at that time. Happily, the true Christian faith does not hinge upon dates or forms, but according to the Scriptures, "Let no man therefore judge you in meat or in drink, or in respect of a festival day, or of the new moon or of the Sabbaths." (Colossians 2:16, Douay Version.)

Learn And Earn Program Launched

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

"I like the Office Education program very much. I think it's going to be a big aid for businessmen," says H. B. Rylan, an employer.

Martha Sinclair, high - school senior and his employee, comments, "It's wonderful training and experience. I go to school and earn my own spending money."

Office Education is a new program at Ouachita Parish High School. Students study business in the mornings, work in offices in the afternoons.

"I had about 40 applications for the class. Eighteen were selected," reveals Mrs. O. Willis, business teacher and coordinator.

INAUGURATED

Mrs. Willis inaugurated it this fall, with approval of the School Board and OPHS Principal I. C. Strickland.

"So many capable students were going into jobs like checking groceries . . . so many high school graduates don't go to college," sighs Mrs. Willis.

"With business experience, they can get part-time jobs and pay their way through college, or they can step into a job when they graduate from high school," she explains.

Don't confuse Office Education with "Distributive Education." In Office Education, students spend 90 minutes each day, from 8 to 9:30 a.m., gaining experience on: Transcription machines, stencil duplication, ten-key adding machine, fluid duplication, rotary calculator, key driven calculator, full - key adding machine, bookkeeping machine, and on reception room duty.

ASSIGNED

Then, they put this to work in a job that requires secretarial, typing and business machine or bookkeeping knowledge.

They can spend a total of 40 hours at work and on the job. For example, if they are in school 17 and one-half hours per week, they can work 22 and one-half hours. Only seniors (12 grade students) may take Office Education.

Pay ranges from 75 cents to $1.00 hourly.

Six students selected at random were asked, "Are your working conditions and pay fair and satisfactory?

"Definitely" . . . "Yes" . . . "Very satisfactory" . . . "I believe they are" . . . "Very satisfactory and fair" . . . "I think they are," were the replies.

The real test of anything affecting people is how the people themselves feel about it.

Maeteen Brooks, 17, of 204 Wilson St., works in the Monroe City Hall tax department: "I'm not planing on college. I wanted some experience at working."

EXPERIENCE

Lucille Oliver, 17, of Route 1, Box 199, Winnsboro Road, an employee in the auditing department of a large Louisville Avenue department store: "Every business you go to requires experience. A young girl just out of high school has little business experience. This program will help me get a job."

Martha Sinclair, 17, of 1800 N. Fifth St., employee at the Credit Bureau: "Office Education is different from other classes because it's practical learning. I can apply it that afternoon at the office, under different conditions."

Shirley Hall, 17, of Swartz, employed in department store auditing department: "At first when I started working I thought I'd rather do typing than work with other business machines. But since I've been here I like using the machine better than typing or shorthand — the job has changed my opinion on office work."

Carolyn Johnson, 17, of 517 Sherrouse Ave., employed at the Ouachita Parish Public Library: "I was planning on being a business teacher until I took this job. Now, I think I would rather just work with it than teach it."

PLEASED

Sue Corbin, 17, of 3405 Richmond St., employed by an office equipment company: "I think the Office Education course is perfect in every respect. I would recommend it to all students interested in office work."

"You can take business courses, but until you work in an office, you can't understand what it actually is. I've learned a lot about how the business world is carried on, and also a lot by being around people. It teaches how to get along with people on the job," reveals Martha Sinclair.

"I thought office work would be a lot harder than it is," comments Lucille Oliver.

"My work has made me more sure of myself — it hasn't changed my mind about future plans," Shirley Hall mentions.

The employers speak:

M. R. Stewart, controller for department store, and employer of Shirley Hall and Lucille Oliver:

"I am well pleased with the students. They have learned one thing that I think is paramount—that is that they keep their nose at their work. They don't waste any time. They're very adept at everything we've given them.

NEW MARKET

"This program is opening up an entirely new labor market."

Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, and Carolyn Johnson's employer: "I think it's a good program. It's wonderful for students, so they can get a lot of practical experience.

"Carolyn works very hard all the time she's here, I'm very well pleased with her."

H. B. Rylan, general manager, Credit Bureau, employer for Elaine Adams and Martha Sinclair: "No doubt I will be willing to hire these students when they graduate. I've been fortunate in getting the "cream" from the schools.

"Give a high school girl three to four months training and she is just as good as an employee who has been here a year.

"I think the program is going to be a big aid for business men to select employees who can come in as regular workers as soon as they graduate from school. These students become affiliated in the business world and spend their "time in training" while they're still in school."

COMPARISON

Mrs. Ella S. Johnson, dairy manager and employer of Hugh Corkern: "Considering age and inexperience, he compares favorably with our employees.

"He is very interested in his work — never stops while he's here and applies himself to the work without interruptions."

M. J. Cook, assistant city secretary and tax collector at City Hall and Maeteen Brooks' employer: "She does excellent work. With her willingness to go ahead and right attitude, she will make a good employee."

W. C. Littleton, official at a trasnportation company and employer of Jackie Black: "She's doing mighty good. In fact, I would be willing to take on another student employee."

Wade Kennedy, insurance salesman and employer of Julia Ann Scott: "She may be one of the better students capable of doing a fulltime job. I think she's doing excellent work.

ONLY WAY'

"This Office Education program is the only way they (students) can get knowledge they want—by getting out and doing office work and getting training during high school if they intend to work when they get out."

Mrs. Lucille Barr, downtown office equipment company and head of Sue Corbin's department: "This program gives business people a chance to train future employees. The students receive experience that really helps them.

"Of course, she's not experienced, but I think she is doing real well."

And there was praise for Mrs. Willis, by both an employer and a student.

"Mrs. Willis chose girls from her senior classes whom she thinks are adapted to Office Education to begin with. These students actually have been screened before they come to us," states Ryian.

"If it hadn't been for the ones training us, we wouldn't have had any experience before graduation." explains Lucille Oliver. "Our teachers and employers are a lot of help to us."

Bush Pilot Big Man In Canada's Northland

By TOM HENSHAW

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (AP)—Pilot Pat Carey leaned his folded arms on the wheel and casually watched the spruce trees whiz by outside the window.

"Great country, isn't it?" he asked, stealing an impish glance at his passengers.

The little pontooned Beaver was skimming along at 90 miles an a new home at an isolated logging road hacked out of the virgin wilderness south of Fort Smith.

Aboard the single-engine plane were Jane and Pete O'Conner and their 8-week-old baby—bound for a new home at an isolated logging camp in Swanson, Alta.—a startled reporter and, of course, Pat Carey, a bush pilot for 30 of his 50 years.

The bush pilot is a big man in Canada's great Northland frontier, a land that knows of railroads only by hearsay and where most of the navigable highways lose themselves in the bush a few miles out of town.

He's one of the last of the free spirits, a man who can set his own pace in an age when most men are shackled to the lock and the need to conform.

The plane banked steeply over Swanson to come in against the wind on the broad, sluggish Peace River. Volunteer hands tied it to shore and the passenger walked across a narrow plank to the dock. Carey carried the baby. Then came some cargo—six cases of beer and several bottles of gin and rye.

"Mail some letters, Pat?"

"Sure."

"Get a check cashed for me, Pat?"

"Don't know when I'll be back this way."

"That's okay. Bring it when you can."

The bush pilot is all things to all men in the isolated camps and towns of the Canadian North.

In a typical day's work Carey flies some 400 miles out of his base at Fort Smith. He works for Pacific Western Airlines and in the busy summer season may be on hedgehopping cargo and passenger jobs seven days a week.

The plane took off and headed further along the river. Over the modern, ranch-style home of a fire warden Pat swung the Beaver low and waggled the wings. A young woman waved back through a picture window facing the river.

"Gordon Carlson's wife," said Pat.

It was just an exchange of greetings between friends. But it could have been different had there been trouble at the warden's station. Pat might have become an ambulance flier.

A white sheet or towel, prominently displayed, is the universal signal of distress in the Northland. It means a plane is needed urgently. Pat Carey and most bush pilots go out of their way to check the lonely outposts.

"There's an unspoken agreement that the white flag will be used only if it's something serious," Pat explained. "If someone uses it because he wants a pack of cigarettes, the pilot is liable to pass him up next time."

PROTECTED

Then a thought struck him. "Let's look at some buffalo," he said, and we detoured inland from the river to fly over Wood Buffalo National Park. It's a protected preserve harboring about 12,000 buffalo and an occasional moose.

Scouting, Pat skimmed the tree tops and spotted a herd grazing in a field. The Beaver swooped low and Pat chuckled as the great shaggy beasts shied.

Around lunchtime, Pat headed homeward to post on the Slave River, taking care to swoop low over Fort Smith as a signal for his wife, Jean, to put the meal on.

The afternoon schedule was light, so Pat brought along his tackle box on the chance he might be able to set down on one of the many northern lakes for an hour or so of trout fishing.

Not all days are easy. Pat could recall a bad fire season three years ago when he worked twice around the clock, ferrying fire fighters and equipment into the bush.

"On the last landing I hit the water an awful wallop," he said. "I decided right then it was time to go to bed."

Winter flying can give a pilot bad moments, too, particularly early in the season when he can't tell if the ice is safe for a ski landing and there's no one on the ground to test it for him. Bush pilots have developed a technique for testing it from the air.

"You come in fast and bounce hard on the skis," said Pat. "Then you go back up and look behind you. If there's open water, you pick another lake. If the ice held up, it's okay to land."

EDITORIALS

Strike Negotiations

People often wonder what good a mediation board can do if employers and strikers fail to agree, inasmuch as the mediators have no authority to compel either side to yield. In the present steel strike, however, the value of a mediation board may well be demonstrated. The board has run up against an "I won't play if you don't do what I say" attitude.

Dr. George W. Taylor, chairman of the fact-finding panel exploring the more than three-month-old strike, brought this into sharp focus when he said:

"They haven't been bargaining—at least they haven't been bargaining like those of us long in this field have known it.

"If we accomplished a settlement this week it would be a miracle of the first order.

"It would be a minor miracle if we could even get the issues defined" in the first few days.

The chairman said the mediators cannot work effectively until the issues are etched out.

Since the beginning of the strike there has been little negotiation. For weeks at a time the industry and the workers have not been in contact with each other. Ignoring the damage that is likely to be done to the economy of this country and that certainly has been done to the workers, not only in the steel-porducing field but in allied industry and manufacturing. The steel workers have acted as if they must win even if it is necessary to wreck the nation's economy. People certainly are more likely to reach agreement if they discuss things than if they simply bow their necks.

This is one of the reasons that a mediation board can be of value. Eventually it at least may be able to arrive at a conclusion on just how far apart are the employers and unions and to determine the issues on which they disagree and those on which they agree. That, of course, is always a major part of negotiation.

Spokesmen for the steel-producing industry contend that repeated union demands for wage increases are forcing steel prices up so high that the steel industry soon may not be able to meet the competition of imported steel. They also assert that working rules call for disastrous featherbedding, which further increases the cost of producing steel.

This is the sixth time since the end of World War II that the steel workers have asked for wage increases. On the five previous occasions they obtained them. This time they have been offered another increase but under working conditions less advantageous to the workers than under the present contract. The industry is trying to wipe out featherbedding.

On the basis of wages paid in other areas, the pay received by the steel workers appears to be high enough unless the inflation spiral is to be continued. This could lead to a further shift to the use of imported steel, which would complicate the issue still more by bringing up the question of extremely high tariffs. High import tariffs could result in similar action by other countries, making export of American goods virtually prohibitive and placing this country in a state of isolation.

To most people, it might seem that the sensible thing to do would be to allow wages to remain at their present level, to abandon featherbedding or unworked-for pay and to allow other features and fringe benefits under the present contracts to remain intact.

The public, however, does not and cannot know the full facts, since even the negotiators have had difficulty in determining the issues.

Steel Workers President David McDonald defiantly told the mediators that an 80-day truce would bring no permanent peace.

The job of the negotiators is a difficult one but they should at least be able to clarify the situation and this will make it easier for President Eisenhower to determine a course of action.

Drive-In Postoffices

Down through most of the history of the United States the federal government has done a fairly good job of providing mail service. Despite this, however, postoffice service has not kept pace with modern business institutions, such as banks.

Heretofore, the chief consideration has been getting new post office buildings, without much attention being given to how the patrons may approach the postoffices. In these days of jammed traffic conditions, it might be well to consider establishing drive-in postoffices or at least to provide parking space adjacent to the postoffices.

In Monroe, numerous branch banks have been established by both of the Monroe banking institutions. In every instance, drive-in windows and parking space have been provided. All of the major shopping centers now consider ample parking space an absolute "must."

All of the postoffice buildings in Monroe and West Monroe, as well as those in most cities, are unapproachable except for a few spaces directly in front of the buildings, and these spaces are usually occupied.

Right now the West Monroe main postoffice has the best outside drop-box system in the Twin Cities. It has three such boxes, so that anyone traveling either east or west on Wood street or north on Second street can drop in mail without leaving the cars.

No-parking signs in front of drop-boxes directly in front of the postofifces do no good, as the people stop long enough to go in for their mail and that is longer than those wishing to use the drop-boxes can wait, with traffic piling up behind them.

The drop-box system is an improvement but if space off the streets for parkers could be provided, as is done by the banks, with driving lanes for those wishing to use the drop-boxes the postoffices then could feel that they were keeping pace with other institutions in making it convenient for the people.

British Commonwealth

Prime Minister MacMillan Sees It As Rising Dawn Not As Setting Of Sun For Big Empire

In the remarkable television discussion last August between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan, the Prime Minister raised the question of colonialism and what he said on that occasion takes on a fresh meaning because of his outstanding victory in last week's election. He said:

"... Now I know what colonialism means to Americans, because my mother was American. It means that Boston Tea Party and George III and all that. But colonialism had a good side, too. And now we are changing the old Empire into the new Commonwealth. We've got a lot of problems ahead of us still in Africa and so forth, but we will solve them. And you have only to look around and see what is happening —India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana, Malaya, Nigeria soon, West Indies.

"It's the road on which we are traveling, and it isn't a sign of weakness, it's a sign of strength. Don't let anyone in America think it's the sun setting on the British Empire, it's the dawn rising on the new Commonwealth, and it's all part of the same story."

When the United Nations was formed, the General Assembly consisted of 51 nations; this has now been increased to 82 nations. We are living in an era of national proliferation. And each country regards itself as sovereign, significant, important. Many of these nations cannot support themselves on a modern basis and are being assisted by other powers. It is probable that votes in the General Assembly of the United Nations are, if one will pardon the vulgarity of the expression, for sale, in the sense that they are cast in favor of that power whence comes aid or where there is expectation of support. It is a sort of diplomatic back-scratching.

While the fragmentation of Empire continues and new states are being born, a contrary movement emanates from Soviet Russia and Red China. They have, in fact, entered upon a career of intensive imperialism. Soviet Russia has absorbed imperialistically in Europe alone Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Albania and East Germany. When Hungary attempted to establish its independence, it was wracked by Khrushchev's armies and all the so-called satellites were taught by unmeasured brutality to behave according to the Kremlin's code. It is not likely that any of these countries will soon risk an uprising. Soviet Russia is not expanding in Europe, but is moving into Central Asia.

Red China's imperialism has to do with the filling out of the Chien Lung line, that is, the farthest extent of the Chinese Empire during the Manchu Dynasty. This includes parts of India and there conflict has already asserted itself. In Tibet, Red China has put down the theocracy of the Dalai Lama with characteristic brutality. Already one province of India, Kerala, is Communistic and Red Chinese troops have marched into Ladakh, Sikkim and Bhutan; they are expected to attempt forays into Nepal, Assam and parts of Burma. The conquest of India could lead to World War III.

Pakistan is a member of SEATO and we would be required by treaty to go to war in Pakistan's defense. India is a member of the Commonwealth and if India called on Great Britain for aid, the British would be morally bound to come to the rescue, as would Pakistan and Ceylon. And the United States would not be able to stay out.

So whereas the Western Powers, as Prime Miniser Macmillan said, are abandoning imperialism for a cooperative commonwealth of free peoples—a pattern which France is, in a measure, following after its own fashion, Soviet Russia and Red China are building Empire. What is so interesting is that to every question concerning this, Khrushchev, in effect, replied coarsely, "Mind your own business," or as they would say in the area where he was reared, "Keep your nose out of my pot."

Khrushchev, the harbinger of peace, who stood before the United Nations, a veritable Micah, telling the world what to do about its swords, has been unable or he did not really try to get Red China to adopt his program of peace. What will he say if during a summit conference, Mao Tze-tung explodes the whole of Asia into war? Will Khrushchev call Mao an imperialist and join the West in putting him in his place?

That will be the test.

Congress Slow

Liberals Call It 'Timid' And Conservatives Label It 'Radical'

Historians undoubtedly will write the final assessment of the accompiishments of tre first session of the 86th Congress, but in pure volume it was pretty routine.

The Democratic - controlled 86th Congress has been called "timid" in its approach to domestic matters by liberals and "radical" in its approach by conservatives. Only the avowed middle - o' - the - roaders appear more than half - satisfied.

In at least one respect, however, the first session of tre 86th Congress was outstanding — it cost more money to operate than most of its predecessors.

It cost about $105 million to run the legislative processes of government this year. This inbers' salaries to chauffer's wages for the Speaker's limousine.

Next year it will cost even more — an estimated $128.8 million.

Based on this cost, the taxpayers were nicked an average of $91,000 for each of the 1,142 bills passed by the House and about $100,000 for each of the 1,052 bills passed by the Senate. In measures and the Senate 1,370.

O' course, legislation differs in scope as much as the individual's members' views. The measures passed range from a private bill to allow immigration of a sheepherder to the massive labor reform bill.

The first session of the 86th Congress wasn't in session as long as its predecessor but filled more pages of the Congressional Record. The Senate was in e- ion 140 day for a total of 1,009 hours and 48 minutes, while the less - windy House wound up its business in 527 hours and 8 minutes. In 1958, the House and Senate were in session for a combined total of 1,577 hours, compared with this year's 1,536 hours.

That extended debate in the Senate which is guarded so jealously by the members is costing the taxpayer plenty, too. Debate in the Senate filled 11,409 pages of the Congressional Record at $80 a page — or $912,720. Debate limitations in the House held proceedings to only 6,771 pages, or about $541,680. The combined total was about $5,600 more than the preceding session of Congress.

Members of Congress also filled the Appendix of the Record with 8,264 pages of generally inconsequential trash — everything from newspaper editorials to speeches of one member inserted by himself or another member.

The Congress just concluded waded through a stack of 13,837 bills and resolutions compared with only 6,693 handled by the second session of the 85th Congress.

To The Editor:

I have never owned or operated my own business, but after listening to David McDonald say to the world that his union would not do this, do that or the other, I am sick to my guts.

My work takes me into lumber yards where I see nails made in Western Germany, Japan, Belgium, etc.

Be it on David McDonald's head when we made such high-priced steel that it rusts in our own storerooms, while the people who need steel buy it from import stocks.

This McDonald isn't just against management, he's against every mother's son of us who is trying to earn a living.

Climatic Days

Stocks Dumped In Globe-Shattering Volume 30 Years Ago

Now we are approaching the climactic days when "it" happened. Oct. 21....Oct. 23....Oct. 24..... Finally, Oct. 29, 1929

It was during those Black Days 30 years ago that dumping of stocks reached globe-shattering proportions and prices recognized no bottoms. It was on Oct. 24 that the nation's most powerful tycoons created a "banking pool" to buy stocks to halt the panic. It was at noon on Oct. 29 that Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. somberly announced at a secret meeting in the New York Stock Exchange.

"Gentlemen, there is no man nor group of men who can buy all the stocks the American public can sell."

That marked the end of an era, the start of a depression which was to bring almost unbelievable paralysis to what had been proud, confident, "Everybody Ought To Be Rich" America.

In the previous nine columns I've been comparing this October with that of 1929 and I've pulled no punches because there are more similarities in this anniversary month than in any previous one.

Again, gambling in stocks by the greedy, ignorant fringe has reached disturbing heights. Again, stock prices have been bid up to the "upside down" point where the average return which can be obtained from dividends on stocks is far below what can be obtained from interest on highest-grade bonds. Again, there are painful indications of swindling in stocks and signals are flashing that controls over stock mainpulation are inadequate. Again, money is "tight," the tightest since 1929. Again, there have been some nasty price spills in stocks, compelling sober people to wonder if "it" could be repeated in this generation.

I expect stock price slumps from time to time and I am (I think) financially and psychologically prepared for them.

But all my digging and instincts shout "No! 'It' cannot, 'It' will not happen in our lifetime." For:

(1) The whole foundation of the stock market in 1959 is vitally different from the foundation in 1929. Today the vast majority individual holders of stocks ov them primarily with their o w cash and are deliberately, r gularly investing savings for long-term purpose. We can s out at losses, but we cannot sold out and wiped out.

(2) A new force has enter Wall Street in the form of gia institutional investors who alrea hold billions of dollars of stoc and who are buying continual as they receive cash. These a typically long-term, unemotion investors and they are a fact for stability which was unknov in 1929.

(3) Since the cataclysm of years ago major laws, regulatio and "watch-dog" organizatio have been developed to protect t public from manipulation whi can turn a routine decline into rout, and there is an acute awar ness that controls must be tighte ed more.

(4) A basic distinction lies the economic background in 19 and 1929. While we face naggi problems, fundamentally we a a nation which is expanding i wealth among the middle classe not concentrating it at the to And we have created safeguar against depression which we ca improve if and when needed.

(5) Equally basic is our dete mination never to permit anoth "1929" and to take whatev steps are essential to preve one.

A while ago SEC chairma Edward N. Gadsby made a lo speech detailing why he thoug there would not be a repetition 1929, but at the very end of h address he said.

"Of course, I could be wrong I am not ducking behind a similar, not-amusing tagline. fervently believe I must not wrong. For if I am, and the is another "1929," I won't around to write about it, and yo won't be interested in readi about it.

For if I am wrong, the Amer can system of private enterpris capitalism and democracy bo almost two centuries ago will dead.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Meeting Voters

Candidates Will Hark Back To Days Of McKinley And Bryan

Almost every afternoon in the late summer and early autumn of the year 1896 William McKinley's old white horse would be hitched to a buggy and trotted down to the railroad station in Canton, Ohio, to pick up an important visitor and transport him to the two - story yellow frame house from which McKinley was conducting his winning "back-porch" Republican campaign for the presidency of the United States.

In the same period William Jennings Bryan, the 36-year-old Black Eagle of the Platte, riding in a special railroad car inappropriately named "The Idler," was roaring through the nation, sweating through the $4 Alpaca coat he wore when he made the Cross of Gold speech which brought him the Democratic nomination, and was pulling crowds that could be measured only in terms of acres.

Candidate McKinley's old white horse was not equal to the task of hauling all the McKinley visitors. By early autumn gold-badged delegations in train loads, sometimes as many as 10,000 persons a day, were going to Canton to trample down McKinley's prideful lawn, obliterate the beds in which grew his favorite carnations, and carry away the pickets from his fence as souvenirs. And McKinley was receiving the delegations under an evangelist's tent in the yard and not on his back porch.

The old McKinley horse was about the only white one in the Republican camp. Bryan was for silver and silver was white money and squads of white horses were enlisted to pull the white money men who greeted Bryan wherever he appeared. Bryan rode in carriages which had been painted white and the harness of milk-white horses were silver-plated.

To admit that he even so much as knew some participants in the McKinley - Bryan fin de siecle contest places a writer in the G. A. R. of journalism. To further admit that in a later campaign I was a traveling companion of Bryan and heard him relate incidents of what he called his "canvass" of the country, perhaps makes me the last survivor.

The reason for harking back to the most thrilling election campaign that any living person can recollect is that both Republican and Democratic party workers are saying that in 1960 more than in any recent campaign it is going to be necessary for the candidates to go out and meet the voters.

The campaign of 1896 was conducted at the very zenith of the horse and buggy age. That age isn't coming back. Horses have disappeared largely even from the farms. There is no factory in the United States exclusively engaged in manufacturing buggy whips where there were once many. There are even few plants which manufacture buggies.

The far - sighted McKinley recognized the old means of transportation was on its way out. He told a delegation of wheelme (bicyclists) that the bicycle a was upon us and promised help them get good roads. If had lived a few years longer would have seen the horsele carriage make good.

William Jennings Bryan mad his first radio speech from Pittsburgh station in 1923. Th writer heard it through earphone on a crystal detector set in Was ington. A few days later I m Bryan in a Washington hotel.

"I heard your radio speec Colonel," I said.

"Where were you?" Bryan i quired. I told him.

"Do you mean to tell me yo heard me away down here Washington?" Bryan asked.

Bryan never lived to see th radio play much part in politic contests. He told this writer not ing would ever be invented whic would take the place of persona appearances of the candidate.

The Republican and Democra ic National conventions wer broadcast to a limited extent i 1924 and President Coolidge by telephone link of twenty-two wid ly separated radio stations mad what amounted to a networ speech to the nation that yea

Radio was extensively used b both candidates Herbert Hoove and Alfred E. Smith in 192 Smith called it the "raddio. Franklin D. Roosevelt in cam paign speeches as "firesid chats" from the White Hous made the most effective use o it.

When television sets went int millions of American homes th portion of political party cam paign expenses devoted to thi means of getting before the pe ple became immense. It will b large next year, but not as larg as in either 1952 or 1956, part leaders predict.

There will never again be campaign for the presidency co ducted on a purely domestic is sue as the McKinley - Bryan on was. In 1959 there has been muc written and said about the visit of presidential candidates Nixon Stevenson and Humphrey to Rus sia; of things other presidentia hopefuls said to Khrushche when he was here.

Strike Negotiations

People often wonder what good a mediation board can do if employers and strikers fail to agree, inasmuch as the mediators have no authority to compel either side to yield. In the present steel strike, however, the value of a mediation board may well be demonstrated. The board has run up against an "I won't play if you don't do what I say" attitude.

Dr. George W. Taylor, chairman of the fact-finding panel exploring the more than three-month-old strike, brought this into sharp focus when he said:

"They haven't been bargaining—at least they haven't been bargaining like those of us long in this field have known it.

"If we accomplished a settlement this week it would be a miracle of the first order.

"It would be a minor miracle if we could even get the issues defined" in the first few days.

The chairman said the mediators cannot work effectively until the issues are etched out.

Since the beginning of the strike there has been little negotiation. For weeks at a time the industry and the workers have not been in contact with each other. Ignoring the damage that is likely to be done to the economy of this country and that certainly has been done to the workers, not only in the steel-porducing field but in allied industry and manufacturing. The steel workers have acted as if they must win even if it is necessary to wreck the nation's economy. People certainly are more likely to reach agreement if they discuss things than if they simply bow their necks.

This is one of the reasons that a mediation board can be of value. Eventually it at least may be able to arrive at a conclusion on just how far apart are the employers and unions and to determine the issues on which they disagree and those on which they agree. That, of course, is always a major part of negotiation.

Spokesmen for the steel-producing industry contend that repeated union demands for wage increases are forcing steel prices up so high that the steel industry soon may not be able to meet the competition of imported steel. They also assert that working rules call for disastrous featherbedding, which further increases the cost of producing steel.

This is the sixth time since the end of World War II that the steel workers have asked for wage increases. On the five previous occasions they obtained them. This time they have been offered another increase but under working conditions less advantageous to the workers than under the present contract. The industry is trying to wipe out featherbedding.

On the basis of wages paid in other areas, the pay received by the steel workers appears to be high enough unless the inflation spiral is to be continued. This could lead to a further shift to the use of imported steel, which would complicate the issue still more by bringing up the question of extremely high tariffs. High import tariffs could result in similar action by other countries, making export of American goods virtually prohibitive and placing this country in a state of isolation.

To most people, it might seem that the sensible thing to do would be to allow wages to remain at their present level, to abandon featherbedding or unworked-for pay and to allow other features and fringe benefits under the present contracts to remain intact.

The public, however, does not and cannot know the full facts, since even the negotiators have had difficulty in determining the issues.

Steel Workers President David McDonald defiantly told the mediators that an 80-day truce would bring no permanent peace.

The job of the negotiators is a difficult one but they should at least be able to clarify the situation and this will make it easier for President Eisenhower to determine a course of action.

O course, legislation differs in scope as much as the individual's members' views. The measures passed range from a private bill to allow immigration of a sheepherder to the massive labor reform bill.

The first session of the 86th Congress wasn't in session as long as its predecessor but filled more pages of the Congressional Record. The Senate was in e-ion 140 day for a total of 1,009 hours and 48 minutes, while the less - windy House wound up its business in 527 hours and 8 minutes. In 1958, the House and Senate were in session for a combined total of 1,577 hours, compared with this year's 1,536 hours.

That extended debate in the Senate which is guarded so jealously by the members is costing the taxpayer plenty, too. Debate in the Senate filled 11,409 pages of the Congressional Record at $80 a page — or $912,720. Debate limitations in the House held proceedings to only 6,771 pages, or about $541,680. The combined total was about $5,600 more than the preceding session of Congress.

Members of Congress also filled the Appendix of the Record with 8,264 pages of generally inconsequential trash — everything from newspaper editorials to speeches of one member inserted by himself or another member.

The Congress just concluded waded through a stack of 13,837 bills and resolutions compared with only 6,693 handled by the second session of the 85th Congress.

Views Of Our Readers

WORKER RAPS McDONALD
Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

I have never owned or operated my own business, but after listening to David McDonald say to the world that his union would not do this, do that or the other, I am sick to my guts.

My work takes me into lumber yards where I see nails made in Western Germany, Japan, Belgium, etc.

Be it on David McDonald's head when we made such high-priced steel that it rusts in our own storerooms, while the people who need steel buy it from import stocks.

This McDonald isn't just against management, he's against every mother's son of us who is trying to earn a living.

Climatic Days

Now we are approaching the climactic days when "it" happened. Oct. 21....Oct. 23....Oct. 24..... Finally, Oct. 29, 1929

It was during those Black Days 30 years ago that dumping of stocks reached globe-shattering proportions and prices recognized no bottoms. It was on Oct. 24 that the nation's most powerful tycoons created a "banking pool" to buy stocks to halt the panic. It was at noon on Oct. 29 that Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. somberly announced at a secret meeting in the New York Stock Exchange.

"Gentlemen, there is no man nor group of men who can buy all the stocks the American public can sell."

That marked the end of an era, the start of a depression which was to bring almost unbelievable paralysis to what had been proud, confident, "Everybody Ought To Be Rich" America.

In the previous nine columns I've been comparing this October with that of 1929 and I've pulled no punches because there are more similarities in this anniversary month than in any previous one.

Again, gambling in stocks by the greedy, ignorant fringe has reached disturbing heights. Again, stock prices have been bid up to the "upside down" point where the average return which can be obtained from dividends on stocks is far below what can be obtained from interest on highest-grade bonds. Again, there are painful indications of swindling in stocks and signals are flashing that controls over stock mainpulation are inadequate. Again, money is "tight," the tightest since 1929. Again, there have been some nasty price spills in stocks, compelling sober people to wonder if "it" could be repeated in this generation.

I expect stock price slumps from time to time and I am (I think) financially and psychologically prepared for them.

But all my digging and instincts shout "No! 'It' cannot, 'It' will not happen in our lifetime." For:

(1) The whole foundation of the stock market in 1959 is vitally different from the foundation in 1929. Today the vast majority of individual holders of stocks own them primarily with their own cash and are deliberately, regularly investing savings for a long-term purpose. We can sell out at losses, but we cannot be sold out and wiped out.

(2) A new force has entered Wall Street in the form of giant institutional investors who already hold billions of dollars of stocks and who are buying continually as they receive cash. These are typically long-term, unemotional investors and they are a factor for stability which was unknown in 1929.

(3) Since the cataclysm of 30 years ago major laws, regulations and "watch-dog" organizations have been developed to protect the public from manipulation which can turn a routine decline into a rout, and there is an acute awareness that controls must be tightened more.

(4) A basic distinction lies in the economic background in 1959 and 1929. While we face nagging problems, fundamentally we are a nation which is expanding its wealth among the middle classes, not concentrating it at the top. And we have created safeguards against depression which we can improve if and when needed.

(5) Equally basic is our determination never to permit another "1929" and to take whatever steps are essential to prevent one.

A while ago SEC chairman Edward N. Gadsby made a long speech detailing why he thought there would not be a repetition of 1929, but at the very end of his address he said.

"Of course, I could be wrong."

I am not ducking behind any similar, not-amusing tagline. I fervently believe I must not be wrong. For if I am, and there is another "1929," I won't be around to write about it, and you won't be interested in reading about it.

For if I am wrong, the American system of private enterprise, capitalism and democracy born almost two centuries ago will be dead.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Meeting Voters

Candidates Will Hark Back To Days Of McKinley And Bryan

Almost every afternoon in the late summer and early autumn of the year 1896 William McKinley's old white horse would be hitched to a buggy and trotted down to the railroad station in Canton, Ohio, to pick up an important visitor and transport him to the two - story yellow frame house from which McKinley was conducting his winning "back-porch" Republican campaign for the presidency of the United States.

In the same period William Jennings Bryan, the 36-year-old Black Eagle of the Platte, riding in a special railroad car inappropriately named "The Idler," was roaring through the nation, sweating through the $4 Alpaca coat he wore when he made the Cross of Gold speech which brought him the Democratic nomination, and was pulling crowds that could be measured only in terms of acres.

Candidate McKinley's old white horse was not equal to the task of hauling all the McKinley visitors. By early autumn gold-badged delegations in train loads, sometimes as many as 10,000 persons a day, were going to Canton to trample down McKinley's prideful lawn, obliterate the beds in which grew his favorite carnations, and carry away the pickets from his fence as souvenirs. And McKinley was receiving the delegations under an evangelist's tent in the yard and not on his back porch.

The old McKinley horse was about the only white one in the Republican camp. Bryan was for silver and silver was white money and squads of white horses were enlisted to pull the white money men who greeted Bryan wherever he appeared. Bryan rode in carriages which had been painted white and the harness of milk-white horses were silverplated.

To admit that he even so much as knew some participants in the McKinley - Bryan fin de siecle contest places a writer in the G. A. R. of journalism. To further admit that in a later campaign I was a traveling companion of Bryan and heard him relate incidents of what he called his "canvass" of the country, perhaps makes me the last survivor.

The reason for harking back to the most thrilling election campaign that any living person can recollect is that both Republican and Democratic party workers are saying that in 1960 more than in any recent campaign it is going to be necessary for the candidates to go out and meet the voters.

The campaign of 1896 was conducted at the very zenith of the horse and buggy age. That age isn't coming back. Horses have disappeared largely even from the farms. There is no factory in the United States exclusively engaged in manufacturing buggy whips where there were once many. There are even few plants which manufacture buggies.

The far - sighted McKinley recognized the old means of transportation was on its way out. He told a delegation of wheelmen (bicyclists) that the bicycle age was upon us and promised to help them get good roads. If he had lived a few years longer he would have seen the horseless carriage make good.

William Jennings Bryan made his first radio speech from a Pittsburgh station in 1923. This writer heard it through earphones on a crystal detector set in Washington. A few days later I met Bryan in a Washington hotel.

"I heard your radio speech, Colonel," I said.

"Where were you?" Bryan inquired. I told him.

"Do you mean to tell me you heard me away down here in Washington?" Bryan asked.

Bryan never lived to see the radio play much part in political contests. He told this writer nothing would ever be invented which would take the place of personal appearances of the candidate.

The Republican and Democratic National conventions were broadcast to a limited extent in 1924 and President Coolidge by a telephone link of twenty-two widely separated radio stations made what amounted to a network speech to the nation that year.

Radio was extensively used by both candidates Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Smith called it the "raddio." Franklin D. Roosevelt in campaign speeches as "fireside chats" from the White House made the most effective use of it.

When television sets went into millions of American homes the portion of political party campaign expenses devoted to this means of getting before the people became immense. It will be large next year, but not as large as in either 1952 or 1956, party leaders predict.

There will never again be a campaign for the presidency conducted on a purely domestic issue as the McKinley - Bryan one was. In 1959 there has been much written and said about the visits of presidential candidates Nixon, Stevenson and Humphrey to Russia; of things other presidential hopefuls said to Khrushchev when he was here.

Narcotics Addicts

How To Combat It

Editor's Note: Britain and the United States are poles apart on how best to combat drug addiction. In one country, the addict is a medical case. In the other, he's a criminal.

By BERNARD GAVZER,

LONDON (AP)—When his girl friend walked out on him, Mark decided to kill himself.

The noise in the underground frightened him, so he didn't jump into the path of a train. At the seashore, he was up to his knees in the water, but it was too cold.

"I was too much of a coward to get it all over like that," Mark says, snapping his fingers, "so I decided to kill myself a little bit at a time."

Mark shot himself with a hypodermic needle. Its ammunition —heroin—was strong enough to make him forget his girl. But his new sweetheart—dope—clung to him every minute of every day.

In this way, Mark was no different from any of the thousands of drug addicts in the United States.

But the craving need was about the only thing they have in common. If Mark had taken the same course in New York, instead of London, he would be a criminal. In any American city, he would be hunted by police and always frantically hunting for his next fix. He would be cheated by the pushers and peddlers—the salesmen of the narcotics world. He would be one of the more than 50,000 known American addicts.

Here he is just one of Britain's 441 known men and women who have a sickness known as drug addiction. He deals with a doctor instead of a pusher. No racketeer gets rich off his habit.

The difference between what would happen to Mark in the United States and what does happen to him in the United Kingdom illustrates a significant difference in approach. In the United States it's a criminal problem; in England, a medical one.

Could America solve its drug problem by adopting all or part of the British system?

Yes, says Judge John M. Murtagh, chief magistrate of New York City, voicing a position also held by a special narcotics study committee of the American Bar Assn. and American Medical Assn.

Says the judge, in a recent book:

"No other country in the world has been so sadistic (as the United States) in dealing with addicts. We ought to know by now that no matter how harshly we treat addicts, until there is a fundamental change in federal policy, addiction in this country will not be stamped out because the underworld moguls do not intend to get out of so profitable a business. We should follow England's example."

No, says Harry J. Anslinger, commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics, whose position is supported by many police and law enforcement officials.

"From time to time certain individuals," he has written, "who consider themselves 'experts have publicized their answer to the narcotic problem. They say it is simple. All you have to do is to take the profit out of the traffic, and the problem is solved. When asked how you take the profit out, they say it is also simple—just give the addicts all they want for nothing. They ignore the whole concept of American justice—that man is responsible for his actions and that the wrongdoer should be punished by swift and impartial justice."

Though they are mindful of the argument, British officials artfully dodge it.

"We can state the situation here; it is favorable," says T. C. Green, a slight, fair-haired career man who is head of the Home Office's A-1 Division, which administers narcotics control.

The controlling law is the Dangerous Drugs Act. Like U.S. law it forbids illicit manufacture, sale, possession, importing and exporting of drugs. The Home Office administers it, Scotland Yard and local police outside London enforce it.

It is not illegal to be an addict. There is no registration of addicts, no special clinic, no compulsory requirement that addicts be reported.

"In the United Kingdom the medical treatment of a drug addict is considered to be a matter for the doctor concerned," says Green.

British law provides three conditions under which drugs may properly be given an addict by a doctor: 1—for gradual withdrawal; 2—in cases where complete withdrawal is too severe; 3—where the patient needs a minimum dosage to lead a normal life. There is no such U.S. law.

This setup might make it seem that England is a hophead's heaven. But in practice, when a misfit like Mark decides to jab himself with a needle, it becomes known in Scotland Yard and the Home Office.

"Sure they know about me." says skinny, mustachioed Mark, 35, a sometime street photographer and tie vendor. "My doctor told them about me before he would give me a script (prescription)."

And so Mark's name became known to A. L. Dyke, chief inspector for the Home Office's A-1 Division, and to Sgt. Albert Merson, 36, former RAF pilot who practically alone is the narcotics bureau in the world's second largest city.

"There's not enough to do to occupy the time of a man, let alone a squad," says Merson.

Dyke and Merson draw this composite picture of drug addicts:

There are no known juveniles among them and most are above the age of 30. (Sixth per cent of U.S. addicts are between 21 and 30 and 12 per cent below 21. Federal law provides the death penalty for sale to a juvenile).

Eighty per cent—349 of the 441 known addicts — became hooked through medical treatment for pain of illness or injury. (The same thing occurs in the United States, but experts readily concede that most American addicts become that way through choice.)

The number of addicts in prison for crimes not associated with narcotics is so small figures haven't been kept since 1954. (Criminal activity by U.S. addicts costs victims millions of dollars a year.)

Nearly 17 per cent of the known addicts — 74 — are doctors or are engaged in allied professions. Jazz musicians comprise the next biggest group, but their number is small. (Doctors and jazz musicians are among U.S. junkies, but the ones who keep police busy are largely the nonskilled, poorly educated, untrained products of the big city's depressed areas).

Once an addict is discovered, officially he is of no further concern to Scotland Yard or the Home Office—as long as he gets his narcotics legally.

"It is an offense," says Inspector Dyke," for an addict to obtain drugs by stealing, by forged prescriptions, or by getting supplies from more than one doctor at the same time. Thirty-two persons were convicted of such offenses in 1958."

But what about the addict like Mark who keeps his nose clean and goes regularly to his doctor?

"He tried to cut me down when I began, put me on sort of a diet," Mark says. "I wanted to kill myself, so why should I get less? I needed it every three hours — he insisted on second opinions and called in a psychiatrist and another medic. Twice he did it, and it cost me $114 each time. He was always trying to get me to cut down. All the doctors try to do it."

After three years of addiction, Mark was using 33 grains of heroin a day. The visit to the doctor cost $2.80, and filling the prescription added another $1.75.

An American addict, trying to get the same actual heroin dosage, would have to spend up to $1,000 a day. Because of extensive cutting with milk sugar and quinine, the heroin content in a one-grain shot generally comes to 1½ milligrams. At this rate, a pound of pure heroin—which costs $115 in legal trade — can bring in a retail take of $280,000.

Expressing confidence that England is able to keep an accurate check on all narcotic activities, Inspector Dyke says: "Through regular checkups on all elements handling narcotics — from the manufacturer to the chemist's shops — we are able to readily detect any misuse or abuse. There is no evidence of any organized smuggling of illicit drugs and this is quite understandable. After all, why would international smugglers take the risk of bringing narcotics into a country in which they would have no market?"

There is some concern, however, about smuggling and traffic in Indian hemp—or marijuana, as it is known to Americans. Both the United States and the United Kingdom legally consider it a narcotic, but medically it is not considered addicting.

Marijuana users in England are not listed among the known drug addicts and authorities decline to estimate the number of smokers or extent of the traffic.

Marijuana problems have cropped up notably in London's Notting Hill district, where race riots some time ago produced headlines. Here Scotland Yard's Merson finds himself busiest.

Two New York State officials who made detailed studies in the area concluded that Notting Hill could breed troubles similar to America's.

Dr. Granville W. Larimore, a deputy commissioner of the New York Health Department, and Dr. Henry Brill, assistant commissioner of mental hygiene, reported:

"In this depressed area there is overcrowding and mixing of population groups somewhat reminiscent of New York's Harlem. The possibility suggests itself that the same criminal forces — which traffic in marijuana — could facilitate the introduction and use of narcotics."

Dyke and Merson disagree. They can't envision any combination of circumstances which might create a drop racket that could flourish profitably in Britain's medical-approach atmosphere.

Science and You

Fluoridation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service says a militant minority is blocking chances for a virtual revolution in the health of the American jaw.

The service admittedly is worried about those who oppose fluoridation of water supplies.

Federal watchdogs of the nation's health contend that the anti-fluoridationists are perpetuating tooth decay — "a disease that seriously impairs the nation's health, manpower and economic resources."

Fluoridation involves adding controlled amounts of chemical fluoride to water supplies as a means of preventing a lot of tooth decay in a nation that has:

—97 million people with decayed teeth.

—21 million more with no teeth at all.

—An annual family dental bill of 1.7 billion dollars for just the 40 per cent of people receiving treatment.

The Health Service says it has been proved beyond question that fluoridation can prevent two out of three cavities in growing children, and that the benefits last through life. Also, that the method is absolutely safe.

They say the country could save billions of dollars in dentist bills at an average annual per capita expenditure of only a dime —the cost of a candy bar.

But Health Service scientists say that anti-fluoridationists, mostly laymen, but also some medical men, are blocking progress towards such a goal—often by tactics which play upon the emotions of uninformed people.

OPPOSITION

Opposition arguments range from charges that fluoridation involves exposing people to a "rat poison" to a claim that it is Communist-inspired as a means of weakening the will of the American people.

The Health Service says that since the value of fluoridation was established in the 1940s, more than 42 million Americans in nearly 3,600 communities have become drinkers of fluoridated water, including seven million whose water supplies contain natural fluoride.

But another 118 million get water from community supplies which lack fluoride. Such national health leaders as Secretary of Health and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming and Surgeon General Leroy S. Burney report these factors:

1. There has been a steady decline in the rate of community acceptance of fluoridation. In 1953—the peak year so far—378 communities adopted the system. But in 1958, only 145 places began fluoridation programs.

2. The numbers of communities which discontinued fluoridation has increased.

3. Most of the gain in the program has been in the larger cities, such as Boston, San Francisco, Baltimore and Chicago. New York City is a notable exception.

Sixty per cent of the nation's cities with populations of more than a half million, and 32 per cent of the cities with populations between 10,000 and 500,000 have fluoridation. But it has been adopted in only 17 per cent of those communities with populations between 2,500 and 10,000 and five per cent of those in the under 2,500 category.

Dr. Donald Galagan, assistant chief of the service's dental public health division, says: "The big and medium - sized cities have enough competent people to understand the problem, digest the information that is available and come to a decision.

"The small communities constitute the big problem. There, one person can block the whole bloody business."

One anti-fluoridation leader is Dr. George Waldbott of Detroit, a specialist in treating allergies. He says many persons never suffer ill effects from fluoridation but "another portion is especially susceptible to its poisoning."

He says some of his patients had hives and other allergic symptoms which disappeared when they stopped drinking fluoridated water. He contends the Public Health service disregards "thousands of publications in medical literature dealing with toxic action of fluoridation."

Waldbott adds that the Health Service promoted fluoridation "before studies had been made to prove its safety. It is therefore natural that efforts are now being made to minimize the harm."

Virtually all major health organizations in the country, including the American Dental Assn. and the American Medical Assn., have endorsed fluoridation.

Fluoridation programs also are in operation in communities in Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Egypt, England, Germany, Guatemala, Japan, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Panama, Panama Canal Zone, Peru, Philippines, Scotland and Sweden.

IS ADDED

Fluoride is added to water supplies in concentration of one part for every one million parts of water.

To opponents who say that sodium fluoride is a "rat poison," health officials answer: Sure it is, and a good one at that. But the amount of fluoride needed to kill even a rat is hundreds of times that drunk daily in fluoridated water.

Opponents charge that fluoridation might cause or speed the growth of cancer, do untold damage to the internal organs of adults, make bones brittle, or cause heart trouble.

Just scare talk without any evidence reply advocates of fluoridation.

Galagan says the worst possible physiological effect from fluoridated water would be a severe arthritic condition of the back. But he said that would require long-time drinking of water containing large amounts of natural fluoride.

Opponents charge that fluoridation can cause unsightly mottling or staining of teeth. Only if the natural concentration of fluorides is high enough, reply pro-fluoridationists. They say that in man-controlled fluoridation, there is a slight whitening of the teeth.

Opponents have contended that fluoridation systems would provide a handy outlet for saboteurs, that enemy agents might just turn a valve and flood a city with poisonous fluorides.

The health service replies: To produce a lethal dose of fluoride in the water supply of the city of Pittsburgh, a saboteur would have to dump 70 railroad cars of the chemical into the water system in a day.

Health and Welfare Secretary Flemming, deploring the "militant minority" constituting the opposition, says "I am convinced that fluoridation would be proceeding rapidly if the question were decided on its merits by informed people."

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Culture at the crossroads of northeast Louisiana is dovetailing nicely this season with the final night of Little Theatre's play, "Janus," falling on the same date as the Northeast Concert Series' opening musical concert by the Philharmonia Hungarica Wednesday of this week. Curtain time for both performances has been set at 8:15 p.m. at Selman Field Playhouse and Neville Auditorium respectively.

The opening night performance of "Janus" is treated critically elsewhere in today's Morning World. The Hungarian group coming here Wednesday is a full symphony orchestra of refugee musicians from iron curtain Hungary who are making the United States their home. This same orchestra performed last week in New Orleans as was noted on the billboards when the scales ran down that way to look in on the presentation of "Tannhauser." Richard Tucker, the Chicago Opera Ballet were other attractions coming to the Crescent City which have played in past years to northeast Louisiana audiences on the Community Concerts bill.

TANNHAUSER

Richard Wagner's musical tragedy of a medieval lovepoet who couldn't decide whether to woo liberally or legitimately opened the operatic season down New Orleans way. The work ran twice to capacity audiences and brought cheers both nights when the final curtain went down.

This in itself denotes accomplishment in a civic as well as musical sense. While this big German opera of the 19th century requires four or five principal solo voices, who were guest professionals, the orchestra, choral ensembles and ballet all had to be recruited and drilled locally.

The orchestra under the leadership of Renato Cellini was outstanding in the handling of the Wagnerian score pointing up the subtleties as well as the more rousing passages. The pit of any opera house including New York's Metropolitan would have been proud of such a performance of this complicated score.

The many off - stage choral effects were well timed in situations where a missed cue would have disrupted proceedings onstage. It might be said the chorus, orchestral and stage art work in Act II where the townspeople gather at the singing tournament was worth this scale - runner's trip from Monroe to the Crescent City.

Elissa Minet Fuchs' opening ballet in the Venusberg showed first rate choreography and costuming. It was an effective beginning for the opera even though ballet dancers are becoming harder to find — apparently everywhere.

It is no wonder that Wagner suffered agony in trying to produce his early operas. Tannhauser — as did also some of the preceding works —calls for two leading women who vie for the same hero in a love triangle. An all-out hair - pulling and scratching backstage prevented the first curtain from ever going up in "Das Liebesverbot," back in the 1830's.

SOLOISTS

But with more than a century put away since those hectic days, sopranos have learned to confine their competition to the singing and forget the fighting. In the New Orleans opera of last week, Blanche Thebom as Venus and Aase Loevberg as Elizabeth managed to contribute their radiance as co-stars without counting one another's curtain calls. Both were in excellent voice and lived up to and beyond all expectations vocally and dramatically.

Howard Vandenburg who in the title role had the most demanding part in the production did his best work in the last act as a tattered, exhausted pilgrim from Rome.

The only notable shortcoming to the New Orleans opener was — with the exception of the two lead women — a failure to bring the dramatic power of the story into being. Examples of this were Tannhauser's reunion with his friends in Act I, his condemnation in Act II, and the death scene in the final act. While these were musically good, they resembled the standing choral work of the oratario rather than what should have been realized from a Wagnerian music drama.

Also the heavy demands of the part of Tannhausers' fellow member of the Minnesinger's union — Wolfram von Eschenbach — proved too much for the baritone who sang the role in the second performance, in this writer's opinion.

On the other hand, there were outstanding voices among the smaller roles: Herbert Beattie, who took the part of the Landgrave and Betty Monette White who sang the shepherd's aria at the opening of the second scene of Act I.

The spirit and hard work which went into so difficult an opera to open the New Orleans season practically guarantee subsequent successes. The next presentation slated is the French opera, "Lakme," by Leo Delibes, scheduled for October 22 and 24. Reservations are available at the New Orleans Opera Association, 420 St. Charles Ave.

It is apparent the Crescent City is in the running for top rung opera again. This is as it should be. After all, the city has a tradition for the art of the musical stage which reaches beyond its fame for jazz and should be on par with its art of the kitchen and coffee pot.

Different Tolstoy Still War, Peace

PETER THE FIRST By Alexey Tolstoy. Translated from Russian by Tatiana Shebunia. Macmillan. $5.95.

In the latter years of the 17th Century, the Russia of Tsar Alex is, lagging shamefully behind the countries of Western Europe, was a barbarian state, its wretched resources milked by an ignorant church and a mob of selfish and reactionary boyars.

By his two wives Alexis left several children. Feodor III ruled till his early death, and then feeble - minded Ivan and the seven - foot giant Peter were rivals for the succession. Despite the machinations of the sister Sophia and her supporters the Miloslavskys, Peter assumed office — and that's where we first see him in this seven - foot giant novel which runs to almost 800 pages. It sweeps us on into the 18th Century when Peter has bested Charles XII of Sweden and, in the course of a skirmish, picked up a soldier's widow, the Catherine who will become empress.

Tolstoy, no relation of the Tolstoy of "War and Peace," still writes about war and peace. His subject is the 18th Century modernization of Russia; and he has written it during the 20th Century modernization under the Communists, who singled out this Peter as one of the few tsars worthy as a predecessor of their state.

The major incidents are the failure and then the success of the attacks on the Turks, and the failure and success in the mortal conflict with the superb military genius Charles. But running through it all is the heroic theme of the regeneration of a people. We see the savage civilized; riches created out of want, an army formed from peasants, and the Asiatic Europeanized. Tolstoy paints a vivid picture in lurid and sometimes unbearably scintillating color: The coffin of an ancient foe is dragged through Moscow streets by a team of hogs; 230 streltsi are hanged and 330 beheaded by the clumsy blows of inept boyar executioners; the great tsar goes on fearful drunken debauches; the first assault on Narva, out beyond Kronstadt, is a bloody disaster; there are knout, whip, rack and wheel. There are, too, lighter moments — Peter with Annchen, Peter with Catherine; and also scenes of the mighty effort of a country to lift itself by its own bootstraps: Peter the carpenter, the gunsmith, the student of logistics.

This novel, on which Tolstoy worked his last 40 years, has sold two million copies in Russia, the publisher says. Its political content brought about its success there. It could recruit an army of readers here, too, with its vast scope, its rude fighting men, its unbridled passions and barbarities, and its blinding romantic gloss.

REALIZES AMBITION

Plummer, who has scored several Broadway successes, is to have the title assignment in Tyrone Guthrie's modern - dress version of "Hamlet," due for spring presentation.

The Canadian - born actor's most recent role here was the devil in "J. B." During the play run Plummer told interviewers that a role he had long wanted to play was the melancholy Dane.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Good books continue to arrive at the Ouachita Parish Public Library every week. There are books to appeal to every reading taste. Daphne Du Maurier is one of the most popular of modern day writers. Her latest book is called "The breaking point." It is a collection of short stories, each one dealing with the moment in life when emotion or reason reaches the point of tension beyond which something snaps. Daphne Du Maurier's peerless craftmanship, her eerie sense of the macabre and her gift for sheer story telling come to full fruition in this collection. "Stay loose" by Bud Nye is the story of a ball club and is especially timely when everyone is interested in the World series. George Sessions Perry is one of the best writers about the Southwest and he has a new edition of two of his best stories. It included "Walls rise up and "Hold autumn in your hand."

Paul Wellman's new book is called "The fiery flower". It has it's setting on a Pacific Island and is quite different from his other books. It is a strange book, but an absorbing one and will appeal to many readers. "A fever in the blood" is the title of a new book by William Pearson. It is concerned with gubernatorial race and a crusading D.A.. It is published by St. Martin's press, who published "Anatomy of a murder" and they predict that it will be just as popular. A new mystery by Doris Miles Disney is always welcome and her latest title is "No next of kin." Her readers will want it.

The field of non - fiction offers material for a variety of readers. "American economic history" by Donald L. Kemmerer is a basic book, which will be of great value to students. A new book on the subject of juvenile delinquency is "The wasted years" by Jess Stearn. Mr. Stearn puts the blame in most cases on the failure of parents. This is a thoughtful book and a frightening one. An interesting book of crafts is "56 graded problems in elementary sheet metalwork." This book would be especially valuable to a shop teacher. A very new book in the field of science is "Electron physics and technology" by John Thomson and E. B. Callick. In the field of physical geography a lovely and interesting book is "This sculptured earth" by John A. Shimer. Nature lovers will want to read "Thousand acre marsh" by Dudley Cammett Lunt and "The river world - wild life of the Mississippi" by Virginia Eifert.

"A little widow is a dangerous thing" by Helen Hastings deals with the experience of a widow in running 500 head of cattle, holding a secretarial job and running a ranch in the flatlands of Florida. It is interestingly written and will appeal to men as well as women. ... Cookbooks are always popular and this week we have "Good cooking" by Nicholas Roosevelt. A book which fills a definite gap in our collection is "Finishing materials and methods" by George Soderberg. This book tells about different types of paints and other finishes. It will be widely used. "From baroque to rococo" by Nicholas Powell is a beautifully illustrated book, dealing with the history of Austrian and German architecture. There is much interest in this community in ceramics and we are happy to have a new book on this subject by Roy A. Vincents, called "Ceramics: an illustrated guide to creating and enjoying pottery.

The new biographies are "Alexander Hamilton" by John C. Miller and "Mohawk baronet" by James Thomas Flexner. The latter one deals with the life of Sir William Johnson of New York, one of the most colorful figures of colonial history.

A very popular section of the library is the genealogy section and we have a number of new books for this section. One is "Magna Charte sureties" by Arthur Adams. Another is the Albemarle Parish Register of Surry and Sussex Counties, Virginia compiled by John B. Boddie. Mr. Boddie is also the author of historical Southern families, volume I and volume 2. Sir Thomas Innes is the author of a beautiful book of "Scots Heraldry" "Historical Register of Virginians in the Revolution" by John H. Gwathme is invaluable in it's field. Contributing a great deal to the knowledge of our own state is "Old Louisiana Plantation homes and family trees" by Herman Seebold in two volumes. The books in this section are reference books and do not leave the library, but anyone is free to come here to consult them.

John Paul Jones, A Fighting Sailor

America's foremost naval historian has taken time out from writing his monumental account of World War II naval operations to tell in sometimes overpowering detail the story of America's foremost naval hero.

A rough, tough sailor, he was also a ladies' man who knew his way about the boudoirs of Paris. An adroit officer of outstanding seamanship, he managed to embroil himself in arguments on shore with nearly everyone he had business with. A poor boy, he became a distinguished captain and a French chevalier through his own unaided efforts, after first doing all right as a merchantman's captain.

While taking up the sword for liberty, he drew it finally in the service of Europe's greatest despot, Catherine of Russia, while claiming indifference to wealth and position, he fought tooth and nail for every dollar due him and for every bit of recognition. And, while deeply concerned with the welfare of his crews, he never gained popularity with them.

"Yet first and always," Morison writes, "Paul Jones was a fighting sailor. In the history of the United States Navy, whose rise to be the greatest navy in the world he desired and foretold, Paul Jones now occupies a place comparable only with that of Nelson in the Royal Navy of Great Britain. And, although he never had Nelson's opportunities for fame, I have no doubt that, given them, he would have proved himself to be a great naval tactician and strategist. In the board-to-board, hand-to-hand sea fights in which he did engage, he was without a peer."

LITTLE THEATRE

"Janus" opened on Friday night to a capacity audience. Jo Brian plays the lead, supported by Margaret Fryant, Dr. Ed Brown, J. P. Dalyrimple and W. J. (Bill) Haddad. This is sophisticated comedy at it's best. See next week's column for more about the play. Remember that it runs three nights next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. If you have not seen it, the box office is open every day from 2:00 until 7:00 for reservations. If you have not purchased a season ticket, you can get one at the box office or by calling any Little Theatre Board member or Jean Hamilton or Myrtle Carter. This play is well worth seeing and it would be too bad to miss it. Marie Dell Horuff is in charge of properties and costume changes for "Janus" and is doing a wonderful job.

We have mentioned things which Ivan needed for the production of "Janus" and want to thank the many people who helped him with his props. Mrs. L. J. Hart was most generous in lending Victorian draperies and Mrs. Clyde Cheeks really made a fine contribution with the loan of an antique chandelier. Joanne Genung is responsible for the stereophonic sound which plays such an important part in the play. Visitors to one of the last rehearsals of "Janus" were Jimmy Leverette, Ed Anders, Pat Medaries and John Hogan.

Carrie Dee Drew and Harriet Boyle who had an exciting trip to Chicago and Wisconsin in August attended performances at two summer theatres. One was in the Wisconsin Dells and the other was in a converted barn just outside Chicago. Both of the performances were outstanding and they enjoyed the experience.

Good news has been received from the building committee. They expect the plans to be completed before November first, which means that work should begin very soon. Ivan tells me that an outstanding consultant has worked with the architect and the committee to incorporate all of the necessary features.

Watch for the announcement of rehearsal dates for "Caine Mutiny Court Martial." This is a play which will need 27 men. If you want to act, this is your opportunity for expression. Your Little Theatre needs you and you need it.

Remember that Janus will run for three more days, if you have not seen it, it is not too late and we can guarantee you an evening of pleasure.

Boo For You

THE HAUNTING OF HILL HOUSE. By Shirley Jackson. Viking. $3.95.

Way off in the hills at the end of a lonely road behind a locked gate stands Hill House. Eighty years old, the sprawling place with a tower, countless rooms disposed skewgee, and doors upon doors upon doors, has been the scene of several deaths. The scared people in the nearby villag avoid it like a nighttime graveyard.

Dr. Montague, student of ghosts and their goings-on, rents the building, invites a young man and two girls to stay with him and try to catch a spook. They are Luke, heir to the property, and Theodora and Eleanor, both with some psychic experiences. They will be joined by Mrs. Montague and a friend who work a planchette in anticipation of messages from the spirit world.

A surly pair of caretakers gets this odd houseparty off to a creepy start, and then in the quiet of the night the gremlins come banging down, thumping deafeningly on the walls and then softly, murderously feeling along them with their fingertips. Doors close with no one to close them, deadly cold drafts blow with no place to blow from, mysterious presences flutter by unseen.

Miss Jackson isn't saying right out that she believes in ghosts, but she does say: People who are bound to see ghosts see them, and what they think they see can hurt them. As between her children, about whom she has written, and her ghosts, I prefer, literally, the ghosts, and the loudest and most terrifying boo uttered in contemporary fiction was sounded in her short story, "The Lottery." This new novel gives you some queasy moments, but the climax, a subdued book, is not one of them. The conjure doesn't quite work, I don't get scared in the dark.

Town Burning Back In The Old Home City

TOWN BURNING. By Thomas Williams. Macmillan. $4.50.

John Cotter comes back to his home town. Providing a definition at which even Robert Frost might not cavil, Jane says of his birthplace that she'd expect it "would be where you knew what to do."

But it's the one place where he does not know what to do. He knew in the Army, he knew in Paris where he lived on GI Bill of Rights grants. But he does not know back in the community where his brother boiled with hate, his father and mother were misunderstood, his boyhood playmates beat him up, and even Jane who had professed her love married Mike instead.

John grows up in this novel, though the story turns more melodramatic than it needs to, it seems, to prove it. But it abounds in the excellent flashes of observations, such as Mike's father stopping his car to weep, the flower pots set in saucers, or the clink of overshoe buckles, which remind us of this author's discerning first novel. "Ceremony of Love." These little things are the stuff of life.

How To Combat It

Editor's Note: Britain and the United States are poles apart on how best to combat drug addiction. In one country, the addict is a medical case. In the other, he's a criminal.

By BERNARD GAVZER,

LONDON (AP)—When his girl friend walked out on him, Mark decided to kill himself.

The noise in the underground frightened him, so he didn't jump into the path of a train. At the seashore, he was up to his knees in the water, but it was too cold.

"I was too much of a coward to get it all over like that," Mark says, snapping his fingers, "so I decided to kill myself a little bit at a time."

Mark shot himself with a hypodermic needle. Its ammunition —heroin—was strong enough to make him forget his girl. But his new sweetheart—dope—clung to him every minute of every day.

In this way, Mark was no different from any of the thousands of drug addicts in the United States.

But the craving need was about the only thing they have in common. If Mark had taken the same course in New York, instead of London, he would be a criminal. In any American city, he would be hunted by police and always frantically hunting for his next fix. He would be cheated by the pushers and peddlers—the salesmen of the narcotics world. He would be one of the more than 50,000 known American addicts.

Here he is just one of Britain's 441 known men and women who have a sickness known as drug addiction. He deals with a doctor instead of a pusher. No racketeer gets rich off his habit.

The difference between what would happen to Mark in the United States and what does happen to him in the United Kingdom illustrates a significant difference in approach. In the United States it's a criminal problem; in England, a medical one.

Could America solve its drug problem by adopting all or part of the British system?

Yes, says Judge John M. Murtagh, chief magistrate of New York City, voicing a position also held by a special narcotics study committee of the American Bar Assn. and American Medical Assn.

Says the judge, in a recent book:

"No other country in the world has been so sadistic (as the United States) in dealing with addicts. We ought to know by now that no matter how harshly we treat addicts, until there is a fundamental change in federal policy, addiction in this country will not be stamped out because the underworld moguls do not intend to get out of so profitable a business. We should follow England's example."

No, says Harry J. Anslinger, commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics, whose position is supported by many police and law enforcement officials.

"From time to time certain individuals," he has written, "who consider themselves 'experts have publicized their answer to the narcotic problem. They say it is simple. All you have to do is to take the profit out of the traffic, and the problem is solved. When asked how you take the profit out, they say it is also simple—just give the addicts all they want for nothing. They ignore the whole concept of American justice—that man is responsible for his actions and that the wrongdoer should be punished by swift and impartial justice."

Though they are mindful of the argument, British officials artfully dodge it.

"We can state the situation here; it is favorable," says T. C. Green, a slight, fair-haired career man who is head of the Home Office's A-1 Division, which administers narcotics control.

The controlling law is the Dangerous Drugs Act. Like U.S. law it forbids illicit manufacture, sale, possession, importing and exporting of drugs. The Home Office administers it, Scotland Yard and local police outside London enforce it.

It is not illegal to be an addict. There is no registration of addicts, no special clinic, no compulsory requirement that addicts be reported.

"In the United Kingdom the medical treatment of a drug addict is considered to be a matter for the doctor concerned," says Green.

British law provides three conditions under which drugs may properly be given an addict by a doctor: 1—for gradual withdrawal; 2—in cases where complete withdrawal is too severe; 3—where the patient needs a minimum dosage to lead a normal life. There is no such U.S. law.

This setup might make it seem that England is a hophead's heaven. But in practice, when a misfit like Mark decides to jab himself with a needle, it becomes known in Scotland Yard and the Home Office.

"Sure they know about me." says skinny, mustachioed Mark, 35, a sometime street photographer and tie vendor. "My doctor told them about me before he would give me a script (prescription)."

And so Mark's name became known to A. L. Dyke, chief inspector for the Home Office's A-1 Division, and to Sgt. Albert Merson, 36, former RAF pilot who practically alone is the narcotics bureau in the world's second largest city.

"There's not enough to do to occupy the time of a man, let alone a squad," says Merson.

Dyke and Merson draw this composite picture of drug addicts:

There are no known juveniles among them and most are above the age of 30. (Sixth per cent of U.S. addicts are between 21 and 30 and 12 per cent below 21. Federal law provides the death penalty for sale to a juvenile).

Eighty per cent—349 of the 441 known addicts — became hooked through medical treatment for pain of illness or injury. (The same thing occurs in the United States, but experts readily concede that most American addicts become that way through choice.)

The number of addicts in prison for crimes not associated with narcotics is so small figures haven't been kept since 1954. (Criminal activity by U.S. addicts costs victims millions of dollars a year.)

Nearly 17 per cent of the known addicts — 74 — are doctors or are engaged in allied professions. Jazz musicians comprise the next biggest group, but their number is small. (Doctors and jazz musicians are among U.S. junkies, but the ones who keep police busy are largely the nonskilled, poorly educated, untrained products of the big city's depressed areas).

Once an addict is discovered, officially he is of no further concern to Scotland Yard or the Home Office—as long as he gets his narcotics legally.

"It is an offense," says Inspector Dyke," for an addict to obtain drugs by stealing, by forged prescriptions, or by getting supplies from more than one doctor at the same time. Thirty-two persons were convicted of such offenses in 1958."

But what about the addict like Mark who keeps his nose clean and goes regularly to his doctor?

"He tried to cut me down when I began, put me on sort of a diet," Mark says. "I wanted to kill myself, so why should I get less? I needed it every three hours — he insisted on second opinions and called in a psychiatrist and another medic. Twice he did it, and it cost me $114 each time. He was always trying to get me to cut down. All the doctors try to do it."

After three years of addiction, Mark was using 33 grains of heroin a day. The visit to the doctor cost $2.80, and filling the prescription added another $1.75.

An American addict, trying to get the same actual heroin dosage, would have to spend up to $1,000 a day. Because of extensive cutting with milk sugar and quinine, the heroin content in a one-grain shot generally comes to 1½ milligrams. At this rate, a pound of pure heroin—which costs $115 in legal trade — can bring in a retail take of $280,000.

Expressing confidence that England is able to keep an accurate check on all narcotic activities, Inspector Dyke says: "Through regular checkups on all elements handling narcotics — from the manufacturer to the chemist's shops — we are able to readily detect any misuse or abuse. There is no evidence of any organized smuggling of illicit drugs and this is quite understandable. After all, why would international smugglers take the risk of bringing narcotics into a country in which they would have no market?"

There is some concern, however, about smuggling and traffic in Indian hemp—or marijuana, as it is known to Americans. Both the United States and the United Kingdom legally consider it a narcotic, but medically it is not considered addicting.

Marijuana users in England are not listed among the known drug addicts and authorities decline to estimate the number of smokers or extent of the traffic.

Marijuana problems have cropped up notably in London's Notting Hill district, where race riots some time ago produced headlines. Here Scotland Yard's Merson finds himself busiest.

Two New York State officials who made detailed studies in the area concluded that Notting Hill could breed troubles similar to America's.

Dr. Granville W. Larimore, a deputy commissioner of the New York Health Department, and Dr. Henry Brill, assistant commissioner of mental hygiene, reported:

"In this depressed area there is overcrowding and mixing of population groups somewhat reminiscent of New York's Harlem. The possibility suggests itself that the same criminal forces — which traffic in marijuana — could facilitate the introduction and use of narcotics."

Dyke and Merson disagree. They can't envision any combination of circumstances which might create a drop racket that could flourish profitably in Britain's medical-approach atmosphere.

Fluoridation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service says a militant minority is blocking chances for a virtual revolution in the health of the American jaw.

The service admittedly is worried about those who oppose fluoridation of water supplies.

Federal watchdogs of the nation's health contend that the anti-fluoridationists are perpetuating tooth decay — "a disease that seriously impairs the nation's health, manpower and economic resources."

Fluoridation involves adding controlled amounts of chemical fluoride to water supplies as a means of preventing a lot of tooth decay in a nation that has:

—97 million people with decayed teeth.

—An annual family dental bill of 1.7 billion dollars for just the 40 per cent of people receiving treatment.

The Health Service says it has been proved beyond question that fluoridation can prevent two out of three cavities in growing children, and that the benefits last through life. Also, that the method is absolutely safe.

They say the country could save billions of dollars in dentist bills at an average annual per capita expenditure of only a dime —the cost of a candy bar.

But Health Service scientists say that anti-fluoridationists, mostly laymen, but also some medical men, are blocking progress towards such a goal—often by tactics which play upon the emotions of uninformed people.

OPPOSITION

Opposition arguments range from charges that fluoridation involves exposing people to a "rat poison" to a claim that it is Communist-inspired as a means of weakening the will of the American people.

The Health Service says that since the value of fluoridation was established in the 1940s, more than 42 million Americans in nearly 3,600 communities have become drinkers of fluoridated water, including seven million whose water supplies contain natural fluoride.

But another 118 million get water from community supplies which lack fluoride. Such national health leaders as Secretary of Health and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming and Surgeon General Leroy S. Burney report these factors:

1. There has been a steady decline in the rate of community acceptance of fluoridation. In 1953—the peak year so far—378 communities adopted the system. But in 1958, only 145 places began fluoridation programs.

2. The numbers of communities which discontinued fluoridation has increased.

3. Most of the gain in the program has been in the larger cities, such as Boston, San Francisco, Baltimore and Chicago. New York City is a notable exception.

Sixty per cent of the nation's cities with populations of more than a half million, and 32 per cent of the cities with populations between 10,000 and 500,000 have fluoridation. But it has been adopted in only 17 per cent of those communities with populations between 2,500 and 10,000 and five per cent of those in the under 2,500 category.

Dr. Donald Galagan, assistant chief of the service's dental public health division, says: "The big and medium - sized cities have enough competent people to understand the problem, digest the information that is available and come to a decision.

"The small communities constitute the big problem. There, one person can block the whole bloody business."

One anti-fluoridation leader is Dr. George Waldbott of Detroit, a specialist in treating allergies. He says many persons never suffer ill effects from fluoridation but "another portion is especially susceptible to its poisoning."

He says some of his patients had hives and other allergic symptoms which disappeared when they stopped drinking fluoridated water. He contends the Public Health service disregards "thousands of publications in medical literature dealing with toxic action of fluoridation."

Waldbott adds that the Health Service promoted fluoridation "before studies had been made to prove its safety. It is therefore natural that efforts are now being made to minimize the harm."

Virtually all major health organizations in the country, including the American Dental Assn. and the American Medical Assn., have endorsed fluoridation.

Fluoridation programs also are in operation in communities in Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Egypt, England, Germany, Guatemala, Japan, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Panama, Panama Canal Zone, Peru, Philippines, Scotland and Sweden.

IS ADDED

To opponents who say that sodium fluoride is a "rat poison," health officials answer: Sure it is, and a good one at that. But the amount of fluoride needed to kill even a rat is hundreds of times that drunk daily in fluoridated water.

Opponents charge that fluoridation might cause or speed the growth of cancer, do untold damage to the internal organs of adults, make bones brittle, or cause heart trouble.

Just scare talk without any evidence reply advocates of fluoridation.

Galagan says the worst possible physiological effect from fluoridated water would be a severe arthritic condition of the back. But he said that would require long-time drinking of water containing large amounts of natural fluoride.

Opponents charge that fluoridation can cause unsightly mottling or staining of teeth. Only if the natural concentration of fluorides is high enough, reply pro-fluoridationists. They say that in man-controlled fluoridation, there is a slight whitening of the teeth.

Opponents have contended that fluoridation systems would provide a handy outlet for saboteurs, that enemy agents might just turn a valve and flood a city with poisonous fluorides.

The health service replies: To produce a lethal dose of fluoride in the water supply of the city of Pittsburgh, a saboteur would have to dump 70 railroad cars of the chemical into the water system in a day.

Health and Welfare Secretary Flemming, deploring the "militant minority" constituting the opposition, says "I am convinced that fluoridation would be proceeding rapidly if the question were decided on its merits by informed people."

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Culture at the crossroads of northeast Louisiana is dovetailing nicely this season with the final night of Little Theatre's play, "Janus," falling on the same date as the Northeast Concert Series' opening musical concert by the Philharmonia Hungarica Wednesday of this week. Curtain time for both performances has been set at 8:15 p.m. at Selman Field Playhouse and Neville Auditorium respectively.

The opening night performance of "Janus" is treated critically elsewhere in today's Morning World. The Hungarian group coming here Wednesday is a full symphony orchestra of refugee musicians from iron curtain Hungary who are making the United States their home. This same orchestra performed last week in New Orleans as was noted on the billboards when the scales ran down that way to look in on the presentation of "Tannhauser." Richard Tucker, the Chicago Opera Ballet were other attractions coming to the Crescent City which have played in past years to northeast Louisiana audiences on the Community Concerts bill.

TANNHAUSER

Richard Wagner's musical tragedy of a medieval lovepoet who couldn't decide whether to woo liberally or legitimately opened the operatic season down New Orleans way. The work ran twice to capacity audiences and brought cheers both nights when the final curtain went down.

This in itself denotes accomplishment in a civic as well as musical sense. While this big German opera of the 19th century requires four or five principal solo voices, who were guest professionals, the orchestra, choral ensembles and ballet all had to be recruited and drilled locally.

The orchestra under the leadership of Renato Cellini was outstanding in the handling of the Wagnerian score pointing up the subtleties as well as the more rousing passages. The pit of any opera house including New York's Metropolitan would have been proud of such a performance of this complicated score.

The many off - stage choral effects were well timed in situations where a missed cue would have disrupted proceedings onstage. It might be said the chorus, orchestral and stage art work in Act II where the townspeople gather at the singing tournament was worth this scale - runner's trip from Monroe to the Crescent City.

Elissa Minet Fuchs' opening ballet in the Venusberg showed first rate choreography and costuming. It was an effective beginning for the opera even though ballet dancers are becoming harder to find — apparently everywhere.

It is no wonder that Wagner suffered agony in trying to produce his early operas. Tannhauser — as did also some of the preceding works —calls for two leading women who vie for the same hero in a love triangle. An all-out hair - pulling and scratching backstage prevented the first curtain from ever going up in "Das Liebesverbot," back in the 1830's.

SOLOISTS

But with more than a century put away since those hectic days, sopranos have learned to confine their competition to the singing and forget the fighting. In the New Orleans opera of last week, Blanche Thebom as Venus and Aase Loevberg as Elizabeth managed to contribute their radiance as co-stars without counting one another's curtain calls. Both were in excellent voice and lived up to and beyond all expectations vocally and dramatically.

Howard Vandenburg who in the title role had the most demanding part in the production did his best work in the last act as a tattered, exhausted pilgrim from Rome.

The only notable shortcoming to the New Orleans opener was — with the exception of the two lead women — a failure to bring the dramatic power of the story into being. Examples of this were Tannhauser's reunion with his friends in Act I, his condemnation in Act II, and the death scene in the final act. While these were musically good, they resembled the standing choral work of the oratario rather than what should have been realized from a Wagnerian music drama.

Also the heavy demands of the part of Tannhausers' fellow member of the Minnesinger's union — Wolfram von Eschenbach — proved too much for the baritone who sang the role in the second performance, in this writer's opinion.

On the other hand, there were outstanding voices among the smaller roles: Herbert Beattie, who took the part of the Landgrave and Betty Monette White who sang the shepherd's aria at the opening of the second scene of Act I.

The spirit and hard work which went into so difficult an opera to open the New Orleans season practically guarantee subsequent successes. The next presentation slated is the French opera, "Lakme," by Leo Delibes, scheduled for October 22 and 24. Reservations are available at the New Orleans Opera Association, 420 St. Charles Ave.

It is apparent the Crescent City is in the running for top rung opera again. This is as it should be. After all, the city has a tradition for the art of the musical stage which reaches beyond its fame for jazz and should be on par with its art of the kitchen and coffee pot.

Different Tolstoy Still War, Peace

PETER THE FIRST By Alexey Tolstoy. Translated from Russian by Tatiana Shebunia. Macmillan. $5.95.

In the latter years of the 17th Century, the Russia of Tsar Alex is, lagging shamefully behind the countries of Western Europe, was a barbarian state, its wretched resources milked by an ignorant church and a mob of selfish and reactionary boyars.

By his two wives Alexis left several children. Feodor III ruled till his early death, and then feeble - minded Ivan and the seven - foot giant Peter were rivals for the succession. Despite the machinations of the sister Sophia and her supporters the Miloslavskys, Peter assumed office — and that's where we first see him in this seven - foot giant novel which runs to almost 800 pages. It sweeps us on into the 18th Century when Peter has bested Charles XII of Sweden and, in the course of a skirmish, picked up a soldier's widow, the Catherine who will become empress.

Tolstoy, no relation of the Tolstoy of "War and Peace," still writes about war and peace. His subject is the 18th Century modernization of Russia; and he has written it during the 20th Century modernization under the Communists, who singled out this Peter as one of the few tsars worthy as a predecessor of their state.

The major incidents are the failure and then the success of the attacks on the Turks, and the failure and success in the mortal conflict with the superb military genius Charles. But running through it all is the heroic theme of the regeneration of a people. We see the savage civilized; riches created out of want, an army formed from peasants, and the Asiatic Europeanized. Tolstoy paints a vivid picture in lurid and sometimes unbearably scintillating color: The coffin of an ancient foe is dragged through Moscow streets by a team of hogs; 230 streltsi are hanged and 330 beheaded by the clumsy blows of inept boyar executioners; the great tsar goes on fearful drunken debauches; the first assault on Narva, out beyond Kronstadt, is a bloody disaster; there are knout, whip, rack and wheel. There are, too, lighter moments — Peter with Annchen, Peter with Catherine; and also scenes of the mighty effort of a country to lift itself by its own bootstraps: Peter the carpenter, the gunsmith, the student of logistics.

This novel, on which Tolstoy worked his last 40 years, has sold two million copies in Russia, the publisher says. Its political content brought about its success there. It could recruit an army of readers here, too, with its vast scope, its rude fighting men, its unbridled passions and barbarities, anl its blinding romantic gloss.

REALIZES AMBITION

Plummer, who has scored several Broadway successes, is to have the title assignment in Tyrone Guthrie's modern - dress version of "Hamlet," due for spring presentation.

The Canadian - born actor's most recent role here was the devil in "J. B." During the play run Plummer told interviewers that a role he had long wanted to play was the melancholy Dane.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Good books continue to arrive at the Ouachita Parish Public Library every week. There are books to appeal to every reading taste. Daphne Du Maurier is one of the most popular of modern day writers. Her latest book is called "The breaking point." It is a collection of short stories, each one dealing with the moment in life when emotion or reason reaches the point of tension beyond which something snaps. Daphne Du Maurier's peerless craftmanship, her eerie sense of the macabre and her gift for sheer story telling come to full fruition in this collection. "Stay loose" by Bud Nye is the story of a ball club and is especially timely when everyone is interested in the World series. George Sessions Perry is one of the best writers about the Southwest and he has a new edition of two of his best stories. It included "Walls rise up and "Hold autumn in your hand."

Paul Wellman's new book is called "The fiery flower". It has it's setting on a Pacific Island and is quite different from his other books. It is a strange book, but an absorbing one and will appeal to many readers. "A fever in the blood" is the title of a new book by William Pearson. It is concerned with gubernatorial race and a crusading D.A.. It is published by St. Martin's press, who published "Anatomy of a murder" and they predict that it will be just as popular. A new mystery by Doris Miles Disney is always welcome and her latest title is "No next of kin." Her readers will want it.

The field of non - fiction offers material for a variety of readers. "American economic history" by Donald L. Kemmerer is a basic book, which will be of great value to students. A new book on the subject of juvenile delinquency is "The wasted years" by Jess Stearn. Mr. Stearn puts the blame in most cases on the failure of parents. This is a thoughtful book and a frightening one. An interesting book of crafts is "56 graded problems in elementary sheet metalwork." This book would be especially valuable to a shop teacher. A very new book in the field of science is "Electron physics and technology" by John Thomson and E. B. Callick. In the field of physical geography a lovely and interesting book is "This sculptured earth" by John A. Shimer. Nature lovers will want to read "Thousand acre marsh" by Dudley Cammett Lunt and "The river world - wild life of the Mississippi" by Virginia Eifert.

"A little widow is a dangerous thing" by Helen Hastings deals with the experience of a widow in running 500 head of cattle, holding a secretarial job and running a ranch in the flatlands of Florida. It is interestingly written and will appeal to men as well as women. ... Cookbooks are always popular and this week we have "Good cooking" by Nicholas Roosevelt. A book which fills a definite gap in our collection is "Finishing materials and methods" by George Soderberg. This book tells about different types of paints and other finishes. It will be widely used. "From baroque to rococo" by Nicholas Powell is a beautifully illustrated book, dealing with the history of Austrian and German architecture. There is much interest in this community in ceramics and we are happy to have a new book on this subject by Roy A. Vincents, called "Ceramics; an illustrated guide to creating and enjoying pottery.

A very popular section of the library is the genealogy section and we have a number of new books for this section. One is "Magna Charte sureties" by Arthur Adams. Another is the Albemarle Parish Register of Surry and Sussex Counties, Virginia compiled by John B. Boddie. Mr. Boddie is also the author of historical Southern families, volume I and volume 2. Sir Thomas Innes is the author of a beautiful book of "Scots Heraldry" "Historical Register of Virginians in the Revolution" by John H. Gwathme is invaluable in it's field. Contributing a great deal to the knowledge of our own state is "Old Louisiana Plantation homes and family trees" by Herman Seebold in two volumes. The books in this section are reference books and do not leave the library, but anyone is free to come here to consult them.

John Paul Jones, A Fighting Sailor

America's foremost naval historian has taken time out from writing his monumental account of World War II naval operations to tell in sometimes overpowering detail the story of America's foremost naval hero.

A rough, tough sailor, he was also a ladies' man who knew his way about the boudoirs of Paris. An adroit officer of outstanding seamanship, he managed to embroil himself in arguments on shore with nearly everyone he had business with. A poor boy, he became a distinguished captain and a French chevalier through his own unaided efforts, after first doing all right as a merchantman's captain.

While taking up the sword for liberty, he drew it finally in the service of Europe's greatest despot, Catherine of Russia, while claiming indifference to wealth and position, he fought tooth and nail for every dollar due him and for every bit of recognition. And, while deeply concerned with the welfare of his crews, he never gained popularity with them.

"Yet first and always," Morison writes, "Paul Jones was a fighting sailor. In the history of the United States Navy, whose rise to be the greatest navy in the world he desired and foretold, Paul Jones now occupies a place comparable only with that of Nelson in the Royal Navy of Great Britain. And, although he never had Nelson's opportunities for fame, I have no doubt that, given them, he would have proved himself to be a great naval tactician and strategist. In the board-to-board, hand-to-hand sea fights in which he did engage, he was without a peer."

LITTLE THEATRE

"Janus" opened on Friday night to a capacity audience. Jo Brian plays the lead, supported by Margaret Fryant, Dr. Ed Brown, J. P. Dalyrimple and W. J. (Bill) Haddad. This is sophisticated comedy at it's best. See next week's column for more about the play. Remember that it runs three nights next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. If you have not seen it, the box office is open every day from 2:00 until 7:00 for reservations. If you have not purchased a season ticket, you can get one at the box office or by calling any Little Theatre Board member or Jean Hamilton or Myrtle Carter. This play is well worth seeing and it would be too bad to miss it. Marie Dell Horuff is in charge of properties and costume changes for "Janus" and is doing a wonderful job.

We have mentioned things which Ivan needed for the production of "Janus" and want to thank the many people who helped him with his props. Mrs. L. J. Hart was most generous in lending Victorian draperies and Mrs. Clyde Cheeks really made a fine contribution with the loan of an antique chandelier. Joanne Genung is responsible for the stereophonic sound which plays such an important part in the play. Visitors to one of the last rehearsals of "Janus" were Jimmy Leverette, Ed Anders, Pat Medaries and John Hogan.

Carrie Dee Drew and Harriet Boyle who had an exciting trip to Chicago and Wisconsin in August attended performances at two summer theatres. One was in the Wisconsin Dells and the other was in a converted barn just outside Chicago. Both of the performances were outstanding and they enjoyed the experience.

Good news has been received from the building committee. They expect the plans to be completed before November first, which means that work should begin very soon. Ivan tells me that an outstanding consultant has worked with the architect and the committee to incorporate all of the necessary features.

Watch for the announcement of rehearsal dates for "Caine Mutiny Court Martial." This is a play which will need 27 men. If you want to act, this is your opportunity for expression. Your Little Theatre needs you and you need it.

Remember that Janus will run for three more days, if you have not seen it, it is not too late and we can guarantee you an evening of pleasure.

Boo For You

THE HAUNTING OF HILL HOUSE. By Shirley Jackson. Viking. $3.95.

Way off in the hills at the end of a lonely road behind a locked gate stands Hill House. Eighty years old, the sprawling place with a tower, countless rooms disposed skewgee, and doors upon doors upon doors, has been the scene of several deaths. The scared people in the nearby village avoid it like a nighttime graveyard.

Dr. Montague, student of ghosts and their goings-on, rents the building, invites a young man and two girls to stay with him and try to catch a spook. They are Luke, heir to the property, and Theodora and Eleanor, both with some psychic experiences. They will be joined by Mrs. Montague and a friend who work a planchette in anticipation of messages from the spirit world.

A surly pair of caretakers gets this odd houseparty off to a creepy start, and then in the quiet of the night the gremlins come banging down, thumping deafeningly on the walls and then softly, murderously feeling along them with their fingertips. Doors close with no one to close them, deadly cold drafts blow with no place to blow from, mysterious presences flutter by unseen.

Miss Jackson isn't saying right out that she believes in ghosts, but she does say: People who are bound to see ghosts see them, and what they think they see can hurt them. As between her children, about whom she has written, and her ghosts, I prefer, literally, the ghosts, and the loudest and most terrifying boo uttered in contemporary fiction was sounded in her short story, "The Lottery." This new novel gives you some queasy moments, but the climax, a subdued book, is not one of them. The conjure doesn't quite work, I don't get scared in the dark.

Town Burning Back In The Old Home City

TOWN BURNING. By Thomas Williams. Macmillan. $4.50.

John Cotter comes back to his home town. Providing a definition at which even Robert Frost might not cavil, Jane says of his birthplace that she'd expect it "would be where you knew what to do."

But it's the one place where he does not know what to do. He knew in the Army, he knew in Paris where he lived on GI Bill of Rights grants. But he does not know back in the community where his brother boiled with hate, his father and mother were misunderstood, his boyhood playmates beat him up, and even Jane who had professed her love married Mike instead.

John grows up in this novel, though the story turns more melodramatic than it needs to, it seems, to prove it. But it abounds in the excellent flashes of observations, such as Mike's father stopping his car to weep, the flower pots set in saucers, or the clink of overshoe buckles, which remind us of this author's discerning first novel. "Ceremony of Love." These little things are the stuff of life.

Italian Star Setting Some Sort Of Record

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Luciana Paluzzi, an Italian actress brought here for television only, will wind up the year with a movie career and an American husband, actor Brett Halsey.

The latter has mama's approval. That's important for Italian girls.

"Mama likes Brett," says Luciana. "In fact, he is the first boy I have ever gone with whom mania really liked.

"Come to think of it, he's the first boy I've ever been serious about."

Luciana sported a diamond engagement ring that must have cost Halsey a small fortune.

She is believed to be the first European actress imported especially for a TV series. She's costarred in "Five Fingers," an espionage series with a European background. She plays a model and gets a chance to show off a fancy wardrobe in each episode.

The series was shot on the 20th Century-Fox lot and the voluptuous Italian soon acquired the nickname, bestowed by males, of Lolo Palooza. This intrigued the studio brass—so they signed her to a movie contract.

The television series will be finished by the end of January with movie commitments to begin a month or so later.

"Brett and I will use that month to get married in," says Luciana. "I would like to fly back to Rome and get married there."

She met Halsey while dating Gardner McKay, the handsome actor whose face adorned a magazine cover a few months ago.

"I dated Gardner several times," says Luciana. "He was good company and I liked him but there was no romance. Then one Sunday after church, Gardner invited me over to his house to meet some friends. One was Brett.

"I looked at him—and he looked at me. You Americans have such a beautiful word for what happened—zowie!"

Theater Week

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Sir John Gielgud is saying goodbye to some of his most famous theatrical roles.

The distinguished star puts it thus: "It isn't only that one gets older, but each time it becomes more difficult because the public expects more of you. Nostalgia is apt to make them believe you were better some other time."

The 55-year-old Briton is resolved to remove forever the makeup of Benedick, the swaggering lover of "Much Ado About Nothing," when the comedy's hit run ends next month at the Lunt-Fontanne Theater.

In shelving Benedick, Sr John is quitting a third major Shakespearean role. The others are Hamlet and Richard II.

"You need to come back to them," he observes, "But there comes a point when you must try something else to recapture enthusiasm."

Between now and the adieu to "Ado," Sir John will be doubling as director of "Five Finger Exercise," a modern comedy which he previously staged in London. It opens on Broadway Dec. 2.

What comes next on the Gielgud calendar is deliberately undetermined.

"The past few years have been filled with terrible demands," he says, ticking off a succession of Shakespearean calls at European festivals, an arduous American tour in his monologue, "The Ages of Man," plus several directing stints.

"Such things tie you up so far ahead," Sir John continues. "People never understand how it binds you."

"When you are young you can afford a mistake," he says, "and people will forgive you, but later on you cannot take such risk.

"I don't like to see life passing by. But decisions now are more important than ever. Not only because of your own reputation, but because the fortune of so many others is involved."

He recognizes realistically his place in the top flight of stars, but tempers it with an apprentice's unease.

"The theater is always an agony because it must be a series of compromises between what one hopes and what one can do."

Possibly, he concedes, he may for a while concentrate more on directing than acting. But he won't say no if a modern role of proper challenge should appear.

"Perhaps I'm a bit fed up with the classics. It would be nice to show you can do other things. Otherwise people think you are oldfashioned."

Currently waiting for his acceptance is a backlog of demands for television appearances, directing chores, and performing parts. But Sir John is in no hurry to decide.

"I want to be freelance for a while and see how things come along.

"It's dull to have no plans, but it is also exciting."

A Different Kind

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Penn Warren is writing a different kind of play about the Civil War.

"It is basically a love story," he says. "No gun is fired."

The title is "Listen to the Mockingbird," but the author is keeping plot details to himself pending completion of the Broadway prospect.

SHOWGIRL - PAINTERS

NEW YORK (AP) — Ten Broadway showgirls have developed a new backstage hobby — painting in oils.

Under the tutelage of Faith Dano, one of the featured performers in "Gypsy," the group produced 46 works in three months. The work, ranging from realism to abstraction, was put on special exhibit, with the receipts from canvases sold going to the Actors' Fund.

OUT OF THE DARK

Beatty, who hails from Richmond, Va., paid for his studies at an acting school here by working as an underground laborer on the recently completed third tube of the Lincoln Tunnel beneath the Hudson River.

That chore completed, Beatty went auditioning for stage roles. He has been signed for a key part in the new William Inge play, "Loss of Roses".

STAR DRIVE IN

Sunday through Wednesday: Brigitte Bardot and Jean Gabin star in "Love Is My Profession."

Thursday through Saturday: "God's Little Acre" with Robert Ryan; also Gypsy Rose Lee and Burl Ives star in "Wind Across the Everglades."

'TANK COMMANDOS' — Wally Campo attacks a fellow G. I. in a scene from American International's "Tank Commandos", starting Thursday at the Jim Theatre. On the same billing is "Operation Dames."

A Different Kind

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Penn Warren is writing a different kind of play about the Civil War.

"It is basically a love story," he says. "No gun is fired."

The title is "Listen to the Mockingbird," but the author is keeping plot details to himself pending completion of the Broadway prospect.

SHOWGIRL - PAINTERS

Under the tutelage of Faith Dano, one of the featured performers in "Gypsy," the group produced 46 works in three months. The work, ranging from realism to abstraction, was put on special exhibit, with the receipts from canvases sold going to the Actors' Fund.

OUT OF THE DARK

Beatty, who hails from Richmond, Va., paid for his studies at an acting school here by working as an underground laborer on the recently completed third tube of the Lincoln Tunnel beneath the Hudson River.

That chore completed, Beatty went auditioning for stage roles. He has been signed for a key part in the new William Inge play, "Loss of Roses".

Theater Week

By WILLIAM GLOVER

The distinguished star puts it thus: "It isn't only that one gets older, but each time it becomes more difficult because the public expects more of you. Nostalgia is apt to make them believe you were better some other time."

The 55-year-old Briton is resolved to remove forever the makeup of Benedick, the swaggering lover of "Much Ado About Nothing," when the comedy's hit run ends next month at the Lunt-Fontanne Theater.

In shelving Benedick, Sr John is quitting a third major Shakespearean role. The others are Hamlet and Richard II.

"You need to come back to them," he observes, "But there comes a point when you must try something else to recapture enthusiasm."

Between now and the adieu to "Ado," Sir John will be doubling as director of "Five Finger Exercise," a modern comedy which he previously staged in London. It opens on Broadway Dec. 2.

What comes next on the Gielgud calendar is deliberately undetermined.

"The past few years have been filled with terrible demands," he says, ticking off a succession of Shakespearean calls at European festivals, an arduous American tour in his monologue, "The Ages of Man," plus several directing stints.

"Such things tie you up so far ahead," Sir John continues. "People never understand how it binds you."

"When you are young you can afford a mistake," he says, "and people will forgive you, but later on you cannot take such risk.

"I don't like to see life passing by. But decisions now are more important than ever. Not only because of your own reputation, but because the fortune of so many others is involved."

He recognizes realistically his place in the top flight of stars, but tempers it with an apprentice's unease.

"The theater is always an agony because it must be a series of compromises between what one hopes and what one can do."

Possibly, he concedes, he may for a while concentrate more on directing than acting. But he won't say no if a modern role of proper challenge should appear.

"Perhaps I'm a bit fed up with the classics. It would be nice to show you can do other things. Otherwise people think you are oldfashioned."

Currently waiting for his acceptance is a backlog of demands for television appearances, directing chores, and performing parts. But Sir John is in no hurry to decide.

"I want to be freelance for a while and see how things come along.

"It's dull to have no plans, but it is also exciting."

LSU Edges Wildcats; 'Pokes Top Tribe

Tigers Crack Stiff Line For 9-0 Win

By BOB COOPER

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Warren Rabb passed five yards to Johnny Robinson for the game's only touchdown as top-ranked Louisiana State opened defense of its Southeastern Conference championship with a 9-0 victory over fired-up Kentucky.

Breaux, picking up key yardage around the ends on option plays, engineered

Silencing's LSU's big gun, All-America Billy Cannon, the Wildcats were in contention throughout because of their stout defense.

Kentucky's kicking kept the Bayou Tigers bottled up in their own territory early in the game and LSU couldn't move into scoring position until the second period when the Rabb-Robinson combination accounted for the winning TD.

The Tigers' touchdown came after Gaynell Kinchen punted out of bounds on the Kentucky 1-yard line and on the next play a Wildcat kick was partially blocked.

	LSU	KY.

Passes	6-5	6-25
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	12-32.3	13-29.9
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	35	7115

LSU took over on the Kentucky 10 and three plays later Rabb tossed the touchdown pass.

LSU's other points came on a field goal by Wendell Harris with minutes gone in the final period.

Opening the second half, Kentucky drove to the LSU 11 but lost the ball on downs. The Tigers' first play resulted in a fumble but Kentucky could move only to the LSU 5.

The Tigers' kicking game then got them out of trouble and they moved toward the Kentucky goal, only to be halted on the 1.

Earl Gros ran a Kentucky punt back to the 13 and after three plays lost yardage back to the 24. Harris kicked a field goal from the 39.

An estimated 36,000 fans watched two - touchdown - underdog Kentucky open the game with an attempt to keep LSU bottled in its own territory.

The Wildcats were successful for most of the first period when LSU's deepest penetration was the Kentucky 38.

The first half saw the Wildcats hold Cannon to four yards in five attempts. The Baton Rouge senior ended up with 11 yards on 11 tries.

LSU's touchdown opportunity was set up with a Kentucky holding penalty which put the Cats on the 9½-yard line. A punt gave LSU the ball on the Kentucky 34. From there Kinchen's punt put the Wildcats on the 1.

End Tom Rodgers quiet on offense, provided the defensive sparkle for the Wildcat team.

Robinson, a senior halfback, was LSU's big ground gainer, with 47 yards in 14 carries as the unbeaten Tigers ran their record to 5-0.

Baylor Uses Bobbles To Halt Raiders

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor pounced on Texas Tech errors Saturday night to bet the Red Raiders 14-7 and even their record for the season at 2-2.

The Bears snapped up a fumble in the first quarter to score, saw Tech go ahead in the second quarter 7-6 and then went 41 yards in 12 plays to take the lead in the second half and stay on top.

Baylor was forced into a goal line stand in fading minutes of the game to win. Tech drove within inches of Baylor's goal stripe.

Dean Blair got the scoring under way for Baylor with a 24-yard jaunt in the first period after a fumble recovery. But the Bears couldn't add the extra point.

Tech matched Baylor in the second quarter when Ken Talkington passed five yards to Dan Gurley for a score, then went ahead on Talkington's conversion.

The clincher came in the third period with Ronnie Bull, Jim Evans and Tommy Minter driving for consistent yardage to the Tech 1. From there, quarterback Bobby Ply drove over. Ply ran for a two-point conversion.

Jay Hebert, McGee Tied At 54 Holes

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Jerry McGee, a Canadian who never has been in the big money, shot a 65 Saturday and tied veteran Jay Hebert for the lead after 54 holes of the $15,000 Orange County Open Golf Tournament.

McGee birdied four of the last seven holes and three of the last six in a 6-under-par performance over the 6,650-yard Mesa Verde Country Club course. His three-day score is a 9-under-par 204.

Hebert, shooting a 68 for the third straight day, also started fast, dropping birdies on six of the first eight holes. But he bogied four of the last 10 and took three putts to get down from the edge of the 18th green.

The leaders:

Jerry McGee	69-70-65—204
Jay Hebert	68-68-68—204

Stewart Paces La. College To 26-23 Triumph

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Fullback Joe Stewart scored two touchdowns to pace Louisiana College to a 26-23 Homecoming victory Saturday over Texas Lutheran.

Stewart started the LC scoring with a two-yard plunge in the first period and Joe Powell kicked the first of two conversions.

Eddie Margurger gave the visitors a brief lead in the second period by running nine yards for a TD and plunging two yards for a conversion. Five minutes later Stewart put LC ahead to stay with an off tackle plunge good for six yards and a touchdown.

Other LC touchdowns came on a 24 yard pass from Tommy Whitecloud to Don Grant and a 55-yard run by Powell.

Miffy Kaase threw two touchdown passes to end L. J. Brown, one for six yards and the other for nine yards.

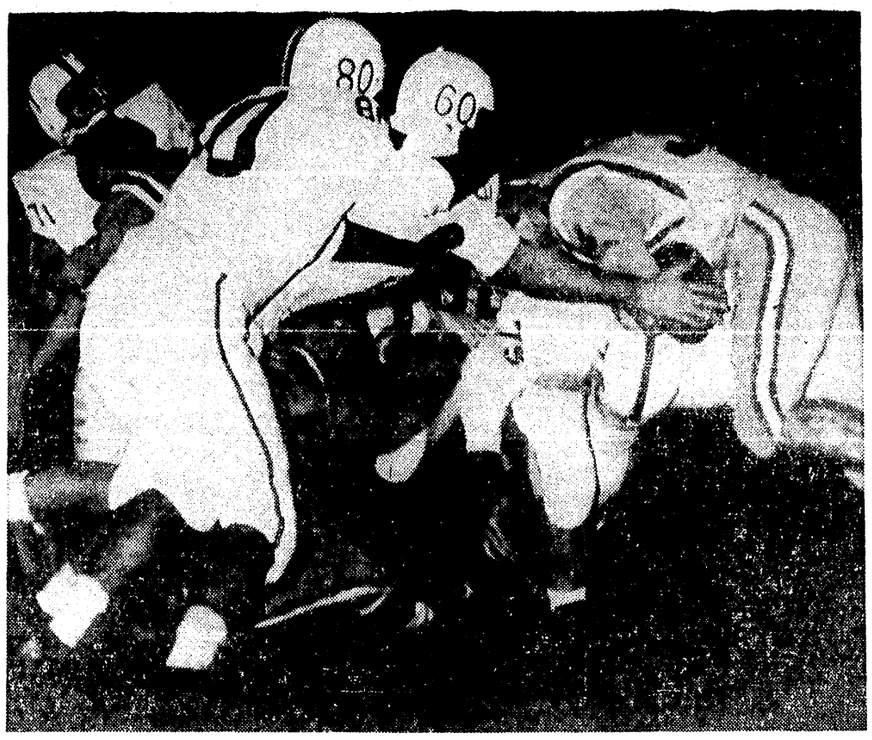
TOP 10 AT A GLANCE
By The Associated Press

Here's how the top 10 teams in The Associated Press college football poll did Saturday (won-lost records in parentheses):

1. LSU (4-0), beat Kentucky 9-0.
2. Northwestern (4-0), beat Michigan 20-7.
3. Texas (5-0) beat Arkansas 13-12.
4. Georgia Tech 4-1), lost to Auburn 7-6.
5. Mississippi (5-0), beat Tulane 53-7.
6. Purdue (2-1-1), lost to Ohio State 15-0.
7. Southern California (4-0), beat Washington 22-15.
8. Syracuse (4-0), beat Holy Cross 42-6.
9. Iowa (2-2), lost to Wisconsin 25-16.
10. Penn State (5-0), beat Boston University 21-12.



KENTUCKY WALL HOLDS — LSU's Johnny Robinson (34) ran into the solid defense of Kentucky's forward wall here when he ran into the arms of Ronnie Cain (80), Mel Chandler (60) and Cullen Wilson (75). The surprisingly strong defense held favored LSU scoreless in the first quarter but the Bengals went on to take a 9-0 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Techmen Win Cinder Race Over Indians

Lanky Don Martin, Louisiana Tech's ace distance man, opened up in the final 200 yards to edge Northeast's Jack Williams in a two-mile run as the Techmen took first place in a triangular cross country meet here Saturday night.

Tech was first with 31 points, followed closely by Lew Hartzog's Northeast thinclads with 38 points. McNeese finished with 51.

Martin covered the two miles around the Brown Stadium gridiron with a fine clocking of 9 minutes, 44.5 seconds, beating Williams by 20 yards.

Russell Lewis of Tech took third place, Northeast's Buddy Eiland was fourth and McNeese's Darwin Enicks wound up fifth.

Martin took the early lead and Filand moved ahead near the half-mile mark. Martin, Williams and Eiland then began a steady duel for the lead position and with a quarter of a mile remaining Williams and Martin were neck and neck with Enicke trailing by eight yards and Eiland a yard behind Enicke.

With the race still a dead heat on the back stretch of the final lap, Martin gave a strong kick an moved into the lead to stay.

Williams, a junior and veteran distance competitor, was timed in 9:46. Lewis and Eiland followed at one-second intervals.

Billed as a personal duel between Martin and the 19-year-old Eiland, the race was true to form for 1½ miles. At that point Martin moved ahead of the Farmerville sophomore to stay.

Martin was one o' the two runners to beat Eiland last season.

THE RESULTS:

1. Don Martin, Tech, 9:44.5

CALDWELL TO CARPENTER

Army Air Attack Beats Duke, 21-6

By BOB GATELY

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Army's Joe Caldwell - to - Bill Carpenter air arm clicked to perfection Saturday for a 21-6 victory over a cadet - jinxed Duke team.

Caldwell's passes to "lonesome end" Carpenter set up Army's first two touchdowns, scored on one-yard plunges by fullbacks Don Bonko and Jim Connors. An intercepted pass led to the final Army score. Caldwell booted one extra point and quarterback Frank Blanda added two more.

A homecoming crowd of 33,500 saw the cadet defense hold Duke outside the Army 30 except for a late scoring drive led by sophomore halfback Jack Wilson.

	Army	Duke
First downs	13	13
Rushing yardage	159	161
Passing yardage	253	35
Passes	17-27	5-15
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	5-35.0	5-34.4
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	33	15

Duke has never beaten Army and the jinx held true Saturday. The Blue Devils defenses fell apart and their attack didn't jell until it was too late.

Wilson carried on seven of 14 plays in Duke's 64-yard scoring drive climaxed by Bob Crummie's two - yard plunge. A pass from Don Altman to Dean Wright for the two - pointer failed. Except for that it was all Army's day.

Carpenter, who set a new Army season pass reception record with six games still to play, caught nine passes for a total of 103 yards. That brought his total for four games to 25, three more than the old record he shared with Dan Foldberg. His nine against Duke also tied the Army single-game mark. Don Usry, who sat out the game, shares the mark with him.

Caldwell passed to Carpenter twice for a total of 23 yards on the first 66-yard scoring drive and once for 10 yards on the 52-yard march for the second score.

Caldwell mixed up his attack with passes to halfback Georgie Kirschenbauer and Tom Culver.

Halfback Bob Anderson, his running still hampered by a knee injury which kept him out of action in the loss to Penn State, also took to the air with passes to Culver. The "walking wounded" halfback was also a mainstay of the alert Army defense.

Army's running attack did not get rolling until late in the game when the running of Anderson and fullback Al Rushatz and the passing of Caldwell drove the cadets deep into Blue Devil territory. But penalties killed the drive and Blanda's field goal attempt from the 35 was wide.

Duke tried desperation passes but one from George Harris bounced out of Dwight Bumgarner's hands and cadet halfback Glen Blumhardt picked it out of the air on the Blue Devil 27 and returned it to the 10. Rushatz and Henry Minor moved the ball to the three and Blumhardt went the rest of the way.

The Army defense, led by tackles Bob McCarthy and Dale Kuhns and Anderson, stifled the Blue Devils all afternoon. Duke could not mount a sustained drive until late in the third period, but took the kickoff after the second Army TD and drove to the score on the running of Wilson and Crummie.

Score by Periods

Army	7	0	7	7—21
Duke	0	0	0	6—6

Scoring:

Army — Bonko, 1 run (Caldwell kick), Connors, 1 leap (Blanda kick), Blumhardt, 5 run (Blanda kick).

Duke — Crummie, 3 run (pass failed).

TITLE HOPES FADE

Badgers Romp Past Iowa, 25-16

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —Wisconsin rocked Iowa with bruising football tactics, cashing in on two fumble recoveries for touchdowns, in romping to a 25-16 victory Saturday before a packed crowd of 65,256.

The Badgers, bouncing back from a 21-0 lacing at the hands of Purdue, virtually eliminated Iowa's Big Ten hopes by handing the defending champions their second conference loss. No twice-beaten team ever has won the title.

Wisconsin marched downfield to set up a 25-yard field goal by Karl Holzwarth the first time the Badgers had possession, then added a pair of touchdowns in the second period and another after the intermission before Iowa managed to muster an attack on the passing of Olen Treadway.

The senior quarterback from Muskogee, Okla., set a Western Conference record by completing 26 passes for 304 yards. All but six of Treadyway's aerials were in the second half.

Iowa, which had given up the ball on fumbles only twice in three previous games, was guilty of four costly bobbles in the first two periods.

Ron Perkins pounced on a loose ball on the Iowa 27 early in the second quarter and three plays later Dale Hackbart sneaked a yard into the end zone.

A few minutes later Perkins fell on another fumble at the Iowa 40 and Tom Wiesner capped a six-play touchdown drive by diving over right tackle.

Ed Hart scored the Badgers third and last touchdown in the third period.

Iowa's touchdown came on a short plunge by Don Horn and a 21-yard pass from Treadway to Don Norton.

VMI Turns Back William & Mary

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Virginia Military Institute, refusing to recognize the odds were even, mauled William and Mary 26-7 Saturday in a Southern Conference football game.

Swinging into action in the first period, VMI scored two touchdowns before William and Mary's Indians got the feel of the ground. The Keydets tallied twice more in the third. The Indians' lone touchdown came in the third.

A slim crowd of 6,000 watched the game, billed as the Civitan Bowl, for the benefit of retarded children.

The game was much closer in the statistics department than it was scorewise. William and Mary made 17 first downs to the Keydets' 11 and outrushed their opponents 181 yards to 170.

But the Indians fumbled twice when it hurt and virtually gave VMI one touchdown on penalties. The Keydets intercepted four Indian passes.

Breaux Guides McNeese Victory

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

Rangy quarterback Don Breaux ran Northeast's flanks like a genuine cow hand at roundup time to lead McNeese's Cowboys to a 21-6 victory over the Indians at Brown Stadium Saturday night.

Breaux, picking up key yardage around the ends on option plays, engineered McNeese's two first-half touchdowns, passing for one to end Don Scaife in the first quarter.

Speedy halfback Olen Clark scored the second touchdown for Les DeVall's Cowboys in the second period, taking a pitchout from Breaux and traveling four yards around end.

A 63-yard march in 15 plays produced the final McNeese touchdown in the third stanza. The Cowboys' other star quarterback, Nolan Viator, steered this drive and Lake Providence fullback Harold Thomas scored the touchdown with a one-yard smash off guard.

Fullback Smokey Stover salavaged Northeast's lone portion of glory on the game's last play when he intercepted a Breaux pitchout and ran 35 yards for a touchdown.

The win was McNeese's first of the season in Gulf States Conference play after two losses. The Cowboys are now 3-2 for the season.

Jack Rowan's Northeast Indians making their 1959 GSC debut, went down to their fourth defeat in five games.

Northeast was never in the game after going to the Cowboy 13 in the second period, their most serious threat of the chilly evening. McNeese, then ahead by a 7-0 count, stopped the drive one yard shy of a first down and promptly drove 87 yards to their second touchdown.

Northeast never came any closer to the McNeese goal than the 32-yard line after that, going that far later in the second period before Charles Stevenson intercepted a Malcolm Brewer pass in the end zone.

Lenny Kahn kicked an extra point after McNeese's first touchdown but missed after the second. After the final TD, Breaux passed to Clark for two points.

Northeast attempted to pass for a two-pointer after their touchdown but David Oliver batted down Randel's throw.

Breaux was the top rusher of the night with 54 yards on nine carries for a six-yard average. Clark went 51 yards in 13 carries and Thomas picked up 39 on shot trips up the middle.

Stover paced Northeast in rushing with 26 yards in eight carries.

Northeast's passing attack, which shown in last week's 26-21 victory over Arlington, was good for seven completitions in 17 throws for 58 yards. Randel, Brewer and Buddy O'Conner did the throwing.

McNeese picked up 13 first downs to Northeast's six and outgained the Indians on the ground by a big margin, 192 yards to 57.

McNeese started its first scoring drive on its 28 after a 47-yard quick kick by Smokey Stover. Ted Brevelle went nine yards around end on the second play of the drive. Breaux alternated on bursts by Harold Thomas into the line, option plays and one pass to Clark to move the ball to Northeast 33.

Breaux pulled the option again at the 33, pitching out to Clark at the line of scrimmage while being hit. Clark took it around left end for 16 yards and first down on the 17 before being run out of bounds.

On the next play, Breaux hit Scaife on the five. Redden had a shot at the end on the five but missed and Scaife went into the corner of the end zone for the game's first score.

Lenny Kahn kicked the PAT to make it 7-0, and the quarter ended a play later.

In the second period, Northeast generated a threat, marching 54 yards in 12 plays to the McNeese 13. Randel connected with Levy Redden for 22 yards to give the drive its biggest boost.

Stover and Redden ripped off yardage in short chunks to move the ball before the drive stalled on the 17. With fourth and five at that point, Randel went back in a spread and threw to Redden again along the sidelines but Kahn pulled the Indian halfback down on the 13, one yard short of a first down.

McNeese took over and promptly drove to its second touchdown. Breaux gained 16 yards on key plays to help move the ball to the Cowboy 32.

From the 32, Breaux went to the air and hit Clark at the Cowboy 45 and the halfback danced to the 16, almost going all the way before being pushed out of bounds. A fouling penalty against Northeast on the play pushed the ball further to the eight. Breaux kept on the option and traveled to the two before Pete Covington broke through to nail him for an eight-yard loss back to the 10. Breaux promptly went wide again to the four and then pitched out to Clark for the touchdown.

Taking over after Northeast's first series of plays in the third quarter, McNeese, with Viator at quarterback, drove for their final touchdown, a 63-yard march.

The Cowboys gambled to keep the drive going, running on fourth and one on the Northeast 43. Clark made it off tackle to the 39 for the first and Viator ran for nine yards once and for eight while Thomas went for eight to help advance the ball to the 12.

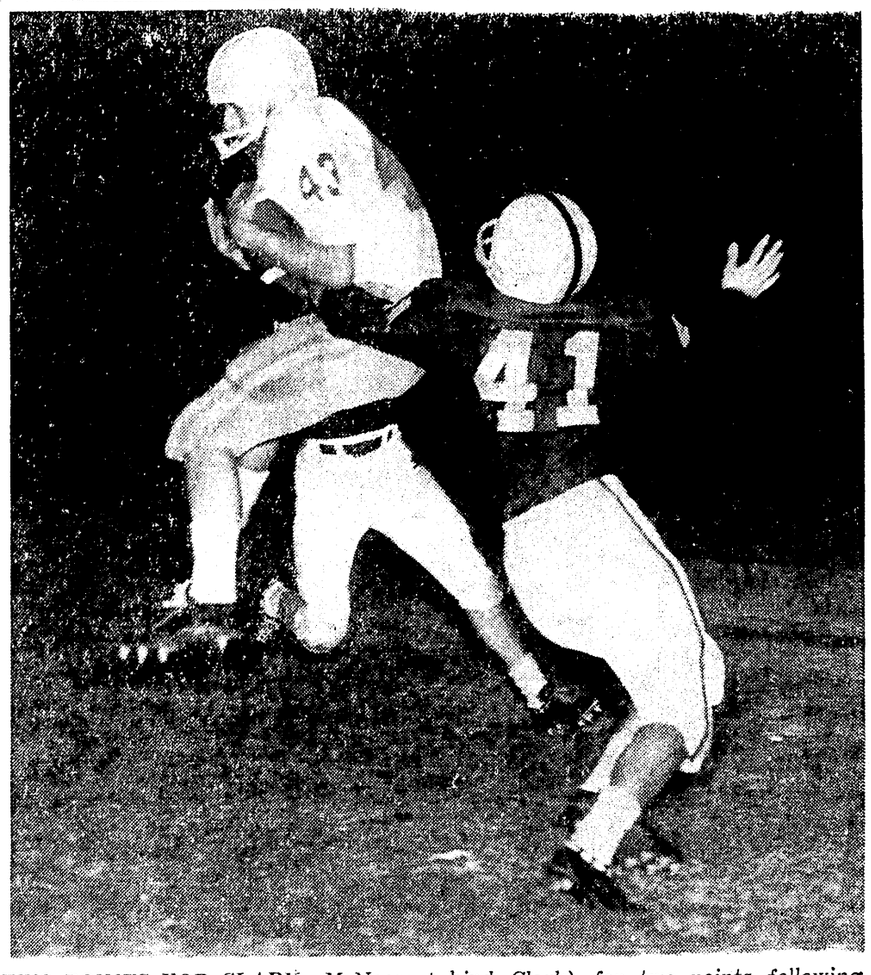
Clark, bursting through a big hole off tackle, darted to the one and, one play later, Thomas ran standing up into the end zone for the touchdown.

Breaux threaded a pass through Indians Jerry Hines and Bill Koerner to Clark for the two extra points to make it 21-0.

McNeese drove to the Indian 14 in the fourth period before a delay of-game penalty moved them back to the 19. After Viator went to the 15 on third down, a horde of Indians led by Ben Brownstein and James Moore smothered him back on the 27 on fourth down.

With only about six seconds to go in the game and McNeese on its 33 with fourth and two, Breaux went wide and tried to pitch out at the 35. Northeast's Stover was there and, with a clear 35 yards ahead, outraced the Cowboys to score as the clock ran out.

Randel tried to pass for the PAT but Oliver batted it down behind the line of scrimmage.



TWO POINTS FOR CLARK—McNeese halfback Olen Clark (43) takes a pass from quarterback Don Breaux despite the efforts of Northeast defenders Bill Koerner (41) and Jerry Hines (behind Clark) for two points following McNeese's third touchdown in their game at Brown Stadium last night. Tigers Crack Stiff Line For 9-0 Win

By BOB COOPER

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Warren Rabb passed five yards to Johnny Robinson for the game's only touchdown as top-ranked Louisiana State opened defense of its Southeastern Conference championship with a 9-0 victory over fired-up Kentucky.

Breaux, picking up key yardage around the ends on option plays, engineered

Silencing's LSU's big gun, All-America Billy Cannon, the Wildcats were in contention throughout because of their stout defense.

Kentucky's kicking kept the Bayou Tigers bottled up in their own territory early in the game and LSU couldn't move into scoring position until the second period when the Rabb-Robinson combination accounted for the winning TD.

The Tigers' touchdown came after Gaynell Kinchen punted out of bounds on the Kentucky 1-yard

LSU took over on the Kentucky 10 and three plays later Rabb tossed the touchdown pass.

LSU's other points came on a field goal by Wendell Harris with minutes gone in the final period.

Opening the second half, Kentucky drove to the LSU 11 but lost the ball on downs. The Tigers' first play resulted in a fumble but Kentucky could move only to the LSU 5.

The Tigers' kicking game then got them out of trouble and they moved toward the Kentucky goal, only to be halted on the 1.

Earl Gros ran a Kentucky punt back to the 13 and after three plays lost yardage back to the 24. Harris kicked a field goal from the 39.

An estimated 36,000 fans watched two - touchdown - underdog Kentucky open the game with an attempt to keep LSU bottled in its own territory.

The Wildcats were successful for most of the first period when LSU's deepest penetration was the Kentucky 38.

The first half saw the Wildcats hold Cannon to four yards in five attempts. The Baton Rouge senior ended up with 11 yards on 11 tries.

LSU's touchdown opportunity was set up with a Kentucky holding penalty which put the Cats on the 9½-yard line. A punt gave LSU the ball on the Kentucky 34. From there Kinchen's punt put the Wildcats on the 1.

End Tom Rodgers quiet on offense, provided the defensive sparkle for the Wildcat team.

Robinson, a senior halfback, was LSU's big ground gainer, with 47 yards in 14 carries as the unbeaten Tigers ran their record to 5-0.

Baylor Uses Bobbles To Halt Raiders

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor pounced on Texas Tech errors Saturday night to bet the Red Raiders 14-7 and even their record for the season at 2-2.

The Bears snapped up a fumble in the first quarter to score, saw Tech go ahead in the second quarter 7-6 and then went 41 yards in 12 plays to take the lead in the second half and stay on top.

Baylor was forced into a goal line stand in fading minutes of the game to win. Tech drove within inches of Baylor's goal stripe.

Dean Blair got the scoring under way for Baylor with a 24-yard jaunt in the first period after a fumble recovery. But the Bears couldn't add the extra point.

Tech matched Baylor in the second quarter when Ken Talkington passed five yards to Dan Gurley for a score, then went ahead on Talkington's conversion.

The clincher came in the third period with Ronnie Bull, Jim Evans and Tommy Minter driving for consistent yardage to the Tech 1. From there, quarterback Bobby Ply drove over. Ply ran for a two-point conversion.

Jay Hebert, McGee Tied At 54 Holes

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Jerry McGee, a Canadian who never has been in the big money, shot a 65 Saturday and tied veteran Jay Hebert for the lead after 54 holes of the $15,000 Orange County Open Golf Tournament.

McGee birdied four of the last seven holes and three of the last six in a 6-under-par performance over the 6,650-yard Mesa Verde Country Club course. His three-day score is a 9-under-par 204.

Hebert, shooting a 68 for the third straight day, also started fast, dropping birdies on six of the first eight holes. But he bogied four of the last 10 and took three putts to get down from the edge of the 18th green.

The leaders:
Jerry McGee	69-70-65—204
Jay Hebert	63-68-68—204
Jack Fleck	70-67-68—205

Stewart Paces La. College To 26-23 Triumph

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Fullback Joe Stewart scored two touchdowns to pace Louisiana College to a 26-23 Homecoming victory Saturday over Texas Lutheran.

Stewart started the LC scoring with a two-yard plunge in the first period and Joe Powell kicked the first of two conversions.

Eddie Margurger gave the visitors a brief lead in the second period by running nine yards for a TD and plunging two yards for a conversion. Five minutes later Stewart put LC ahead to stay with an off tackle plunge good for six yards and a touchdown.

Other LC touchdowns came on a 24 yard pass from Tommy Whitecloud to Don Grant and a 55-yard run by Powell.

Miffy Kaase threw two touchdown passes to end I. J. Brown, one for six yards and the other for nine yards.

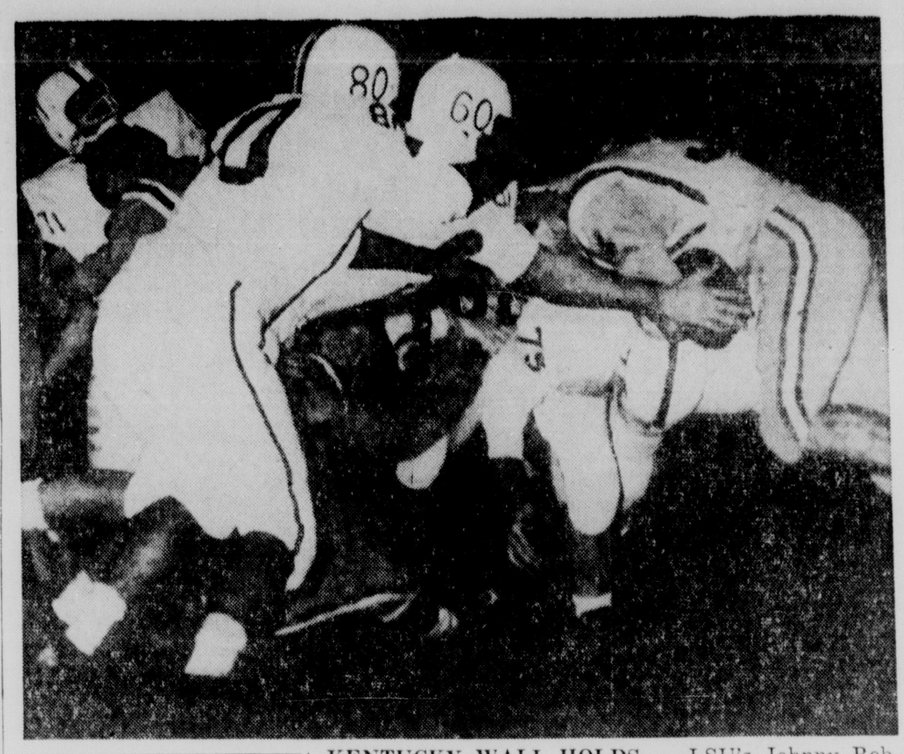
TOP 10 AT A GLANCE
By The Associated Press

Here's how the top 10 teams in The Associated Press college football poll did Saturday (won-lost records in parentheses):

1. LSU (4-0), beat Kentucky 9-0.
2. Northwestern (4-0), beat Michigan 20-7.
3. Texas (5-0) beat Arkansas 13-12.
4. Georgia Tech 4-1), lost to Auburn 7-6.
5. Mississippi (5-0), beat Tulane 53-7.
6. Purdue (2-1-1), lost to Ohio State 15-0.
7. Southern California (4-0), beat Washington 22-15.
8. Syracuse (4-0), beat Holy Cross 42-6.
9. Iowa (2-2), lost to Wisconsin 25-16.
10. Penn State (5-0), beat Boston University 21-12.



KENTUCKY WALL HOLDS — LSU's Johnny Robinson (34) ran into the solid defense of Kentucky's forward wall here when he ran into the arms of Ronnie Cain (80), Mel Chandler (60) and Cullen Wilson (75). The surprisingly strong defense held favored LSU scoreless in the first quarter but the Bengals went on to take a 9-0 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Techmen Win Cinder Race Over Indians

Lanky Don Martin, Louisiana Tech's ace distance man, opened up in the final 200 yards to edge Northeast's Jack Williams in a two-mile run as the Techmen took first place in a triangular cross country meet here Saturday night.

Tech was first with 31 points, followed closely by Lew Hartzog's Northeast thinclads with 38 points. McNeese finished with 51.

Martin covered the two miles around the Brown Stadium gridiron with a fine clocking of 9 minutes, 44.5 seconds, beating Williams by 20 yards.

Russell Lewis of Tech took third place, Northeast's Buddy Eiland was fourth and McNeese's Darwin Enicks wound up fifth.

Martin took the early lead and Eiland moved ahead near the half-mile mark. Martin, Williams and Eiland then began a steady duel for the lead position and with a quarter of a mile remaining Williams and Martin were neck and neck with Enicke trailing by eight yards and Eiland a yard behind Enicke.

With the race still a dead heat on the back stretch of the final lap, Martin gave a strong kick an moved into the lead to stay.

Williams, a junior and veteran distance competitor, was timed in 9:46. Lewis and Eiland followed at one-second intervals.

Billed as a personal duel between Martin and the 19-year-old Eiland, the race was true to form for 1½ miles. At that point Martin moved ahead of the Farmerville sophomore to stay.

Martin was one o' the two runners to beat Eiland last season.

THE RESULTS:
1. Don Martin, Tech, 9:44.5
2. Jack Williams, NE, 9:46
3. Russell Lewis, Tech, 9:47
4. Don Eilan , NE, 9:48
5. Darwin Enicks, McNeese, 9:56
6. Bob Hayes, Tech, 9:59
7. Jack Frater, McNeese, 10:01
8. Bill Frye, NE, 10:03
9. George Abbott, NE, 10:06
10. Robin Bryan, Tech, 10:10
11. Joel Hebert, Tech, 10:13
12. Phil Hurt, McNeese, 10:13
13. Jerry Morgan, McNeese, 10:13
14. Jack Yetto, McNeese, 10:14

CALDWELL TO CARPENTER

Army Air Attack Beats Duke, 21-6

By BOB GATELY

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Army's Joe Caldwell - to - Bill Carpenter air arm clicked to perfection Saturday for a 21-6 victory over a cadet - jinxed Duke team.

Caldwell's passes to "lonesome end" Carpenter set up Army's first two touchdowns, scored on one-yard plunges by fullbacks Don Bonko and Jim Connors. An intercepted pass led to the final Army score. Caldwell booted one extra point and quarterback Frank Blanda added two more.

A homecoming crowd of 33,500 saw the cadet defense hold Duke outside the Army 30 except for a late scoring drive led by sophomore halfback Jack Wilson.

Duke has never beaten Army and the jinx held true Saturday. The Blue Devils defenses fell apart and their attack didn't jell until it was too late.

Wilson carried on seven of 14 plays in Duke's 64-yard scoring drive climaxed by Bob Crummie's two - yard plunge. A pass from Don Altman to Dean Wright for the two - pointer failed. Except for that it was all Army's day.

Carpenter, who set a new Army season pass reception record with six games still to play, caught nine passes for a total of 103 yards. That brought his total for four games to 25, three more than the old record he shared with Dan Foldberg. His nine against Duke also tied the Army single-game mark. Don Usry, who sat out the game, shares the mark with him.

Caldwell passed to Carpenter twice for a total of 23 yards on the first 66-yard scoring drive and once for 10 yards on the 52-yard march for the second score.

Caldwell mixed up his attack with passes to halfback Georgie Kirschenbauer and Tom Culver.

Halfback Bob Anderson, his running still hampered by a knee injury which kept him out of action in the loss to Penn State, also took to the air with passes to Culver. The "walking wounded" halfback was also a mainstay of the alert Army defense.

Army's running attack did not get rolling until late in the game when the running of Anderson and fullback Al Rushatz and the passing of Caldwell drove the cadets deep into Blue Devil territory. But penalties killed the drive and Blanda's field goal attempt from the 35 was wide.

Duke tried desperation passes but one from George Harris bounced out of Dwight Bumgarner's hands and cadet halfback Glen Blumhardt picked it out of the air on the Blue Devil 27 and returned it to the 10. Rushatz and Henry Minor moved the ball to the three and Blumhardt went the rest of the way.

The Army defense, led by tackles Bob McCarthy and Dale Kuhns and Anderson, stifled the Blue Devils all afternoon. Duke could not mount a sustained drive until late in the third period, but took the kickoff after the second Army TD and drove to the score on the running of Wilson and Crummie.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Statistics of Saturday's Army-Duke football game:

Score by Periods

Army	7 0 7 7—21
Duke	0 0 0 6—6

Scoring:

Army — Bonko, 1 run (Caldwell kick), Connors, 1 leap (Blanda kick), Blumhardt, 5 run (Blanda kick).

Duke — Crummie, 3 run (pass failed).

TITLE HOPES FADE

Badgers Romp Past Iowa, 25-16

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —Wisconsin rocked Iowa with bruising football tactics, cashing in on two fumble recoveries for touchdowns, in romping to a 25-16 victory Saturday before a packed crowd of 65,256.

The Badgers, bouncing back from a 21-0 lacing at the hands of Purdue, virtually eliminated Iowa's Big Ten hopes by handing the defending champions their second conference loss. No twice-beaten team ever has won the title.

Wisconsin marched downfield to set up a 25-yard field goal by Karl Holzwarth the first time the Badgers had possession, then added a pair of touchdowns in the second period and another after the intermission before Iowa managed to muster an attack on the passing of Olen Treadway.

The senior quarterback from Muskogee, Okla., set a Western Conference record by completing 26 passes for 304 yards. All but six of Treadyway's aerials were in the second half.

Iowa, which had given up the ball on fumbles only twice in three previous games, was guilty of four costly bobbles in the first two periods.

Ron Perkins pounced on a loose ball on the Iowa 27 early in the second quarter and three plays later Dale Hackbart sneaked a yard into the end zone.

A few minutes later Perkins fell on another fumble at the Iowa 40 and Tom Wiesner capped a six-play touchdown drive by diving over right tackle.

Ed Hart scored the Badgers third and last touchdown in the third period.

Iowa's touchdown came on a short plunge by Don Horn and a 21-yard pass from Treadway to Don Norton.

VMI Turns Back William & Mary

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Virginia Military Institute, refusing to recognize the odds were even, mauled William and Mary 26-7 Saturday in a Southern Conference football game.

Swinging into action in the first period, VMI scored two touchdowns before William and Mary's Indians got the feel of the ground. The Keydets tallied twice more in the third. The Indians' lone touchdown came in the third.

A slim crowd of 6,000 watched the game, billed as the Civitan Bowl, for the benefit of retarded children.

The game was much closer in the statistics department than it was scorewise. William and Mary made 17 first downs to the Keydets' 11 and outrushed their opponents 181 yards to 170.

But the Indians fumbled twice when it hurt and virtually gave VMI one touchdown on penalties. The Keydets intercepted four Indian passes.

Breaux Guides McNeese Victory

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

Rangy quarterback Don Breaux ran Northeast's flanks like a genuine cow hand at roundup time to lead McNeese's Cowboys to a 21-6 victory over the Indians at Brown Stadium Saturday night.

Breaux, picking up key yardage around the ends on option plays, engineered McNeese's two first-half touchdowns, passing for one to end Don Scaife in the first quarter.

Speedy halfback Olen Clark scored the second touchdown for Les DeVall's Cowboys in the second period, taking a pitchout from Breaux and traveling four yards around end.

A 63-yard march in 15 plays produced the final McNeese touchdown in the third stanza. The Cowboys' other star quarterback, Nolan Viator, steered this drive and Lake Providence fullback Harold Thomas scored the touchdown with a one-yard smash off guard.

Fullback Smokey Stover salavaged Northeast's lone portion of glory on the game's last play when he intercepted a Breaux pitchout and ran 35 yards for a touchdown.

The win was McNeese's first of the season in Gulf States Conference play after two losses. The Cowboys are now 3-2 for the season.

Jack Rowan's Northeast Indians making their 1959 GSC debut, went down to their fourth defeat in five games.

Northeast was never in the game after going to the Cowboy 13 in the second period, their most serious threat of the chilly evening. McNeese, then ahead by a 7-0 count, stopped the drive one yard shy of a first down and promptly drove 87 yards to their second touchdown.

Northeast never came any closer to the McNeese goal than the 32-yard line after that, going that far later in the second period before Charles Stevenson intercepted a Malcolm Brewer pass in the end zone.

Lenny Kahn kicked an extra point after McNeese's first touchdown but missed after the second. After the final TD, Breaux passed to Clark for two points.

Breaux was the top rusher of the night with 54 yards on nine carries for a six-yard average. Clark went 51 yards in 13 carries and Thomas picked up 39 on shot trips up the middle.

Stover paced Northeast in rushing with 26 yards in eight carries.

Northeast's passing attack, which shown in last week's 26-21 victory over Arlington, was good for seven completitions in 17 throws for 58 yards. Randel, Brewer and Buddy O'Conner did the throwing.

McNeese picked up 13 first downs to Northeast's six and outgained the Indians on the ground by a big margin, 192 yards to 57.

McNeese started its first scoring drive on its 28 after a 47-yard quick kick by Smokey Stover. Ted Brevelle went nine yards around end on the second play of the drive. Breaux alternated on bursts by Harold Thomas into the line, option plays and one pass to Clark to move the ball to Northeast 33.

Breaux pulled the option again at the 33, pitching out to Clark at the line of scrimmage while being hit. Clark took it around left end for 16 yards and first down on the 17 before being run out of bounds.

On the next play, Breaux hit Scaife on the five. Redden had a shot at the end on the five but missed and Scaife went into the corner of the end zone for the game's first score.

Lenny Kahn kicked the PAT to make it 7-0, and the quarter ended a play later.

In the second period, Northeast generated a threat, marching 54 yards in 12 plays to the McNeese 13. Randel connected with Levy Redden for 22 yards to give the drive its biggest boost.

Stover and Redden ripped off yardage in short chunks to move the ball before the drive stalled on the 17. With fourth and five at that point, Randel went back in a spread and threw to Redden again along the sidelines but Kahn pulled the Indian halfback down on the 13, one yard short of a first down.

McNeese took over and promptly drove to its second touchdown. Breaux gained 16 yards on key plays to help move the ball to the Cowboy 32.

From the 32, Breaux went to the air and hit Clark at the Cowboy 45 and the halfback danced to the 16, almost going all the way before being pushed out of bounds. A fouling penalty against Northeast on the play pushed the ball further to the eight. Breaux kept on the option and traveled to the two before Pete Covington broke through to nail him for an eight-yard loss back to the 10. Breaux promptly went wide again to the four and then pitched out to Clark for the touchdown.

Taking over after Northeast's first series of plays in the third quarter, McNeese, with Viator at quarterback, drove for their final touchdown, a 63-yard march.

The Cowboys gambled to keep the drive going, running on fourth and one on the Northeast 43. Clark made it off tackle to the 39 for the first and Viator ran for nine yards once and for eight while Thomas went for eight to help advance the ball to the 12.

Clark, bursting through a big hole off tackle, darted to the one and, one play later, Thomas ran standing up into the end zone for the touchdown.

Breaux threaded a pass through Indians Jerry Hines and Bill Koerner to Clark for the two extra points to make it 21-0.

McNeese drove to the Indian 14 in the fourth period before a delay of-game penalty moved them back to the 19. After Viator went to the 15 on third down, a horde of Indians led by Ben Brownstein and James Moore smothered him back on the 27 on fourth down.

With only about six seconds to go in the game and McNeese on its 33 with fourth and two, Breaux went wide and tried to pitch out at the 35. Northeast's Stover was there and, with a clear 35 yards ahead, outraced the Cowboys to score as the clock ran out.

Randel tried to pass for the PAT but Oliver batted it down behind the line of scrimmage.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

It seems only yesterday they were playing the World Series and here we are right smack in the middle of a dandy football season. So, who's interested in basketball?

You'd think the pros a little over-anxious in opening the National Association's season yesterday, and the area's non-football high schools are already on the hardwood floors.

College basketball campaigns don't begin until December, but just the same the collegians are already bouncing the round ball.

Coach Lenny Fant's Northeast State Indians have been working for a week, and Coach Cecil Crowley unlimbered his Louisiana Tech company for its first practice Thursday.

The Tech cagers were introduced to representatives of the press and radio-TV at a "press clinic" conducted Wednesday at Ruston. Newspaper and radio-TV men of Shreveport, Monroe and Ruston were in attendance as guests of Louisiana Tech with special courtesies from Athletic Director Joe Aillet, Head Basketball Coach Crowley, Assistant Coach "Shorty" Long, Sports Publicity Director Jess Covington and Statistician Bob Henderson.

The clinic, a first-time event at Tech, gave sports writers a chance to talk to the players, pose the cagers for pictures, and look over the Louisiana Tech plant in general.

Every time we see the spacious Tech Memorial Gymnasium with all that floor space, and those 5,000 seats we renew our hopes that the much needed gymnasium for Northeast State will not be too remotely in the future. Northeast needs an on-the-campus gymnasium. Northeast is growing, and growing fast. We hope an appropriation for construction of a gym at Northeast isn't too far away.

Gyms entered the discussion at the Tech clinic. Coach Crowley's comment on Northeast's need was "that's one thing I'm certainly for over there." Said Coach Fant later: "He doesn't want to see us get one half as much as we do."

The Tech visit included inspection of the new Student Center with Clifford Meek, director, in charge of the tour. It offers about 42,000 square feet of floor space on two levels, contains fountain and grill, cafeteria, lounge, recreation parlor, student store, bookstore, barber shop, and a few other accessories. A banquet hall on the top floor could easily handle a crowd of about 450 to 500, and also is arranged for partitioning into three smaller banquet halls.

The old "Tonk" is no more. Tech students are already affectionately referring to the new biulding by the same name.

But basketball was the big reason for the clinic. Tech enjoyed its greatest campaign last season with a 21-4 record, the Gulf States Conference championship, United Press International ranking as the eighth best "small college" team, and top ranking in Louisiana by the Dick Dunkel Power Index.

This record was accomplished with such stars as Jack Moreland, the 6-foot-8 Minden lad who included among his season accomplishments Associated Press and UPI small college All-America; Ray Germany, 6-foot-5, Holly Ridge ace with AP and UPI recognition in addition to first team all-GSC along with Moreland; "Bud" Frye, the now graduated free throw artist of Pittsburg, Tex.; Jim Tullos, 6-1, Jena; J. W. Mercer, 6-4, Mangham, Ron Woodward, 6-3, Worden, Ill.; Billy Boatner, 5-11, Athens; Ron Futrell, 6-4, Houston, Tex.; Gary Richardson, Shreveport; and Joe Daigle, 6-3, Jennings.

With the exception of Frye and Richardson, Coach Chowley has the same crew back with additions of such talent as Roger Miller, 6-8, Baskin; Max Lewis, 6-0, Simsboro; Jackie Fair, 5-11, Ashland; Joe Moreland, 6-1, Minden (brother of Jack), and John Brooks, 6-5, Johnson City, Tenn.

Tech also is tackling one of its most ambitious schedules, including Mississippi State, Southwest Texas, Middle Tennessee, East Texas State, Missisippi Southern, the usual tough GSC opponents, and appearance in Shreveport's Gulf South Classic, Dec. 28-30, with such clubs as Hamline, George Washington U., Eastern Kentucky, Hardin-Simmons, Washington (Mo.) U., and Northwestern State.

Only a single game, at Jackson, Miss., is on schedule with Mississippi State, but the Maroons are due to play their first game at Tech the following season. The big Tech gym is responsible to a great measure for luring the Maroons to the slate.

Northeast State has only six men back from last season's basketball force, but a flock of fine freshmen has Coach Fant feeling better about the Tribe's future.

"We have the best crop of freshmen I've ever been able to get together in one season," said the Indian tutor who coached at Delhi High School, Louisiana College, and East Texas Baptist before joining Northeast. He's beginning his third year here.

"If we can recruit future freshmen as good as these, we'll be pretty well off," Fant figured.

Graduating such as Billy May, Mickey Kitchens, Sid Bradley and John Freeman has taken experience from the Redmen, but returned lettermen are Fred Bradley, 6-1, Bismarck, Mo.; Lanny Johnson, 6-1, Monroe; J. B. Edmistdon, 6-0, Simsboro; Ronald Doyle, Calvert City, Ky.; David Harkins, Hico; and Larry Stegall, Desloge, Mo. Johnson's a sophomore, but already it looks like he'll be playing a lot of basketball for the Tribe this season.

Joining the Tribe at practice the past week have been Fred Mazura, 6-2, an ex-service man from Elizabeth, N. J.; Gene Cozine, 6-4, junior college transfer from Missouri; Robert Cook, 6-5, Jonesboro, a red shirt last year; Milton Linder, 6-3, three-time high school all-state of Fort Necessity; Bobby Lockwood, 6-3, Spearsville; Malcolm George, 6-4, and Stewart Towns, 5-10, both of Quitman; Jerry Miller, 5-11, Marion; Eddie Smith, 6-4, Spearsville; Gerald Meeks, 6-4, Cumberland, Md.; and John Hagan, 6-8, a Colorado giant with little experience, but big, quick, and coming to the squad "all on his own."

Northeast, with an improving schedule, opens at Commerce, Tex., Dec. 4, against East Texas State, and faces William Carey in the first home game Dec. 8. Memphis State, Mississippi Southern, and Lamar Tech are included with the regular GSC fare.

Northeast again will hold its Christmas Tournament Dec. 28-29 with Lamar Tech, Northeast Oklahoma, and Nichols as their guests for the four-team event.

AGGIES TUMBLE

TCU Explodes For 39-6 Victory

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The slumbering giant of Texas Christian came alive with explosive runs by Jack Spikes and Harry Moreland and a deadeye passing attack engineered by Don George to crush Texas A&M 39-6 Saturday and remain in the Southwest Conference race.

Texas Christian's second largest crowd in history—42,060—saw the Horned Frogs, outplayed in the first period, come back with a mighty rush that unleashed all its potentials for the biggest score ever run up on old enemy A&M. The Frogs made 22 points in the second period.

Spikes ran 28 yards for a touchdown and kicked a 33-yard field goal. He also intercepted a pass to set up a touchdown.

Marvin Lasater and Marshall Harris combined on two touchdown pass plays. First Harris threw 19 yards to Lasater for a score—the first pass Harris ever had tried in three years of varsity play. The next time Lasater passed four yards to Harris for a touchdown.

In between Moreland took a 6-yard pass from George for a touchdown and George pegged to Dale Glasscock for 42 yards and another.

The Aggie score came on a 10-yard throw from Charley Millstead, the Aggie quarterback, to Russ Hill. It was the second Millstead to hill pass in covering 53 yards.

TCU blasted out 237 yards on the ground with Spikes making 76 of it to lead the ground gainers.

Like Coach, Like Player

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) O'Dell Franklin, Gadsden High School fullback, jumped off the bench Friday night and tackled Melvin Brown of Sidney Lanier just like his coach did in the 1954 Cotton Bowl.

Tommy Lewis of the University of Alabama jumped off the bench during the excitement of the Cotton Bowl and tackled Dickie Moegle, who was having a tremendous day for Rice.

Moegle was awarded a touchdown. So was Brown, and it was enough for Sidney Lanier to whip Gadsden 13-7.

Lewis is backfield coach for Gadsden.

Burrell Stars As Illinois Nips Gophers

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A guard, senior Bill Burrell, Saturday was Illinois' homecoming hero—making 16 tackles, recovering a fumble and stealing a pass in a 14-6 triumph over Minnesota.

Burrell, 207-pound Illini captain from Chebanese, Ill., captured a mid-field fumble by Larry Johnson in the second quarter to start his team's first scoring drive.

In five plays, not counting a 15-yard penalty setback, the Illini went across, Ethan Blackaby, second string sophomore from Canton, Ill., zig-zagged the final 19 yards of the thrust which was fired by the running of Dejustice Coleman and his 23 - yard pass catch from Mel Meyers.

Jerry Wood booted the point that appeared would hold up for the decisive factor in Illinois' third straight victory and second in Big Ten play after an opening loss to Indiana. But the Illini scored again in the final second when gambling Minnesota was forced to relinquish the ball on downs on its own 21.

Fullback Jim Brown rounded end to the 6 and eventually scampered the opposite end from the 3 to score. Wood again converted.

Burrell's interception was one of five the Illini grabbed in Minnesota's somewhat futile aerial attack, an offensive that kept the crowd of 57,485 students and old grads gasping however. Four of the five steals were on pitches by Gopher sophomore Sandy Stephens.

A fumble by Johnny Counts and Tom Brown's recovery for Minnesota on the Illini 25 set up the Gophers' only touchdown in the fourth period. Stephens capped it on a sneak of half a foot.

Judge Dickson attempted the place kick, which would have tied the score. Dickson got off the kick, but was hurried and it strayed wide of the uprights. Burrell was one of the first of the Illini who broke through.

Trojans Score 22-15 Victory Over Huskies

SEATTLE (AP) — Stung by a sour turn of fortune in the final period, powerful Southern California smashed 80 yards in nine plays to pull out a 22-15 football victory Saturday over the Washington Huskies.

Still it took a pass interception by center Dave Morgan on the game's final play to salvage the triumph for Troy.

The largest crowd here in eight years—52,500—saw an end to the Washington victory string in the Huskies fifth game of the season.

For the Trojans, whose massed army threatened to push the Huskies out of the stadium in the first quarter, it was victory No. 4 and the first in the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

Pounding at Washington's line, the Trojans had gained a 14-7 lead in the first half and the margin seemed safe until punting time came for Washington early in the third period.

The kick came down on Southern California's 20-yard line where Jerry Traynham and Lynn Gaskill both tried for the catch. The ball spurted away and Don Millich recovered for Washington.

Three plays later quarterback Bob Schloredt went five yards on a rollout for a touchdown and then duplicated the play for a two - point conversion.

The huge homecoming - day crowd was convinced the 15-14 Washington lead would stand up for the final 10 minutes. But not the Trojans. It took them four minutes to regain control and the biggest chunk of that 80 - yard drive was a 42-yard end run contribution by Traynham.

Willie Wood circled left end for six yards and the touchdown, then passed to George Van Vliet for two points more.

Sooners Tag 23-0 Beating On Missouri

The Sooners, battered by first-class non-A conference opposition early this season, proved again they can handle Big Eight teams with ease. The game was their 73rd straight without defeat in the conference.

The Oklahomans used a 74-yard quick kick by end Wahoo McDaniel to get them out of a slight embarrassment in the second quarter. Then they intercepted a Missouri pass to set up the first of three touchdowns.

Missouri never managed a real sustained drive. The Tigers did put up some stubborn opposition until late in the game when the sputtering Sooners attack began hitting on all eight and picked up some momentum.

Jim Davis, Oklahoma center, pushed the lead to 9-0 with a 25-yard field goal in the third period after Missouri had stopped a long drive seven yards short of a touchdown.

Oklahoma added two touchdowns in the fourth, the last one by its third unit, with only 10 seconds remaining. Quarterback Bobby Boyd ran 14 yards for one score. Bob Page went three yards for the last one.

AFTER SLOW START

Syracuse Downs Holy Cross, 42-6

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Undefeated Syracuse started slowly but exploded for three touchdowns in the final four and one-half minutes of the first half and crushed previously unbeaten Holy Cross, 42-6, Saturday at muddy Archbold Stadium.

Syracuse Captain Ger Schwedes led the Orangemen to their fourth straight lop - sided triumph. He scored two touchdowns and performed well on defense to earn the Fraser Memorial Trophy awarded to the Most Valuable Player in the Syracuse-Holy Cross game each year.

The powerhouse Syracuse attack did not start until after the visitors jumped off to an early 6-0 lead when halfback Dick Skinner intercepted a lateral and raced 55 yards for a touchdown.

For a while it appeared that the heavily - favored Orangemen were in for a rough afternoon. Holy Cross was sharp on defense for the first 25 minutes of the first half. Twice, the Crusaders stopped deep Syracuse drives, once on the four and again on the 14.

But then Syracuse started exacting revenge for last year's loss to the Crusaders—the only loss suffered by the 1958 Orange team.

Then, after a pass interception the Orange team scored again when Ernie Davis, made the best run of the day—a 40-yard dash into the end zone.

In all, Schwedes carried 13 times for 97 yards and caught five passes for 82 yards.

It was the first Syracuse win over Holy Cross in three years. The loss, the first in four games for Holy Cross, kept Crusader coach Dr. Eddie Anderson from recording his 101st victory at the school.

Underdog Day Court Takes Gold Cup Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Day Court, a 4-year-old brown colt, who went off a 16-1 underdog, Saturday finished with a rush to score a neck victory in the $121,900 Gold Cup which closed Hawthorne's 35-day fall meeting.

Day Court, ridden by Henry Moreno, fought off the favored Easy Spur in a thrilling stretch run to take the $71,300 winner's share in the 1¼ mile feature over a fast track.

Third, a length and half behind Easy Spur, was Tudor Era.

Day Court ran third most of the way while Tudor Era, a 4-1 choice, set the pace.

However, entering the head of the stretch, Easy Spur, the 9-5 choice of a crowd of 19,519, wrested the lead from Tudor Era. It was Easy Spur, Tudor Era and Day Court in the rush for the wire.

In mid - stretch, Day Court inched ahead of Easy Spur and widened the margin slightly as they charged from the finish line.

Day Court, English - bred colt, was clocked in 1:59 1-5 for the 1¼ mile race. This bettered the track record of 1:59 4-5 set by Round Table last year when he won the Gold Cup for the second consecutive year.

Day Court returned his backers $35.60, $10.60 and $5.80, as he scored only his second victory in 20 starts this year. However, he was disqualified from victory at Suffolk last June 24.

Easy Spur returned $3.80 and $3, Tudor Era $3.40.

Rounding out the eight - horse field, Terra Firma finished fourth, followed by Pete's Folly, Talent Show, Whodunit and Better Bee.

Day Court previously this year had piled up more than $77,000 in seconds and thirds in major stakes, including a second to Whodunit in Hollywood's Sunset Handicap. Day Court also was fourth to Hillsdale in the Hollywood Gold Cup.

Kansas Cops 33-14 Verdict Over K-State

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Powerful halfback Curtis McClinton scored 20 points for Kansas Saturday as the Jayhawks kept alive their Sugar Bowl hopes by whipping Kansas State 33-14 in a Big Eight football game.

Sophomores scored all five Kansas touchdowns with McClinton getting three of them and a two point conversion to lead the parade. The bruising 210 - pounder's touchdowns came on runs of one and 32 yards and an 11-yard pass from sophomore halfback John Hadl. Then he took a conversion pass from Hadl.

Kansas now is 3-2 for the season and 2-0 in Big Eight play. Kansas State has won only one of its five games.

Griffith Advised To Shift Solons

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, Saturday was advised by his lawyer to move the ball club to Minneapolis if he intends to stay in baseball.

The recommendation came from tax attorney C. Leo De Orsey. It could be the prelude to a decision by Griffith to seek American League permission to shift the franchise which has been in Washington since 1901.

Griffith has said he would be strongly influenced by his counsel's appraisal of the proposition by which Minneapolis hopes to jump into major league baseball.

De Orsey, a former director of the club, estimated the offer from Minneapolis interests would net the Senators more than $430,000 a year. He said the club's operations last year resulted in a loss.

De Orsey submitted a series of proposals to Griffith, including one to buy control of the club himself. De Orsey said his offer would become effective after July 1, 1960, but would be less than what he called the "alleged" bid by former U.S. Sen. George Bender of Ohio.

Bender said last week he and a group he represents would be willing to put up as much as seven million dollars for the franchise and keep it in Washington.

De Orsey, who set no figure on his own offer, also recommended that Griffith accept Bender's deal if it is all cash and if the Griffith interests receive 75 per cent.

Griffith and his family now control 52 per cent or more of outstanding shares. H. Gabriel Murphy, who has tried in court to block any transfer of the team, holds more than 40 per cent. De Orsey said, however, that 75 per cent of a sales price should go to the Griffiths as owners.

Griffith announced only that he had received De Orsey's recommendations and discussed them with him. Griffith added he would "take the matter up with the board of directors" but set no date.

Action on transferring a major league franchise must be taken during the month of October.

Ark. Teachers Defeats Delta State, 20-19

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Underdog Arkansas State Teachers College edged Delta State 20-19 Saturday.

It was strictly an offensive show as the teams swapped touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods. Teachers scored first in each instance and Frank Weatherington hit on two of three extra point tries. Brom Brumfield made only one good for Delta.

Henry Hawk, who gained 154 yards in 19 carries for the Teachers, scored two touchdowns, the first on a seven-yard run and the other on a 60-yard pass from quarterback Jim Faulkner.

Delta quarterback Frank Greenlee hit halfback Wayne Leonard with two scoring passes, covering 23 and 9 yards.

BOBBY NEILL

Dreams Come True For Gritty Fighter

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP) — Bobby Neill once lay crippled and mangled in a plaster cast, dreaming of becoming a world boxing champion.

Specialists told him: "Forget it —you'll be lucky if you walk again, let alone fight."

But the scot dreamed on. Even two more bone-breaking accidents failed to shatter his courage.

He meets world featherweight champion Davey Moore, the preacher's son from Springfield, Ohio, in a non-title fight at London's Wembley Stadium next Tuesday. Moore is a 3-1 favorite.

Victory in that fight could bring Neill a crack at Moore's world title.

"Tuesday's fight is the one thing that has made all the worries and troubles of the past worthwhile," said Neill, now in his third fighting comeback in five years.

Some people have said the fight should be banned.

"Neill doesn't stand a chance," they have argued.

Replied Neill: "I'm more apprehensive about crossing the road than I am about putting my chin in the way of the world champ.

"After all I've been through much more outside the ring than could ever happen to me inside it. What can Moore do except bang me on the chin?"

That's Neill's philosophy. And he's entitled to it far more than most fighters in the business.

24 years: Road smash No. 2. Broke left leg and ribs.

At 26, Neill is ready for the toughest fight of his boxing life against Moore.

"It's the fight I've dreamed about," said the well-muscled lad. "Once I spent 18 months on my back. Doctors told me I'd never walk again, much less fight.

"So I had to dream.

"I dreamed of scoring five goals for Scotland against England at soccer.

"At twilight, as the last rays of the sun peeped into the room, I'd dream of a knockout over Rocky Marciano and Joe Louis.

"Well, now the dreams are coming true. That's why I go on. And nobody's going to stop me—not even Davey Moore."

Then Neill, who was an accountant and went to work in a derby hat and rolled umbrella before turning prize fighter, added:

"Lots of people say that after all I've been through I shouldn't be allowed to fight, that I'm crazy for throwing punches for my daily bread, that I'm a fighting fool.

"Let them remember I've got enough old fashioned Scottish common sense to know what I'm doing. I've never felt so fit in my life.

"I dreamed of being a champ. And a champ I mean to be."

TD FAMINE ENDS

Ohio State Trips Boilermakers, 15-0

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State returned to its "three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust" offense Saturday and ground out a 15-0 victory over Purdue's sixth-rated Boilermakers in a Big Ten contest before 83,391.

Coming back from two straight shutouts, the underdog Bucks discarded the flanker and other frilly formations they had used previously this year and stuck strictly with the split T. After eight pointless quarters against Southern Cal and Illinois, the Bucks scored in every possible way Saturday with one touchdown, a conversion, two field goals and a safety.

The Buckeye touchdown came on a 32-yard-run by substitute quarterback Tom Matte, climaxing a 12-play, 80-yard drive in the second period. Dave Kilgore booted a 36-yard field goal in the opening period and a 35-yarder with eight seconds to play. The safety came when Purdue's Jim Tiller was spilled in the end zone after taking a punt on the 16 and racing back in an attempt to escape Ohio tacklers.

Purdue piled up 207 yards rushing and 81 passing in a futile effort to score. Some great punting by Ohio's Jerry Fields kept the Boilermakers deep in their own territory, one punt stopping on the 2-yard line, one on the 4 and two on the 7.

Purdue's biggest drive, an 88-yarder—came in the final period when the Boilermakers halted Ohio on the 1-foot line and promptly marched to Ohio's 11 before losing the ball on downs.

Purdue had surrendered only 212 yards rushing to three previous opponents, an average of only 71 yards, but the reconstructed Buckeye juggernaut rolled for 266. Big Bob White picked up 111 in 31 tries.

The Bucks actually made 298 on the ground, but the quarterbacks were to town for 32 yards in losses on rollout plays.

BOSTON TRIUMPHS

NEWTON, Mass., (AP) — Powerful Boston College hammered Dartmouth into submission 35-12 Saturday behind the slick guiding hand of quarterback Johnny Amabile. It was the first football meeting of the schools since 1916.

PAUL MARTIN

LOOKS 'EM OVER

It seems only yesterday they were playing the World Series and here we are right smack in the middle of a dandy football season. So, who's interested in basketball?

You'd think the pros a little over-anxious in opening the National Association's season yesterday, and the area's non-football high schools are already on the hardwood floors.

College basketball campaigns don't begin until December, but just the same the collegians are already bouncing the round ball.

Coach Lenny Fant's Northeast State Indians have been working for a week, and Coach Cecil Crowley unlimbered his Louisiana Tech company for its first practice Thursday.

The Tech cagers were introduced to representatives of the press and radio-TV at a "press clinic" conducted Wednesday at Ruston. Newspaper and radio-TV men of Shreveport, Monroe and Ruston were in attendance as guests of Louisiana Tech with special courtesies from Athletic Director Joe Aillet, Head Basketball Coach Crowley, Assistant Coach "Shorty" Long, Sports Publicity Director Jess Covington and Statistician Bob Henderson.

The clinic, a first-time event at Tech, gave sports writers a chance to talk to the players, pose the cagers for pictures, and look over the Louisiana Tech plant in general.

Every time we see the spacious Tech Memorial Gymnasium with all that floor space, and those 5,000 seats we renew our hopes that the much needed gymnasium for Northeast State will not be too remotely in the future. Northeast needs an on-the-campus gymnasium. Northeast is growing, and growing fast. We hope an appropriation for construction of a gym at Northeast isn't too far away.

Gyms entered the discussion at the Tech clinic. Coach Crowley's comment on Northeast's need was "that's one thing I'm certainly for over there." Said Coach Fant later: "He doesn't want to see us get one half as much as we do."

The Tech visit included inspection of the new Student Center with Clifford Meek, director, in charge of the tour. It offers about 42,000 square feet of floor space on two levels, contains fountain and grill, cafeteria, lounge, recreation parlor, student store, bookstore, barber shop, and a few other accessories. A banquet hall on the top floor could easily handle a crowd of about 450 to 500, and also is arranged for partitioning into three smaller banquet halls.

The old "Tonk" is no more. Tech students are already affectionately referring to the new biulding by the same name.

But basketball was the big reason for the clinic. Tech enjoyed its greatest campaign last season with a 21-4 record, the Gulf States Conference championship, United Press International ranking as the eighth best "small college" team, and top ranking in Louisiana by the Dick Dunkel Power Index.

This record was accomplished with such stars as Jack Moreland, the 6-foot-8 Minden lad who included among his season accomplishments Associated Press and UPI small college All-America; Ray Germany, 6-foot-5, Holly Ridge ace with AP and UPI recognition in addition to first team all-GSC along with Moreland; "Bud" Frye, the now graduated free throw artist of Pittsburg, Tex.; Jim Tullos, 6-1, Jena; J. W. Mercer, 6-4, Mangham, Ron Woodward, 6-3, Worden, Ill.; Billy Boatner, 5-11, Athens; Ron Futrell, 6-4, Houston, Tex.; Gary Richardson, Shreveport; and Joe Daigle, 6-3, Jennings.

With the exception of Frye and Richardson, Coach Chowley has the same crew back with additions of such talent as Roger Miller, 6-8, Baskin; Max Lewis, 6-0, Simsboro; Jackie Fair, 5-11, Ashland; Joe Moreland, 6-1, Minden (brother of Jack), and John Brooks, 6-5, Johnson City, Tenn.

Tech also is tackling one of its most ambitious schedules, including Mississippi State, Southwest Texas, Middle Tennessee, East Texas State, Missisippi Southern, the uual tough GSC opponents, and appearance in Shreveport's Gulf South Classic, Dec. 28-30, with such clubs as Hamline, George Washington U., Eastern Kentucky, Hardin-Simmons, Washington (Mo.) U., and Northwestern State.

Only a single game, at Jackson, Miss., is on schedule with Mississippi State, but the Maroons are due to play their first game at Tech the following season. The big Tech gym is responsible to a great measure for luring the Maroons to the slate.

Northeast State has only six men back from last season's basketball force, but a flock of fine freshmen has Coach Fant feeling better about the Tribe's future.

"We have the best crop of freshmen I've ever been able to get together in one season," said the Indian tutor who coached at Delhi High School, Louisiana College, and East Texas Baptist before joining Northeast. He's beginning his third year here.

"If we can recruit future freshmen as good as these, we'll be pretty well off," Fant figured.

Graduating such as Billy May, Mickey Kitchens, Sid Bradley and John Freeman has taken experience from the Redmen, but returned lettermen are Fred Bradley, 6-1, Bismarck, Mo.; Lanny Johnson, 6-1, Monroe; J. B. Edmistdon, 6-0, Simsboro; Ronald Doyle, Calvert City, Ky.; David Harkins, Hico; and Larry Stegall, Desloge, Mo. Johnson's a sophomore, but already it looks like he'll be playing a lot of basketball for the Tribe this season.

Joining the Tribe at practice the past week have been Fred Mazura, 6-2, an ex-service man from Elizabeth, N. J.; Gene Cozine, 6-4, junior college transfer from Missouri; Robert Cook, 6-5, Jonesboro, a red shirt last year; Milton Linder, 6-3, three-time high school all-state of Fort Necessity; Bobby Lockwood, 6-3, Spearsville; Malcolm George, 6-4, and Stewart Towns, 5-10, both of Quitman; Jerry Miller, 5-11, Marion; Eddie Smith, 6-4, Spearsville; Gerald Meeks, 6-4, Cumberland, Md.; and John Hagan, 6-8, a Colorado giant with little experience, but big, quick, and coming to the squad "all on his own."

Northeast, with an improving schedule, opens at Commerce, Tex., Dec. 4, against East Texas State, and faces William Carey in the first home game Dec. 8. Memphis State, Mississippi Southern, and Lamar Tech are included with the regular GSC fare.

Northeast again will hold its Christmas Tournament Dec. 28-29 with Lamar Tech, Northeast Oklahoma, and Nichols as their guests for the four-team event.

TCU Explodes For 39-6 Victory

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The slumbering giant of Texas Christian came alive with explosive runs by Jack Spikes and Harry Moreland and a deadeye passing attack engineered by Don George to crush Texas A&M 39-6 Saturday and remain in the Southwest Conference race.

Texas Christian's second largest crowd in history—42,000—saw the Horned Frogs, outplayed in the first period, come back with a mighty rush that unleashed all its potentials for the biggest score ever run up on old enemy A&M. The Frogs made 22 points in the second period.

Spikes ran 28 yards for a touchdown and kicked a 33-yard field goal. He also intercepted a pass to set up a touchdown.

Marvin Lasater and Marshall Harris combined on two touchdown pass plays. First Harris threw 19 yards to Lasater for a score—the first pass Harris ever had tried in three years of varsity play. The next time Lasater passed four yards to Harris for a touchdown.

In between Moreland took a 6-yard pass from George for a touchdown and George pegged to Dale Glasscock for 42 yards and another.

The Aggie score came on a 10-yard throw from Charley Milstead, the Aggie quarterback, to Russ Hill. It was the second Milstead to hill pass in covering 53 yards.

TCU blasted out 237 yards on the ground with Spikes making 76 of it to lead the ground gainers.

Like Coach, Like Player

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) O'Dell Franklin, Gadsden High School fullback, jumped off the bench Friday night and tackled Melvin Brown of Sidney Lanier just like his coach did in the 1954 Cotton Bowl.

Tommy Lewis of the University of Alabama jumped off the bench during the excitement of the Cotton Bowl and tackled Dickie Moegle, who was having a tremendous day for Rice.

Moegle was awarded a touchdown. So was Brown, and it was enough for Sidney Lanier to whip Gadsden 13-7.

Lewis is backfield coach for Gadsden.

Burrell Stars As Illinois Nips Gophers

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A guard, senior Bill Burrell, Saturday was Illinois' homecoming hero—making 16 tackles, recovering a fumble and stealing a pass in a 14-6 triumph over Minnesota.

Burrell, 207-pound Illini captain from Chebanese, Ill., captured a mid-field fumble by Larry Johnson in the second quarter to start his team's first scoring drive.

In five plays, not counting a 15-yard penalty setback, the Illini went across. Ethan Blackaby, second string sophomore from Canton, Ill., zig-zagged the final 19 yards of the thrust which was fired by the running of Dejustice Coleman and his 23 - yard pass catch from Mel Meyers.

Jerry Wood booted the point that appeared would hold up for the decisive factor in Illinois' third straight victory and second in Big Ten play after an opening loss to Indiana. But the Illini scored again in the final second when gambling Minnesota was forced to relinquish the ball on downs on its own 21.

Fullback Jim Brown rounded end to the 6 and eventually scampered the opposite end from the 3 to score. Wood again converted.

Burrell's interception was one of five the Illini grabbed in Minnesota's somewhat futile aerial attack, an offensive that kept the crowd of 57,485 students and old grads gasping however. Four of the five steals were on pitches by Gopher sophomore Sandy Stephens.

A fumble by Johnny Counts and Tom Brown's recovery for Minnesota on the Illini 25 set up the Gophers' only touchdown in the fourth period. Stephens capped it on a sneak of half a foot.

Judge Dickson attempted the place kick, which would have tied the score. Dickson got off the kick, but was hurried and it strayed wide of the uprights. Burrell was one of the first of the Illini who broke through.

Trojans Score 22-15 Victory Over Huskies

SEATTLE (AP) — Stung by a sour turn of fortune in the final period, powerful Southern California smashed 80 yards in nine plays to pull out a 22-15 football victory Saturday over the Washington Huskies.

Still it took a pass interception by center Dave Morgan on the game's final play to salvage the triumph for Troy.

The largest crowd here in eight years—52,500—saw an end to the Washington victory string in the Huskies fifth game of the season.

For the Trojans, whose massed army threatened to push the Huskies out of the stadium in the first quarter, it was victory No. 4 and the first in the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

Pounding at Washington's line, the Trojans had gained a 14-7 lead in the first half and the margin seemed safe until punting time came for Washington early in the third period.

The kick came down on Southern California's 20-yard line where Jerry Traynham and Lynn Gaskill both tried for the catch. The ball spurted away and Don Millich recovered for Washington.

Three plays later quarterback Bob Schloredt went five yards on a rollout for a touchdown and then duplicated the play for a two - point conversion.

The huge homecoming - day crowd was convinced the 15-14 Washington lead would stand up for the final 10 minutes. But not the Trojans. It took them four minutes to regain control and the biggest chunk of that 80 - yard drive was a 42-yard end run contribution by Traynham.

Willie Wood circled left end for six yards and the touchdown, then passed to George Van Vliet for two points more.

Sooners Tag 23-0 Beating On Missouri

The Sooners, battered by first-class non-A conference opposition early this season, proved again they can handle Big Eight teams with ease. The game was their 73rd straight without defeat in the conference.

The Oklahomans used a 74-yard quick kick by end Wahoo McDaniel to get them out of a slight embarrassment in the second quarter. Then they intercepted a Missouri pass to set up the first of three touchdowns.

Missouri never managed a real sustained drive. The Tigers did put up some stubborn opposition until late in the game when the sputtering Sooners attack began hitting on all eight and picked up some momentum.

Jim Davis, Oklahoma center, pushed the lead to 9-0 with a 25-yard field goal in the third period after Missouri had stopped a long drive seven yards short of a touchdown.

Oklahoma added two touchdowns in the fourth, the last one by its third unit, with only 10 seconds remaining. Quarterback Bobby Boyd ran 14 yards for one score. Bob Page went three yards for the last one.

AFTER SLOW START

Syracuse Downs Holy Cross, 42-6

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Undefeated Syracuse started slowly but exploded for three touchdowns in the final four and one-half minutes of the first half and crushed previously unbeaten Holy Cross, 42-6, Saturday at muddy Archbold Stadium.

Syracuse Captain Ger Schwedes led the Orangemen to their fourth straight lop - sided triumph. He scored two touchdowns and performed well on defense to earn the Fraser Memorial Trophy awarded to the Most Valuable Player in the Syracuse-Holy Cross game each year.

The powerhouse Syracuse attack did not start until after the visitors jumped off to an early 6-0 lead when halfback Dick Skinner intercepted a lateral and raced 55 yards for a touchdown.

For a while it appeared that the heavily - favored Orangemen were in for a rough afternoon. Holy Cross was sharp on defense for the first 25 minutes of the first half. Twice, the Crusaders stopped deep Syracuse drives, once on the four and again on the 14.

But then Syracuse started exacting revenge for last year's loss to the Crusaders—the only loss suffered by the 1958 Orange team.

Then, after a pass interception, the Orange team scored again when Ernie Davis, made the best run of the day—a 40-yard dash into the end zone.

In all, -Schwedes carried 13 times for 97 yards and caught five passes for 82 yards.

It was the first Syracuse win over Holy Cross in three years. The loss, the first in four games for Holy Cross, kept Crusader coach Dr. Eddie Anderson from recording his 101st victory at the school.

Underdog Day Court Takes Gold Cup Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Day Court, a 4-year-old brown colt, who went off a 16-1 underdog, Saturday finished with a rush to score a neck victory in the $121,900 Gold Cup which closed Hawthorne's 35-day fall meeting.

Day Court, ridden by Henry Moreno, fought off the favored Easy Spur in a thrilling stretch run to take the $71,300 winner's share in the 1¼ mile feature over a fast track.

Third, a length and half behind Easy Spur, was Tudor Era.

Day Court ran third most of the way while Tudor Era, a 4-1 choice, set the pace.

However, entering the head of the stretch, Easy Spur, the 9-5 choice of a crowd of 19,519, wrested the lead from Tudor Era. It was Easy Spur, Tudor Era and Day Court in the rush for the wire.

In mid - stretch, Day Court inched ahead of Easy Spur and widened the margin slightly as they charged from the finish line.

Day Court, English - bred colt, was clocked in 1:59 1-5 for the 1¼ mile race. This bettered the track record of 1:59 4-5 set by Round Table last year when he won the Gold Cup for the second consecutive year.

Day Court returned his backers $35.60, $10.60 and $5.80, as he scored only his second victory in 20 starts this year. However, he was disqualified from victory at Suffolk last June 24.

Easy Spur returned $3.80 and $3, Tudor Era $3.40.

Rounding out the eight - horse field, Terra Firma finished fourth, followed by Pete's Folly, Talent Show, Whodunit and Better Bee.

Day Court previously this year had piled up more than $77,000 in seconds and thirds in major stakes, including a second to Whodunit in Hollywood's Sunset Handicap. Day Court also was fourth to Hillsdale in the Hollywood Gold Cup.

Kansas Cops 33-14 Verdict Over K-State

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Powerful halfback Curtis McClinton scored 20 points for Kansas Saturday as the Jayhawks kept alive their Sugar Bowl hopes by whipping Kansas State 33-14 in a Big Eight football game.

Sophomores scored all five Kansas touchdowns with McClinton getting three of them and a two-point conversion to lead the parade. The bruising 210 - pounders touchdowns came on runs of one and 32 yards and an 11-yard pass from sophomore halfback John Hadl. Then he took a conversion pass from Hadl.

Kansas now is 3-2 for the season and 2-0 in Big Eight play. Kansas State has won only one of its five games.

Griffith Advised To Shift Solons

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, Saturday was advised by his lawyer to move the ball club to Minneapolis if he intends to stay in baseball.

The recommendation came from tax attorney C. Leo De Orsey. It could be the prelude to a decision by Griffith to seek American League permission to shift the franchise which has been in Washington since 1901.

Griffith has said he would be strongly influenced by his counsel's appraisal of the proposition by which Minneapolis hopes to jump into major league baseball.

De Orsey, a former director of the club, estimated the offer from Minneapolis interests would net the Senators more than $430,000 a year. He said the club's operations last year resulted in a loss.

De Orsey submitted a series of proposals to Griffith, including one to buy control of the club himself. De Orsey said his offer would become effective after July 1, 1960, but would be less than what he called the "alleged" bid by former U.S. Sen. George Bender of Ohio.

Bender said last week he and a group he represents would be willing to put up as much as seven million dollars for the franchise and keep it in Washington.

De Orsey, who set no figure on his own offer, also recommended that Griffith accept Bender's deal if it is all cash and if the Griffith interests receive 75 per cent.

Griffith and his family now control 52 per cent or more of outstanding shares. H. Gabriel Murphy, who has tried in court to block any transfer of the team, holds more than 40 per cent. De Orsey said, however, that 75 per cent of a sales price should go to the Griffiths as owners.

Griffith announced only that he had received De Orsey's recommendations and discussed them with him. Griffith added he would "take the matter up with the board of directors" but set no date

Action on transferring a major league franchise must be taken during the month of October.

Ark. Teachers Defeats Delta State, 20-19

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Underdog Arkansas State Teachers College edged Delta State 20-19 Saturday.

It was strictly an offensive show as the teams swapped touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods. Teachers scored first in each instance and Frank Weatherington hit on two of three extra point tries. Brom Brumfield made only one good for Delta.

Henry Hawk, who gained 154 yards in 19 carries for the Teachers, scored two touchdowns, the first on a seven-yard run and the other on a 60-yard pass from quarterback Jim Faulkner.

Delta quarterback Frank Greenlee hit halfback Wayne Leonard with two scoring passes, covering 23 and 9 yards.

BOBBY NEILL

Dreams Come True For Gritty Fighter

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP) — Bobby Neill once lay crippled and mangled in a plaster cast, dreaming of becoming a world boxing champion.

Specialists told him: "Forget it —you'll be lucky if you walk again, let alone fight."

But the scot dreamed on. Even two more bone-breaking accidents failed to shatter his courage.

He meets world featherweight champion Davey Moore, the preacher's son from Springfield, Ohio, in a non-title fight at London's Wembley Stadium next Tuesday. Moore is a 3-1 favorite.

Victory in that fight could bring Neill a crack at Moore's world title.

"Tuesday's fight is the one thing that has made all the worries and troubles of the past worthwhile," said Neill, now in his third fighting comeback in five years.

Some people have said the fight should be banned.

"Neill doesn't stand a chance," they have argued.

Replied Neill: "I'm more apprehensive about crossing the road than I am about putting my chin in the way of the world champ.

"After all I've been through much more outside the ring than could ever happen to me inside it. What can Moore do except bang me on the chin?"

That's Neill's philosophy. And he's entitled to it far more than most fighters in the business.

24 years: Road smash No. 2. Broke left leg and ribs.

At 26, Neill is ready for the toughest fight of his boxing life against Moore.

"It's the fight I've dreamed about," said the well-muscled lad. "Once I spent 18 months on my back. Doctors told me I'd never walk again, much less fight.

"So I had to dream.

"I dreamed of scoring five goals for Scotland against England at soccer.

"At twilight, as the last rays of the sun peeped into the room, I'd dream of a knockout over Rocky Marciano and Joe Louis.

"Well, now the dreams are coming true. That's why I go on. And nobody's going to stop me—not even Davey Moore."

Then Neill, who was an accountant and went to work in a derby hat and rolled umbrella before turning prize fighter, added:

"Lots of people say that after all I've been through I shouldn't be allowed to fight, that I'm crazy for throwing punches for my daily bread, that I'm a fighting fool.

"Let them remember I've got enough old fashioned Scottish common sense to know what I'm doing. I've never felt so fit in my life.

"I dreamed of being a champ. And a champ I mean to be."

GW Swamped By Furman, 24-0

GREENVILLE, S.C. (UPI) — Fullbacks George Angelica and Tom Campbell powered to two first half touchdowns and Furman smothered George Washington's passing in the second half rain and mud Saturday for a 24 - 0 Southern Conference football victory.

Furman's homecoming crowd, held to 5,000 by the weather, dwindled to less than half that by the game's end. Sirrine Stadium, scene of a freshman game Friday and a high school game Friday night, was a sea of mud.

Ohio State Trips Boilermakers, 15-0

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State returned to its "three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust" offense Saturday and ground out a 15-0 victory over Purdue's sixth-rated Boilermakers in a Big Ten contest before 83,391.

Coming back from two straight shutouts, the underdog Bucks discarded the flanker and other frilly formations they had used previously this year and stuck strictly with the split T. After eight pointless quarters against Southern Cal and Illinois, the Bucks scored in every possible way Saturday with one touchdown, a conversion, two field goals and a safety.

The Buckeye touchdown came on a 32-yard-run by substitute quarterback Tom Matte, climaxing a 12-play, 80-yard drive in the second period. Dave Kilgore booted a 36-yard field goal in the opening period and a 35-yarder with eight seconds to play. The safety came when Purdue's Jim Tiller was spilled in the end zone after taking a punt on the 16 and racing back in an attempt to escape Ohio tacklers.

Purdue piled up 207 yards rushing and 81 passing in a futile effort to score. Some great punting by Ohio's Jerry Fields kept the Boilermakers deep in their own territory, one punt stopping on the 2-yard line, one on the 4 and two on the 7.

Purdue's biggest drive, an 88-yarder—came in the final period when the Boilermakers halted Ohio on the 1-foot line and promptly marched to Ohio's 11 before losing the ball on downs.

Purdue had surrendered only 212 yards rushing to three previous opponents, an average of only 71 yards, but the reconstructed Buckeye juggernaut rolled for 266. Big Bob White picked up 111 in 31 tries.

The Bucks actually made 293 on the ground, but the quarterbacks were to town for 32 yards in losses on rollout plays.

Tech Basketball Slate Announced

RUSTON, La. (Special) — A 23-game basketball schedule with cage teams from eight states has been announced for Louisiana Tech's 1959-60 competition.

Champions of the Gulf States Conference last season with a 9-1 GSC mark, the Techsters this winter will face 12 teams on the home court and 11 on the road. They will open the season Dec. 1 in a non - conference tilt with East Texas State at Ruston.

The Bulldogs, who won the annual Gulf South Classic last year, will again participate in the big Shreveport tourney Dec. 28 through Dec. 30.

Tech's schedule, announced by athletic director Joe Aillet, includes contests with quintets from Louisiana, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kentucky and Alabama. Four teams which the Canines did not meet last year are on the schedule. They are Mississippi State College, Middle Tennessee State, Murray State and Spring Hill College.

Coach Cecil Crowley of Tech will have eight lettermen back from the 1958-59 team that racked up a 21-4 season mark, the best won-lost mark in the history of basketball at Tech. The Bulldogs last winter were at the end of the season rated eighth best team in the nation in the United Press International small-college poll.

Returning lettermen to the Bulldog kennel include: forwards, Joe Daigle, Jennings junior, Ron Futrell, Houston, Tex., junior, J. W. Mercer, Mangham senior, Raymond Germany, Holly Ridge senior; center Jack Moreland, Minden junior; guards, Billy Boatner, Athens sophomore, team captain Ron Woodward, Worden, Ill., senior, Jim Tullos, Jena senior.

The schedule:

Dec. 1—East Texas Etate, Ruston.
Dec. 5—Southwest Texas, Ruston.
Dec. 9—Mississippi State, Jackson, Miss.
Dec. 12—Middle Tennessee State, Ruston
Dec. 14—Southeastern Oklahoma, Ruston.
Dec. 19—Arkansas Tech. Russellville, Ark.
Dec. 28-30—Gulf South Classic, Shreveport.
Jan. 4—McNeese State, Lake Charles.
Jan. 8—Northeast State, Ruston.

Feb. 25—Spring Hill, Ruston.
Feb. 27—Northwestern State, Ruston.

Oregon Tops Favored AF In 20-3 Scrap

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Cleveland Jones, a 5-foot 4-inch, 145-pound speedster scored on a 65-yard pass play for Oregon's first touchdown as the Flying Ducks upset favored Air Force 20-3 Saturday.

The previously unbeaten Air Force had been favored by a touchdown but they simply couldn't cope with Oregon's speed. Air Force hadn't lost in 14 games.

Oregon gobbled up four Air Force passes, got off the 50-yard scoring pass and several long drives, two of them resulting in touchdowns.

It made five straight victories for the Ducks, the only major unbeaten independent remaining in the Far West.

Halfback Phil Lane set up the only Air Force score with a 19-yard punt return early in the game. That put the ball on the Oregon 34 and Air Force managed to punch to the 16 before Oregon stiffened. There, fullback George Pupich kicked a field goal from the 23.

Thereafter, the game was Oregon's.

The Ducks broke loose with two touchdowns in the second quarter. Jones raced behind the Air Force defenders and took the pass from quarterback Dave Grosz for Oregon's first score.

Fullback Harry Needham scored the other two Oregon touchdowns with one-yard line plunges.

Celtics Dump Royals In NBA Opener

BOSTON (AP) — The champion Boston Celtics opened defense of their title Saturday with a 129-125 victory over the Cincinnati Royals the team that was the National Basketball Assn. doormat a year ago.

They accounted for 107 points.

Twyman, Dave Piontek, Arlen Bockhorn and Wayne Embry scored 92 points.

The Celtics took the lead for good midway in the third quarter.

Not only was Russell high scorer for Boston but he snared a high of 23 rebounds, three more than Heinsohn.

Cousy was his usual dazzling self, scoring 23 points and receiving credit for 13 assists.

The youthful Royals—the oldest Twyman at 26—were better at the foul line, netting 33 of 39. Boston missed 16 of 45.

Underdog Tide Deadlocks Tennessee Before 42,000

By BILL TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Underdog Alabama traded first half touchdowns with Tennessee Saturday and settled for a 7-7 deadlock before 42,000 fans in a battle of ancient Southeastern Conference gridiron rivals.

After the first half, the foes waged a fierce defensive struggle—each waiting for a break that never came—which put both teams to a grueling test.

Tennessee, loser only to Georgia Tech this season, struck early behind the wraith-like running of tailback Billy Majors, driving 45 yards to a first period touchdown with Majors going the last three. End Cotton Letner added the extra point.

But just before the half ended, Alabama, aided by a 15-yard penalty, counted on a 21-yard pass play from quarterback Pat Trammel to end Stanley Vell and tackle Fred Sington tied it up with his conversion.

Sington twice had a chance to bring Alabama home a winner. He missed a field goal try from the Tennessee 29 and again in the last minute from the 21.

The tie was the sixth in the long Southeastern Conference series. Each team has won 18.

In the bruising second half, the defensive-minded elevens swapped seven punts with each bidding for a break beneath threatening skies. The rain never came and neither did the break.

Alabama's alert line three times came up with big plays, guard Don Cochran throwing Majors for a loss of five on one play, guard Bill Hannah catching Gene Etter for 12 on another, and end Bud Moore trapping Etter for a six-yard pass.

In driving 45 yards for its touchdown, Tennessee used nine plays with Majors handling the ball on seven of them. He covered the last 15 yards himself on smashes of five, four, three and three yards.

Shortly before the first half ran out, a punt by Alabama's Bobby Skelton went out on the Tennessee five. Majors kicked out but a personal foul against Tennessee put Alabama in business on the Vols' 21.

Trammell, a promising sophomore, tried one pass, then found Bell in the left flat. The sophomore end gathered in the ball and raced 18 yards, out-distancing two Tennessee defenders.

Tall Tigers Open Basketball Drills

BATON ROUGE, La. (Special) — You might think that on the campus of the nation's No. 1 college football team, in the midst of an exciting winning streak, the opening of basketball practices would go unnoticed.

But Louisiana State University students walking by the LSU gym-armory are quite aware that the Tigers also field a basketball team, and perhaps one of their most promising teams in recent years.

The tall young men who enter the gym each afternoon are unmistakably basketball players, and most of them newcomers to the Tiger varsity.

There's Tom Conklin, a six-foot, ten-inch center; and forwards Joe Borgini, who is 6-6; Joe Clune and Ray Hines at 6-5; and Ray Lewis at 6-4. They will give LSU its tallest squad since the days of Bob Pettit.

Coach Jay McCreary who started his third year in Tigertown with the opening of practice Thursday, expects his team to have speed as well as size.

Probably his fastest player will be another newcomer, sophomore guard George Nattin, a swift six-tooter who may be the key man in McCreary's plans for advancing the Bengals in the SEC standings.

LSU has six lettermen returning from the 1958-59 team that won 10 and lost 15, including forward Carey Guglielmo, guards Phil Raisor, Dick Davies, Tommy Collins, Tommy Raborn and Stan Jacobs.

The remaining players will be making their first try with the varsity Of the 'big men' expected to make LSU stronger under the boards, all are sophomores except Clune, a junior.

Besides Nattin two other sophomore guards will be battling the returning veterans for a place in the lineup — John Hudson, former All-Stater from Jennings, and 5-foot, 8-inch Allen Smith.

McCreary's early practice plans call for conditioning drills and work on offensive patterns.

Pugh Paces Va. Tech To 40-14 Victory

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Dazzling Alger Pugh scored three touchdowns to pace a cyclonic Virginia Tech ground and air attack that blew down Virginia 40-14 here Saturday in Richmond's Tobacco Festival football feature.

Gaining almost at will from the start of hostilities before a sell-out crowd of 24,000, the Techmen scored five of the first seven times they had the ball and ran up a 34-0 advantage before Virginia finally got its first points in the last period.

Pugh started the rout with a slithering 36 - yard touchdown romp that climaxed a 74-yard Tech advance with the game less than 11 minutes old. Later, the elusive senior halfback—never a regular until this season—scored on a one-yard pass from quarterback Frank Eastman and on a three-yard run.

This third touchdown Pugh had set up with a 34-yard pass to end Carroll Dale which carried to the Virginia 4.

The other Tech touchdowns were by halfback Dickie Snead on a 2-yard pitch from Eastman, quarterback Charlie Speck on a 1-yard run and quarterback Charlie Price on a 5-yard romp over tackle.

Virginia, absorbing its 13th consecutive setback over a span of two seasons, got all its points from halfback Tommy Gravins.

Gravins climaxed a 75-yard Cavalier march by running over from the 2 late in the final stanza, snagged a Ted Denby pass for two extra points, then took a 5-yard Denby pitch for the second Virginia six-pointer two minutes later.

Smith's Tally Gives UCLA 19-12 Decision

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fullback Ray Smith broke loose with a 48-yard touchdown run in the second quarter and UCLA went on to defeat California 19-12 Saturday in the 30th renewal of their traditional rivalry.

The spectacular run by the 187-pound senior put the Bruins in front 13-12 and that was enough to wreck the Bears from Berkeley.

UCLA added another touchdown in the third quarter to sew it up as a crowd of 32,933 watched the two teams play for the first time under the banner of the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

The final Bruin tally was set up when reserve end Earl Smith stole a pitchout from Larry Parque, intended for Bob Wills. It went for a fumble recovery on the Cal 31. Five plays later, tailback Bill Kilmer scored from the 1, his second touchdown.

The loss was the fourth in a row for California and gave UCLA its first victory after a loss to Pittsburgh and its scoreless tie with Purdue.

DYAS KICKS PAT

Auburn Hands Engineers Season's First Defeat, 7-6

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — Auburn marched 79 yards on sheer power with the second-half kickoff Saturday and fullback Ed Dyas kicked the extra point for a 7-6 victory over fourth-ranked Georgia Tech before 45,000 rain-soaked fans.

Tech kicking specialist Tommy Wells missed the conversion try after Tech's second period touchdown and then was wide on a 38-yard field goal attempt 14 seconds before the game ended.

It was the first loss of the season for the Yellow Jackets, who had won four straight.

Sophomore quarterback Bobby Hunt scored the Auburn touchdown mid-way through the third period on a six-yard run. During the long drive following the second half kickoff, Hunt and halfback Lamar Rawson moved the Tigers downfield with a series of long runs.

Rawson ran the third - period kickoff back 24 yards, then gained 24 yards, then gained 30 yards on four runs, including one of 16. Hunt gained 23 yards on three tries, including his touchdown.

Tech scored late in the second period in typical Yellow Jacket fashion. Tackle Billy Shaw recovered an Auburn fumble on the Tiger 18.

Quarterback Fred Braselton and sophomore halfback Chick Granning teamed on a seven-yard pass play and then Granning twisted his way to the one-foot line on a 12 - yard dash. Braselton sneaked across with the first score of a game dominated by defense on a wet field.

Wells, who had gone six-for-six in the extra point department before Saturday, was wide on the conversion try.

Tech had three chances to score again in the final period but the stout Auburn defense would not yield. The first time, the Yellow Jackets moved 29 yards to the Auburn 29 where Wells was short on the first of two field goal attempts.

Later, the Yellow Jackets, who have been pulling games out of the fire all season, marched 55 yards to the Auburn 22, then lost the ball when guard G. W. Clapp of the Tigers recovered a fumble.

Tech got the ball back on the Auburn 21 four plays later. Guard Budddy Pilgram blocked a Tiger punt. Tech ran two running plays to line up the ball on the Auburn goal posts and Welch tried his second field goal — but it was wide.

Defensive play was fierce. Center Jackie Burkett, third team All - America in 1958, and guard Zeke Smith, a second team All-America, were the heart of the Tiger defense. Center Maxie Baughan and end Gerald Burch led the Tech defenders.

Except for the one scoring drive, Auburn never got beyond the Tech 42 - yard line and was seldom out of its own territory.

Terps Defeat N. Carolina In Final Period

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland shifted to a new spread formation in the final period to shove across a tie-breaking touchdown and trip North Carolina's talent-laden football team 14-7 Saturday.

A couple of third string backs broke loose in the frantic last quarter to get the Terrapins within scoring distance. Quarterback Deley Betty tossed a 9-yard pass to halfback Bob Gallagher for the winning score.

Maryland ran the Tar Heels' bigger team ragged through much of the afternoon.

The Terps were on the North Carolina 6 when the game ended. The ball had been carried there by second string quarterback Dewayne Fletcher, who had plagued North Carolina throughout the day with his running.

It was Maryland's second triumph in five games under the Terps new coach, Tom Nugent.

Although the visitors didn't make a first down until the second quarter, North Carolina jumped off to a 7-0 lead in the opening period. End Al Goldstein blocked first string quarterback Dick Novak's pass, caught it in the air and raced 40 yards for a touchdown.

Maryland evened the count in the second quarter on somewhat of a tit-for-tat exchange.

Guard Tom Gunderman fielded a fumble in the air by quarterback Ray Farris on the North Carolina 32. Fullback Jim Joyce went over from 12 yards out and Vince Scott kicked the extra point to tie the score 7-7.

Tech Basketball Slate Announced

RUSTON, La. (Special) — A 23-game basketball schedule with cage teams from eight states has been announced for Louisiana Tech's 1959-60 competition.

Champions of the Gulf States Conference last season with a 9-1 GSC mark, the Techsters this winter will face 12 teams on the home court and 11 on the road. They will open the season Dec. 1 in a non - conference tilt with East Texas State at Ruston.

The Bulldogs, who won the annual Gulf South Classic last year, will again participate in the big Shreveport tourney Dec. 28 through Dec. 30.

Tech's schedule, announced by athletic director Joe Aillet, includes contests with quintets from Louisiana, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kentucky and Alabama. Four teams which the Canines did not meet last year are on the schedule. They are Mississippi State College, Middle Tennessee State, Murray State and Spring Hill College.

Coach Cecil Crowley of Tech will have eight lettermen back from the 1958-59 team that racked up a 21-4 season mark, the best won-lost mark in the history of basketball at Tech. The Bulldogs last winter were at the end of the season rated eighth best team in the nation in the United Press International small-college poll.

Returning lettermen to the Bulldog kennel include: forwards, Joe Daigle, Jennings junior, Ron Futrell, Houston, Tex., junior, J. W. Mercer, Mangham senior, Raymond Germany, Holly Ridge senior; center Jack Moreland, Minden junior; guards, Billy Boatner, Athens sophomore, team captain Ron Woodward, Worden, Ill., senior, Jim Tullos, Jena senior.

The schedule:

Dec. 1—East Texas Etate, Ruston.
Dec. 5—Southwest Texas, Ruston.
Dec. 9—Mississippi State, Jackson, Miss.
Dec. 12—Middle Tennessee State, Ruston
Dec. 14—Southeastern Oklahoma, Ruston.
Dec. 19—Arkansas Tech. Russellville, Ark.
Dec. 28-30—Gulf South Classic, Shreveport.
Jan. 4—McNeese State, Lake Charles.
Jan. 8—Northeast State, Ruston.
Jan. 12—Southeastern Louisiana, Hammond.
Jan. 15—Southwestern Louisiana, Ruston
Jan. 18—Mississippi Southern, Ruston.
Jan. 23—Murray State, Murray, Ky.

Feb. 25—Spring Hill, Ruston.
Feb. 27—Northwestern State, Ruston.

Oregon Tops Favored AF In 20-3 Scrap

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Cleveland Jones, a 5-foot 4-inch, 145-pound speedster scored on a 65-yard pass play for Oregon's first touchdown as the Flying Ducks upset favored Air Force 20-3 Saturday.

The previously unbeaten Air Force had been favored by a touchdown but they simply couldn't cope with Oregon's speed. Air Force hadn't lost in 14 games.

Oregon gobbled up four Air Force passes, got off the 50-yard scoring pass and several long drives, two of them resulting in touchdowns.

It made five straight victories for the Ducks, the only major unbeaten independent remaining in the Far West.

Halfback Phil Lane set up the only Air Force score with a 19-yard punt return early in the game. That put the ball on the Oregon 34 and Air Force managed to punch to the 16 before Oregon stiffened. There, fullback George Pupich kicked a field goal from the 23.

Thereafter, the game was Oregon's.

The Ducks broke loose with two touchdowns in the second quarter. Jones raced behind the Air Force defenders and took the pass from quarterback Dave Grosz for Oregon's first score.

Air Force	3	0	0	0	—3
Oregon	0	14	0	6	—20

AF—FG Pupich 23
Ore—Jones 50 pass from Grosz (Daniels kick)
Ore—Needham 1 run (Daniels kick)

Celtics Dump Royals In NBA Opener

BOSTON (AP) — The champion Boston Celtics opened defense of their title Saturday with a 129-125 victory over the Cincinnati Royals the team that was the National Basketball Assn. doormat a year ago.

The Celtics were paced by their big four—Bill Russell, Bob Cousy, Tommy Heinsohn and Bill Sharman.

They accounted for 107 points.

Twyman, Dave Piontek, Arlen Bockhorn and Wayne Embry scored 92 points.

The Celtics took the lead for good midway in the third quarter.

Not only was Russell high scorer for Boston but he snared a high of 23 rebounds, three more than Heinsohn.

Cousy was his usual dazzling self, scoring 23 points and receiving credit for 13 assists.

The youthful Royals—the oldest Twyman at 26—were better at the foul line, netting 33 of 39. Boston missed 16 of 45.

Underdog Tide Deadlocks Tennessee Before 42,000

By BILL TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Underdog Alabama traded first half touchdowns with Tennessee Saturday and settled for a 7-7 deadlock before 42,000 fans in a battle of ancient Southeastern Conference gridiron rivals.

After the first half, the foes waged a fierce defensive struggle—each waiting for a break that never came—which put both teams to a grueling test.

Tennessee, loser only to Georgia Tech this season, struck early behind the wraith-like running of tailback Billy Majors, driving 45 yards to a first period touchdown with Majors going the last three. End Cotton Letner added the extra point.

But just before the half ended, Alabama, aided by a 15-yard penalty, counted on a 21-yard pass play from quarterback Pat Trammel to end Stanley Vell and tackle Fred Sington tied it up with his conversion.

Sington twice had a chance to bring Alabama home a winner. He missed a field goal try from the Tennessee 29 and again in the last minute from the 21.

The tie was the sixth in the long Southeastern Conference series. Each team has won 18.

In the bruising second half, the defensive-minded elevens swapped seven punts with each bidding for a break beneath threatening skies. The rain never came and neither did the break.

Alabama's alert line three times came up with big plays, guard Don Cochran throwing Majors for a loss of five on one play, guard Bill Hannah catching Gene Etter for 12 on another, and end Bud Moore trapping Etter for a six-yard pass.

In driving 45 yards for its touchdown, Tennessee used nine plays with Majors handling the ball on seven of them. He covered the last 15 yards himself on smashes of five, four, three and three yards.

Shortly before the first half ran out, a punt by Alabama's Bobby Skelton went out on the Tennessee five. Majors kicked out but a personal foul against Tennessee put Alabama in business on the Vols' 21.

Trammell, a promising sophomore, tried one pass, then found Bell in the left flat. The sophomore end gathered in the ball and raced 18 yards, out-distancing two Tennessee defenders.

Score by Periods

Alabama	0	7	0	0—7
Tennessee	7	0	0	0—7

Scoring:
Tennessee—Majors 2 run (Letner kick).
Alabama — Bell 21 pass from Trammell (Singleton kick).

Tall Tigers Open Basketball Drills

BATON ROUGE, La. (Special) — You might think that on the campus of the nation's No. 1 college football team, in the midst of an exciting winning streak, the opening of basketball practices would go unnoticed.

But Louisiana State University students walking by the LSU gym-armory are quite aware that the Tigers also field a basketball team, and perhaps one of their most promising teams in recent years.

The tall young men who enter the gym each afternoon are unmistakably basketball players, and most of them newcomers to the Tiger varsity.

There's Tom Conklin, a six-foot, ten-inch center; and forwards Joe Borgini, who is 6-6; Joe Clune and Ray Hines at 6-5; and Ray Lewis at 6-4. They will give LSU its tallest squad since the days of Bob Pettit.

Coach Jay McCreary who started his third year in Tigertown with the opening of practice Thursday, expects his team to have speed as well as size.

Probably his fastest player will be another newcomer, sophomore guard George Nattin, a swift six-footer who may be the key man in McCreary's plans for advancing the Bengals in the SEC standings.

LSU has six lettermen returning from the 1958-59 team that won 10 and lost 15, including forward Carey Guglielmo, guards Phil Raisor, Dick Davies, Tommy Collins, Tommy Raborn and Stan Jacobs.

The remaining players will be making their first try with the varsity Of the 'big men' expected to make LSU stronger under the boards, all are sophomores except Clune, a junior.

Besides Nattin two other sophomore guards will be battling the returning veterans for a place in the lineup — John Hudson, former All-Stater from Jennings, and 5-foot, 8-inch Allen Smith.

McCreary's early practice plans call for conditioning drills and work on offensive patterns.

Pugh Paces Va. Tech To 40-14 Victory

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Dazzling Alger Pugh scored three touchdowns to pace a cyclonic Virginia Tech ground and air attack that blew down Virginia 40-14 here Saturday in Richmond's Tobacco Festival football feature.

Gaining almost at will from the start of hostilities before a sell-out crowd of 24,000, the Techmen scored five of the first seven times they had the ball and ran up a 34-0 advantage before Virginia finally got its first points in the last period.

Pugh started the rout with a slithering 36 - yard touchdown romp that climaxed a 74-yard Tech advance with the game less than 11 minutes old. Later, the elusive senior halfback—never a regular until this season—scored on a one-yard pass from quarterback Frank Eastman and on a three-yard run.

This third touchdown Pugh had set up with a 34-yard pass to end Carroll Dale which carried to the Virginia 4.

The other Tech touchdowns were by halfback Dickie Snead on a 2-yard pitch from Eastman, quarterback Charlie Speck on a 1-yard run and quarterback Charlie Price on a 5-yard romp over tackle.

Virginia, absorbing its 13th consecutive setback over a span of two seasons, got all its points from halfback Tommy Gravins.

Gravins climaxed a 75-yard Cavalier march by running over from the 2 late in the final stanza, snagged a Ted Denby pass for two extra points, then took a 5-yard Denby pitch for the second Virginia six-pointer two minutes later.

Unbeaten Penn Crushes Brown

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — Unbeaten Penn was scored on for the first time this season but went on to crush Brown 36-9 in an Ivy League football game here Saturday. It was Penn's third league victory and fourth of the season.

Smith's Tally Gives UCLA 19-12 Decision

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fullback Ray Smith broke loose with a 48-yard touchdown run in the second quarter and UCLA went on to defeat California 19-12 Saturday in the 30th renewal of their traditional rivalry.

The spectacular run by the 187-pound senior put the Bruins in front 13-12 and that was enough to wreck the Bears from Berkeley.

UCLA added another touchdown in the third quarter to sew it up as a crowd of 32,933 watched the two teams play for the first time under the banner of the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

The final Bruin tally was set up when reserve end Earl Smith stole a pitchout from Larry Parque, intended for Bob Wills. It went for a fumble recovery on the Cal 31. Five plays later, tailback Bill Kilmer scored from the 1, his second touchdown.

The loss was the fourth in a row for California and gave UCLA its first victory after a loss to Pittsburgh and its scoreless tie with Purdue.

DYAS KICKS PAT

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — Auburn marched 79 yards on sheer power with the second-half kickoff Saturday and fullback Ed Dyas kicked the extra point for a 7-6 victory over fourth-ranked Georgia Tech before 45,000 rain-soaked fans.

Tech kicking specialist Tommy Wells missed the conversion try after Tech's second period touchdown and then was wide on a 38-yard field goal attempt 14 seconds before the game ended.

It was the first loss of the season for the Yellow Jackets, who had won four straight.

Sophomore quarterback Bobby Hunt scored the Auburn touchdown mid-way through the third period on a six-yard run. During the long drive following the second half kickoff, Hunt and halfback Lamar Rawson moved the Tigers downfield with a series of long runs.

Rawson ran the third - period kickoff back 24 yards, then gained 24 yards, then gained 30 yards on four runs, including one of 16. Hunt gained 23 yards on three tries, including his touchdown.

Tech scored late in the second period in typical Yellow Jacket fashion. Tackle Billy Shaw recovered an Auburn fumble on the Tiger 18.

Quarterback Fred Braselton and sophomore halfback Chick Granning teamed on a seven-yard pass play and then Granning twisted his way to the one-foot line on a 12 - yard dash. Braselton sneaked across with the first score of a game dominated by defense on a wet field.

Wells, who had gone six-for-six in the extra point department before Saturday, was wide on the conversion try.

Tech had three chances to score again in the final period but the stout Auburn defense would not yield. The first time, the Yellow Jackets moved 29 yards to the Auburn 29 where Wells was short on the first of two field goal attempts.

Later, the Yellow Jackets, who have been pulling games out of the fire all season, marched 55 yards to the Auburn 22, then lost the ball when guard G. W. Clapp of the Tigers recovered a fumble.

Tech got the ball back on the Auburn 21 four plays later. Guard Budddy Pilgram blocked a Tiger punt. Tech ran two running plays to line up the ball on the Auburn goal posts and Welch tried his second field goal — but it was wide.

Defensive play was fierce. Center Jackie Burkett, third team All - America in 1958, and guard Zeke Smith, a second team All-America, were the heart of the Tiger defense. Center Maxie Baughan and end Gerald Burch led the Tech defenders.

Except for the one scoring drive, Auburn never got beyond the Tech 42 - yard line and was seldom out of its own territory.

Terps Defeat N. Carolina In Final Period

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland shifted to a new spread formation in the final period to shove across a tie-breaking touchdown and trip North Carolina's talent-laden football team 14-7 Saturday.

A couple of third string backs broke loose in the frantic last quarter to get the Terrapins within scoring distance. Quarterback Deley Betty tossed a 9-yard pass to halfback Bob Gallagher for the winning score.

Maryland ran the Tar Heels' bigger team ragged through much of the afternoon.

The Terps were on the North Carolina 6 when the game ended. The ball had been carried there by second string quarterback Dewayne Fletcher, who had plagued North Carolina throughout the day with his running.

It was Maryland's second triumph in five games under the Terps new coach, Tom Nugent.

Although the visitors didn't make a first down until the second quarter, North Carolina jumped off to a 7-0 lead in the opening period. End Al Goldstein blocked first string quarterback Dick Novak's pass, caught it in the air and raced 40 yards for a touchdown.

Maryland evened the count in the second quarter on somewhat of a tit-for-tat exchange.

Guard Tom Gunderman fielded a fumble in the air by quarterback Ray Farris on the North Carolina 32. Fullback Jim Joyce went over from 12 yards out and Vince Scott kicked the extra point to tie the score 7-7.

North Carolina	7	0	0	0	—7

Flowers Sparks Ole Miss To 53-7 Romp Over Tulane

By JAMES SAGGUS

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Bruising fullback Charlie Flowers shattered an outmanned Tulane line for three touchdowns Saturday in leading fifth-ranked Mississippi to a 53-7 Southeastern Conference victory.

The 198-pound senior scored Mississippi's first two touchdowns on diving runs from one yard out as he operated behind a massive and mobile line.

Flowers added a third period touchdown and helped set up all of the early scores.

Tulane became the first team to crack the stout Rebel defenses for a touchdown this season despite the one-sided score.

The Green Wave recovered a fumble on the 47 on the first play of the game, but could not move. Mississippi fumbled on the second play of the next series and Bill Brabham recovered for Tulane on the Rebel five. A pass from quarterback Phil Nugent to halfback Jeff Bratton brought the touchdown and Howard Kisner kicked the conversion.

Mississippi showed power and versatility in winning its fifth straight game, with sharp passing by three quarterbacks and effective running by three backfields.

Other Mississippi touchdowns were by quarterback Bobby Franklin on an 11-yard run, halfback Cowboy Woodruff on a four-yard run, end Ralph Smith on a three-yard pass from quarterback Doug Elmore, and halfback Johnny Robinson on a 15-yard run.

The Rebs added three conversions on kicks, two on passes and one on a run. They picked up a fourth period safety when Smith blocked James Magee's punt out of the end zone.

Mississippi scored on drives of 55, 80, 47, 37, 67, 29 and 23 yards. The tying touchdown in the first quarter needed only four plays after the kickoff and came two minutes after Tulane scored.

Quarterback Jake Gibbs tossed a 37-yard pass to end Larry Grantham for the key play.

The touchdown which put the Rebs ahead came two minutes into the second quarter and featured the running and passing of Gibbs, with Flowers taking over inside the 10 to account for his second tally.

Tulane struck back on Phil Nugent's passing, but was unable to keep the drive going past midfield.

After the Rebels scored their third touchdown on Franklin's sweep, Tulane mounted a drive that carried to the 12 before the halftime whistle nipped it.

The Greenies were never able to develop a serious attack in the second half.

Flowers was the top ground gainer with 84 yards on 14 attempts. Twelve other Ole Miss players divided the rest of the Rebs' 281 yards rushing.

Halfback Terry Terrebonne led Tulane's ground game with 30 yards on 10 attempts.

The Rebs completed 9 of 15 passes for 86 yards, with Elmore connecting on four, Gibbs three and Franklin two. Tulane hit on 11 of 18 for 68 yards with Nugent connecting for nine of them.

'Big Rizzuto' Tag Hung On Gifford

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP) — "Big Rizzuto" is a big man in pro football. You hear about him all the time.

Frank Gifford is his square name, and dependable, deceptive running is his regular game. "It's strictly instinct," says Frank.

You can also heard from him. He does a five - minute network sportscast ("Sports Time," CBS, 5:55 p.m.) on radio Mondays through Saturdays. On Sundays, he's too busy playing halfback for the New York Giants of the National Football League. ("I'd like to make one thing clear. I'm a sportscaster because I've been a pretty good football player.")

His Giant teammates are the ones who have hung the "Big Rizzuto" tag on the husky 29-year-old former Southern California star. Frank takes over the radio show from little Phil Rizzuto, former New York Yankee shortstop, when the Seasons switch from baseball to football.

Frank, like Phil, is representative of an increasingly stronger trend in sports broadcasting—the influx of ex-athletes into the business.

Asked for some advice that could be passed on to athletes who want to be sportscasters, Gifford replied: "Tell them to play ball as well as they can first."

But if anything, Frank underrates himself as a broadcaster.

Early last season the Giants, eventual Eastern Conference champions, were whipped soundly by the Chicago Cardinals, and immediately veteran quarterback Charlie Conerly was blamed in some newspaper stories for the defeat.

Gifford, who was injured in the game, went on the air the following night and answered the newspaper critics, pointing out that Conerly, whose passing was ineffective, lost top receivers Kyle Rote and Gifford himself due to injuries, and that this was the real key to Charlie's poor showing.

"I don't claim to be an expert sportscaster," said Frank, "but I do know football, and I think a man with the power to sway opinion, like a writer or a broadcaster, should be thoroughly familiar with his subject before he attempts to criticize.

"I have never done a play-by-play account of a football game, but although I'm sure I would be tempted to criticize the action on the field, I wouldn't do it because I would not be familiar with the circumstances on the field at the time.

"On the other hand, I feel I could criticize a team, even the Giants, on the air the next day or later, after I had checked into why a team lost. But even in criticizing, I would never be vicious. Some sportscasters rely too much on voice inflection to lend criticism to what appears to be straight reporting."

Frank's show is written for him by a professional, but he is free to change its content and wording to agree with his opinion and sports knowledge. "I like to give as much 'inside information' as I can on both football and other sports," Frank says, "but in a five-minute show I can't veer too many topics."

Frank's toughest critic is son Jeff, 7. "I never score enough touchdowns to suit him," Frank says.

Does Jeff listen to the radio program?

"Not if there is an adventure show on TV."

Former state tag champions, Mickey Sharp and the Black Panther, oppose Jerry Miller and Paul Carpentier in the main event at B&B Arena tomorrow night.

The tag scramble heads an attractive three-bout card which also sends Bill Lawley against Frankie Kovac in the semifinal and the Panther against Miller in a prelim.

Sharp and the Panther are well known in the local arena along with Miller. Carpentier a relative newcomer to this area, was impressive in recent weeks and will probably give badman Sharp and the masked Panther a busy night.

The main bout is scheduled for a one-hour time limit with two falls to win.

Lawley, a Dallas Tex., product, meets Kovac in a 45-minute affair with two falls to win.

As a warmup for the night's action the Panther and Miller square off in a 15-minute opener with one fall to win.

Mountaineers Top Favored Pitt, 23 To 15

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)—Fired-up West Virginia uncovered a hidden scoring punch Saturday to belt heavily favored Pitt 23-15, chiefly on the running and passing of Danny Williams and some vigorous line play.

Williams, guiding West Virginia's previously inept offense, scored one touchdown and passed for another. A third was scored late in the game by sophomore halfback Dick Herrig, who picked off a Pitt pass and raced 30 yards unmolested.

Little Johnny Thackston, unpadded kicking specialist, booted a 30-yard field goal just before halftime to give the Mountaineers a lead they never surrendered.

It was the third field goal of the season for the 156-pound senior from Beckley. This was West Virginia's first home victory over its chief rival, its fourth in the last eight meetings and only its 13th in the 52-game Pitt-West Virginia series.

Aggressive line play by the Mountaineers smothered the widely heralded passing attack engineered by Pitt's quarterback, Ivan (The Toncie) Toncic. The Panther star, who had thrown seven touchdown passes in Pitt's four earlier games to equal a school season record, hit Saturday on only five of 14 throws.

Five others were intercepted. Two of the interceptions were by linemen who grabbed the ball after Toncic had been hit in the act of throwing. One of the ball thefts, by guard Bill Lopasky, was carried 22 yards to Pitt's 18 and set up Thackston's field goal.

Wildcats Absorb 5th Defeat, 26-6

OXFORD, Ohio, (AP) — Miami spoiled the debut of new Villanova Coach Joe Rogers Saturday by handing the Wildcats their fifth straight defeat 26-6.

Rogers, who took over in midweek for Frank Reagan, saw his passing ace Ed Roerhe held to only four completions out of 22 tries and his defense riddled by a Redskin backfield that outrushed Villanova, 278 yards to 42.

In addition to their four touchdowns, the Mid-America Conference champs had two more nullified by penalties.

Rams Two-Point Favorites To Spoil Packers' Streak

United Press International

The Los Angeles Rams, who enjoy shocking the opposition with [illegible] passes, are two-point choices to smash the National Football League's only remaining perfect record Sunday when they play the Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee.

Los Angeles (1-2) and Green Bay (3-0) are expected to lure a capacity crowd of more than 40,000 to Milwaukee's County Stadium.

In other key games, the Baltimore Colts (2-1) are one-point choices to defeat the Bears (1-2) at Chicago and the Giants (2-1) are favored over the Philadelphia Eagles (2-1) by 6½ points in a battle of first-place clubs at New York.

The Browns (1-2) are favored over the Chicago Cardinals (1-2) by 4½ points at Cleveland; The Lions (0-3) are favored over the San Francisco Forty-Niners (2-1) by two points at Detroit, and the Redskins (2-1) and Pittsburgh Steelers (1-2) are rated even at Washington in the other clashes.

The Rams don't believe in grinding out yards three at a clip. With Bill Wade throwing to Del Shofner, Jim Phillips and Jon Arnett, they struck for 28 of their 43 touchdowns last year in two or three long-gainers. The same battery will be in action Sunday although the Packers have some consolation because Arnett is injured.

Wade, who hit Phillips on a 92-yard scoring pass against Green Bay last year, completed touchdown tosses of 27 and 39 yards to Phillips against the Bears last Sunday and hit Shofner with a 45-yard scoring heave. The Packers will try to stop this scoring power with a defense that has given up only 35 points in three games. Fullback Jim Taylor and end Nate Borden of the Packers are sidelined.

The Colts, defending league champions, will be out to avenge a 26-21 loss suffered against the Bears at Baltimore two weeks ago. The Bears put pressure on quarterback John Unitas by shooting linebackers through gaps in Baltimore's offensive line in that game. They are expected to try the same tactics at Wrigley Field before nearly 50,000 rooters.

Philadelphia hasn't won at New York in six years but has high hopes that Norm Van Brocklin's passes to Tommy McDonald and Pete Retzlaff will ruin the 1959 home debut of the Giants before more than 50,000.

The Browns whipped the Cardinals two weeks ago, 34-7. That game was played in the rain. The Cardinal attack, which features spread formations, operates best on solid footing and the Chicago club may give Cleveland fits if it is dry Sunday. The Browns have allowed only 34 points.

Washington, tied with New York and Philadelphia for the Eastern Division lead, is weakened by injuries for its game with Pittsburg Seven Redskins, including defensive end Ed Meadows and offensive halfback Jim Podoley, were injured in last Sunday's game with the Cardinals.

Detroit, the only club without a victory, faces a San Francisco team that suffered its first defeat last Sunday at Green Bay, 21-20. The Forty-Niner defense, usually a weak spot in past years, has allowed only 35 points.

Crisler Still Considering AFL Offer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Athletic Director H. O. (Fritz) Crisler said Saturday he still is considering whether to become a candidate for commissioner of the newly formed American Football League.

In a statement, Crisler said:

"I have met with representatives of the new American Football League and copies of the constitution and by-laws, duties and powers of the commissioner and the financial structure of the league have been given to me for study to determine whether or not I wish to be a candidate for the position."

Crisler said no date has been set for a decision.

Crisler met earlier this week in Beverly Hills, Calif., with Lamar Hunt, Dallas oilman, and other officials of the new league.

Crisler said at that time he had not accepted the position of commissioner, after published reports indicated he was agreeable.

Hunt said Friday night in Dallas that the candidates had been narrowed to two men. But he declined to say if Crisler was one of them.

LOOK STEERS WIN

Fumbling MSU Trims Irish, 19-0

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Dean Look, a late blooming quarterback who passed up a $50,000 baseball bonus, revived a fumbling Michigan State football team Saturday for a 19-0 triumph over Notre Dame before 73,480 in Spartan Stadium and a nationwide television audience.

EAST LANSING (AP) — Statistics on Saturday's Notre Dame-Michigan State game:

	Notre Dame	Mich. State
First downs	12	19
Rushing yardage	106	307
Passing yardage	79	113
Passes	9-24	7-13
Passes intercepted by	0	3
Punts	6-39.6	3-34
Fumbles lost	3	5
Yards penalized	40	49

The muscular senior, switched to signal calling after two campaigns as a varsity halfback, set up the first score with a 41-yard gallop and fired a 52-yard pass for the other touchdown.

This was the day that Look, a slugging outfielder who has had 16 major league baseball teams watching him for years, proved himself as a capable Big Ten quarterback.

It took every ounce of Look's quarterbacking skill and 60 minutes of unyielding Spartans' defense to offset nine fumbles. Six times Notre Dame recovered, but the Spartan defense was invincible in this, the silver anniversary clash between these two powers.

Only once was Notre Dame, a one-touchdown favorite, able to penetrate inside the Michigan State 20. The Irish drove from their own 40 to the State 20 before fullback Frank Garguilo gained 18 yards on a pitchout.

The Irish had four cracks at the massive Michigan State line. Garguilo hammering into the middle three times and quarterback George Izo trying a fourth-down sneak.

The Spartans threw back Notre Dame's best threat and played ball control the rest of the way for their seventh victory in the last eight meetings with the Fighting Irish.

East Lansing, 1st add Notre Dame-Mich State x x x Irish.

After stalling twice inside the Notre Dame 35, after fumble recoveries, the Spartans rolled up 71 yards in eight plays for a first period touchdown.

It was Look who triggered life into the sluggish offense, smashing up the middle for 41 yards on the first play. Then from the Notre Dame 30 it took seven smashes at the line, sophomore halfback Larry Hudas going the last four yards.

The Spartans rallied their offense again when the third period was half over. Look began moving his club from the MSU 37. On the sixth play he lofted a pass to end Fred Arbanas, who outdueled Notre Dame halfback Bill Clark at the Irish 22 and raced in for the score.

Michigan State's third and fourth stringers staged a 59-yard scoring march, capped in the final 16 seconds with a 10-yard scoring run by sophomore Ron Hatcher.

This is a bold step forward in replacing FEAR with FAITH . . . A stagnating "FEAR OF WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN" with a strong "FAITH IN OUR FUTURE". FEAR is a strange word to the south . . . FEAR and its relations, HATE, HESITATION, DISCORD AND INDECISION should be sent back NORTH "with all deliberate speed"

Experience tells us that in every election promises are made concerning pay increases. After much legislative haggling the raises always somehow manage to become law. Why not give these valuable citizens a breather by guaranteeing these raises for a longer period and eliminating a political football. I will introduce and vote for the following:

1. GUARANTEE a scheduled increase in old age assistance for the next 8 years.
2. GUARANTEE a scheduled increase in pay for Teachers and associated occupapations for the next 8 years.
3. GUARANTEE a scheduled increase in pay for all branches of State Civil Service, Local & State Police, Firemen and Associated occupations for the next 8 years.

The Decks thus cleared for action, the legislature can then concentrate for 8 years on other pressing issues needing immediate attention. I will introduce or vote for:

1. Joining the best interests of labor & management into one force for securing industry from other fast growing labor & management markets.
2. Improvement of separate but equal facilities 100% segregated.
3. Methods for removal of racial discord
4. Improvement of Louisiana corporate laws & legal protection of Louisiana industry.
5. Improvement of our insurance regulations.
6. Farm advancement in both scientific & marketing areas.
7. Definite encouragement for small business.
8. Stronger protection for the buying public in the fields of housing developments and mortgages.
9. Improvement of natural resources & wild life conservation.

It was the third field goal of the season for the 156-pound senior from Beckley. This was West Virginia's first home victory over its chief rival, its fourth in the last eight meetings and only its 13th in the 52-game Pitt-West Virginia series.

Aggressive line play by the Mountaineers smothered the widely heralded passing attack engineered by Pitt's quarterback, Ivan (The Toncic) Toncic. The Panther star, who had thrown seven touchdown passes in Pitt's four earlier games to equal a school season record, hit Saturday on only five of 14 throws.

Five others were intercepted. Two of the interceptions were by linemen who grabbed the ball after Toncic had been hit in the act of throwing. One of the ball thefts, by guard Bill Lopasky, was carried 22 yards to Pitt's 18 and set up Thackston's field goal.

An estimated homecoming crowd of 30,000 saw the game.

Wildcats Absorb 5th Defeat, 26-6

OXFORD, Ohio, (AP) — Miami spoiled the debut of new Villanova Coach Joe Rogers Saturday by handing the Wildcats their fifth straight defeat 26-6.

Rogers, who took over in midweek for Frank Reagan, saw his passing ace Ed Roerhe held to only four completions out of 22 tries and his defense riddled by a Redskin backfield that outrushed Villanova, 278 yards to 42.

In addition to their four touchdowns, the Mid-America Conference champs had two more nullified by penalties.

Lions Win, 21-12

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., (AP) —Quarterback Richie Lucas salvaged a 21-12 victory for 10th-ranked Penn State over Boston university Saturday with a brilliant running and passing performance.

Crisler Still Considering AFL Offer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Athletic Director H. O. (Fritz) Crisler said Saturday he still is considering whether to become a candidate for commissioner of the newly formed American Football League.

In a statement, Crisler said:

"I have met with representatives of the new American Football League and copies of the constitution and by-laws, duties and powers of the commissioner and the financial structure of the league have been given to me for study to determine whether or not I wish to be a candidate for the position."

Crisler said no date has been set for a decision.

Crisler met earlier this week in Beverly Hills, Calif., with Lamar Hunt, Dallas oilman, and other officials of the new league.

Crisler said at that time he had not accepted the position of commissioner, after published reports indicated he was agreeable.

Hunt said Friday night in Dallas that the candidates had been narrowed to two men. But he declined to say if Crisler was one of them.

LOOK STEERS WIN

Fumbling MSU Trims Irish, 19-0

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Dean Look, a late blooming quarterback who passed up a $50,000 baseball bonus, revived a fumbling Michigan State football team Saturday for a 19-0 triumph over Notre Dame before 73,480 in Spartan Stadium and a nationwide television audience.

EAST LANSING (AP) — Statistics on Saturday's Notre Dame-Michigan State game:

	Notre Dame	Mich. State
First downs	12	19
Rushing yardage	106	307
Passing yardage	79	113
Passes	9-24	7-13
Passes intercepted by	0	3
Punts	6-39.6	3-34
Fumbles lost	3	5
Yards penalized	40	49

The muscular senior, switched to signal calling after two campaigns as a varsity halfback, set up the first score with a 41-yard gallop and fired a 52-yard pass for the other touchdown.

This was the day that Look, a slugging outfielder who has had 16 major league baseball teams watching him for years, proved himself as a capable Big Ten quarterback.

It took every ounce of Look's quarterbacking skill and 60 minutes of unyielding Spartans' defense to offset nine fumbles. Six times Notre Dame recovered, but the Spartan defense was invincible in this, the silver anniversary clash between these two powers.

Only once was Notre Dame, a one-touchdown favorite, able to penetrate inside the Michigan State 20. The Irish drove from their own 40 to the State 20 before fullback Frank Garguilo gained 18 yards on a pitchout.

The Irish had four cracks at the massive Michigan State line, Garguilo hammering into the middle three times and quarterback George Izo trying a fourth-down sneak.

The Spartans threw back Notre Dame's best threat and played ball control the rest of the way for their seventh victory in the last eight meetings with the Fighting Irish.

East Lansing, 1st add Notre Dame-Mich State x x x Irish.

After stalling twice inside the Notre Dame 35, after fumble recoveries, the Spartans rolled up 71 yards in eight plays for a first period touchdown.

It was Look who triggered life into the sluggish offense, smashing up the middle for 41 yards on the first play. Then from the Notre Dame 30 it took seven smashes at the line, sophomore halfback Larry Hudas going the last four yards.

The Spartans rallied their offense again when the third period was half over. Look began moving his club from the MSU 37. On the sixth play he lofted a pass to end Fred Arbanas, who outdueled Notre Dame halfback Bill Clark at the Irish 22 and raced in for the score.

Michigan State's third and fourth stringers staged a 59-yard scoring march, capped in the final 16 seconds with a 10-yard scoring run by sophomore Ron Hatcher.

THE BOLD STEP FORWARD

with DICK WARE

Candidate For State Senator of Jackson & Ouachita Parishes

DICK WARE
FOR STATE SENATOR
Jackson & Ouachita Parishes

This is a bold step forward in replacing FEAR with FAITH . . . A stagnating "FEAR OF WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN" with a strong "FAITH IN OUR FUTURE". FEAR is a strange word to the south . . . FEAR and its relations, HATE, HESITATION, DISCORD AND INDECISION should be sent back NORTH "with all deliberate speed"

Experience tells us that in every election promises are made concerning pay increases. After much legislative haggling the raises always somehow manage to become law. Why not give these valuable citizens a breather by guaranteeing these raises for a longer period and eliminating a political football. I will introduce and vote for the following:

1. GUARANTEE a scheduled increase in old age assistance for the next 8 years.
2. GUARANTEE a scheduled increase in pay for Teachers and associated occupapations for the next 8 years.
3. GUARANTEE a scheduled increase in pay for all branches of State Civil Service, Local & State Police, Firemen and Associated occupations for the next 8 years.

The Decks thus cleared for action, the legislature can then concentrate for 8 years on other pressing issues needing immediate attention. I will introduce or vote for:

1. Joining the best interests of labor & management into one force for securing industry from other fast growing labor & management markets.
2. Improvement of separate but equal facilities 100% segregated.
3. Methods for removal of racial discord
4. Improvement of Louisiana corporate laws & legal protection of Louisiana industry.
5. Improvement of our insurance regulations.
6. Farm advancement in both scientific & marketing areas.
7. Definite encouragement for small business.
8. Stronger protection for the buying public in the fields of housing developments and mortgages.
9. Improvement of natural resources & wild life conservation.
10. Faster action on other needed legislation.

Wildcats Overcome Errors To Topple Michigan, 20-7

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Halfback Ray Purdin raced 86 yards for the third longest touchdown run in Northwestern's history Saturday to lead the second-ranked Wildcats to a 20-7 victory over Michigan.

Northwestern scored in the first half with a three - yard run by Mike Stock, and a 62-yard touchdown pass from third - string quarterback John Talley to Mark Johnston.

Michigan, which appeared ready for an upset early in the game, scored first in the opening period on a six - yard dash by sophomore fullback Ken Tureaud.

Northwestern's victory was its fourth straight and left it the only unbeaten and untied team in the Big Ten. But it nearly threw away the triumph over Michigan on fumbles. The Wildcats fumbled six times and Michigan recovered five of them.

It was a fumble which set up the Michigan touchdown. A long Wolverine drive was halted at the Northwestern 2 when Michigan's Tony Rio fumbled into the end zone, giving Northwestern possession on its 20. But two plays later, Guard Mike Fillichio fell on a loose ball at the Northwestern 6. Tureaud raced around end to scored on the next play.

The Michigan touchdown startle the Wildcats into action and they marched 70 yards to knot the score shortly before the end of the first period.

Stock, who booted two conversions for Northwestern, capped the drive with a three - yard plunge off right tackle for the first northerwestern touchdown.

The Wildcats jumped into the lead with only 30 seconds left in the first half after a sluggish second period on the pass from Talley to Johnston.

Michigan, which has now lost three of four games, had two strong drives halted in the last period on the Northwestern 2 and again on the 7.

Then Purdin, a junior from Greenfield, Ohio, wrapped up the victory, squirting through right tackle and going all the way for a touchdown.

LACKEY BOOTS PAT

Longhorns Stop Arkansas, 13-12

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Unbeaten Texas stopped Arkansas Saturday night 13-12 with the toe of Bobby Lackey the difference in a Southwest Conference football game loaded with costly fumbles on both sides.

Arkansas' fighting Razorbacks, unbeaten themselves before the kickoff, scored in the first five minutes after tackle Marlin Epp recovered a Texas fumble on the Longhorn 24.

But they lost their lead as Texas rolled back late in the first quarter on a 60-yard drive which climaxed with Lackey scoring from one yard out two minutes deep into the second period.

In all, fumbles cost both the Razorbacks and the Texans the ball four times each. Quarterback Jim Monroe was the big offensive gun on Arkansas' first touchdown, finally passing five yards to end Steve Butler for the score.

Arkansas moved 89 yards on 19 plays for its second touchdown, suing a pitch-pass over the middle by Monroe to reinforce its steady ground - eating march spearheaded by fullback Joe Paul Alberty. This tally gave Arkansas a 12-7 lead midway in the third quarter.

Texas was set up for its winning touchdown when Razorback safety man Lance Alworth fumbled Bart Shirley's punt on the Arkansas 31 late in the third quarter. Texas center Bill Laughlin pounced on it.

Second unit backs Mike Cotten and Shirley moved the ball to the Arkansas 14 where Cotten, almost trapped, got off an eight-yard fourth down pass to Cleo Halm. Shirley passed three yards to Jack Collins for the touchdown.

DESPITE MEREDITH'S PASSING

Owls Hold SMU To 13-13 Deadlock

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rice's Owls had to snuff out a dramatic last-minute comeback led by magician Don Meredith Saturday night after driving 47 yards in the final period to thrill a hometown crowd of 65,000 and gain a 13-13 tie with favored Southern Methodist.

Meredith, the Methodist passer who finds receivers even under almost impossible conditions, moved SMU 77 yards to the Rice 5 only to see Gordon Speer, a Rice halfback, protect the tie with a fourth down pass interception with 40 seconds left in the game.

Meredith earlier had run and passed the Methodists on two touchdown drives that permitted SMU to enter the final period with a 13-6 lead.

The game was the 39th meeting between the Southwest Conference schools and the first tie in the long rivalry. It also was Rice's second straight 13-13 deadlock. A week ago the Owls scored late to tie Florida.

Billy Bucek, a halfback who does spot duty at quarterback, scored both Rice touchdowns. A 12-yard scamper in the second period put the Owls in front 6-0, but SMU came back with a 75-yard drive in which halfback Frank Jackson scored from the 1. SMU took a 7-6 lead on Glynn Gregory's conversion.

In the third period, SMU covered a Rice fumble on the Owl 36 and Meredith passed to end Buddy Nichols from the 1 eight plays later for the second Mustang score. Gregory's kick was blocked.

Rice's second scoring drive covered 59 yards with quarterback Jon Schnable passing the final 11 yards to Bucek. Gordon Speer kicked the extra point.

Rutgers Dealt First Loss, 15-8

LEWISBURG, Pa., (AP) —Junior quarterback Paul Terhes scored once, passed for another TD and led both touchdown drives as Bucknell upset unbeaten Rutgers Saturday 15-8 in a Middle Atlantic Conference football game.

The victory made Bucknell the favorite to win the University Division of the conference. Rutgers was the defending champion.

Southern Rips West Texas, 37-6

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — Mississippi Southern scored on land and through the air with ease Saturday night in beating West Texas State College 37-6.

The Southerners held West Texas to a minus seven yards rushing in the first half.

The visitors wound up with a whopping 460 yards total offense while limiting the Texans to 48 yards rushing and 117 passing, a total of 165.

West Texas tallied late in the game against Southern's reserves.

Bulldogs Tag Maroons With 15-0 Setback

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia turned two Mississippi State fumb'es and a pass interception into scores Saturday night for a 15-0 victory that kept its Southeastern Conference football record spotless.

An outstanding Georgia defense, led by end Jimmy Vickers, guard Pat Dye and center Billy Joe Thompson, stymied Mississippi State on soggy Grant Field.

A crowd of 25,000 saw Georgia make the most of its alert defense for a 3-0 record in SEC play. Georgia limited Mississippi State to 51 yards total offense.

A brilliant 52-yard punt return by State's Billy Hill carried the outmanned Maroons to the Georgia 23 in the last minute. Bobby Walden stopped him after the elusive quarterback twice reversed his field.

Quarterback Hill fumbled on the first State scrimmage play, and Georgia's Billy Ro'and fell on it on the 25. When the Maroon line held, Georgia's Durward Pennington kicked a 23-yard field goal.

A fumble by Hill which Vickers recovered for Geo ia at the State 11 set up a touchdown in the second quarter that pushed Georgia ahead 9-0 at halftime. Quarterback Francis Tarkenton scored from the 1.

FIRST FLORIDA LOSS

Underdog Vandy Tips Gators, 13-6

NASHVILLE,Tenn. (UPI)—Underdog Vanderbilt used a wide-open offense and the accurate passing of quarterback Russ Morris to shock Florida 13-6 and knock the Gators from the unbeaten ranks.

A Homecoming crowd of 21,000 saw Vandy take its first win in four starts while Florida suffered its first loss in five games.

The passing of Morris sparked Vanderbilt to a 13-0 halftime lead and then a stubborn defense stopped every Florida scoring attempt until the final period.

Florida got its lone score with less than 30 seconds to play when quarterback Dick Allen tosses a 27-yard scoring pass to halfback Jack Westbrook.

In the closing minutes of the first half, a Florida drive ended when Moore intercepted a pass on his own goal line and returned to the Vanderbilt seven.

In the final period, Florida got another drive going and moved to the 14 where the Vandy defense stiffened and took over the ball.

Fullback Bob Milby was Florida's best runner and was the main cog in the Gators' offense. On one Florida drive Milby gained 35 yards in two plays.

The first time Vanderbilt got the ball it opened up with a wide-open offense featuring flankers, men in motion and plenty of passing.

Starting on their own 31 the the Commodores moved to a score on 13 plays. The highlight of the drive was a 37-yard pass from Morris to Moore, who then scored on a plunge from the one on the next play.

In the second period, Vandy stopped a Florida drive when Moore intercepted a Florida pass, and once again the Vanderbilt offense started clicking. Morris tossed a pass to end Rooster Akin who jumped between two Florida men to grab the ball.

Morris completed three more passes during the drive and Garden got the score on a run from the eight-yard line.

Score by Periods

Vanderbilt	7	6	0	0	—13
Florida	0	0	0	6	— 6

Scoring:

Vanderbilt — Moore 1 plunge (Morris kick); Garden 8 run (kick failed).

Florida — Westbrook 27 pass from Allen (pass failed).

4TH STRAIGHT WIN

Wildcats Overcome Errors To Topple Michigan, 20-7

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Halfback Ray Purdin raced 86 yards for the third longest touchdown run in Northwestern's history Saturday to lead the second-ranked Wildcats to a 20-7 victory over Michigan.

Northwestern scored in the first half with a three - yard run by Mike Stock, and a 62-yard touchdown pass from third - string quarterback John Talley to Mark Johnston.

Michigan, which appeared ready for an upset early in the game, scored first in the opening period on a six - yard dash by sophomore fullback Ken Tureaud.

Northwestern's victory was its fourth straight and left it the only unbeaten and untied team in the Big Ten. But it nearly threw away the triumph over Michigan on fumbles. The Wildcats fumbled six times and Michigan recovered five of them.

It was a fumble which set up the Michigan touchdown. A long Wolverine drive was halted at the Northwestern 2 when Michigan's Tony Rio fumbled into the end zone, giving Northwestern possession on its 20. But two plays later, Guard Mike Fillichio fell on a loose ball at the Northwestern 6. Tureaud raced around end to scored on the next play.

The Michigan touchdown startle the Wildcats into action and they marched 70 yards to knot the score shortly before the end of the first period.

Stock, who booted two conversions for Northwestern, capped the drive with a three - yard plunge off right tackle for the first northerwestern touchdown.

The Wildcats jumped into the lead with only 30 seconds left in the first half after a sluggish second period on the pass from Talley to Johnston.

Michigan, which has now lost three of four games, had two strong drives halted in the last period on the Northwestern 2 and again on the 7.

Northwestern	7	7	0	6—20
Michigan	7	0	0	0— 7

Mich—Tureaud 6 run (Harper kick)
NW—Stock 4 run (Stock kick)
NW—Johnston 63 pass from Talley (Stock kick)
NW—Purdin 85 run (kick failed)

LACKEY BOOTS PAT

Longhorns Stop Arkansas, 13-12

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Unbeaten Texas stopped Arkansas Saturday night 13-12 with the toe of Bobby Lackey the difference in a Southwest Conference football game loaded with costly fumbles on both sides.

Arkansas' fighting Razorbacks, unbeaten themselves before the kickoff, scored in the first five minutes after tackle Marlin Epp recovered a Texas fumble on the Longhorn 24.

But they lost their lead as Texas rolled back late in the first quarter on a 60-yard drive which climaxed with Lackey scoring from one yard out two minutes deep into the second period.

In all, fumbles cost both the Razorbacks and the Texans the ball four times each. Quarterback Jim Monroe was the big offensive gun on Arkansas' first touchdown, finally passing five yards to end Steve Butler for the score.

Arkansas moved 89 yards on 19 plays for its second touchdown, suing a pitch-pass over the middle by Monroe to reinforce its steady ground - eating march spearheaded by fullback Joe Paul Alberty. This tally gave Arkansas a 12-7 lead midway in the third quarter.

Texas was set up for its winning touchdown when Razorback safety man Lance Alworth fumbled Bart Shirley's punt on the Arkansas 31 late in the third quarter. Texas center Bill Laughlin pounced on it.

Second unit backs Mike Cotten and Shirley moved the ball to the Arkansas 14 where Cotten, almost trapped, got off an eight-yard fourth down pass to Cleo Halm. Shirley passed three yards to Jack Collins for the touchdown.

DESPITE MEREDITH'S PASSING

Owls Hold SMU To 13-13 Deadlock

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rice's Owls had to snuff out a dramatic last-minute comeback led by magician Don Meredith Saturday night after driving 47 yards in the final period to thrill a hometown crowd of 65,000 and gain a 13-13 tie with favored Southern Methodist.

Meredith, the Methodist passer who finds receivers even under almost impossible conditions, moved SMU 77 yards to the Rice 5 only to see Gordon Speer, a Rice halfback, protect the tie with a fourth down pass interception with 40 seconds left in the game.

Meredith earlier had run and passed the Methodists on two touchdown drives that permitted SMU to enter the final period with a 13-6 lead.

The game was the 39th meeting between the Southwest Conference schools and the first tie in the long rivalry. It also was Rice's second straight 13-13 deadlock. A week ago the Owls scored late to tie Florida.

Billy Bucek, a halfback who does spot duty at quarterback, scored both Rice touchdowns. A 12-yard scamper in the second period put the Owls in front 6-0, but SMU came back with a 75-yard drive in which halfback Frank Jackson scored from the 1. SMU took a 7-6 lead on Glynn Gregory's conversion.

In the third period, SMU covered a Rice fumble on the Owl 36 and Meredith passed to end Buddy Nichols from the 1 eight plays later for the second Mustang score. Gregory's kick was blocked.

Rice's second scoring drive covered 59 yards with quarterback Jon Schnable passing the final 11 yards to Bucek. Gordon Speer kicked the extra point.

Rutgers Dealt First Loss, 15-8

LEWISBURG, Pa., (AP) —Junior quarterback Paul Terhes scored once, passed for another TD and led both touchdown drives as Bucknell upset unbeaten Rutgers Saturday 15-8 in a Middle Atlantic Conference football game.

The victory made Bucknell the favorite to win the University Division of the conference. Rutgers was the defending champion.

Southern Rips West Texas, 37-6

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — Mississippi Southern scored on land and through the air with ease Saturday night in beating West Texas State College 37-6.

The Southerners held West Texas to a minus seven yards rushing in the first half.

The visitors wound up with a whopping 460 yards total offense while limiting the Texans to 48 yards rushing and 117 passing, a total of 165.

West Texas tallied late in the game against Southern's reserves.

FIRST FLORIDA LOSS

Underdog Vandy Tips Gators, 13-6

NASHVILLE,Tenn. (UPI)—Underdog Vanderbilt used a wide-open offense and the accurate passing of quarterback Russ Morris to shock Florida 13-6 and knock the Gators from the unbeaten ranks.

A Homecoming crowd of 21,000 saw Vandy take its first win in four starts while Florida suffered its first loss in five games.

The passing of Morris sparked Vanderbilt to a 13-0 halftime lead and then a stubborn defense stopped every Florida scoring attempt until the final period.

Florida got its lone score with less than 30 seconds to play when quarterback Dick Allen tosses a 27-yard scoring pass to halfback Jack Westbrook.

In the closing minutes of the first half, a Florida drive ended when Moore intercepted a pass on his own goal line and returned to the Vanderbilt seven.

In the final period, Florida got another drive going and moved to the 14 where the Vandy defense stiffened and took over the ball.

Fullback Bob Milby was Florida's best runner and was the main cog in the Gators' offense. On one Florida drive Milby gained 35 yards in two plays.

The first time Vanderbilt got the ball it opened up with a wide-open offense featuring flankers, men in motion and plenty of passing.

Starting on their own 31 the the Commodores moved to a score on 13 plays. The highlight of the drive was a 37-yard pass from Morris to Moore, who then scored on a plunge from the one on the next play.

In the second period, Vandy stopped a Florida drive when Moore intercepted a Florida pass, and once again the Vanderbilt offense started clicking. Morris tossed a pass to end Rooster Akin who jumped between two Florida men to grab the ball.

Morris completed three more passes during the drive and Garden got the score on a run from the eight-yard line.

Score by Periods
Vanderbilt	7	6	0	0—13
Florida	0	0	0	6— 6

Scoring:
Vanderbilt — Moore 1 plunge (Morris kick); Garden 8 run (kick failed).
Florida — Westbrook 27 pass from Allen (pass failed).

Bulldogs Tag Maroons With 15-0 Setback

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia turned two Mississippi State fumbles and a pass interception into scores Saturday night for a 15-0 victory that kept its Southeastern Conference football record spotless.

An outstanding Georgia defense, led by end Jimmy Vickers, guard Pat Dye and center Billy Joe Thompson, stymied Mississippi State on soggy Grant Field.

A crowd of 25,000 saw Georgia make the most of its alert defense for a 3-0 record in SEC play. Georgia limited Mississippi State to 51 yards total offense.

A brilliant 52-yard punt return by State's Billy Hill carried the outmanned Maroons to the Georgia 23 in the last minute. Bobby Walden stopped him after the elusive quarterback twice reversed his field.

Quarterback Hill fumbled on the first State scrimmage play, and Georgia's Billy Roland fell on it on the 25. When the Maroon line held, Georgia's Durward Pennington kicked a 23-yard field goal.

A fumble by Hill which Vickers recovered for Georgia at the State 11 set up a touchdown in the second quarter that pushed Georgia ahead 9-0 at halftime. Quarterback Francis Tarkenton scored from the 1.

Solon Held In Orleans On Charge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —State Rep. Patrick McGittigan, arrested on a charge that he took $2,000 from an elderly Alexandria couple to get their son released from prison, today said he "dont know nothing about it."

McGittigan, who combines his lawmaking with running a New Orleans bar, was arrested last night at his home here after the East Baton Rouge Parish district attorney's office accepted an affidavit charging him with violation of the state's corrupt influencing law.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bruno, the Alexandria couple claim McGittigan accepted the $2,000 from them on Sept. 5 and promised to use it to have their son Pat released from the state prison at Angola. They said he is there on a Rapides parish charge of arson with intent to defraud.

They said McGittigan told them he would have to "spread the money around to about four or five people."

The couple said they contacted McGittigan in the weeks that followed, and each time he told them their son would be released soon. Finally, they said they gave up and contacted an Alexandria attorney, who advised them to tell their story to the East Baton Rouge district attorney.

The New Orleans lawmaker and barkeep, who has a heart condition, was allowed to stay in New Orleans, but was to post bond today in Baton Rouge.

The hefty legislator, contacted by newsmen at his home this morning, cracked the door only slightly to tell them:

"I don't know nothing about it." and "I never heard of them (Mr. and Mrs. Bruno)."

Conviction of corrupt influences is punishable by a year in jail, $500 fine, or both.

22 Soldiers Convicted In Street Brawl

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army Saturday said 22 soldiers were convicted and sentenced by special court - martial for starting a street brawl with German villagers.

The incident took place in a small villege near Pirmasens in the southwest German state of Rhineland-Palatinate.

Four of the defendants had started an argument with an innkeeper. He asked them to leave. They came back with other soldiers from their battalion the next night and a street battle developed with about 200 villagers.

One soldier involved was identified as Pvt. Jerry St. Andrew of Calcasieu, La.

Three of the defendants were charged with drunk and disorderly conduct, 18 with breach-of-peace and one with breach-of-peace and assault.

One man was sentenced to a month's confinement and reduced one grade, the other 21 were reduced one grade. All of the defendants were ordered to forfeit amounts ranging from $39 to $75 of their monthly pay for periods ranging from two to three months.

PLANNING AHEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Hal Holbrook is planning his Broadway career well ahead.

The actor who scored a recent triumph here in his one-man show "Mark Twain Tonight" has booked a return engagement — not this season, not next season, but during 1961-62. Touring activities have him busy until then.

MRS. BOBBY GLYN TUCKER

Miss Emily Ensminger, Bob Tucker Say Vows At C. Presbyterian Church

Miss Emily Kay Ensminger and Bobby Glyn Tucker were united in an impressive ceremony at the Covenant Presbyterian Church at 6 o'clock in the evening, October 16. The Rev. Mr. Wayne Gray heard the vows before an altar featuring arrangements of bronze pompon chrysanthemums and gold candles. Large baskets of bronze chrysanthemums flanked by floor candelabra holding burning tapers of gold candles framed the wedding party.

Miss Ensminger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex W. Ensminger of Monroe. Mr. Tucker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tucker of Crowville.

Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Florence Albritton at the organ who accompanied Mrs. Noland Harvey who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length original model of hand clipped chantilly lace over taffeta. The moulded bodice featured a scooped neckline and sleeves tapering to lily points over the hands. A bow of draped satin was attached at the waistline falling in graceful folds to the hemline of the full ripple skirt. The bride's finger tip veil of French illusion fell from a coronet tiara of seed pearls. The bride carried a white Bible crested with a white orchid surrounded by tuberoses and shower ribbons caught in lovers knots.

Miss Mary Jo Davenport served as maid of honor. She wore moss green silk organza over gold taffeta fashioned with cap sleeves and embroidered cummerbund. She wore matching slippers and a velvet bandeau with a brief veil.

Rogers M. Prestridge of Delhi served as best man. Ushers were Noland Harvey Jr. and Harper McKay.

The candles were lighted by Misses Brenda Sue George and Sally Ensminger, nieces of the bride. Their dresses of gold taffeta with satin cummerbunds were identical to that of the maid of honor. They wore wristlets of bronze cushion mums.

The bride's mother wore a model of champagne lace with a silk faille cummerbund. Her hat was mauve velvet tipped with feathers in the same tone. Her other accessories were in tones of mauve. Her corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids. The grooms' mother was attired in gray silk crepe with bracelet sleeves and portrait neckline. Her hat was charcoal velvet with accessories in matching tones. She wore a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony there was a reception in the church parlors. Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Robert L. George Jr., sister of the bride. Miss Betty Jo Tucker, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book. The bride's table was overlaid with a floor length white satin cloth covered in net. A tiered wedding cake was placed at one side of a massive white bisque epergne whose base was fashioned of cupids. A large arrangement of white stock and flocked greens centered the table. A silver punch bowl was placed on one side of the epergne. Silver trays of sandwiches and petitfors completed the appointments. Baskets of bronze mums and greens were placed at vantage points throughout the reception parlors. Serving at the reception were Misses Mary Lynn Scogin, Mary Elizabeth Webster; Mesdames Tom Davenport, Wayne Gray, Sid Walker, John Ensminger and J. H. Scogin.

The bride and groom left for a wedding trip on the Gulf Coast. The bride's traveling ensemble consisted of a dress and jacket of cotton and raw silk in brown with overtones of black. The jacket was highlighted with black velvet trim. Her accessories were brown lizard and she wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The bride graduated from Neville High School and attended Belhaven college in Jackson, Miss. She is at present a senior at Northeast State College where she is a member of Phi Mu social sorority.

The groom graduated from Crowville High School and is a senior at Northeast State College.

Upon their return they will reside at 2010 North Fourth street in Monroe.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bell of Belcher, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ezell, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Golsby, of Crowville, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tucker of Winnsboro and others.

Miss McKague C. E. Thomas Repeat Vows

Miss Ama Lee McKague and Charles Everett Thomas were united in marriage Friday morning at nine o'clock at Our Lady Help of Christians Catholic Church in Jennings. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. McKague of Jennings formerly of Monroe. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Thomas of Lake Charles.

The Rev. Roger Moag officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. John Leisch, church organist, gave the program of nuptial music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street length sheath of embroidered Chantilly lace. The bodice was fashioned with a bateau neckline and fly - away sleeves. She wore a bandeau of white velvet and braid which held a shoulder length veil. She carried a white orchid.

Mrs. Farrell Bertrand of Lake Charles was matron of honor.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

For a wedding trip to New Orleans the bride chose a black cotton sheath with an overblouse of black and white dot. Her accessories were black and her corsage was a white orchid.

Mrs. McKague wore for her daughter's wedding a printed silk shanting and a corsage of carnations. Mrs. Thomas, mother of the groom, chose a fall print in red and maroon tones. Her corsage was also of carnations.

The bride is a graduate of the Jennings High School and is a junior at McNeese State College. She is also employed by the telephone company. She is a member of the McNeese Bayou Players and of Alpha Psi Omega national honorary dramatic fraternity.

The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and attended McNeese State College. He is employed as production manager for a bottling company in Lake Charles.

How To Clean Your Upholstery

Look in on any family group today and you're likely to see Dad taking a snooze on the couch, Junior sprawled out on the rug with his coloring materials or clay; Sis sitting crosslegged in the easychair doing her homework. The living is casual and carefree in a way that just didn't exist just a few years ago.

Back in "the good old days" around the turn of the century, children were supposed to be seen and not heard. Feet were supposed to be on the floor and not on the furniture. The front parlor was restricted to "company." But today, every room is a family room.

Advances in soil - resistant fabrics are partly responsible for this change in living habits. And a greater variety of cleaning aids has helped take the drugdery out of keeping clean the house that is the center of today's energetic living. The all - purpose bar of yellow soap is gone. In its place is a wealth of specially tailored cleaning aids, equipment and materials to fit every need.

Homemakers today buy with an eye to ease of maintenance. In upholstered furniture, the emphasis is on fabrics that will resist dirt and stains. Fabrics must be made for easy cleaning.

Because most homes today contain a variety of old and new style materials, the homemaker must become an expert on the different ways to clean her fabrics. Manufacturers of household cleaning products and personal grooming aids, has recently issued a guide to the cleaning of upholstered furniture. Here are some of its suggestions.

To begin with, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Fabric - covered furniture collects just as much dust as the top of a table. Don't neglect it just because you don't see it. When cleaning, it's a simple matter to move the cushions and use a soft bristled brush or the upholstery attachment of the vacuum cleaner on the furniture. This will postpone the more arduous task of shampooing. Also, if grit is not allowed to settle into the weave, the fabric will last longer.

Places to give special attention when brushing or vacuuming are seams and tufts, as well as those deep corners that collect so many odds and ends.

Feathered cushions should get special care. Air them out doors once in a while; it will give them a new lease on life. But be careful. If your cushions are stuffed with down, don't use a vacuum on them. It will pull the feathers out through the fabric and you will spend the afternoon plucking pillows.

There are two ways to clean upholstered furniture, when the time comes, depending on the amount of soil. For an easy touch up, the powder method is effective. For heavy soil, a thorough shampoo is necessary. Shampooing can be done only on fabrics that are color - fast to water solutions, so check carefully before you start.

With powder, use a special upholstery powder or a rug cleaning powder that is suitable for upholstery. Sprinkle the powder over the fabric and brush it in thoroughly. Leave the powder on the fabric for at least an hour. When the powder feels dry, remove it with the upholstery attachment of your vacuum cleaner.

If you decide to shampoo, use a liquid upholstery cleaner or detergent suds. Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions. Teest for color - fastness of the fabric by applying some of the cleaning solution to an inconspicuous part of the piece. After a moment or two use a facial tissue to wipe it off. If color appears on the tissue, the material is not colorfast. When the area is dry, examine it again for color bleeding. If any is noted, do not proceed with the cleaning. Shampoo in small sections overlapping application until entire surface has been cleaned, and wiping away soil and suds from each section with a clean dry cloth before proceeeding to clean the next section. Do not dry the piece in the sun. To speed the drying, use an electric fan.

One final word of caution. Don't start on this project without reading the directions on the label of the product you plan to use. Take full advantage of the research and development that has gone into the product and be sure of getting the best results. Don't use the furniture until it is completely dry.

Y-Teen Clubs Of YWCA Elect New Officers

The Y-Teen clubs of Y. W. C. A. held their elections of officers for this year in all clubs. The meetings were well attended and many interest groups were formed. How To Clean Your Upholstery

Look in on any family group today and you're likely to see Dad taking a snooze on the couch, Junior sprawled out on the rug with his coloring materials or clay; Sis sitting crosslegged in the easychair doing her homework. The living is casual and carefree in a way that just didn't exist just a few years ago.

Back in "the good old days" around the turn of the century, children were supposed to be seen and not heard. Feet were supposed to be on the floor and not on the furniture. The front parlor was restricted to "company." But today, every room is a family room.

Advances in soil - resistant fabrics are partly responsible for this change in living habits. And a greater variety of cleaning aids has helped take the drugdery out of keeping clean the house that is the center of today's energetic living. The all - purpose bar of yellow soap is gone. In its place is a wealth of specially tailored cleaning aids, equipment and materials to fit every need.

Homemakers today buy with an eye to ease of maintenance. In upholstered furniture, the emphasis is on fabrics that will resist dirt and stains. Fabrics must be made for easy cleaning.

Because most homes today contain a variety of old and new style materials, the homemaker must become an expert on the different ways to clean her fabrics. Manufacturers of household cleaning products and personal grooming aids, has recently issued a guide to the cleaning of upholstered furniture. Here are some of its suggestions.

To begin with, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Fabric - covered furniture collects just as much dust as the top of a table. Don't neglect it just because you don't see it. When cleaning, it's a simple matter to move the cushions and use a soft bristled brush or the upholstery attachment of the vacuum cleaner on the furniture. This will postpone the more arduous task of shampooing. Also, if grit is not allowed to settle into the weave, the fabric will last longer.

Places to give special attention when brushing or vacuuming are seams and tufts, as well as those deep corners that collect so many odds and ends.

Feathered cushions should get special care. Air them out doors once in a while; it will give them a new lease on life. But be careful. If your cushions are stuffed with down, don't use a vacuum on them. It will pull the feathers out through the fabric and you will spend the afternoon plucking pillows.

There are two ways to clean upholstered furniture, when the time comes, depending on the amount of soil. For an easy touch up, the powder method is effective. For heavy soil, a thorough shampoo is necessary. Shampooing can be done only on fabrics that are color - fast to water solutions, so check carefully before you start.

With powder, use a special upholstery powder or a rug cleaning powder that is suitable for upholstery. Sprinkle the powder over the fabric and brush it in thoroughly. Leave the powder on the fabric for at least an hour. When the powder feels dry, remove it with the upholstery attachment of your vacuum cleaner.

If you decide to shampoo, use a liquid upholstery cleaner or detergent suds. Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions. Teest for color - fastness of the fabric by applying some of the cleaning solution to an inconspicuous part of the piece. After a moment or two use a facial tissue to wipe it off. If color appears on the tissue, the material is not colorfast. When the area is dry, examine it again for color bleeding. If any is noted, do not proceed with the cleaning. Shampoo in small sections overlapping application until entire surface has been cleaned, and wiping away soil and suds from each section with a clean dry cloth before proceeeding to clean the next section. Do not dry the piece in the sun. To speed the drying, use an electric fan.

One final word of caution. Don't start on this project without reading the directions on the label of the product you plan to use. Take full advantage of the research and development that has gone into the product and be sure of getting the best results. Don't use the furniture until it is completely dry.

Winn, Green Vows Repeated In Wisner

Baskets of white gladioli and stock in a setting of candlelight were used in the First Baptist Church in Wisner for the double ring ceremony of Miss Melba Green of New Orleans and J. W. Winn Jr. of Harvey. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Green of Gilbert and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Welton Winn of Marquez, Texas.

The Rev. Carlton Vance officiated at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony on Oct. 11.

Mrs. R. S. Britt and Mrs. Edileson Marycak presented the nuptial music and soloist, Miss Dianne Rider, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white chantilly lace dress over satin, ballerina length. It featured long petal point sleeves and a scalloped neckline. Her lace cap was attached to a lace and sequins cap. She carried a white orchid corsage on a prayer book.

Mrs. Bobbie Landers, a sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a street length aqua satin dress with full pleated skirt. Her accessories were of matching shade and she carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Richard L. Birmingham served as best man and Carlton F. Marshall and Dave Morgan were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a grey suit with grey and white accessories. The groom's mother chose a navy suit and navy accessories. They each wore a white carnation corsage.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the church where yellow chrysanthemums were used in a central arrangement on the bride's table. This was flanked by candelabra of burning tapers. The tiered cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom.

For their wedding trip to Galveston, Texas, the bride was wearing a royal blue suit and matching accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Harvey.

The bride is a graduate of Gilbert High School. The bridegroom graduated from Marquez High School, Kilgore Jr. College and Texas A and M College.

Out - of - town guests were Neal Winn, Marquez, Texas; Mrs. W. J. Early Evening Rites Unite Local Couple

Pleasant Hill Baptist Church was the setting on October 8 for the double ring ceremony uniting Miss Bonnie Jo Haye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Haye of Farmerville and Harry Joseph Neese, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Neese of West Monroe. Rev. Troy Lee Chapman officiated at the 6 p.m. ceremony.

Miss Winona Gates at the piano accompanied Miss Shirley Honeycutt, who sang, "Because" and "You'll Never Walk Alone." The wedding march was played by Robert Howard.

The altar held baskets of orchid flowers and greenery and ivy entwined candelabra holding burning white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a gown of white satin and Chantilly lace which featured a large flat bow in the back. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a satin headband. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Glenda Chapman was the bride's only attendant. She was dressed in a blue taf'eta dress with matching headband and slippers.

Nickey Haye, the bride's brother, served the groom as best man.

Mrs. Haye chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of powder blue cotton - satin with matching shade of accessories. Mrs. Neese wore a blue fall suit with matching accessories.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was covered with a white cutwork linen cloth. At one end was placed the tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. This was served by Miss Sybil Rogers. At the opposite end stood the crystal punch bowl. Presiding here was Mrs. Peggy Tousinau, the bride's sister.

For traveling the bride wore a rose silk dress with black accessories and a pink corsage.

The bride graduated from Farmerville High School and the bridegroom is a graduate of West Monroe High School. He is now serving in the U. S. Air Force. After December the couple will be at home in Biloxi, Miss. at Keesler Air Force Base.

MISS HELEN BOLDING, whose engagement and approaching marriage to A/Cpl. Ray Holley, son of Mrs. John Holley and the late Mr. Holley of Garland City is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Bolding of Huttig, Arkansas. 7 Suggestions Are Given For Tired Mothers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Question: What makes mother tired?

Answer: Raising children, keeping hubby in tow, family pets, a 16-hour day, a seven-day week—being handyman, housewife, chauffeur, child psychologist and club woman.

"Even the best of husbands is a difficult creature and the boundless activity of normal children can produce fatigue in those who merely observe them," said Dr. Leonard L. Lovshin, of Cleveland.

Most young mothers, he's observed, feel so tired that they're sure the run-down feeling stems from undiagnosed illness.

In most cases, they're not sick; they're just tired, he said.

Often the young mother has not had a vacation in years, only the brief time allotted her for convalescence after childbirth, the internist reported at the recent annual assembly of the Interstate Postgraduate Medicine Association.

In his analysis of the "tired-mother syndrome," Lovshin writes off the family vacation as a time of rest for Mom.

Going away with the family, he said, frequently adds so many stresses and strains that the tired mother becomes more fatigued — instead of rested.

Lovshin, who's just as fond of man's best friend as the next person, also said that the presence of a dog in the house can tax a mother just as much as being a Cub Scout den mother.

The constant whirling about by the young mother doesn't produce major troubles—say the kind calling for psychiatric attention. It's just that there's an endless procession of minor irritations, draining her mental, emotional and physical energy.

MOM CAN'T KEEP UP

It's especially taxing, Lovshin said, to the worrisome, tense, overly - conscientious mother who cannot quite keep up with all the tasks she has set for herself.

For peaceful co-existence, maybe she should take tranquilizers? No, said Lovshin. Tanquilizers, he said, would best help the tired mother if given to the husband, children, and family pets.

What most tired mothers need, according to the doctor's diagnosis, are simple things—"like a bit of love and understanding from hubby, a trip without the children, a new hat, catching up on bills, a few all-A report cards and a successful church supper."

Dinner Meeting Held Thursday By Secretaries

The Ouachita Chapter Monroe-West Monroe National Secretaries Association held its October meeting at the Paragon Supper Club Thursday evening. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Jessica Lawn. Halloween set the theme for the table decorations. Orange candlesticks flanked an arrangemen of pyracantha and Mexican sunflowers in a large pumpkin. This unusual decoration served as the centerpiece. Individual place cards carried the Halloween theme further by being decorated with black cats and pumpkins. Individual favors consisted of miniature pumpkins filled with flowers and berries for each guest.

The president turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Mrs. Erma Boyd who introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Hilda Poppel. Miss Poppel is the Texas - Louisiana division treasurer and past - president of Nola Chapter of New Orleans. The regional convention for the southeastern district will be held in November at Ft. Worth and the annual convention will be held next May in Pittsburgh at the Pittsburgh Hilton. A question and answer period followed Miss Poppel's discussion.

The following were present: Mrs. Beverly Dodson, Mrs. Lorraine Wilson, Miss Monique Coats, Mrs. Martha Gore, Mrs. Jessica Lawn, Miss Hilda Poppel, Mrs. Erma Boyd, Mrs. Molly King, Miss Naomi Campbell, Miss Sally Hayes, and Mrs. Toby Smith.

Extra Care For Long Hair Knits

Brushed knits with long hair-like naps are very popular this winter. And it is wise to give a thought to care before you select and wear your brushed knit.

Some of the long-napped sweaters have a tendency to shed — so take a little time when you select the particular color you want and like. Remember, dark colored long - napped sweaters should be worn with a dark skirt; light colored sweaters with a light colored skirt. It is always disconcerting to find white or light colored fibers on a dark skirt or coat.

The long - haired brushed knits have a tendency to mat and pull with wear, too. This is especially noticeable in the underarm area and from the elbow to the wrist. The degree to which the sweater mats or pull depends on the construction of the yarn-loosely spun yarns are susceptible to pulling; the construction of the sweater—a loosely knit sweater has a greater tendency to pull than a closely knit sweater; conditions of wear such as abrasion or rubbing; conditions of cleaning or washing. If you wash your sweaters at home, turn it inside out. This will decrease the tendency to poll on the right side. If your sweater takes on a harsh feel from matting or pulling' your cleaner will be able to improve the appearance and soft feel with steaming, brushing, and combing.

7 Suggestions Are Given For Tired Mothers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Question: What makes mother tired?

Answer: Raising children, keeping hubby in tow, family pets, a 16-hour day, a seven-day week—being handyman, housewife, chauffeur, child psychologist and club woman.

"Even the best of husbands is a difficult creature and the boundless activity of normal children can produce fatigue in those who merely observe them," said Dr. Leonard L. Lovshin, of Cleveland.

Most young mothers, he's observed, feel so tired that they're sure the run-down feeling stems from undiagnosed illness.

In most cases, they're not sick; they're just tired, he said.

Often the young mother has not had a vacation in years, only the brief time allotted her for convalescence after childbirth, the internist reported at the recent annual assembly of the Interstate Postgraduate Medicine Association.

In his analysis of the "tired-mother syndrome," Lovshin writes off the family vacation as a time of rest for Mom.

Going away with the family, he said, frequently adds so many stresses and strains that the tired mother becomes more fatigued — instead of rested.

Lovshin, who's just as fond of man's best friend as the next person, also said that the presence of a dog in the house can tax a mother just as much as being a Cub Scout den mother.

The constant whirling about by the young mother doesn't produce major troubles—say the kind calling for psychiatric attention. It's just that there's an endless procession of minor irritations, draining her mental, emotional and physical energy.

MOM CAN'T KEEP UP

It's especially taxing, Lovshin said, to the worrisome, tense, overly - conscientious mother who cannot quite keep up with all the tasks she has set for herself.

For peaceful co-existence, maybe she should take tranquilizers? No, said Lovshin. Tanquilizers, he said, would best help the tired mother if given to the husband, children, and family pets.

What most tired mothers need, according to the doctor's diagnosis, are simple things—"like a bit of love and understanding from hubby, a trip without the children, a new hat, catching up on bills, a few all-A report cards and a successful church supper."

Dinner Meeting Held Thursday By Secretaries

The Ouachita Chapter Monroe-West Monroe National Secretaries Association held its October meeting at the Paragon Supper Club Thursday evening. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Jessica Lawn. Halloween set the theme for the table decorations. Orange candlesticks flanked an arrangemen of pyracantha and Mexican sunflowers in a large pumpkin. This unusual decoration served as the centerpiece. Individual place cards carried the Halloween theme further by being decorated with black cats and pumpkins. Individual favors consisted of miniature pumpkins filled with flowers and berries for each guest.

The president turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Mrs. Erma Boyd who introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Hilda Poppel. Miss Poppel is the Texas - Louisiana division treasurer and past - president of Nola Chapter of New Orleans. The regional convention for the southeastern district will be held in November at Ft. Worth and the annual convention will be held next May in Pittsburgh at the Pittsburgh Hilton. A question and answer period followed Miss Poppel's discussion.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

SEX-LINKED DISEASES

Gall bladder disease and thyroid disorders are more common in women, whereas men are more likely to develop peptic ulcer, angina pectoris, or coronary thrombosis. Both sexes are prone to develop high blood pressure but this condition is less serious in women than in men. Statistics show that hypertension does not shorten her life provided the diastolic reading is not sky high.

Many reasons exist for the prevalence of certain diseases in one sex but no one has been able to use these reasons as a preventive or cure. There is a difference in body size and fat content and each has the characteristics of his or her sex in reacting to external stimuli.

Women take pain better than men and are more moderate in their habits and more sensible about illness. Men are more ambitious, strive to support the family, and do their best to live up to the reputation of being the stronger sex.

On the other hand, it is logical to assume that the only tangible difference between the two sexes is in the hormones that are manufactured in the sex glands and circulate throughout the body. But treating a predominantly male disease with female hormones usually fails.

Arteriosclerosis may be an exception. The condition develops a good decade sooner in husbands than in wives and it may be delayed in men by giving female hormones. These products often have feminizing effects that are objectionable.

Other diseases that favor men include bronchitis, bronchiectasis, emphysema, pulmonary tuberculosis, cancer of the stomach, and cirrhosis of the liver. Anemia, osteoarthritis, tetany, and nervous disorders predominate in women. Gout is 20 times and cancer of the lung six times more prevalent in men than in women. The circulatory disorder, Buerger's disease, is rare in the female sex.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics, if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.

CORTISONE AND THE HEART

I. H. writes: I am an arthritic sufferer and the only medicine that helps me is cortisone. I have been told that this remedy is harmful to the heart. Is this true?

REPLY

Not if the heart is normal. On the other hand, cortisome and the other adrenal steroids are potent and must be used under the careful guidance of a physician. They do not affect the heart unless the structure is damaged and too weak to function properly. In fact, these products are used occasionally in the treatment of heart disorders that occur during rheumatic fever.

RELATED CONDITIONS

C. M. writes: Does a high cholesterol necessarily mean arteriosclerosis?

REPLY

No, but the two are closely associated. Persons who develop heart attacks as a result of hardening of the coronary arteries frequently have a high blood cholesterol level.

SELF - MEDICATION

R. L. writes: Can a person buy and use the new pills for diabetes without consulting a doctor?

REPLY

No, because they are prescription products. In addition, diabetes is a serious, lifelong disease that physicians have learned to treat and bring under control. You live in this age of wonderful discoveries, so why not take advantage of it?

DRY HAIR IN CHILD

D. L. writes: Is dry hair in a 10-pear old boy a sign of a vitamin deficiency?

REPLY

Possibly, but a thyroid deficiency would be more common. Check his dietary history and if he is getting all the basic foods, there is no need to consider the nutritional aspect.

Study Club Guest Speaker Is Mrs. Benton

The Magnolia Study Club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, in the club room of Frenchie's Restaurant on DeSiard street. Mrs. Frank Reitzel, Mrs. P. O. Bedgood and Mrs. John Osterland were the hostessses. The president, Mrs. Henry Poulan opened the meeting by leading in the pledge to the flag and the reading of the Club Collect. Mrs. A. T. White gave the devotional on the theme "Never Alone."

Following a brief business session, the program chairman presented the speaker, Mrs. J. L. Benton, for the program, "The G. F. W. C. Legislation." Mrs. Benton stressed the power which, by their influence, women may and do have in the making of our laws in both state and nation. She noted too, that with more than one hundred fifty resolutions of the G. F. W. C., at the present time demonstrates that women are alert and working for the passage of bills, both domestic and with international implications, to create a better way of life for all.

Mrs. L. N. Copes brought some timely remarks on the use of parliamentary procedures in the business meetings.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames Aline Banister, Bedgood, Harold Gill, Ed Hislop Jr., C. C. Lucky, Floyd Matthews, W. R. Moseley, Osterland, White, W. E. Young, Copes, Benton, Poulan, and Miss Athlene Connnell and Miss Ola Mae Pennington.

On Dit'

by Denise

There is something about this time of year and the end of the outdoor season that puts one in the right frame of mind for new-house-hunting. It must be the primitive urge to find a warm cave for the winter, as in colder climes of these United States, October is the traditional moving month.

The RUFF TIDWELLS and their four boys are settled in their new residence on Westminster, as shown on today's front page. This is an interesting house, using lots of gold and white in the decor, but practical for the boys. The bone white entrance hall is floored with terrazzo. To the right is the living room, with the dining room behind it. Both rooms have pale gold walls and gold carpets. A gold scroll accents the sheer white draperies. Italian provincial tables flank the white sofa. A built-in buffet with sliding shelf fills one wall of the dining room.

Birch panelling is used for walls and cabinets in the kitchen. The terrazzo floor and the Formica counter tops are white. Both floor and panelling are repeated in the family room which extends across the back of the house behind the entrance hall. Glass panels form the back wall of the room, which is done in shades of beige and brown.

The boys' two large bedrooms are separated by a foldadoor wall made of birch to match the panelling. This can be opened to convert the two rooms into an extra-large play space. Drawers and shelves are built in, along with a corner table in each room which forms the headboard for the twin beds. Gold spreads are used, accenting the gold and brown provincial print used in both rooms. A yellow tile bath completes the boys' suite.

The master suite uses gold carpet with its white walls, and draperies of a paler shade of gold. The two double beds are treated as twin beds, with matching headboards and a table between. The colors are repeated in the gold and white tile bath.

The new home of the N. J. LAUDENHEIMERS on Deborah Drive is modern in style, with Oriental touches in accessories. Construction is of brown brick with a charcoal flecked, and the double front doors are a distinctive dark grey. Gum panelling is used in the entrance hall, which features a pair of antique brown marble consoles with Ming trees.

Two doors at the back of the entrance hall lead into the den and the living room. Shoji screens form the sliding wall between the two rooms. The living room ceiling is open to the beams, and the end of the room is a wall of glass rising to the roof. A beige carpet is used in this room, with an orange so a and a pair of aqua chairs. The built-in breakfront across one wall of the room used Shoji screens as its doors.

The dining room also has the high glass panels which give such an interesting view of the treetops. Decoration in this room is in shades of beige and brown. The furniture is an Oriental group in light mahogany . . . The kitchen with its family dining area is also in brown shades. Birch panelling is used, with a brown checkerboard wallpaper above the cabinets.

The hall to the bedrooms takes one between the den and the powder room and storage closets and suddenly widens into an area tailor - made for little boys. Here one finds built-in desks for study, drawers for any assortment of equipment, a pair of leather-covered couches. A pair of chalk boards set into the panelling fold down to reveal a completely set-up electric train. Two bedrooms, connected by a bath, open from this play room. Here the boys have storage for their private belongings. The walls behind the heads of the beds are "papered" with painted burlap, providing a wonderful surface for thumbtacks and nails.

The master bedroom, on beyond the boys' rooms, is done in restful shades of blue and green. The carpet is green, as is the "Stairstep" wallpaper. Blue and green sheer draperies draw across the glass wall. Flanking the lamps, made from Chinese porcelain vases. The bath is write tile, with a blue and green mosaic used on the counter tops and as an accent on the walls.

To the left of the entrance is the living - dining room, with walls, carpet, and drapes a lovely shade of grey-green. The oval dining table is made of cherry, as are the ladder-back chairs.

The kitchen walls have been given an interesting treatment in vinyl, printed like bricks, and painted white. Gum panelling is used for the cabinets, and white Formica for the counter tops.

Adjoining the kitchen is the family room with its hospitable open fireplace. A pair of gold wing chairs with a low maple coffee table between sit before the hearth.

The children's rooms reflect who lives there — Roy's very masculine in beige with brown rickrack; Betty's pale pink with white furniture. Her bed is of white wrought iron with white tester and dust ruffle. The master bedroom is in grey green. The four - poster bed used a white dust ruffle over a green coverlet. The wing chair is covered with a provincial print in shades of green and brown. White shutters are used over the bottom sash of the windows, with white cottage curtains at the top. Gum panelling is used for the wainscoting in the master bath, with wallpaper above.

Yesterday marked the official opening of the new camp built by the JERRY RYANS and the JOE DIXONS on the Dixon farm near Sterlington. The proud new campers plan to warm their place with a succession of small parties, the first of which was held last night. Friends motoring up found a house built back from the river. Construction is of boards and battens, stained dark brown with white trim. A screen porch extends completely across the front of the house.

Inside are a large living room, a bedroom, kitchen, and bath. The house is panelled throughout with random widths of African mahogany.

Focal point of the beamed living room is the brick fireplace. The fall foliage and pumpkins which decorated last night's party suited the tone of the house . . . In the bedroom are built-in double bunks and a wall bed, sleeping five, that being the number o persons in each of the families.

CHARLES WESTROM celebrated his sixth birthday with a boy-type party Friday afternoon. Twenty - two little friends were invited to Bernstein park, whence they came dressed as cowboys or Indians. They had a bow-and-arrow contest, played dodge ball, and rode the ponies. Peanut butter sandwiches, ice cream and cake, and cold drinks were the refreshments.

Visiting in the JACK TERZIA home last weekend was Ann's mother, MRS. AUBREY PYBURN of Shreveport.

A skating party marked SCOTTY DYER's seventh birthday last week. The group played Stop the Music, with CURTIS SMITH and JILL HODGES winning prizes. Bubble pipes and bubble mix were given as favors. Cupcakes and soft drinks were the refreshments served to thirty - five little friends.

Philene Hammer has written a seasonal poem entitled "Song of a Gardener Who Has Had It for This Year":

The flowers that bloom in the fall, tra la,
Are seedy and weedy and tall, tra la,
The tulips of spring were of some eclat;
The roses of June were phenomena!
But after July went to seed (ha ha),
It was too hot in August to weed (Hurrah!) —
So my asters, I'll have to confess, are blah
And my mums are a raggedy mess (voila!)
And at this point I couldn't care less, tra la.

Newlyweds Don't Flock To Niagara

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Niagara Falls is running dry as one of the nation's foremost honeymoon spots, travel agents report.

Glamorous spots such as Bermuda, Las Vegas, Hawaii, Miami and the Virgin Islands are taking its place.

Of the more than 3 million persons who visited Niagara Falls last year, the Chamber of Commerce of Niagara Falls, N. Y., counted only a few more than 3,500 honeymooning couples.

William A. Doody, convention director of the chamber of commerce, said his home town had been rated the "honeymoon city" since the turn of the century. Historically, he said, it still stands as No. 1, in spite of a recent decline.

Travel agents who arrange accommodations for honeymooners and the honeymoon travel department of a magazine put Bermuda, Pennsylvania resorts, New York City, Florida and Canada at the top of the wedding trip hit parade list.

The magazine's travel experts said the average honeymoon couple spends $430 on its wedding trip. Only 7 per cent of all newlyweds do not go on honeymoons, they reported. The other 93 per cent take trips averaging 12 days, most of them in automobiles.

A Chicago tour director said that honeymooners who visit Niagara Falls these days usually just pass by on their way to another resort.

"We haven't sent anyone to Niagara Falls in years," said a leading travel agent.

Another spokesman said:

Niagara is out and Bermuda is in. All the travel agents and tour operators we've checked already have or are developing honeymoon specials in Bermuda.

"The agencies say they're doing comparatively little business with Niagara, although 3 million-odd people still visit Niagara.

"San Juan is getting very popular. Three Puerto Rican resort hotels, El Rancho, Barranquitas and Monte Mar, give honeymooners special rates.

"Miami is very, very big and increasing yearly, mainly because most weddings are in June and prices then in Miami are 'thrift season' rates. Also, honeymoon couples like hotel hopping."

Young Eastern couples with little money go to resorts in the Poconos, Catskills, Laurentians and Berkshires, where resorts lure honeymooners with free champagne and caviar, sterling silver engraved cake knives, wedding books or albums of photos snapped of them during their visits.

A Los Angeles travel agent said western honeymooners are flocking to Honolulu.

Jackets Hold Interest In The New Fall Suits

By MARIAN RAHL

The walking suit, often the first important investment for a fall wardrobe, strides out this time with much jacket interest. Beautiful woolens in hard finish and softer types promote their smart appearance for street wear.

You may find it difficult to make up your mind this fall when you consider the great variety of jacket styles available. Generally, they have a less fitted look than other seasons, the top fashion designs are frequently longer and there's some evidence of wider shoulderlines. Skirts are slightly longer to balance this top interest.

Shaped to follow the figure with ease are a number or longer jacket styles, usually double-breasted. The belted suit appears in both casual tweeds and in soft dress woolens with fur trimming. For those who find them most becoming, however, jackets are also in hip level and shorter lengths. The Chanel jacket with suits and dresses is another favorite that returns for fall, 1959.

Flattering collars, necklines and scarf collars or stoles stress the fashion importance of the new suits. Sleeves are usually slim and begin at the slightly widened shoulderline or may have deeper armhole for a softer line through the bodice.

Tweeds come in bold black and white and beautiful subtle blends of color. Monotone tweeds and the hard worsted suitings in a wide range of colors — gray, browns, camel, blue and many greens.

Accessories Can Play A Dual Role

By BETH BLAIR

When accessories can be worn with many costumes you have made an excellent choice. In addition to basic pieces, select one or two that spice up your wardrobe. A reader writes —

Dear Miss Blair:
In October I will visit Las Vegas and California. What weight clothes will I need?

Only Southern California will be really warm at that time and for this area, lightweight clothes and cottons would be appropriate. Lightweight woolens might be right in Vegas then. Take sportswear with sweaters, shirts, jackets, etc., which may be added or subtracted to suit temperature requiremens. Weather can be unpredictable in fall as any other season so have a small but varied group of clothes with you. Take some for wear in the evening — cocktail types would be right.

Dear Miss Blair:
I am invited to an afternoon party and have been told that afternoon clothes would be correct. Can you tell me just what type this would be?

"Afternoon" clothes are dressy rather than tailored yet they are not as fussy as cocktail or formal clothes. Generally, they have a pretty neckline, brief or three-quarter sleeves; a slim or full silhouette. Fabric such as silk or a thin wool adds to their dress-up look. Accessories, of course, should complement this look.

Girl Scout News

Big news for this week is the playday at Pine Wood Saturday. Rather, it is a work and play day, but in Scouting it is not necessary to separate the two. They are both fun.

According to the camp committee, which sponsors the event each fall, any troop, Brownie or Intermediate, may attend with its leaders or with other adults in charge. The troop makes its own plans for the day's activities, joining with the entire group for the opening flag ceremony and accepting a job for camp improvement. The latter will include raking pine needles and leaves from around building, washing windows, planting trees, pulling weeds.

Many troops take advantage of the opportunity for a cookout, to carry out badge requirements or Second Class nature and out-of-door requirements. Girls from several troops of older Intermediates have expressed an interest in helping younger girls lay trails, learn trees and plants, tie knots, or lash a piece of equipment. Of course, a hike to the river is a must. For the encouragement of those grown-ups who haven't been to camp before, it's only a short distance.

The only reason for postponing the day will be rain. Cold doesn't matter when we can have fires and when everyone is active and is properly dressed. By properly dressed, the Scouts mean jeans, sweater or jacket or both, sturdy shoes, boots if it has rained, and scarf or cap for the head. Most groups will bring nose-bag lunches, and the camp will furnish a cold drink. Every good Scout knows to bring a drinking cup with her name on it, not a paper one, and a packet knife if she is an Intermediate. Of course, she has returned a signed permission slip to her leader.

Time to begin the day's activities is 9:30, and most will want to leave about 2:30. For those new leaders and names, we'll tell again how to reach camp. Cross the Sterlington bridge, turn right at the Girl Scout sign ½ mile from bridge. Continue on the gravel road about 3½ miles, following Girl Scout signs. Let's give as many girls as possible a chance for a day of fun in the out of doors. If it should rain, we'll try again on the 31st.

Another troop of beginning Scouts, second graders at Highland School, has completed registration requirements and will soon be invested. Looking forward to wearing shiny Brownie pins and the uniform are the following girls: Judy Bennett, Debra Bryan, Kathy Clowers, Vikki Davis, Judith Downey, Gail Gatlin, Mary V. Inabnet, Suzie Jacola, Beverly Johnson, Martha Lolley, Karen Moncrief, Allegra Nevils, Susan Owens, Martha Reed, Suzanne Taylor, Marilyn Waren, Jill Watkins.

Leaders are Mrs. R. M. Gatlin and Mrs. E. M. Waren. Serving on the troop committee are Mrs. Harold Clowers, Mrs. Billy Johnson, and Mrs. Jesse Owens. Adults associated with the troop have been attending sessions of the basic leadership course at the office.

On Dit'

by Denise

There is something about this time of year and the end of the outdoor season that puts one in the right frame of mind for new-house-hunting. It must be the primitive urge to find a warm cave for the winter, as in colder climes of these United States, October is the traditional moving month.

The RUFF TIDWELLS and their four boys are settled in their new residence on Westminster, as shown on today's front page. This is an interesting house, using lots of gold and white in the decor, but practical for the boys. The bone white entrance hall is floored with terrazzo. To the right is the living room, with the dining room behind it. Both rooms have pale gold walls and gold carpets. A gold scroll accents the sheer white draperies. Italian provincial tables flank the white sofa. A built-in buffet with sliding shelf fills one wall of the dining room.

Birch panelling is used for walls and cabinets in the kitchen. The terrazzo floor and the Formica counter tops are white. Both floor and panelling are repeated in the family room which extends across the back of the house behind the entrance hall. Glass panels form the back wall of the room, which is done in shades of beige and brown.

The boys' two large bedrooms are separated by a foldadoor wall made of birch to match the panelling. This can be opened to convert the two rooms into an extra-large play space. Drawers and shelves are built in, along with a corner table in each room which forms the headboard for the twin beds. Gold spreads are used, accenting the gold and brown provincial print used in both rooms. A yellow tile bath completes the boys' suite.

The master suite uses gold carpet with its white walls, and draperies of a paler shade of gold. The two double beds are treated as twin beds, with matching headboards and a table between. The colors are repeated in the gold and white tile bath.

The new home of the N. J. LAUDENHEIMERS on Deborah Drive is modern in style, with Oriental touches in accessories. Construction is of brown brick with a charcoal fleck, and the double front doors are a distinctive dark grey. Gum panelling is used in the entrance hall, which features a pair of antique brown marble consoles with Ming trees.

Two doors at the back of the entrance hall lead into the den and the living room. Shoji screens form the sliding wall between the two rooms. The living room ceiling is open to the beams, and the end of the room is a wall of glass rising to the roof. A beige carpet is used in this room, with an orange sofa and a pair of aqua chairs. The built-in breakfront across one wall of the room used Shoji screens as its doors.

The dining room also has the high glass panels which give such an interesting view of the treetops. Decoration in this room is in shades of beige and brown. The furniture is an Oriental group in light mahogany . . . The kitchen with its family dining area is also in brown shades. Birch panelling is used, with a brown checkerboard wallpaper above the cabinets.

The hall to the bedrooms takes one between the den and the powder room and storage closets and suddenly widens into an area tailor - made for little boys. Here one finds built-in desks for study, drawers for any assortment of equipment, a pair of leather-covered couches. A pair of chalk boards set into the panelling fold down to reveal a completely set-up electric train. Two bedrooms, connected by a bath, open from this play room. Here the boys have storage for their private belongings. The walls behind the heads of the beds are "papered" with painted burlap, providing a wonderful surface for thumbtacks and nails.

The master bedroom, on beyond the boys' rooms, is done in restful shades of blue and green. The carpet is green, as is the "Stairstep" wallpaper. Blue and green sheer draperies draw across the glass wall. Flanking the lamps, made from Chinese porcelain vases. The bath is write tile, with a blue and green mosaic used on the counter tops and as an accent on the walls.

To the left of the entrance is the living - dining room, with walls, carpet, and drapes a lovely shade of grey-green. The oval dining table is made of cherry, as are the ladder-back chairs.

The kitchen walls have been given an interesting treatment in vinyl, printed like bricks, and painted white. Gum panelling is used for the cabinets, and white Formica for the counter tops.

Adjoining the kitchen is the family room with its hospitable open fireplace. A pair of gold wing chairs with a low maple coffee table between sit before the hearth.

The children's rooms reflect who lives there — Roy's very masculine in beige with brown rickrack; Betty's pale pink with white furniture. Her bed is of white wrought iron with white tester and dust ruffle. The master bedroom is in grey green. The four - poster bed used a white dust ruffle over a green coverlet. The wing chair is covered with a provincial print in shades of green and brown. White shutters are used over the bottom sash of the windows, with white cottage curtains at the top. Gum panelling is used for the wainscoting in the master bath, with wallpaper above.

Yesterday marked the official opening of the new camp built by the JERRY RYANS and the JOE DIXONS on the Dixon farm near Sterlington. The proud new campers plan to warm their place with a succession of small parties, the first of which was held last night. Friends motoring up found a house built back from the river. Construction is of boards and battens, stained dark brown with white trim. A screen porch extends completely across the front of the house.

Inside are a large living room, a bedroom, kitchen, and bath. The house is panelled throughout with random widths of African mahogany.

Focal point of the beamed living room is the brick fireplace. The fall foliage and pumpkins which decorated last night's party suited the tone of the house . . . In the bedroom are built-in double bunks and a wall bed, sleeping five, that being the number of persons in each of the families.

CHARLES WESTROM celebrated his sixth birthday with a boy-type party Friday afternoon. Twenty - two little friends were invited to Bernstein park, whence they came dressed as cowboys or Indians. They had a bow-and-arrow contest, played dodge ball, and rode the ponies. Peanut butter sandwiches, ice cream and cake, and cold drinks were the refreshments.

Visiting in the JACK TERZIA home last weekend was Ann's mother, MRS. AUBREY PYBURN of Shreveport.

A skating party marked SCOTTY DYER's seventh birthday last week. The group played Stop the Music, with CURTIS SMITH and JILL HODGES winning prizes. Bubble pipes and bubble mix were given as favors. Cupcakes and soft drinks were the refreshments served to thirty - five little friends.

Philene Hammer has written a seasonal poem entitled "Song of a Gardener Who Has Had It for This Year":

The flowers that bloom in the fall, tra la,
Are seedy and weedy and tall, tra la,
The tulips of spring were of some eclat:
The roses of June were phenomena!
But after July went to seed (ha ha),
It was too hot in August to weed (Hurrah!) —
So my asters, I'll have to confess, are blah
And my mums are a raggedy mess (voila!)
And at this point I couldn't care less, tra la.

Newlyweds Don't Flock To Niagara

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Niagara Falls is running dry as one of the nation's foremost honeymoon spots, travel agents report.

Glamorous spots such as Bermuda, Las Vegas, Hawaii, Miami and the Virgin Islands are taking its place.

Of the more than 3 million persons who visited Niagara Falls last year, the Chamber of Commerce of Niagara Falls, N. Y., counted only a few more than 3,500 honeymooning couples.

William A. Doody, convention director of the chamber of commerce, said his home town had been rated the "honeymoon city" since the turn of the century. Historically, he said, it still stands as No. 1, in spite of a recent decline.

Travel agents who arrange accommodations for honeymooners and the honeymoon travel department of a magazine put Bermuda, Pennsylvania resorts, New York City, Florida and Canada at the top of the wedding trip hit parade list.

The magazine's travel experts said the average honeymoon couple spends $430 on its wedding trip. Only 7 per cent of all newlyweds do not go on honeymoons, they reported. The other 93 per cent take trips averaging 12 days, most of them in automobiles.

A Chicago tour director said that honeymooners who visit Niagara Falls these days usually just pass by on their way to another resort.

"We haven't sent anyone to Niagara Falls in years," said a leading travel agent.

Another spokesman said:

Niagara is out and Bermuda is in. All the travel agents and tour operators we've checked already have or are developing honeymoon specials in Bermuda.

"The agencies say they're doing comparatively little business with Niagara, although 3 million-odd people still visit Niagara.

"San Juan is getting very popular. Three Puerto Rican resort hotels, El Rancho, Barranquitas and Monte Mar, give honeymooners special rates.

"Miami is very, very big and increasing yearly, mainly because most weddings are in June and prices then in Miami are "thrift season' rates. Also, honeymoon couples like hotel hopping."

Young Eastern couples with little money go to resorts in the Poconos, Catskills, Laurentians and Berkshires, where resorts lure honeymooners with free champagne and cavair, sterling silver engraved cake knives, wedding books or albums of photos snapped of them during their visits.

A Los Angeles travel agent said western honeymooners are flocking to Honolulu.

Jackets Hold Interest In The New Fall Suits

By MARIAN RAHL

The walking suit, often the first important investment for a fall wardrobe, strides out this time with much jacket interest. Beautiful woolens in hard finish and softer types promote their smart appearance for street wear.

You may find it difficult to make up your mind this fall when you consider the great variety of jacket styles available. Generally, they have a less fitted look than other seasons, the top fashion designs are frequently longer and there's some evidence of wider shoulderlines. Skirts are slightly longer to balance this top interest.

Shaped to follow the figure with ease are a number or longer jacket styles, usually double-breasted. The belted suit appears in both casual tweeds and in soft dress woolens with fur trimming. For those who find them most becoming, however, jackets are also in hip level and shorter lengths. The Chanel jacket with suits and dresses is another favorite that returns for fall, 1959.

Flattering collars, necklines and scarf collars or stoles stress the fashion importance of the new suits. Sleeves are usually slim and begin at the slightly widened shoulderline or may have deeper armhole for a softer line through the bodice.

Tweeds come in bold black and white and beautiful subtle blends of color. Monotone tweeds and the hard worsted suitings in a wide range of colors — gray, browns, camel, blue and many greens.

Time To Plant Strawberries

By AUDREY DAWSON

GARDENING

There are many perennials that do much better when planted in the fall. October is a grand month to get that done. Some of the leading ones which you will want to plant now are: Columbine, foxglove, primrose, hollyhock, delphinium and canterbury bell. Put in some of these perennials this fall and see how much better they do than when planted in the spring.

Transplant and divide oxalis, daylilies and liriope this month. If you have more than you need, I am sure you know a new home owner that will be delighted to get them — and you will get the pleasure of sharing your garden with others.

CONVENTION

Yours truly will be in New Orleans next week helping entertain 1400 home demonstration agents from all of the states of the union and, of course, this includes Alaska and Hawaii. This will be the 25th annual meeting and it is the first time Louisiana has ever been host to the national convention and the second meeting ever held in the south—so you can know the eyes of every state will be on Louisiana next week.

Maxine Reeves, our president who is home demonstration agent in our neighboring parish, LaSalle, and Maida Tabor, agent in New Orleans, have seen to it that every plan has been made to put Louisiana in the limelight for all our visitors. The theme of the meeting is, "You Hold the Key."

Heading the list of speakers is Director C. M. Ferguson of the federal extension office and our own director of extension for Louisiana H. C. Sanders. We agents in Louisiana are looking forward to a mighty busy, but most pleasant week.

STRAWBERRY PLANTING

If you want to have some of those delicious home - grown strawberries next spring (and who wouldn't like to have them) need to begin to make plans now to order your plants. Our specialist recommends the Konvoy and Headliner for the home gardener or for those who plant in the flower bed. The best time to put out plants in this section is about October 15. Order your plants early for best choices in variety and quality.

If you planted strawberries last year it is time to transplant your plants from the beds to where this year's crop will be produced. Don't forget to give your plants a good sulphur dusting before they are transplanted. Dust during clear weather when the temperature is 70 degrees or above. You will save a lot of time and kill a great number of red spiders before they multiply their number and damage your strawberry plants. A second application of sulphur may be necessary to control this insect.

WRINKLE RESISTANT

The term "wrinkle resistant" identifies a group of modern cottons which have been chemically treated to maintain smooth appearance in use. They wrinkle less during wear than untreated cottons. Wrinkles that do occur hang out overnight.

There is a slight difference between these cottons and those termed, "wash and wear". Wrinkle resistant cottons generally need some pressing after laundering but the amount of ironing is reduced.

Launder wrinkle resistant cottons in any conventional way, by hand or machine. Their finishes are not sensitive to heat and will not be damaged by hot water or detergents. They may be dry cleaned also.

HINTS ON HONEY

When substituting honey for sugar in recipes these tips may help you, Mrs. Homemaker. Remember that each cup of honey contains about one-fourth cup liquid from the recipe for each cup of honey used. Honey caramelizes at a low temperature and browns quickly. No adjustment for sweetening power is needed when substituting honey for sugar.

Remember to put a little money in your life for that needed energy these busy fall days. October has been designated as "Honey Month."

A THOUGHT

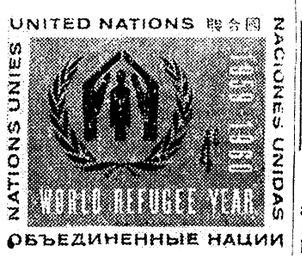
No chain of priceless pearls is half the worth of a chain of true blue friends.

STAMPS

A new United Nations stamp, the fourth conemenorative of 1959, will honor World Refugee Year. It is scheduled for issuance Dec. 10 and will replace the Human Rights Day stamps which have been issued each year since 1952.

World Refugee Year - June 1959 to June 1960 — was designated by resolution of the United Nations General Assembly (Dec. 5, 1958) as a year of special effort on behalf of the world's refugees.

The stamp will depict hands held protectively over a refugee. The designer is Olav S. Mathiesen of the U. N. Graphic Presentation unit and is the official emblem adopted by the United Nations for World Refugee Year.



The new commemorative will be in two colors. The 4-center will be in red with olive gold lettering on the border. The 8-center will be blue with olive gold lettering.

First day cancellations may be obtained by sending self addressed envelopes together with money order remittances to the Postmaster General, United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, N. Y.

The Netherlands has issued two new commemorative stamps to mark the 40th anniversary of the founding of KLM Royal Dutch Airlines. The 12-cent blue and brown shows a jet airliner superimposed on a flat map of the world. The 30-cent blue and green pictures a side view of the same jet airliner.

The Post Office Department has cancelled 10,565,529 first day covers this year (through the 4-cent Dental Health commemorative released Sept. 14). This compares to the 7,782,667 covers cancelled in a comparable period last year.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

House Plant Needs Listed

By MARY JARDINE

"Remember, a plant is a living thing, and should be treated accordingly. Unlike most living things, it has no way to make its needs known other than its appearance, which will reflect the kind of treatment it receives from its guardian — you!" Author Unknown.

At this time of year we think of bringing plants indoors for color and interest in our decorative schemes. Many people come to me to analyze their failure with house plants. The three principal things a house plant must have are light, moisture and ventilation, and of course, temperature. For best results keep plants in a warm place, free from drafts, temperature about 68 during the day and 58 at night. water when dry, but before wilting. Use tepid not cold water. Do not overwater. This is one of the biggest faults of the amateur plant grower. Place in a fully light position at least eight hours daily. But not in full sunlight, it's too bright and too hot. Plants will not thrive in a closed up house with venetian blinds closed and drapes drawn. If you cannot give light in other ways use artificial light.

Leave a lamp burning close to your plants. Clean with a damp cloth to remove dust and dirt. Polish if desired with one of the plant polishes, but be sure the soil around the plant is moist before applying. Personally I like my plants au naturel. Pinch and support plants as they grow. Regarding humidity, perhaps the lack of it causes many plant failures. One of the helps is to keep the temperature to levels as mentioned above.

Another way to increase humidity in the vicinity of the plants is to stand the pots on pebbles in a watertight tray. The water in the tray (or bottom of a decorative pot) should constantly be at a level which comes within one inch or less of the surface of the pebbles. In other words, don't have the plant standing in water. Satisfactory materials are chicken grits, perlite, coarse sand, vermiculite or roadside gravel.

Another way to increase humidity of the air is to spray the plants with water at least once a day. There are available locally and in the catalogs louvered window ventilators which allow fresh air to come into the room without drafts, or rain. They are screened on the back to exclude insects and adjustable to fit all windows of the up and down sash type. Inexpensive too, we have had ours for years. Try some of these helps and I hope you will be happy with your house plants.

CLUB EXHIBITS

Members of the Suburban Garden Club of Ruston presented a colorful fall flower show at the center this week. In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. A. H. May for large dahlia, Mrs. B. C. Van Hood for magnolia grandiflora, and Mrs. J. B. Bice for salmon celosia.

In the arrangement section Mrs. J. W. Thompson was awarded high score blue ribbon. Using a copper colored container, Mrs. Thompson designed a triangular arrangement using aspidistra leaves to form the outline. These were trimmed to a most interesting shape, roughly oval. A large cluster of maroon celosia was used as a center of interest. For a change of texture, a branch of leafless pedilanthus emphasized the right angle of the triangle.

Mrs. Malcolm Hood tied with Mrs. Thompson in score. A unique combination of materials and a most interesting container were featured in Mrs. Hood's arrangement. The "container" was a brass mortar shell (from World War II) which had an etched design and hammered effect. Being quite tall the design was naturally vertical in pattern. Yellow banded sansevieria was used for height, with foliage of the monstera (cut leaf philodendron) framing the center of interest. Pale yellow celosia of the cockscomb type, fall pears, and small green bananas were effectively grouped. A most distinctive arrangement. Mrs. E. P. Cole's colorful arrangement was the center of attraction. Using a low black bowl Mrs. Cole created a colorful mass design using pedilanthus for her vertical placements. Azaleamums shading from yellow to deep bronze were effectively massed into the design. Variegated pothos was used low in the design to cover the rim of the container.

Cares Mount With Year's Last Tomato

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — The last rose of summer is never so nostalgic to me as the last tomato.

Roses being cultural, I can take them or leave them alone. But tomatoes are for real.

Feeling about them as I do, I try each fall to stretch the season out. Always as the time of frost draws near I seek ways and means of maturing a few more of these things our ancestors knew as love apples.

First of course is the possibility that if I let the green globes hang on the vine until the last possible moment, a few more will ripen. Thus it becomes a guessing game. When the weather man says "in the forties along the coast and frost possible in the interior regions," does he classify Chappaqua as interior? Just how far from the coast (or from Long Island Sound) is interior?

I decide finally that to a weather man on the Manhattan waterfront, Chappaqua is an interior regions. But by further analysis, I come to the conclusion that "possible frost" is not enough of a threat to warrant the picking of the whole green tomato crop.

Luck is with me. The cold snap breaks and the tomatoes are still green. Hopefully, a few show a lighter sheen. But a week later, when frost becomes "probable" rather than "possible," I feel that I have stretched my luck far enough. I bring in most of the tomatoes that show tendency to turn color, even to a lighter green.

A percentage player would say I was wise, but actually the frost that falls is only a white mist, not the "black" frost that withers life. For two or even three weeks after that, Indian summer holds and I live to regret the early garnering of the crop.

But the decision was made, the deed done. Carefully I wrap each green tomato in tissue and store it in the cool garage.

Now I have to remember each week to peek beneath the wrappings. Never do I go unrewarded by the glimpse of some few tomatoes that have blushed red. Not the real, glowing red of sun-ripened fruit, of course. But still an attractive shade, and a passable flavor.

Along the way I discover my hard won fruits, many of them, are succumbing to tiny rots that seemed scarce noticeable at the time of the harvest. Wrapped individually and each set apart, they do not contaminate each other, but the ranks are decimated.

Thus the weeks pass and November comes upon me. And at last the whole project no longer seems worth the bother. I sweep the leavings into a garbage pail, and go out to tidy up the tomato patch, with its broken, leaning poles and its now sear vines. It won't be too long, after all, before I'm planting flats with tomato seeds again.

JUDGE GIVES WARNING

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) —Town court Judge Edward R. Doyle warned a defendant Thursday night that the "dignity of the court must be preserved." Doyle spoke after James P. Malloy addressed him as "my dear young man." Malloy is 69, the judge 34.

MUSIC WORLD

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—The annual battle of symphony orchestras for New York's rich patronage has two new entries this season. One will go into the Carnegie Hall musical arena at bargain basement prices.

Herbert Barrett, an impresario with a mass usage-low unit cost theory, has signed the esteemed National Symphony of Washington in his effort to prove that musicians are pricing themselves out of the musical market.

The other newcomer is "The Orchestra of America," a brand new orchestra which is dedicating it self to the American composer and American music. Richard Korn, long a conductor in search of an orchestra, is its maestro.

Barrett's theory is that a young couple should be able to hire a baby-sitter, have dinner out, and then attend a concert at a total cost of $10. By established pricing that costs a minimum of $20.

He did a bargain basement business in Carnegie last season with a subscription series in which orchestra seats went for $2 each if they were bought for all the concerts. The balcony seats went for as little as 50 cents per concert. Furthermore, the concert-givers were all name-artists.

MITCHELL WILL CONDUCT

This season's series of four concerts will include two by the National Symphony under its famous conductor, Howard Mitchell, and with a soloist thrown in. The other two concerts will be recitals by John Browning, who is the "hottest" of the young pianists (he is signed to appear three times with the Philadelphia orchestra and four times with the New York Philharmonic this season.) and Toshiya Eto, a brilliant Japanese violin virtoso and the first such the Orient has produced.

Korn's orchestra enterprise is a direct competitor of Leonard Bernstein's let's - hear - more-American-music campaign which dominated his first season as music director and principal conductor of the New York Philharmonic last year.

He plans more high dosage this year although he opened the orchestra's season last Thursday night with Beethoven and Shostakovich, with his own commentary on the music and with himself as the piano soloist in Beethoven's "Triple Concerto."

Is there that much of a New York market for American music and American composers? Korn began to find out last Wednesday evening when he opened his series of five concerts, with Jan Peerce, the Metropolitan Opera tenor, as soloist in arias of American origin. What with dead-heading musicians and New York's fondness for Peerce, the first concert seemed to do all right. Its successors will tell more.

Camera Notes

I recently attended a convention of the Professional Photographers Assn., of New Jersey, and like most serious photographic gatherings, the program was planned to raise the standards of photography by inspirational talks, practical demonstrations, visual displays of high caliber work and some fun.

In a rare tribute to one of the world's great photographers, the convention was dedicated to Adolf Fassbender, dean of American pictorialists. "Papa" Fassbender, who recently celebrated his 75th birthday, is still active and maintains his international reputation while teaching his photographic methods.

The PPA of New Jersey has actually taken steps by legislative means to elevate the standards of their profession instead of just talking about it.

The action was prompted by newspaper reports in recent years of fraudulent and unethical photographic schemes by "shoot and run" operators. It reached such proportions that Better Business Bureaus, chambers of commerce and police departments of New Jersey were flooded with complaints.

Through the efforts of the Professional Photographers Assn.'s. ethics and legislative committee, a bill was introduced in the New Jersey Senate this year calling for the creation of a State Board of Photography and regulations for use of the title, "Certified Professional Photographer."

Len Kartzman, chairman of the ethics committee, explained the purpose of the bill and expressed the hope that it would be passed this year.

"It is not a restrictive measure at all," he stressed. "Anyone can still practice photography as a profession without applying for a CPP certificate. If some one wants to hire a photographer with or without the certification, that's his privilege.

"But we feel it's like a doctor with an MD or an accountant with a CPA, the CPP insignia would designate a professional photographer who has been found competent in his work and of good character. It is a sign to which the general public can turn with a measure of trust. Only professional photographers who have applied for, taken and passed the State Board of Photographers' examinations can display their 'Certified Professional Photographer' certificate."

Among the qualifications for an applicant are two years' full-time professional experience in the field of photography or graduation from a recognized school of photography plus one year's professional experience and the endorsement of three photographers and all engaged in news years of professional experience.

The proposed bill specifically exempts newspaper photographers and all engaged in news photography from any in news photography from any provisions of the statute.

In order that this project does not prove another financial burden on taxpayers, it has been made self-supporting by applying the fees collected for certification toward all the expenses involved.

If the bill is passed, Kartzman believes it will make New Jersey the first state to officially recognize photography as a dignified profession whose standards must be kept high as a matter of public concern.

Bulbs Endure In Rich Soil

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Those fat tulips, hyacinths and daffodils that you plant this fall can be permanent in your garden. When they come from the bulb farms, they have been fed to the limit and will bloom next spring in any old soil. To make them come back and flower well every year, however, you must plant them in rich garden soil.

TULIPS

Tulips should be planted at least six inches deep. Then, of course, they must have at least another four inches of rich soil beneath the bulbs. The roots of tulips will not roam and forage through the soil for food like those of daffodils. The tiny tulip roots do not go far and have such short lives that they must be able to find their food easily in this limited area. For this reason, it is useless to plant tulips in any but the very best soil. You will be surprised, however, at the permanence of these bulbs in good soil and at the proper depth. Some old Virginia gardens still have the same tulips that were originally planted there.

The old fashioned hyacinth that still grows in some old gardens from Maryland to Texas are proof that these bulbs, too, can be permanent. We may not have the mountains of cow manure that our grandparents had at their command, but we do know how to prepare rich soil just the same. Hyacinths are a joy to have especially because they come so early. They will bloom just as soon as the last snow and ice melts from their buds. It is surprising that we do not see more of them in our gardens these days. The large daffodils that we buy have fine flower buds in them and produce one or more big blossoms the first year. These bulbs are so big that they will probably give us several fine flowers the second year if the soil is rich enough. We should not be surprised if they divide into a number of bulbs in their third year and do not flower as heavily. If you wish to multiply your bulbs as fast as possible, take them up after the second season in the ground, dry them off, and separate them before planting time.

DAFFODILS

Daffodils, crocuses, Roman hyacinths and the tiny blue chionodoxas are so beautiful in great drifts and patches that we like to plant them by the hundred and thousand. Scillas, the little common yellow trumpet daffodil and chionodoxas will naturalize in our woods where the soil is good enough. Underneath deep rooting trees like oaks and hickories, all three of these bulbs can be kept going for years if you keep a mulch of leaves over them and scatter a complete fertilizer over the mulch just before the bulbs come out in spring each year.

Crocuses usually get eaten up by rabbits or squirrels or mice. They are so cheap, however, that they are worth planting if for only one season. Fortunately, rabbits will not eat daffodil foliage nor that of any other member of the great Amaryllis family because of a substance in the sap.

THE HOME SHIFT

Welcome Club Slates Show

By MILDRED SWIFT

A treat in store for all, is the fall flower show to be staged by the Welcome Garden Club, Saturday, October 24. Place, West Monroe High School, time 3:30 to 7:00 p.m., theme, "The Magic of Autumn."

When to prune the Lady Banksia evergreen climbing rose poses a question. This rose will bloom for many, many years with no pruning at all. Of course the more luxuriant it grows, the greater the mass of blooms and the greater showing it will make. However, if it becomes necessary to prune this plant, use the same rule as for other spring blooming shrubs — just after blooming time which will be next spring. I promise to remind you.

ROSES

While we're talking about this plant, let's see where you'll place the lovely rose if you need to buy one this winter. They're beautiful running up and over the roof of low buildings such as garages. Or — a very large U shaped trellis encourages the rampant growth for which it is noted. You'll never want anything more beautiful than a view of this from under the trellis when the rose is in bloom.

Then, the rose can be encouraged to grow in trees. Of course they get lots of shade planted under a tree but I've seen them running all up into the branches and on out on the branches and draped down in cascades of blossoms.

Strange to say, the Lady Banksia will, also, grow in full sun, because I have one doing just that. My favorite way to train them is in tree form. Put a very large, very strong stake about five feet high by the bush when you plant it. As the plant grows, keep it anchored to the stake with insulated wire so it will not cut. The vine will grow to the top of the stake and cascade back to the ground. Of course every sweet has its bitter. The bitter here is that this plant blooms such a short time.

Don't forget — if you've built a new home, the space around the house probably has cement that was dropped there during the building. This is very alkaline and acid loving plants will not live there. You need to make the soil acid or at least neutral. Often this cement forms lumps too, which interferes with roots growth

After that rain I know your hands are iching to get the spade and move those plants that have been worrying you. Unless you have skilled help, wait until the plants are dormant (December, January, or February) and we've had more rain. This is not the time to fertilize, either. Wait until after Christmas.

TREES

When tree planting time comes around, and — if you need a tree, here are some suggestions! Plant the tree where you need the shade — not where you think it will look best. Visualize the eventual size so you'll get the tree away from the house and light and telephone wires.

The pecan is a beautiful tree. If kept mulched and fertilized, it grows fairly fast.

A cypruessis is a lacy, fine textured tree but you need a low, damp area for this. The sweet gum is fast growing and gives you gorgeous foliage at this time of year.

The sycamore has gorgeous trunk interest, coarse foliage and is a fast grower. Tulip trees give you coarse foliage and gorgeous chartreuse colored blooms in early spring.

The pin oak is slower growing, the leaves are small and make a wonderful mulch. Gingko is slower growing and is a ball of yellow in the fall.

Maybe you need a windbreak and evergreens are best for this. There are like oaks, pines and magnolia grandiflora.

Medium and small decorative trees are: Crabapple, tallow, mimosa, dogwood, fringe tree, Japanese magnolia, redbud, crepe myrtle. These are only a few. Call and get our bulletin, "Louisiana Trees" and get other suggestions. Phone FA 3-2251.

It's good that the nurseries now carry the wild myrtle. This is one of our native shrubs and is the hardiest plant to both freeze and drowth that I know. L. L. Price says there are definitely two varieties — one much darker green than the other. They grow very large and need to be kept pruned.

"What Every Woman Knows" is the name of one of our newest bulletins by Miss Rupert Perry, specialist in home management. You need this bulletin. It tells you how to care for your furniture, including directions for restoring scratches, blemishes, white spots, and burns. Then Miss Perry gives you directions for shampooing upholstered furniture of fabric or leather. Call FA 3-2251 for your copy of this bulletin.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Nail polish kept in the refrigerator keeps fluid and usable. It goes on the nails smoothly and dries more quickly when applied.

This is the time of year summer clothes are being stored and fall woolens are making their appearance. Wash all starch from these clothes before putting them up for the winter. Silverfish may feed upon the starched items.

Brown sugar is used in countless dishes — and here's a tip: for use in baking, brown sugar should be packed so firmly into the measuring cup that when the sugar is turned out, it will keep its shape. This method assures an accurate measure.

Have you ever tried putting a small child in front of a large mirror while you are combing her hair? She will be so interested in watching what is going on, she will hold still longer.

When a child must soak fingers in hot solutions, you will have no trouble getting him to do this if you put marbles in the pan holding the solution.

If you're at a loss for a way to keep young ones amused on a rainy day, here's a suggestion: Give your youngster a large sheet of white paper, or newspaper, blunt edge scissors and a jar of paste. Children can paste shapes onto the large sheet for hours, creating their own designs.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

When you are riding around the hills of West Monroe, notice the beautiful French mulberry. I don't believe I've ever seen a more perfect shade of purple. The berries are born in clusters on long stems. These are beautiful in arrangements. They'll keep several weeks but you'll need to snip the leaves as they wilt in a few hours.

Make a note to plant one of these (buy from nursery) this winter to plant in your "hobby" garden.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, "Hair Styles for You" by guest; Tuesday, "Cleaning the Sewing Machine," Barbara Haynes; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday, Marketing with Mildred Friday, "Sea Foods in Your Meals," guest, home economist.

See you next week.

Religion For Deaf Relayed By TV Signs

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

A pretty teen-aged girl is playing a vital role in bringing religion to deaf people by way of television.

She is Georgia Dunlap, 16, who interprets the spoken word via sign language to accompany a "Preview of Televangelism 1960" at the Southwest Baptist Church in St. Louis.

For the past two Sundays she has stood beside a television set, watching another set about six feet away and relaying the words to several score deaf people while they watch. She will be doing it again this Sunday.

The Southwest Baptist Church is holding the viewing parties as an experimental prelude to the TV dramatic series The Answer, which will begin in January under the sponsorship of the Southern Baptist Convention's Radio and Television Commission.

Interpreting from the television screen is something new for Georgia, but using sign language is not.

For the past three years, she has been using her unusual knowledge to help the deaf at Southwest Baptist, beginning as an interpreter on the Sunday School level.

She became so proficient at sign language that she now stands beside the pastor each Sunday morning, turning his sermon into hand motions that can be read with the eyes of the people in front of her.

Another girl, Diana Krauss, handles the evening sermon.

Georgia began learning sign language chiefly so she could talk with a friend, Sally Hewlett, daughter of the Rev. J. Edwin Hewlett and now a 20-year-old senior at Blue Mountain College in Mississippi.

Time To Plant Strawberries

By AUDREY DAWSON

GARDENING

There are many perennials that do much better when planted in the fall. October is a grand month to get that done. Some of the leading ones which you will want to plant now are: Columbine, foxglove, primrose, hollyhock, delphinium and canterbury bell. Put in some of these perennials this fall and see how much better they do than when planted in the spring.

Transplant and divide oxalis, daylilies and liriope this month. If you have more than you need, I am sure you know a new home owner that will be delighted to get them — and you will get the pleasure of sharing your garden with others.

CONVENTION

Yours truly will be in New Orleans next week helping entertain 1400 home demonstration agents from all of the states of the union and, of course, this includes Alaska and Hawaii. This will be the 25th annual meeting and it is the first time Louisiana has ever been host to the national convention and the second meeting ever held in the south—so you can know the eyes of every state will be on Louisiana next week.

Maxine Reeves, our president who is home demonstration agent in our neighboring parish, LaSalle, and Maida Tabor, agent in New Orleans, have seen to it that every plan has been made to put Louisiana in the limelight for all our visitors. The theme of the meeting is, "You Hold the Key."

Heading the list of speakers is Director C. M. Ferguson of the federal extension office and our own director of extension for Louisiana H. C. Sanders. We agents in Louisiana are looking forward to a mighty busy, but most pleasant week.

STRAWBERRY PLANTING

If you want to have some of those delicious home - grown strawberries next spring (and who wouldn't like to have them) need to begin to make plans now to order your plants. Our specialist recommends the Konvoy and Headliner for the home gardener or for those who plant in the flower bed. The best time to put out plants in this section is about October 15. Order your plants early for best choices in variety and quality.

If you planted strawberries last year it is time to transplant your plants from the beds to where this year's crop will be produced. Don't forget to give your plants a good sulphur dusting before they are transplanted. Dust during clear weather when the temperature is 70 degrees or above. You will save a lot of time and kill a great number of red spiders before they multiply their number and damage your strawberry plants. A second application of sulphur may be necessary to control this insect.

WRINKLE RESISTANT

The term "wrinkle resistant" identifies a group of modern cottons which have been chemically treated to maintain smooth appearance in use. They wrinkle less during wear than untreated cottons. Wrinkles that do occur hang out overnight.

There is a slight difference between these cottons and those termed, "wash and wear". Wrinkle resistant cottons generally need some pressing after laundering but the amount of ironing is reduced.

Launder wrinkle resistant cottons in any conventional way, by hand or machine. Their finishes are not sensitive to heat and will not be damaged by hot water or detergents. They may be dry cleaned also.

HINTS ON HONEY

When substituting honey for sugar in recipes these tips may help you, Mrs. Homemaker. Remember that each cup of honey contains about one-fourth cup liquid from the recipe for each cup of honey used. Honey caramelizes at a low temperature and browns quickly. No adjustment for sweetening power is needed when substituting honey for sugar.

Remember to put a little money in your life for that needed energy these busy fall days. October has been designated as "Honey Month."

A THOUGHT

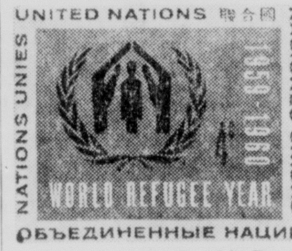
No chain of priceless pearls is half the worth of a chain of true blue friends.

STAMPS

A new United Nations stamp, the fourth conemenorative of 1959, will honor World Refugee Year. It is scheduled for issuance Dec. 10 and will replace the Human Rights Day stamps which have been issued each year since 1952.

World Refugee Year - June 1959 to June 1960 — was designated by resolution of the United Nations General Assembly (Dec. 5, 1958) as a year of special effort on behalf of the world's refugees.

The stamp will depict hands held protectively over a refugee. The designer is Olav S. Mathiesen of the U. N. Graphic Presentation unit and is the official emblem adopted by the United Nations for World Refugee Year.



The new commemorative will be in two colors. The 4-center will be in red with olive gold lettering on the border. The 8-center will be blue with olive gold lettering.

First day cancellations may be obtained by sending self addressed envelopes together with money order remittances to the Postmaster General, United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, N. Y.

The Netherlands has issued two new commemorative stamps to mark the 40th anniversary of the founding of KLM Royal Dutch Airlines. The 12-cent blue and brown shows a jet airliner superimposed on a flat map of the world. The 30-cent blue and green pictures a side view of the same jet airliner.

The Post Office Department has cancelled 10,565,529 first day covers this year (through the 4-cent Dental Health commemorative released Sept. 14). This compares to the 7,782,667 covers cancelled in a comparable period last year.

House Plant Needs Listed

By MARY JARDINE

"Remember, a plant is a living thing, and should be treated accordingly. Unlike most living things, it has no way to make its needs known other than its appearance, which will reflect the kind of treatment it receives from its guardian — you!" Author Unknown.

At this time of year we think of bringing plants indoors for color and interest in our decorative schemes. Many people come to me to analyze their failure with house plants. The three principal things a house plant must have are light, moisture and ventilation, and of course, temperature. For best results keep plants in a warm place, free from drafts, temperature about 68 during the day and 58 at night. water when dry, but before wilting. Use tepid not cold water. Do not overwater. This is one of the biggest faults of the amateur plant grower. Place in a fully light position at least eight hours daily. But not in full sunlight, it's too bright and too hot. Plants will not thrive in a closed up house with venetian blinds closed and drapes drawn. If you cannot give light in other ways use artificial light.

Leave a lamp burning close to your plants. Clean with a damp cloth to remove dust and dirt. Polish if desired with one of the plant polishes, but be sure the soil around the plant is moist before applying. Personally I like my plants au naturel. Pinch and support plants as they grow. Regarding humidity, perhaps the lack of it causes many plant failures. One of the helps is to keep the temperature to levels as mentioned above.

Another way to increase humidity in the vicinity of the plants is to stand the pots on pebbles in a watertight tray. The water in the tray (or bottom of a decorative pot) should constantly be at a level which comes within one inch or less of the surface of the pebbles. In other words, don't have the plant standing in water. Satisfactory materials are chicken grits, perlite, coarse sand, vermiculite or roadside gravel.

Another way to increase humidity of the air is to spray the plants with water at least once a day. There are available locally and in the catalogs louvered window ventilators which allow fresh air to come into the room without drafts, or rain. They are screened on the back to exclude insects and adjustable to fit all windows of the up and down sash type. Inexpensive too, we have had ours for years. Try some of these helps and I hope you will be happy with your house plants.

CLUB EXHIBITS

Members of the Suburban Garden Club of Ruston presented a colorful fall flower show at the center this week. In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. A. H. May for large dahlia, Mrs. B. C. Van Hood for magnolia grandiflora, and Mrs. J. B. Bice for salmon celosia.

In the arrangement section Mrs. J. W. Thompson was awarded high score blue ribbon. Using a copper colored container, Mrs. Thompson designed a triangular arrangement using aspidistra leaves to form the outline. These were trimmed to a most interesting shape, roughly oval. A large cluster of maroon celosia was used as a center of interest. For a change of texture, a branch of leafless pedilanthus emphasized the right angle of the triangle.

Mrs. Malcolm Hood tied with Mrs. Thompson in score. A unique combination of materials and a most interesting container were featured in Mrs. Hood's arrangement. The "container" was a brass mortar shell (from World War II) which had an etched design and hammered effect. Being quite tall the design was naturally vertical in pattern. Yellow banded sansevieria was used for height, with foliage of the monstera (cut leaf philodendron) framing the center of interest. Pale yellow celosia of the cockscomb type, fall pears, and small green bananas were effectively grouped. A most distinctive arrangement. Mrs. E. P. Cole's colorful arrangement was the center of attraction. Using a low black bowl Mrs. Cole created a colorful mass design using pedilanthus for her vertical placements. Azaleamums shading from yellow to deep bronze were effectively massed into the design. Variegated pothos was used low in the design to cover the rim of the container.

Cares Mount With Year's Last Tomato

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — The last rose of summer is never so nostalgic to me as the last tomato.

Roses being cultural, I can take them or leave them alone. But tomatoes are for real.

Feeling about them as I do, I try each fall to stretch the season out. Always as the time of frost draws near I seek ways and means of maturing a few more of these things our ancestors knew as love apples.

First of course is the possibility that if I let the green globes hang on the vine until the last possible moment, a few more will ripen. Thus it becomes a guessing game. When the weather man says "in the forties along the coast and frost possible in the interior regions," does he classify Chappaqua as interior? Just how far from the coast (or from Long Island Sound) is interior?

I decide finally that to a weather man on the Manhattan waterfront, Chappaqua is an interior regions. But by further analysis, I come to the conclusion that "possible frost" is not enough of a threat to warrant the picking of the whole green tomato crop.

Luck is with me. The cold snap breaks and the tomatoes are still green. Hopefully, a few show a lighter sheen. But a week later, when frost becomes "probable" rather than "possible," I feel that I have stretched my luck far enough. I bring in most of the tomatoes that show tendency to turn color, even to a lighter green.

A percentage player would say I was wise, but actually the frost that falls is only a white mist, not the "black" frost that withers life. For two or even three weeks after that, Indian summer holds and I live to regret the early garnering of the crop.

But the decision was made, the deed done. Carefully I wrap each green tomato in tissue and store it in the cool garage.

Now I have to remember each week to peek beneath the wrappings. Never do I go unrewarded by the glimpse of some few tomatoes that have blushed red. Not the real, glowing red of sunripened fruit, of course. But still an attractive shade, and a passable flavor.

Along the way I discover my hard won fruits, many of them, are succumbing to tiny rots that seemed scarce noticeable at the time of the harvest. Wrapped individually and each set apart, they do not contaminate each other, but the ranks are decimated.

Thus the weeks pass and November comes upon me. And at last the whole project no longer seems worth the bother. I sweep the leavings into a garbage pail, and go out to tidy up the tomato patch, with its broken, leaning poles and its now sear vines. It won't be too long, after all, before I'm planting flats with tomato seeds again.

JUDGE GIVES WARNING

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) —Town court Judge Edward R. Doyle warned a defendant Thursday night that the "dignity of the court must be preserved." Doyle spoke after James P. Malloy addressed him as "my dear young man." Malloy is 69, the judge 34.

MUSIC WORLD

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—The annual battle of symphony orchestras for New York's rich patronage has two new entries this season. One will go into the Carnegie Hall musical arena at bargain basement prices.

Herbert Barrett, an impresario with a mass usage-low unit cost theory, has signed the esteemed National Symphony of Washington in his effort to prove that musicians are pricing themselves out of the musical market.

The other newcomer is "The Orchestra of America," a brand new orchestra which is dedicating it self to the American composer and American music. Richard Korn, long a conductor in search of an orchestra, is its maestro.

Barrett's theory is that a young couple should be able to hire a baby-sitter, have dinner out, and then attend a concert at a total cost of $10. By established pricing that costs a minimum of $20.

He did a bargain basement business in Carnegie last season with a subscription series in which orchestra seats went for $2 each if they were bought for all the concerts. The balcony seats went for as little as 50 cents per concert. Furthermore, the concert-givers were all name-artists.

MITCHELL WILL CONDUCT

This season's series of four concerts will include two by the National Symphony under its famous conductor, Howard Mitchell, and with a soloist thrown in. The other two concerts will be recitals by John Browning, who is the "hottest" of the young pianists (he is signed to appear three times with the Philadelphia orchestra and four times with the New York Philharmonic this season,) and Toshiya Eto, a brilliant Japanese violin virtoso and the first such the Orient has produced.

Korn's orchestra enterprise is a direct competitor of Leonard Bernstein's let's - hear - more-American-music campaign which dominated his first season as music director and principal conductor of the New York Philharmonic last year.

He plans more high dosage this year although he opened the orchestra's season last Thursday night with Beethoven and Shostakovich, with his own commentary on the music and with himself as the piano soloist in Beethoven's "Triple Concerto."

Is there that much of a New York market for American music and American composers? Korn began to find out last Wednesday evening when he opened his series of five concerts, with Jan Peerce, the Metropolitan Opera tenor, as soloist in arias of American origin. What with dead-heading musicians and New York's fondness for Peerce, the first concert seemed to do all right. Its successors will tell more.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

I recently attended a convention of the Professional Photographers Assn., of New Jersey, and like most serious photographic gatherings, the program was planned to raise the standards of photography by inspirational talks, practical demonstrations, visual displays of high caliber work and some fun.

In a rare tribute to one of the world's great photographers, the convention was dedicated to Adolf Fassbender, dean of American pictorialists. "Papa" Fassbender, who recently celebrated his 75th birthday, is still active and maintains his international reputation while teaching his photographic methods.

The PPA of New Jersey has actually taken steps by legislative means to elevate the standards of their profession instead of just talking about it.

The action was prompted by newspaper reports in recent years of fraudulent and unethical photographic schemes by "shoot and run" operators. It reached such proportions that Better Business Bureaus, chambers of commerce and police departments of New Jersey were flooded with complaints.

Through the efforts of the Professional Photographers Assn.'s. ethics and legislative committee, a bill was introduced in the New Jersey Senate this year calling for the creation of a State Board of Photography and regulations for use of the title, "Certified Professional Photographer."

Len Kartzman, chairman of the ethics committee, explained the purpose of the bill and expressed the hope that it would be passed this year.

"It is not a restrictive measure at all," he stressed. "Anyone can still practice photography as a profession without applying for a CPP certificate. If some one wants to hire a photographer with or without the certification, that's his privilege.

"But we feel it's like a doctor with an MD or an accountant with a CPA, the CPP insignia would designate a professional photographer who has been found competent in his work and of good character. It is a sign to which the general public can turn with a measure of trust. Only professional photographers who have applied for, taken and passed the State Board of Photographers' examinations can display their 'Certified Professional Photographer' certificate."

Among the qualifications for an applicant are two years' full-time professional experience in the field of photography or graduation from a recognized school of photography plus one year's professional experience and the endorsement of three photographers and all engaged in news years of professional experience.

The proposed bill specifically exempts newspaper photographers and all engaged in news photography from any in news photography from any provisions of the statute.

In order that this project does not prove another financial burden on taxpayers, it has been made self-supporting by applying the fees collected for certification toward all the expenses involved.

If the bill is passed, Kartzman believes it will make New Jersey the first state to officially recognize photography as a dignified profession whose standards must be kept high as a matter of public concern.

Bulbs Endure In Rich Soil

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Those fat tulips, hyacinths and daffodils that you plant this fall can be permanent in your garden. When they come from the bulb farms, they have been fed to the limit and will bloom next spring in any old soil. To make them come back and flower well every year, however, you must plant them in rich garden soil.

TULIPS

Tulips should be planted at least six inches deep. Then, of course, they must have at least another four inches of rich soil beneath the bulbs. The roots of tulips will not roam and forage through the soil for food like those of daffodils. The tiny tulip roots do not go far and have such short lives that they must be able to find their food easily in this limited area. For this reason, it is useless to plant tulips in any but the very best soil. You will be surprised, however, at the permanence of these bulbs in good soil and at the proper depth. Some old Virginia gardens still have the same tulips that were originally planted there.

The old fashioned hyacinth that still grows in some old gardens from Maryland to Texas are proof that these bulbs, too, can be permanent. We may not have the mountains of cow manure that our grandparents had at their command, but we do know how to prepare rich soil just the same. Hyacinths are a joy to have especially because they come so early. They will bloom just as soon as the last snow and ice melts from their buds. It is surprising that we do not see more of them in our gardens these days. The large daffodils that we buy have fine flower buds in them and produce one or more big blossoms the first year. These bulbs are so big that they will probably give us several fine flowers the second year if the soil is rich enough. We should not be surprised if they divide into a number of bulbs in their third year and do not flower as heavily. If you wish to multiply your bulbs as fast as possible, take them up after the second season in the ground, dry them off, and separate them before planting time.

DAFFODILS

Daffodils, crocuses, Roman hyacinths and the tiny blue chionodoxas are so beautiful in great drifts and patches that we like to plant them by the hundred and thousand. Scillas, the little common yellow trumpet daffodil and chionodoxas will naturalize in our woods where the soil is good enough. Underneath deep rooting trees like oaks and hickories, all three of these bulbs can be kept going for years if you keep a mulch of leaves over them and scatter a complete fertilizer over the mulch just before the bulbs come out in spring each year.

Crocuses usually get eaten up by rabbits or squirrels or mice. They are so cheap, however, that they are worth planting if for only one season. Fortunately, rabbits will not eat daffodil foliage nor that of any other member of the great Amaryllis family because of a substance in the sap.

THE HOME SHIFT

Welcome Club Slates Show

By MILDRED SWIFT

A treat in store for all, is the fall flower show to be staged by the Welcome Garden Club, Saturday, October 24. Place, West Monroe High School, time 3:30 to 7:00 p.m., theme, "The Magic of Autumn."

When to prune the Lady Banksia evergreen climbing rose poses a question. This rose will bloom for many, many years with no pruning at all. Of course the more luxuriant it grows, the greater the mass of blooms and the greater showing it will make. However, if it becomes necessary to prune this plant, use the same rule as for other spring blooming shrubs — just after blooming time which will be next spring. I promise to remind you.

ROSES

While we're talking about this plant, let's see where you'll place the lovely rose if you need to buy one this winter. They're beautiful running up and over the roof of low buildings such as garages. Or — a very large U shaped trellis encourages the rampant growth for which it is noted. You'll never want anything more beautiful than a view of this from under the trellis when the rose is in bloom.

Then, the rose can be encouraged to grow in trees. Of course they get lots of shade planted under a tree but I've seen them running all up into the branches and on out on the branches and draped down in cascades of blossoms.

Strange to say, the Lady Banksia will, also, grow in full sun, because I have one doing just that. My favorite way to train them is in tree form. Put a very large, very strong stake about five feet high by the bush when you plant it. As the plant grows, keep it anchored to the stake with insulated wire so it will not cut. The vine will grow to the top of the stake and cascade back to the ground. Of course every sweet has its bitter. The bitter here is that this plant blooms such a short time.

Don't forget — if you've built a new home, the space around the house probably has cement that was dropped there during the building. This is very alkaline and acid loving plants will not live there. You need to make the soil acid or at least neutral. Often this cement forms lumps too, which interferes with roots growth

After that rain I know your hands are iching to get the spade and move those plants that have been worrying you. Unless you have skilled help, wait until the plants are dormant (December, January, or February) and we've had more rain. This is not the time to fertilize, either. Wait until after Christmas.

TREES

When tree planting time comes around, and — if you need a tree, here are some suggestions! Plant the tree where you need the shade — not where you think it will look best. Visualize the eventual size so you'll get the tree away from the house and light and telephone wires.

The pecan is a beautiful tree. If kept mulched and fertilized, it grows fairly fast.

A cypruessis is a lacy, fine textured tree but you need a low, damp area for this. The sweet gum is fast growing and gives you gorgeous foliage at this time of year.

The sycamore has gorgeous trunk interest, coarse foliage and is a fast grower. Tulip trees give you coarse foliage and gorgeous chartreuse colored blooms in early spring.

The pin oak is slower growing, the leaves are small and make a wonderful mulch. Gingko is slower growing and is a ball of yellow in the fall.

Maybe you need a windbreak and evergreens are best for this. There are like oaks, pines and magnolia grandiflora.

Medium and small decorative trees are: Crabapple, tallow, mimosa, dogwood, fringe tree, Japanese magnolia, redbud, crepe myrtle. These are only a few. Call and get our bulletin, "Louisiana Trees" and get other suggestions. Phone FA 3-2251.

It's good that the nurseries now carry the wild myrtle. This is one of our native shrubs and is the hardiest plant to both freeze and drowth that I know. L. L. Price says there are definitely two varieties — one much darker green than the other. They grow very large and need to be kept pruned.

"What Every Woman Knows" is the name of one of our newest bulletins by Miss Rupert Perry, specialist in home management. You need this bulletin. It tells you how to care for your furniture, including directions for restoring scratches, blemishes, white spots, and burns. Then Miss Perry gives you directions for shampooing upholstered furniture of fabric or leather. Call FA 3-2251 for your copy of this bulletin.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Nail polish kept in the refrigerator keeps fluid and usable. It goes on the nails smoothly and dries more quickly when applied.

This is the time of year summer clothes are being stored and fall woolens are making their appearance. Wash all starch from these clothes before putting them up for the winter. Silverfish may feed upon the starched items.

Brown sugar is used in countless dishes — and here's a tip: for use in baking, brown sugar should be packed so firmly into the measuring cup that when the sugar is turned out, it will keep its shape. This method assures an accurate measure.

Have you ever tried putting a small child in front of a large mirror while you are combing her hair? She will be so interested in watching what is going on, she will hold still longer.

When a child must soak fingers in hot solutions, you will have no trouble getting him to do this if you put marbles in the pan holding the solution.

If you're at a loss for a way to keep young ones amused on a rainy day, here's a suggestion: Give your youngster a large sheet of white paper, or newspaper, blunt edge scissors and a jar of paste. Children can paste shapes onto the large sheet for hours, creating their own designs.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

When you are riding around the hills of West Monroe, notice the beautiful French mulberry. I don't believe I've ever seen a more perfect shade of purple. The berries are born in clusters on long stems. These are beautiful in arrangements. They'll keep several weeks but you'll need to snip the leaves as they wilt in a few hours.

Make a note to plant one of these (buy from nursery) this winter to plant in your "hobby" garden.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, "Hair Styles for You" by guest; Tuesday, "Cleaning the Sewing Machine," Barbara Haynes; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday, Marketing with Mildred Friday, "Sea Foods in Your Meals," guest, home economist.

See you next week.

Religion For Deaf Relayed By TV Signs

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

A pretty teen-aged girl is playing a vital role in bringing religion to deaf people by way of television.

She is Georgia Dunlap, 16, who interprets the spoken word via sign language to accompany a "Preview of Televangelism 1960" at the Southwest Baptist Church in St. Louis.

For the past two Sundays she has stood beside a television set, watching another set about six feet away and relaying the words to several score deaf people while they watch. She will be doing it again this Sunday.

The Southwest Baptist Church is holding the viewing parties as an experimental prelude to the TV dramatic series The Answer, which will begin in January under the sponsorship of the Southern Baptist Convention's Radio and Television Commission.

Interpreting from the television screen is something new for Georgia, but using sign language is not.

For the past three years, she has been using her unusual knowledge to help the deaf at Southwest Baptist, beginning as an interpreter on the Sunday School level.

She became so proficient at sign language that she now stands beside the pastor each Sunday morning, turning his sermon into hand motions that can be read with the eyes of the people in front of her.

Another girl, Diana Krauss, handles the evening sermon.

Georgia began learning sign language chiefly so she could talk with a friend, Sally Hewlett, daughter of the Rev. J. Edwin Hewlett and now a 20-year-old senior at Blue Mountain College in Mississippi.

RELIGION TODAY

Life Cluttered With Big Fakery

NEW YORK (AP)—Life in the world today is cluttered with fakery. But rigging of television quiz contests, in the estimation of religious authorities, goes beyond the usual falsehoods and pretenses.

It's also seen as a stark manifestation of the sham of an age.

"Much modern hokum and exaggeration has become expected practice," says Protestant theologian Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, of Union Seminary. "But this is an extreme instance, and a shocking one."

Biblical teaching has much to say about truthfulness in addition to the commandment against bearing false witness. Scripture also admonishes: "Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbor."

Yet in a time when hard fact often is embroidered or twisted to various purposes, the truth sometimes is obscured in the shuffle.

"Such activity leads to a cynical atmosphere," says Msgr. Joseph O'Brien, a Roman Catholic moral theologian. "It blurs people's ability to recognize truth, and some get so they don't believe it when they hear it."

There are, however, many commonly accepted deceptive devices, as in women's dyed hair or men's elevated shoes. Objectivity also gets a recognized beating in commercial puffs, campaign oratory, social courtesies.

"Even though there's a lot of misrepresentation, there's a difference in degree, and that makes a difference in kind," says Rabbi Dr. Robert Gordis, of Jewish Theological Seminary.

In other words, he says, there's a big distinction between "slight exaggerations" and "substantial distortion of the truth." He puts the rigging of TV quizzes in the latter category.

"It's highly reprehensible," he says. "It undermines fundamental ethics, betrays public trust and lends itself to the impression that as long as you can get away with it, anything goes."

"It was a perpetuation of a hoax on the American public," says the Rev. Dr. Oswald C. J. Hoffman, of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

"It pretended to be honest, and wasn't. It curried credulity in order to deceive. In a climate like that, people will learn to expect anything and be led to believe everything is crooked and a fraud.

"We've developed a strange world in which to preach the Gospel when so many things come to be looked on with suspicion, and as a result, even truth is often taken with a grain of salt."

The theologians stress, however, that there is a big difference between parading deceit in the guise of honesty and the everyday dissembling that goes on in society.

Housewife Happy Over Acquittal

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Mrs. Kathryn Anderson, cleared by a jury of charges she robbed two savings and loan associations while pregnant with her third child, said Saturday she is easing back into the routine of being a housewife.

"I had breakfast and played with the children this morning and I have to go to the grocery store later on this afternoon," she said as her three youngsters played noisely nearby. "That is all I've done.

"I felt like I had to get reacquainted with the children after these last five days. I feel better than I have felt in a mighty long time.

"The telephone has been ringing off the hook. Friends we know and friends we have never met have been calling from Selma (Ala.), Florence (Ala.) and Boston. And there have been many, many local folks."

The tall blonde who lost 16 pounds during her ordeal of being under indictment for 18 months robbing two branch offices of saving and loan firms said there were no plans for a welcome home party.

"A number of neighbors came in last night. Many of them stopped by and said they were real happy with the verdict," she said.

Mrs. Anderson was found innocent Friday of taking nearly $3,000 from the firms in suburban Homewood, located two doors apart, directly across the street from a police station and about five miles from the Andersons' brick, ranch-style home in Cahaba Heights.

Although several of her neighbors testified against her, Mrs. Anderson said she had no ill will toward them as a result of the five-day trial.

"I'm not going to hold any animosity toward anybody because I could only hurt myself by doing it. We are only grateful that this thing is over. I thank God this terrible nightmare is over."

Newspaper Says Slaying Dignified

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Jackson Daily News yesterday editorially called the slaying of a Chelsea, Vt., dairy farmer "a real dignified lynching."

Editor James Ward, in a front page editorial in the News, said that if dairy farmer Orville A. Gibson had been killed in Mississippi there would have been "screams, shouts, tears, moaning, plate-passing church revivals over a dead body."

Gibson, a cantankerous farmer of Chelsea, Vt., was killed two years ago. A judge Thursday ordered a directed verdict of innocent for Robert O. Welch, 46-year-old school janitor who was accused of being an instrument of "vigilante justice" in Gibson's death. Gibson's murder was described both as a "community slaying" and "lynching."

The editorial, entitled "a real dignified lynching," said "there would be world prayer meetings, public statements issued, saint-hood sought for the deceased. The South would be deplored. Oh, tears would mix with ink in editorials throughout the world."

"This happened Dec. 31, 1957—nearly two years ago—but those fast-moving swift-thinking, finger-pointing Pulitzer prize - winning Yankee editors hid the body all this time," wrote Ward. "they were too busy writing about Southern injustice and bigotry and the divine law of the land."

"How much news attention did this dramatic piece of human behavior receive? Very little. Did the lynching scorekeepers at Tuskegee Institute record this death? Nary a squeak. Did the FBI get summoned into Chelsea? Not a word about that. Did the nation's press weep tears over the reign of terror in Vermont? We haven't seen a single editorial on the subject.

"Did the social reformers and 'uplift' socities swing into action and demand justice? That front is quiet as a dairy barn mouse. Was the President of the United States asked to send troops into Chelsea? Was the president asked to comment on this crime at his regular press conference? Two more negatives."

"When a band of hot-headed Vermont night riders go around knocking off their fellow citizens you must admit," Ward wrote, "that they are quiet, gentle, smooth, clean and clever little bigots."

Colorful Guards In Withdrawal

LONDON (AP)—The Buckingham Palace guards carried out their strategic withdrawal quietly and with chins firm today.

They retreated—to a safe position behind bars—to get away from the close-range fire of ill-mannered tourists, camera fans, publicity-seeking film stars and jeering small boys.

For the last 100 years, the elite guardsmen—those chaps in bright red coats and big bearskin hats (you can't see their eyes)—paced their sentry posts outside the railings in front of the palace.

Now, under orders from the War Office, they have pulled back 50 yards inside the railings and are only one yard in front of the palace itself.

Will the marching disturb the royal family?

To deaden the sound of the sentries' boots, four new strips of asphalt have been laid immediately in front of the palace. The guards will pace 17 steps instead of the 21 they marched outside the railings.

The War Office ordered the retreat because, in recent months, harassment by tourists became too much.

In one incident last summer, a guardsman who couldn't stand it any longer kicked an American woman on the shin. (He was confined to barracks although nobody ever admitted that was the reason.)

ADOPT RESOLUTION PLANS TO OPEN PLANT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reliance Manufacturing Co. announced plans to start up operations at its Keystone, Pa. plant around Dec. 1. It was one of three Reliance facilities idled last March. The Keystone Plant, formerly a shirt maker, will switch into slacks.

Housewife Happy Over Acquittal

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Mrs. Kathryn Anderson, cleared by a jury of charges she robbed two savings and loan associations while pregnant with her third child, said Saturday she is easing back into the routine of being a housewife.

"I had breakfast and played with the children this morning and I have to go to the grocery store later on this afternoon," she said as her three youngsters played noisely nearby. "That is all I've done.

"I felt like I had to get reacquainted with the children after these last five days. I feel better than I have felt in a mighty long time.

"The telephone has been ringing off the hook. Friends we know and friends we have never met have been calling from Selma (Ala.), Florence (Ala.) and Boston. And there have been many, many local folks."

The tall blonde who lost 16 pounds during her ordeal of being under indictment for 18 months robbing two branch offices of saving and loan firms said there were no plans for a welcome home party.

"A number of neighbors came in last night. Many of them stopped by and said they were real happy with the verdict," she said.

Mrs. Anderson was found innocent Friday of taking nearly $3,000 from the firms in suburban Homewood, located two doors apart, directly across the street from a police station and about five miles from the Andersons' brick, ranch-style home in Cahaba Heights.

Although several of her neighbors testified against her, Mrs. Anderson said she had no ill will toward them as a result of the five-day trial.

"I'm not going to hold any animosity toward anybody because I could only hurt myself by doing it. We are only grateful that this thing is over. I thank God this terrible nightmare is over."

Newspaper Says Slaying Dignified

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Jackson Daily News yesterday editorially called the slaying of a Chelsea, Vt., dairy farmer "a real dignified lynching."

Editor James Ward, in a front page editorial in the News, said that if dairy farmer Orville A. Gibson had been killed in Mississippi there would have been "screams, shouts, tears, moaning, plate-passing church revivals over a dead body."

Gibson, a cantankerous farmer of Chelsea, Vt., was killed two years ago. A judge Thursday ordered a directed verdict of innocent for Robert O. Welch, 46-year-old school janitor who was accused of being an instrument of "vigilante justice" in Gibson's death. Gibson's murder was de - scribed both as a "community slaying" and "lynching."

The editorial, entitled "a real dignified lynching," said "there would be world prayer meetings, public statements issued, saint-hood sought for the deceased. The South would be deplored. Oh, tears would mix with ink in editorials throughout the world."

"This happened Dec. 31, 1957—nearly two years ago—but those fast-moving swift-thinking, finger-pointing Pulitzer prize - winning Yankee editors hid the body all this time," wrote Ward. "they were too busy writing about Southern injustice and bigotry and the divine law of the land."

"How much news attention did this dramatic piece of human behavior receive? Very little. Did the lynching scorekeepers at Tuskegee Institute record this death? Nary a squeak. Did the FBI get summoned into Chelsea? Not a word about that. Did the nation's press weep tears over the reign of terror in Vermont? We haven't seen a single editorial on the subject.

"Did the social reformers and 'uplift' socities swing into action and demand justice? That front is quiet as a dairy barn mouse. Was the President of the United States asked to send troops into Chelsea? Was the president asked to comment on this crime at his regular press conference? Two more negatives."

"When a band of hot-headed Vermont night riders go around knocking off their fellow citizens you must admit," Ward wrote, "that they are quiet, gentle, smooth, clean and clever little bigots."

Colorful Guards In Withdrawal

LONDON (AP)—The Buckingham Palace guards carried out their strategic withdrawal quietly and with chins firm today.

They retreated—to a safe position behind bars—to get away from the close-range fire of ill-mannered tourists, camera fans, publicity-seeking film stars and jeering small boys.

For the last 100 years, the elite guardsmen—those chaps in bright red coats and big bearskin hats (you can't see their eyes)—paced their sentry posts outside the railings in front of the palace.

Now, under orders from the War Office, they have pulled back 50 yards inside the railings and are only one yard in front of the palace itself.

Will the marching disturb the royal family?

To deaden the sound of the sentries' boots, four new strips of asphalt have been laid immediately in front of the palace. The guards will pace 17 steps instead of the 21 they marched outside the railings.

The War Office ordered the retreat because, in recent months, harassment by tourists became too much.

In one incident last summer, a guardsman who couldn't stand it any longer kicked an American woman on the shin. (He was confined to barracks although nobody ever admitted that was the reason.)

ADOPT RESOLUTION PLANS TO OPEN PLANT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reliance Manufacturing Co. announced plans to start up operations at its Keystone, Pa. plant around Dec. 1. It was one of three Reliance facilities idled last March. The Keystone Plant, formerly a shirt maker, will switch into slacks.

Completion Of Two Wells Reported In Local Area

Petroleum exploration activity in the 14-parish Monroe District slowed down last week with only two new producers reported by Duncan S. Cook, head of the local office of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

Abandonments numbered nine, and seven new locations were staked by area operators, Cook's weekly oil and gas report listed 84 active rigs.

By parish, here are the new completions:

CONCORDIA

Omega Field — Germany-Gilmon's Thomas-Wilds No. 4-A in Sec. 21-7-7E, completed to flow 100 bbls. daily through an 8-64 in. choke from perforations at 5080-84 ft., tubing pressure 495 lbs., casing pressure 360 lbs., gas oil ratio 315:1, gravity 41.9.

RICHLAND

Delhi Field — Lensing, White & T. D. Oil Co.'s Gilley No. 1 in Sec. 20-17-9E, completed to pump 32 bbls. daily through a 48-64 in. choke from perforations at 3148-51 ft., tubing pressure 60 lbs., casing pressure 220 lbs., gravity 40.

Following are the new locations:

Major Oil Need Is Pinpointed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A petroleum engineer and conservationist says one of the major needs of the domestic oil industry is an intelligent understanding of the American public.

William J. Murray Jr., member of the Texas Railroad Commission, said such an understanding also is needed from elected governmental representatives.

Murray testified this week before a Senate-House economic subcommittee investigating the nation's energy requirements of the future.

Murray's formula for a maximum domestic petroleum effort was simple.

He suggested oil - producing states retain exclusive authority to administer conservation regulations. He suggested that any federal controls deemed necessary for the oil industry be understandable, administrable and practicable.

"In regard to the appropriate role of federal government, it is nearly as important to suggest what should not be done as to suggest what should be done," he said.

Experts from all sources for domestic energy testified before the joint group on automation and energy resources.

Some oilmen fear the current investigation originated at least in part as a result of recent suggestions for the establishment of a national fuels agency. Such suggestions have been made in recent months in both the House and Senate. The oilmen fear such an agency would lead to allocation of marketing areas or quotas for each type of fuel.

Murray said the domestic petroleum industry has contributed a large portion of the energy supply which has accounted in considerable measure for the progress and prosperity of the nation.

"Of greater significance, we will be even more dependent upon the domestic industry for future security and for future energy supplies," he said.

Current estimates, he said, indicate petroleum by 1967 will supply 74.5 per cent of the nation's energy. Petroleum's current share is 69 per cent.

". . . it would appear the appropriate role of government in insuring an adequate energy supply must largely involve an intelligent, farsighted petroleum policy," he said.

Oil states, he said, should exclusively administer wise exploration, development and production conservation regulations. He said the states should continue to be encouraged to exchange conservation information in forums such as furnished by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Pappas Honored

Bobby Pappas, operator of the Rendezvous Restaurant, has been awarded a niche in the American Restaurant's Hall of Fame. The citiation said Pappas had combined welfare, health and tourist and political interest to make a successful career."

The Rendezvous was opened Dec. 21, 1939. Pappas was president of the Louisiana Restaurant Association in 1949-50, chairman of the Louisiana Citizens Tourist Committee of the Louisiana Municipal Association 1958-59, member of the Chamber of Commerce. He help organized and is state president of the WAIF, a director of the national United Cerebral Palsey organization and a number of other organizations.

Mother Of 3 Convicted In Fatal Beating

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A mother and her three grown children were convicted of second-degree murder Saturday in the fatal beating of a man last Aug. 4.

The jury returned the verdicts after deliberating about two hours. Sentencing was deferred pending a possible new trial appeal.

Convicted were Rose Rafail, 54, operator of a Uniontown tavern; her sons, Joseph, 24, and Waddia Jr., 19; and her daughter, Beatrice Mills, 30.

The state charged John Shuey, 22, of Brownsville, Pa., was beaten after a quarrel in the Rafail tavern.

for

BOWLING ALLEYS
SUPER MARKETS
COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS
SHOPPING CENTERS

Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.

These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

FRANKENSTEIN?

Oil Companies Learn About Cards

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The oil companies, which were one of the first to jump on the credit card bandwagon, are learning that the handy credit devices are becoming a sort of Frankenstein's monster. But the customer's benefits are growing.

A recent Oil and Gas Journal survey indicates that the cost of handling credit accounts has trebled in 10 years and threatens to go higher.

Inflation hasn't accounted for nearly all of the trouble. Bad debts, slow collections, and the expense of unused accounts have made credit costs soar. They've jumped the average cost of setting up and handling an account from $11 to $19 a year in 1949 to between $30 and $59 today.

Said one oilman: "...The costs of administering these credit accounts are breaking our back."

Motorists needn't fear that the credit card idea will be junked, however. The trend has spread so far that you can buy just about anything with credit cards these days. Oil companies have to compete with each other and credit cards are a useful tool.

For one thing, if you have a credit card of a particular oil firm you're more likely to stay "tied" to that firm's products because they can be bought from the card.

This has meant that oil companies sometimes "shower down" credit cards on individuals—unsolicited. Once upon a time, you had to apply for a card and then wait for long credit checks, and then sometimes the companies acted as if they were doing you a favor when they presented you with your card.

Soon, it may not be necessary to carry a wallet full of credit cards. Several new ideas have cropped up which may revolutionize the business.

Under one plan, a central agency would handle the paper work and collections for a large number of oil companies. It would cut costs by eliminating duplication of credit offices.

Another plan calls for the issuance of a "universal" credit card, good at the stations of all oil companies. A few cooperating oil firms already are trying it.

"The third pitch is the "cash card" movement originating in the east. Oil companies will be asked to join the movement, in which a card-promoting company sells the customer a "cash card" for $5 a year. The card entitles the holder to a 10 per cent discount for cash at service stations, stores, and other businesses.

The central agency plan appeals to some companies, in that they would be relieved of a lot of non-oil paper work. The agency, operating entirely outside oil company setups, would ride herd on slow pays and deadbeats.

Under this plan, the companies would continue to issue their own credit cards, investigate risks and cancel privileges.

There are an estimated 46 to 50 million credit cards in the oil business today, with several companies known to have more than a million cards in circulation. One company figures its "average" customer owns from three to seven cards.

FIRST CHANCE

NEW YORK (AP) — Loring Mandel, a 31-year-old television writer, is getting his first chance at Broadway play - scripting with a best - seller novel.

Mandel was chosen by Allen Drury, author of "Advise and Consent," and the producing team of Robert Fryer - Lawrence Carr to do the adaptation. The project is scheduled for next season.

Clear Weather Brings Sale Of Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Clearing weather over major portions of the grain belt brought selling of soybean and corn futures on the Board of Trade this week.

The setback in soybeans ended three weeks of steady advances in that commodity. Other grains finished mixed, with wheat and rye on the plus side. Oats declined, along with soybeans and corn.

At the close of trading Friday wheat was ¾ to 1⅛ higher than Friday a week ago, corn was ¼ to 1⅛ lower, oats ⅝ to 1½ higher, rye ⅜ to 1⅜ higher, and soybeans finished 2 to 3 cents a bushel lower.

Soybeans suffered a sharp setback Wednesday after recent advances pushed prices up 10 cents or more a bushel. The decline continued Thursday and Friday.

Forecasts that gave promise of favorable weather for completing the soybean harvest was the principal factor in the downturn.

Soybeans have been the most active commodity on the Board of Trade for some time. As a result of Wednesday's trade there was an increase of 1,902,000 bushels in the number of open futures contracts, making a total open interest of 130,726,000 contracts, an all-time high for beans.

In wheat, some soft flour business developed during the week but the volume was disappointing. However, Agriculture Department purchases of flour for European and domestic relief purposes were large and more takings of this type are looked for next week.

Factors contributing to lower prices for corn futures included a government estimate which placed this year's corn crop at a record breaking total of nearly 4 ½ billion bushels.

MAY ORBIT PLASTIC MAN

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —America may orbit a plastic man in advance of the Mercury astronaut to test the amount of radiation the human space pioneer must encounter, it was revealed here Friday. Lifton, deputy chief of biophysics at Kirtland Air Force Base here.

STORY OF WEEK

Court Agrees To Consider Union Crippling Plan

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed this week to rule on a case that could cripple the political power of labor unions at the whim of their rank-and-file members.

Specifically, it consented to hear arguments this fall on whether a union member can be forced to pay dues to keep his job under a "union shop" contract if part of the dues is spent to support political candidates or doctrines which he opposes or for other purposes not related to collective bargaining.

Under the union shop a non-union worker must join the union within a certain period or forfeit his job. This stipulation was written into the Railway Labor Act by Congress in 1951 and also is governed to some extent by the Taft-Hartley labor - management act.

But it is illegal under the Corrupt Practices Act and Taft-Hartley, with some variations, to use dues money to support any candidate for federal office.

Started In Macon

As a result, major labor organizations such as the AFL-CIO point their political spending at "educating" union members and the public. This is legal unless it can be proved the "education" is deliberately slanted toward candidates or doctrines the union favors.

The test case now before the court was started in Macon, Ga., in 1953 by six non-union employes of the Southern Railway. They were required to join the union under the union shop clause to keep their jobs but claimed their dues were used for purposes other than collective bargaining, in this instance to support office-seekers and doctrines they opposed.

This, they contended, deprived them of their property "without due process of law" and of their constitutional right of free speech.

On May 8 this year the Georgia Supreme Court upheld the workers with this declaration:

"One who is compelled to contribute the fruits of his labor to support or promote political or economic programs or support candidates for public office is just as much deprived of his freedom of speech as if he were compelled to give his vocal support to doctrines he opposes."

The effect of this was to hold unconstitutional that part of the Railway Labor Act which permitted such a contract, and that is the issue the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to review.

The tribunal upheld constitutionality of the union shop itself in a Nebraska test case in 1956. But at that time it seemingly invited a challenge of the political aspect. It said that "if the exaction of dues, initiation fees or assessments is used as a cover for forcing ideological conformity or other action in contravention of the First and Fifth amendments, this judgment will not prejudice the decision in that (the Nebraska) case."

The unanimous opinion was written by Associate Justice William O. Douglas, who is still on the bench.

A spokesman for the Railway Labor Executives Association told United Press International that if the court affirms the Georgia decision, any rank-and-file unionist could legally block the use of union dues for any purpose except negotiating a collective bargaining contract. This could apply to publication of union newspapers, magazines, and a host of other activities.

It also was pointed out that most union contracts would be unenforceable unless the unions could provide affidavits that their members freely acquiesced in their political or "educational" spending.

DARKENS HORIZON

Steel Strike Drags Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel strike put a heavy drag on the nation's economy the past week.

While President Eisenhower's fact-finding board pressed industry and union to reach a voluntary agreement, layoffs mounted, and the inevitability of severe steel shortages darkened the business horizon.

Steel, the weekly trade magazine, warned: "There is nothing —not even an immediate settlement—that can prevent the situation from deteriorating before it improves. Within two weeks, even the largest and best protected users will feel the strike's impact."

It will take at least 30 days after strike settlement to get production back to anywhere near normal. And the government told the steel industry that immediate top priority must be given defense items when production resumes.

Approximately 250,000 workers in steel-dependent industries were idle in addition to the 500,000 striking steelworkers.

General Motors, only one of the Big Three automakers yet to be hit by the steel shortage, stepped up layoffs the past week, bringing month off.

Automotive News said U.S. auto production had reached a five-month high of 135,172 cars the past week but predicted this probably would be the last big production week until steel supplies again become available.

Effects of the three-month strike spread to appliance producers, truck makers, and farm equipment producers.

These other developments added to the picture:

Railroad freight loadings for the week ended Oct. 10 dropped 127,741 cars, or 18.6 per cent, from the corresponding 1958 week, to 558,780. Loss of loadings due to the strike is estimated at two million cars.

October business of heavy construction contractors — with seasonal factors adding weight to the pressures of tight money and the strike—is running 17 per cent under last year.

The Federal Reserve Board said that despite the strike, industrial production slipped little in September, but a greater impact is being felt this month.

Tight money was a factor in causing housing starts to drop 6 per cent in September—above the usual seasonal decline—the Commerce Department reported.

Unemployment figured released the past week indicated that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell may have to eat his hat on the Capitol steps—a pledge he made if October idle exceeded three millions. Unemployment fell by 196,000 to 3,230,000 in September, but effects of the steel strike are expected to keep the total above three million this month.

Retail trade kept up its steady gains with impetus added by cooler weather in many areas and Columbus Day sales promotions. Total dollar volume for the week was estimated at 2 to 6 per cent above a year ago. Best year-to-year gains were in sales of women's apparel, appliances, floor coverings, furniture, and new passenger cars.

Christmas is 69 days away, but the outlook for an adequate supply of appliances is good, despite the steel strike. A survey of major manufacturers and retailers showed little difficulty in meeting the demand is expected. There may be some holes in the supply of small appliances, one big dealer said. Another noted that any shortages are most likely to show up in small stores.

A new sales promotion idea is being tested by Sears, Roebuck in 18 of its stores across the country. It's a teen-age credit card. Youngsters 14 years and over are offered up to $50 credit with a minimum monthly payment of $5. Parents' guarantee isn't required. But papa and mama can stop the account.

Briefly over the business scene: The Federal Aviation Agency is evaluating a Lockheed Aircraft Corp. air traffic control system—called Loctracs—designed to tell operators the location, identity and altitude of every plane in the sky over the United States. . . . New York Stock Exchange President G. Keith Funston predicts 22 million Americans will own stock in the 1970s. There are about 12½ million owners now. . . . Moore-McCormack Lines, Inc., is scheduling for next summer the first U.S.-flag passenger ship voyages to the Soviet Union in 20 years. . . . Christmas trees are going to cost more this year, but the quality is expected to be better. Federal foresters say a six-foot tree from a timber plantation will retail for about $6. . . . Another Christmas note: a shirtmaking firm is going to put out men's shorts adorned with Santa's beaming face. But the yule spirit won't last too long, the design will disappear in laundering.

HINDS COUNTY, MISS.

Jett Drilling Brings In Wildcat

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Jett Drilling Co. has brought in a wildcat oil well in Hinds County.

The Gaddis Farms No. 1, about one mile west of the Bolton Field, flowed at the rate of 175 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 10,722-34 feet. The well is located in section 14, 6 north, 3 west.

The successful venture is expected to increase drilling activity in the area.

Biglane and Alford are continuing to run sidewall coring operations at their wildcat about 7 miles south of McComb in Pike County. The Lane No. 1 in sec. 21-2n-7e was drilled to 11,484 feet, with operators now trying to evaluate the commercial worth of sands found in electrical log.

The venture created interest while drilling was in progress when oil shows were found on the mud pit.

Hargrave Oil Corp. continues to test its Simpson County wildcat, the Peacock No. 1, sec. 24-1n-3e, with no information being released. The well has seven inch casing set at 13,350 feet with reports that about 120 feet of oil sand was logged. The wildcat is about one mile west of the Merit oil field.

In the recently-found McComb oil field of Pike County, Sun Oil Co. is coring below 10,900 feet in its Andrews No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e. The field currently lists two excellent oilers and was discovered in July.

Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. is below 10,000 feet in salt at its Rankin No. 1, sec. 26-7n-19w in Jeff Davis County. The wildcat is set to go to 12,500 feet and is located on the flank of the Prentiss salt dome.

In the recently found deep Grange gas field of Jeff Davis County, Tidewater Oil Co. is preparing to complete its Mikell No. 1, sec. 24-8n-20w. The well is reported flowing three million cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 14,155-68 feet.

Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. is below 8,900 feet in its Smith County wildcat, the Thompson No. 1, sec 35-3n-8e, about 6 miles northeast of Raleigh. Contract depth is 13,000 feet.

Two wildcat tests are being drilled in Copiah County. X. M. Frascogna is below 12,900 feet in his Magnolia Textiles No. 1, sec. 7-9n-7e, near Brown's Wells. Lone Star Producing Co. is below 6,000 feet in its Southern Package No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e, west of Hazlehurst.

Field drilling during the past week saw four new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In the Magee Field of Simpson County, George Hunt completed his Howard-Womack unit No. 2, sec. 34-1n-6e, as a dual producer at 12,878-92 feet and 13,614-45 feet. The well flowed 201 barrels from the 12,878-feet zone and 121 from the deeper sand.

At the Reedy Creek field in Jones County, California Co. finaled its Bemis No. 1, sec. 9-9n-11w, flowing 260 barrels per day from 9,302-26 feet. The operator will not produce from a sand at 11,081-110 feet until authority for dual completion has been granted.

In the Boykin Church field of Smith County, American Petrofina Co. completed its Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-3n-7e, flowing 143 barrels from 11,628-30 feet.

At Little Creek, Shell Oil Co. completed its Jenkins No. 3, sec. 11-4n-8e, flowing 206 barrels per day from 10,793-810 feet.

In the Ansley field of Hancock County, Pioneer Oil and Gas Co. finaled its Holden No. 1, sec. 29-9s-15w, flowing 1,800,000 cubic feet of gas and 66 barrels of condensate per day from 10,810 feet.

Wells abandoned:

Chickasaw County: Kern County Land Co. Penrose No. 1, Sec. 2-14s-2e (wildcat) dry at 5,400 feet.

Clarke County: Broadhead & Stack Butler No. 1, sec. 10-1n-17e (wildcat) dry at 4,130 feet.

Jasper County: Gulf Oil Corp. Heidelberg unit No. 5-6, sec. 5-10n-10w (heidelberg field) dry at 10,814 feet.

Cotton Prices Close Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton prices firmed during the past week for the second straight week, closing $1.05 to $1.80 a bale higher.

The October, 1959 delivery, in which trading expired Wednesday, went off the board 85 cents a bale above the previous week's close.

Referenda for both upland and extra long staple cotton, in which growers will vote to accept or reject marketing quotas for the 1960 crop, will be held Dec. 15.

A rejection of quotas would come as a complete surprise to the trade. In the case of the 1959 crop, 92 per cent of the voting growers approved quotas for the upland crop and 89 per cent for the extra long staple crop.

Exports during the week ended last Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 42,000 bales against 50,000 a week earlier and 34,000 a year earlier. For the current season through Oct. 13, exports approximated 334,000 bales against 508,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Business Briefs

Charles C. Magown, serviceman at Jackson Motors here in Monroe, has been named to membership in the American Motors Society of Automotive Technicians. The society is made up of outstanding Rambler service personnel who have passed an examination on mechanical phases of the Rambler car.

Magown has been employed at Jackson Motors since July, 1946 and has been in automobile service work for more than 20 years.

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — A new ten-lane bowling alley will be built here in the Burr Store building at the corner of Main and highway 82, it has been announced by Jack L. Levkoff of the Dundee Corporation of Miami, Fla., owners of the building.

The lanes will be built by Lester Bennett of Bastrop who also owns a similar operation there. Construction will begin as soon as final plans are approved.

DURING PAST WEEK

Completion Of Two Wells Reported In Local Area

Petroleum exploration activity in the 14-parish Monroe District slowed down last week with only two new producers reported by Duncan S. Cook, head of the local office of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

Abandonments numbered nine, and seven new locations were staked by area operators, Cook's weekly oil and gas report listed 34 active rigs.

By parish, here are the new completions:

CONCORDIA

Omega Field — Germany-Gulmon's Thomas-Wilds No. 4-A in Sec. 21-7-7E, completed to flow 109 bbls. daily through an 8-64 in. choke from perforations at 5080-84 ft., tubing pressure 495 lbs., casing pressure 360 lbs., gas oil ratio 315:1, gravity 41.9.

RICHLAND

Delhi Field — Lensing, White & T. D. Oil Co.'s Gilley No. 1 in Sec. 20-17-9E, completed to pump 32 bbls. daily through a 48-64 in. choke from perforations at 3148-51 ft., tubing pressure 60 lbs., casing pressure 220 lbs., gravity 40.

Following are the new locations:

CALDWELL

CATAHOULA

Carr Lake Field — E. C. Wentworth et al's McClule No. 1 in Sec. 39-7-6E, located 57 deg., 34 min. north and 2130 ft. east of SW corner.

South Prichard Field — A. J. Hodges Inds., Inc.'s La. C.I.P. No. 5 in Sec. 9-9-6E, located 420 ft. south and 530 ft. east of NW corner of NW¼ of NE¼.

Tew Lake Field — R. A. Campbell's Walters No. 2 in Sec. 1-8-6E, located 350 ft. from S-L and 330 ft. from E-L of NW¼ of NW¼.

CONCORDIA

Lake St. John Field — The Calif. Co.'s Lake St. John Unit No. 38-D in Sec. 2-9-10E, bottom hole is located 275 ft. (dual completion) south and 293 ft. west of surface location in Sec. 2-9-10E.

Monterey Field — Petersen Exp., Inc., Douglas Whitaker & Dorfman Prod. Co.'s Harrison No. 1 in Sec. 25-6-7E, located 387 ft. from W-L and 330 ft. from S-L of NW¼ of NW¼.

GRANT PARISH

Tullos Urania Field — Bert & Glen Loe's Tremont Lbr. Co. B-14 in Sec. 10-9-1E, located 458 ft. north and 512 ft. west of SE corner of NE¼ of SW¼.

The following rigs were active last week:

CATAHOULA

Wildcat — A. J. Hodges Inds. et al's La. Central B-2 in Sec. 9-10-6E, drilling.

Mean Lake Field — David Crow's Monaghan No. 2 in Sec. 32-9-7E, testing.

South Prichard Field — A. J. Hodges Inds. et al's La. C.I.P. No. 3-A in Sec. 5-9-6E, testing.

Tew Lake Field — Franks, Broyles, Holloway, Nemours et al's Routon No. 1 in Sec. 1-8-6E, set 408 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

CONCORDIA

Wildcat — Sam E. Broadhead's Regina T. Burley No. 1 in Sec. 1-5-7E, set 618 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe drilling.

Blackhawk Field — Hunter Jones' Learned No. 1 in Sec. 49-2-8E, set 667 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

Lake St. John Field — The Calif. Co.'s Lake St. John Unit No. 38-D in Sec. 2-9-10E, dual completion to No. 38, perforated for production at 8334-48 ft. in the 8150 ft. sand.

Monterey Field — Petersen Exp. Inc., Douglas Whitaker & Dorfman Prod. Co.'s Harrison No. 1 in Sec. 25-6-7E, set 303 ft. of 9⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

FRANKLIN

Killens Ferry Field — Am. Petrofina Co. of Tex.'s Ayer Tbr. Co. A-3 in Sec. 26-14-9E, drilling tight.

GRANT

Wildcat — Jus-Mears Oil Co.'s Tremont E-5 in Sec. 14-9-1E, testing.

Georgetown Field — J. E. Grandstaff's Rhinehart No. 2 in Sec. 9-9-1E, testing.

LASALLE

Wildcat — Hunt Oil Co.'s La. Delta Hrd. Lbr. Co. H-138 in Sec. 8-5-4E, set 418 ft. of 10¾ in. pipe, drilling.

Wildcat — Olin Oil & Gas Corp.'s Olin-Tensas Delta No. 18 in Sec. 22-6-4E, set 488 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

West Catahoula Lake — Sadie Workover, Inc.'s Urania Lbr. Co. No. 4 in Sec. 2-6-3E, testing.

Cypress Bayou Field — Jus-Mears Oil Co.'s La. Delta Corp. B-2 in Sec. 13-6-4E, testing.

Little Creek Field — Nebo Oil Co.'s Nebo-Fee No. 109 in Sec. 34-9-2E, set 352 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, running drill stem test.

Rogers Field — Thornbrough Well Svc.'s Mrs. M. C. Norris No. 1 in Sec. 8-6-2E, testing.

North Saline Lake Field — Ross Prod. & C. Beaird's La. Delta No. 1 in Sec. 35-5-4E, set 4506 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe drilling.

South Jena Field — E. C. Wentworth et al's Turner et al No. 1 in Sec. 25-8-3E, testing.

Tullos Urania Field — Balter & Galoob's Town of Tullos No. 1 in Sec. 26-10-1E, testing.

Tullos Urania Field — Harter Oil Co.'s Harter - Tensas Delta No. 10 in Sec. 14-9-1E, set 195 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

Tullos Urania Field — J. V. S. Oil Co.'s Mrs. A. Doughty No. 2 in Sec. 36-10-1E, testing.

White Sulphur Springs Field — W. D. Simmons et al's O. N. Edwards et al No. 1 in Sec. 9-7-2E, testing.

OUACHITA

Wildcat — Milton Crow, Inc. & Paul McBride Jr.'s Laura Wiltz A-1 in Sec. 13-17-2E, testing Cadeville Sand at 9800-04 ft.

Calhoun Field — Ark. La. Gas Co.'s Clara Hodge No. 2 in Sec. 27-18-1E, perforated 8861½-65½ ft. and 7350-61½ ft.

Calhoun Field — SW Nat'l Prod. Co.'s LSU et al Unit No. 2 in Sec. 28-19-1E, coring Bodcaw Sand.

RICHLAND

Wildcat — Placid Oil Co. & Victor P. Grage's Venable No. 1 in Sec. 14-17-6E, set 558 ft. of 10¾ in. pipe, drilling.

Wildcat — Union Prod. Co.'s Henry No. 1 in Sec. 35-17-7E, drilling.

TENSAS

Wildcat — Chicago Mill & Lbr. Co. & Ayer Tbr. Co.'s C. M. & Ayer No. 1 in Sec. 17-14-10E, drilling.

Wildcat — Jeff Drlg. Co. & Sun Oil Co.'s Fisher Lbr. Corp. A-2 in Sec. 11-12-10E, drilling.

Wildcat — Jeet Drlg. Co. & Sun Oil & Van Grisso Oil Co.'s H. C. McKinney No. 1 in Sec. 35-13-10E, drilling.

Killens Ferry Field — R. F. Roberts et al's Ayer Tbr. Co. B-6 in Sec. 29-14-10E, testing.

Locust Ridge Field — Phillips Pet. Co.'s McDonald "E" No. 6 in Sec. 18-19-12E, drilling.

UNION PARISH

Bull Creek Field — Carter Oil Co.'s E. Bolinger et al No. 1 in Sec. 25-21-3W, drilling.

Wells abandoned last week:

Major Oil Need Is Pinpointed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A petroleum engineer and conservationist says one of the major needs of the domestic oil industry is an intelligent understanding by the American public.

William J. Murray Jr., member of the Texas Railroad Commission, said such an understanding also is needed from elected governmental representatives.

Murray testified this week before a Senate-House economic subcommittee investigating the nation's energy requirements of the future.

Murray's formula for a maximum domestic petroleum effort was simple.

He suggested oil - producing states retain exclusive authority to administer conservation regulations. He suggested that any federal controls deemed necessary for the oil industry be understandable, administrable and practicable.

"In regard to the appropriate role of federal government, it is nearly as important to suggest what should not be done as to suggest what should be done," he said.

Experts from all sources for domestic energy testified before the joint group on automation and energy resources.

Some oilmen fear the current investigation originated at least in part as a result of recent suggestions for the establishment of a national fuels agency. Such suggestions have been made in recent months in both the House and Senate. The oilmen fear such an agency would lead to allocation of marketing areas or quotas for each type of fuel.

Murray said the domestic petroleum industry has contributed a large portion of the energy supply which has accounted in considerable measure for the progress and prosperity of the nation.

"Of greater significance, we will be even more dependent upon the domestic industry for future security and for future energy supplies," he said.

Current estimates, he said, indicate petroleum by 1967 will supply 74.5 per cent of the nation's energy. Petroleum's current share is 69 per cent.

". . . it would appear the appropriate role of government in insuring an adequate energy supply must largely involve an intelligent, farsighted petroleum policy," he said.

Oil states, he said, should exclusively administer wise exploration, development and production conservation regulations. He said the states should continue to be encouraged to exchange conservation information in forums such as furnished by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Pappas Honored

Bobby Pappas, operator of the Rendezvous Restaurant, has been awarded a niche in the American Restaurant's Hall of Fame. The citiation said Pappas had combined welfare, health and tourist and political interest to make a successful career."

The Rendezvous was opened Dec. 21, 1939. Pappas was president of the Louisiana Restaurant Association in 1949-50, chairman of the Louisiana Citizens Tourist Committee of the Louisiana Municipal Association 1959-60, member of the Chamber of Commerce. He help organized and is state president of the WAIF, a director of the national United Cerebral Palsey organization and a number of other organizations.

Mother Of 3 Convicted In Fatal Beating

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A mother and her three grown children were convicted of second-degree murder Saturday in the fatal beating of a man last Aug. 4.

The jury returned the verdicts after deliberating about two hours. Sentencing was deferred pending a possible new trial appeal.

Convicted were Rose Rafail, 54, operator of a Uniontown tavern; her sons, Joseph, 24, and Waddia Jr., 19; and her daughter, Beatrice Mills, 30.

The state charged John Shuey, 22, of Brownsville, Pa., was beaten after a quarrel in the Rafail tavern.

Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.
These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

FRANKENSTEIN?

Oil Companies Learn About Cards

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The oil companies, which were one of the first to jump on the credit card bandwagon, are learning that the handy credit devices are becoming a sort of Frankenstein's monster. But the customer's benefits are growing.

A recent Oil and Gas Journal survey indicates that the cost of handling credit accounts has trebled in 10 years and threatens to go higher.

Inflation hasn't accounted for nearly all of the trouble. Bad debts, slow collections, and the expense of unused accounts have made credit costs soar. They've jumped the average cost of setting up and handling an account from $11 to $19 a year in 1949 to between $30 and $59 today.

Said one oilman: "...The costs of administering these credit accounts are breaking our back."

Motorists needn't fear that the credit card idea will be junked, however. The trend has spread so far that you can buy just about anything with credit cards these days. Oil companies have to compete with each other and credit cards are a useful tool.

For one thing, if you have a credit card of a particular oil firm you're more likely to stay "tied" to that firm's products because they can be bought from the card.

This has meant that oil companies sometimes "shower down" credit cards on individuals—unsolicited. Once upon a time, you had to apply for a card and then wait for long credit checks, and then sometimes the companies acted as if they were doing you a favor when they presented you with your card.

Soon, it may not be necessary to carry a wallet full of credit cards. Several new ideas have cropped up which may revolutionize the business.

Under one plan, a central agency would handle the paper work and collections for a large number of oil companies. It would cut costs by eliminating duplication of credit offices.

Another plan calls for the issuance of a "universal" credit card, good at the stations of all oil companies. A few cooperating oil firms already are trying it.

"The third pitch is the "cash card" movement originating in the east. Oil companies will be asked to join the movement, in which a card-promoting company sells the customer a "cash card" for $5 a year. The card entitles the holder to a 10 per cent discount for cash at service stations, stores, and other businesses.

The central agency plan appeals to some companies, in that they would be relieved of a lot of non-oil paper work. The agency, operating entirely outside oil company setups, would ride herd on slow pays and deadbeats.

Under this plan, the companies would continue to issue their own credit cards, investigate risks and cancel privileges.

There are an estimated 46 to 50 million credit cards in the oil business today, with several companies known to have more than a million cards in circulation. One company figures its "average" customer owns from three to seven cards.

Clear Weather Brings Sale Of Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Clearing weather over major portions of the grain belt brought selling of soybean and corn futures on the Board of Trade this week.

The setback in soybeans ended three weeks of steady advances in that commodity. Other grains finished mixed, with wheat and rye on the plus side. Oats declined, along with soybeans and corn.

At the close of trading Friday wheat was ¾ to 1⅛ higher than Friday a week ago, corn was ¼ to 1⅞ lower, oats ⅝ to 1½ higher, rye ⅞ to 1⅜ higher, and soybeans finished 2 to 3 cents a bushel lower.

Soybeans suffered a sharp setback Wednesday after recent advances pushed prices up 10 cents or more a bushel. The decline continued Thursday and Friday.

Forecasts that gave promise of favorable weather for completing the soybean harvest was the principal factor in the downturn.

Soybeans have been the most active commodity on the Board of Trade for some time. As a result of Wednesday's trade there was an increase of 1,902,000 bushels in the number of open futures contracts, making a total open interest of 130,726,000 contracts, an all-time high for beans.

In wheat, some soft flour business developed during the week but the volume was disappointing. However, Agriculture Department purchases of flour for European and domestic relief purposes were large and more takings of this type are looked for next week.

Factors contributing to lower prices for corn futures included a government estimate which placed this year's corn crop at a record breaking total of nearly 4 ½ billion bushels.

FIRST CHANCE

NEW YORK (AP) — Loring Mandel, a 31-year-old television writer, is getting his first chance at Broadway play - scripting with a best - seller novel.

Mandel was chosen by Allen Drury, author of "Advise and Consent," and the producing team of Robert Fryer - Lawrence Carr to do the adaptation. The project is scheduled for next season.

MAY ORBIT PLASTIC MAN

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —America may orbit a plastic man in advance of the Mercury astronaut to test the amount of radiation the human space pioneer must encounter, it was revealed here Friday. The mannequin would be filled with tissue-equivalent fluid that would absorb as much radiation as a human body. The disclosure was made by Lt. Col. S.E. Lifton, deputy chief of biophysics at Kirtland Air Force Base here.

STORY OF WEEK

Court Agrees To Consider Union Crippling Plan

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed this week to rule on a case that could cripple the political power of labor unions at the whim of their rank-and-file members.

Specifically, it consented to hear arguments this fall on whether a union member can be forced to pay dues to keep his job under a "union shop" contract if part of the dues is spent to support political candidates or doctrines which he opposes or for other purposes not related to collective bargaining.

Under the union shop a non-union worker must join the union within a certain period or forfeit his job. This stipulation was written into the Railway Labor Act by Congress in 1951 and also is governed to some extent by the Taft-Hartley labor - management act.

But it is illegal under the Corrupt Practices Act and Taft-Hartley, with some variations, to use dues money to support any candidate for federal office.

Started In Macon

As a result, major labor organizations such as the AFL-CIO point their political spending at "educating" union members and the public. This is legal unless it can be proved the "education" is deliberately slanted toward candidates or doctrines the union favors.

The test case now before the court was started in Macon, Ga., in 1953 by six non-union employes of the Southern Railway. They were required to join the union under the union shop clause to keep their jobs but claimed their dues were used for purposes other than collective bargaining, in this instance to support office-seekers and doctrines they opposed.

This, they contended, deprived them of their property "without due process of law" and of their constitutional right of free speech.

On May 8 this year the Georgia Supreme Court upheld the workers with this declaration:

"One who is compelled to contribute the fruits of his labor to support or promote political or economic programs or support candidates for public office is just as much deprived of his freedom of speech as if he were compelled to give his vocal support to doctrines he opposes."

The effect of this was to hold unconstitutional that part of the Railway Labor Act which permitted such a contract, and that is the issue the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to review.

The tribunal upheld constitutionality of the union shop itself in a Nebraska test case in 1956. But at that time it seemingly invited a challenge of the political aspect. It said that "if the exaction of dues, initiation fees or assessments is used as a cover for forcing ideological conformity or other action in contravention of the First and Fifth amendments, this judgment will not prejudice the decision in that (the Nebraska) case."

The unanimous opinion was written by Associate Justice William O. Douglas, who is still on the bench.

A spokesman for the Railway Labor Executives Association told United Press International that if the court affirms the Georgia decision, any rank-and-file unionist could legally block the use of union dues for any purpose except negotiating a collective bargaining contract. This could apply to publication of union newspapers, magazines, and a host of other activities.

It also was pointed out that most union contracts would be unenforceable unless the unions could provide affidavits that their members freely acquiesced in their political or "educational" spending.

DARKENS HORIZON

Steel Strike Drags Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel strike put a heavy drag on the nation's economy the past week.

While President Eisenhower's fact-finding board pressed industry and union to reach a voluntary agreement, layoffs mounted, and the inevitability of severe steel shortages darkened the business horizon.

Steel, the weekly trade magazine, warned: "There is nothing —not even an immediate settlement—that can prevent the situation from deteriorating before it improves. Within two weeks, even the largest and best protected users will feel the strike's impact."

It will take at least 30 days after strike settlement to get production back to anywhere near normal. And the government told the steel industry that immediate top priority must be given defense items when production resumes.

Approximately 250,000 workers in steel-dependent industries were idle in addition to the 500,000 striking steelworkers.

General Motors, only one of the Big Three automakers yet to be hit by the steel shortage, stepped up layoffs the past week, bringing month off.

Automotive News said U.S. auto production had reached a five-month high of 135,172 cars the past week but predicted this probably would be the last big production week until steel supplies again become available.

Effects of the three-month strike spread to appliance producers, truck makers, and farm equipment producers.

These other developments added to the picture:

Railroad freight loadings for the week ended Oct. 10 dropped 127,741 cars, or 18.6 per cent, from the corresponding 1958 week, to 558,780. Loss of loadings due to the strike is estimated at two million cars.

October business of heavy construction contractors — with seasonal factors adding weight to the pressures of tight money and the strike—is running 17 per cent under last year.

The Federal Reserve Board said that despite the strike, industrial production slipped little in September, but a greater impact is being felt this month.

Tight money was a factor in causing housing starts to drop 6 per cent in September—above the usual seasonal decline—the Commerce Department reported.

Unemployment figured released the past week indicated that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell may have to eat his hat on the Capitol steps—a pledge he made if October idle exceeded three millions. Unemployment fell by 196,000 to 3,230,000 in September, but effects of the steel strike are expected to keep the total above three million this month.

Retail trade kept up its steady gains with impetus added by cooler weather in many areas and Columbus Day sales promotions. Total dollar volume for the week was estimated at 2 to 6 per cent above a year ago. Best year-to-year gains were in sales of women's apparel, appliances, floor coverings, furniture, and new passenger cars.

Christmas is 69 days away, but the outlook for an adequate supply of appliances is good, despite the steel strike. A survey of major manufacturers and retailers showed little difficulty in meeting the demand is expected. There may be some holes in the supply of small appliances, one big dealer said. Another noted that any shortages are most likely to show up in small stores.

A new sales promotion idea is being tested by Sears, Roebuck in 18 of its stores across the country. It's a teen-age credit card. Youngsters 14 years and over are offered up to $50 credit with a minimum monthly payment of $1. Parents' guarantee isn't required. But papa and mama can stop the account.

Briefly over the business scene: The Federal Aviation Agency is evaluating a Lockheed Aircraft Corp. air traffic control system—called Loctracs—designed to tell operators the location, identity and altitude of every plane in the sky over the United States. . . . New York Stock Exchange President G. Keith Funston predicts 22 million Americans will own stock in the 1970s. There are about 12½ million owners now. . . . Moore-McCormack Lines, Inc., is scheduling for next summer the first U.S.-flag passenger ship voyages to the Soviet Union in 20 years. . . . Christmas trees are going to cost more this year, but the quality is expected to be better. Federal foresters say a six-foot tree from a timber plantation will retail for about $6. . . . Another Christmas note: a shirtmaking firm is going to put out men's shorts adorned with Santa's beaming face. But the yule spirit won't last too long, the design will disappear in laundering.

HINDS COUNTY, MISS.

Jett Drilling Brings In Wildcat

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Jett Drilling Co. has brought in a wildcat oil well in Hinds County.

The Gaddis Farms No. 1, about one mile west of the Bolton Field, flowed at the rate of 175 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 10,722-34 feet. The well is located in section 14, 6 north, 3 west.

The successful venture is expected to increase drilling activity in the area.

Biglane and Alford are continuing to run sidewall coring operations at their wildcat about 7 miles south of McComb in Pike County. The Lane No. 1 in sec. 21-2n-7e was drilled to 11,484 feet, with operators now trying to evaluate the commercial worth of sands found in electrical log.

The venture created interest while drilling was in progress when oil shows were found on the mud pit.

Hargrave Oil Corp. continues to test its Simpson County wildcat, the Peacock No. 1, sec. 24-1n-3e, with no information being released. The well has seven inch casing set at 13,350 feet with reports that about 120 feet of oil sand was logged. The wildcat is about one mile west of the Merit oil field.

In the recently-found McComb oil field of Pike County, Sun Oil Co. is coring below 10,900 feet in its Andrews No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e. The field currently lists two excellent oilers and was discovered in July.

Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. is below 10,000 feet in salt at its Rankin No. 1, sec. 26-7n-19w in Jeff Davis County. The wildcat is set to go to 12,500 feet and is located on the flank of the Prentiss salt dome.

In the recently found deep Grange gas field of Jeff Davis County, Tidewater Oil Co. is preparing to complete its Mikell No. 1, sec. 24-8n-20w. The well is reported flowing three million cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 14,155-63 feet.

Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. is below 8,900 feet in its Smith County wildcat, the Thompson No. 1, sec 35-3n-8e, about 6 miles northeast of Raleigh. Contract depth is 13,000 feet.

Two wildcat tests are being drilled in Copiah County. X. M. Frascogna is below 12,900 feet in his Magnolia Textiles No. 1, sec. 7-9n-7e, near Brown's Wells. Lone Star Producing Co. is below 6,000 feet in its Southern Package No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e, west of Hazlehurst.

Field drilling during the past week saw four new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In the Magee Field of Simpson County, George Hunt completed his Howard-Womack unit No. 2, sec. 34-1n-6e, as a dual producer at 12,878-92 feet and 13,614-45 feet. The well flowed 201 barrels from the 12,878-feet zone and 121 from the deeper sand.

At the Reedy Creek field in Jones County, California Co. finaled its Bemis No. 1, sec. 9-9n-11w, flowing 260 barrels per day from 9,302-26 feet. The operator will not produce from a sand at 11,081-110 feet until authority for dual completion has been granted.

In the Boykin Church field of Smith County, American Petrofina Co. completed its Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-3n-7e, flowing 143 barrels from 11,628-30 feet.

At Little Creek, Shell Oil Co. completed its Jenkins No. 3, sec. 11-4n-8e, flowing 206 barrels per day from 10,793-810 feet.

In the Ansley field of Hancock County, Pioneer Oil and Gas Co. finaled its Holden No. 1, sec. 29-9s-15w, flowing 1,800,000 cubic feet of gas and 66 barrels of condensate per day from 10,810 feet.

Wells abandoned:

Chickasaw County: Kern County Land Co. Penrose No. 1, Sec. 2-14s-2e (wildcat) dry at 5,400 feet.

Clarke County: Broadhead & Stack Butler No. 1, sec. 10-1n-17e (wildcat) dry at 4,130 feet.

Jasper County: Gulf Oil Corp. Heidelberg unit No. 5-6, sec. 5-10n-10w (heidelberg field) dry at 10,814 feet.

Cotton Prices Close Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton prices firmed during the past week for the second straight week, closing $1.05 to $1.80 a bale higher.

The October, 1959 delivery, in which trading expired Wednesday, went off the board 85 cents a bale above the previous week's close.

Referenda for both upland and extra long staple cotton, in which growers will vote to accept or reject marketing quotas for the 1960 crop, will be held Dec. 15.

A rejection of quotas would come as a complete surprise to the trade. In the case of the 1959 crop, 92 per cent of the voting growers approved quotas for the upland crop and 89 per cent for the extra long staple crop.

Exports during the week ended last Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 42,000 bales against 50,000 a week earlier and 34,000 a year earlier. For the current season through Oct. 13, exports approximated 334,000 bales against 508,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Business Briefs

Charles C. Magown, serviceman at Jackson Motors here in Monroe, has been named to membership in the American Motors Society of Automotive Technicians. The society is made up of outstanding Rambler service personnel who have passed an examination on mechanical phases of the Rambler car.

Magown has been employed at Jackson Motors since July, 1946 and has been in automobile service work for more than 20 years.

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — A new ten-lane bowling alley will be built here in the Burr Store building at the corner of Main and highway 82, it has been announced by Jack L. Levkoff of the Dundee Corporation of Miami, Fla., owners of the building.

The lanes will be built by Lester Bennett of Bastrop who also owns a similar operation there. Construction will begin as soon as final plans are approved.

Rocket Ship In Testing For Future

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X15 rocket ship swooped more than 11 miles high under its own power Saturday, testing its engines for future trips to the edge of space.

The 50-foot-long black arrow made its second successful powered flight after being cut loose from its B52 mother ship high above the Mojave Desert.

Exhausting its fuel in a four-minute burst that pushed it to more than 1,400 miles an hour, the X15 streaked on a wide arc, made a figure eight, and then circled in to a 200-mile-per-hour landing at 10:23 a.m. A high plume of dust rose behind as the rocket ship skidded along for more than a mile at this desert test center.

The entire flight from drop to landing took 10 minutes. The X15 was dropped at 41,000 feet and climbed above 60,000 feet on its lightning flight.

Test Pilot Scott Crossfield was at the controls, as he has been in all previous X15 flights.

Crossfield, 37, took the X15 up to 50,000 feet in its first power flight Sept. 17.

That was the first flight test of the stubby-winged craft's lower-atmosphere engines, two four-barrel rockets designed to thrust the ship up to 100,000 feet and reach speeds of close to 2,000 miles an hour.

Later this winter North American Aviation Inc. will install a more powerful single-chamber engine for the X15's 4,000-mile-an-hour blast up to altitudes of more than 100 miles.

Capt. James Allavie piloted the B52 which carried the tiny ship to its drop point.

The X15 could be seen only through powerful binoculars as it went through its tests.

The X15, which may be the first vehicle to expose a man to actual space-flight conditions, is set for a long series of gruelling tests at various altitudes and speeds.

Gen. MacArthur Now Ranking 5-Star Officer

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the death of Gen. of the Army George C. Marshall, Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur is now the ranking five-star officer of the United States.

MacArthur also is one of the Army's two remaining superrank officers. The other is Gen. Omar Bradley.

On the Navy side, the last remaining fleet admiral is Chester Nimitz, MacArthur's naval opposite number throughout World War II's Pacific campaign.

In the last stages of the war, Congress authorized the five-star rank. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt promoted four Army generals and three Navy admirals to the new rank.

In order of their dates of rank, the original roster of five-star officers was Adm. William Leahy, Gen. Marshall, Gen. MacArthur, Adm. Ernest King, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Adm. Nimitz and Army Air Force Gen. H. H. Arnold. Eisenhower, however, resigned his commission in 1952 when he ran for president.

Shortly after the surrender of Japan and upon his departure from active service, Adm. William Halsey was given five-star rank.

The only man elevated to five-star position since World War II was Gen. Omar Bradley, who served as the first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Since 1953, Bradley, like MacArthur, has been serving in private industry.

Marshall was the third five-star officer to die this year. Halsey died of a heart attack Aug. 16 and Leahy of a brain hemorrhage on July 20.

Rocket Ship In Testing For Future

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X15 rocket ship swooped more than 11 miles high under its own power Saturday, testing its engines for future trips to the edge of space.

The 50-foot-long black arrow made its second successful powered flight after being cut loose from its B52 mother ship high above the Mojave Desert.

Exhausting its fuel in a four-minute burst that pushed it to more than 1,400 miles an hour, the X15 streaked on a wide arc, made a figure eight, and then circled in to a 200-mile-per-hour landing at 10:23 a.m. A high plume of dust rose behind as the rocket ship skidded along for more than a mile at this desert test center.

The entire flight from drop to landing took 10 minutes. The X15 was dropped at 41,000 feet and climbed above 60,000 feet on its lightning flight.

Test Pilot Scott Crossfield was at the controls, as he has been in all previous X15 flights.

Crossfield, 37, took the X15 up to 50,000 feet in its first power flight Sept. 17.

That was the first flight test of the stubby-winged craft's lower-atmosphere engines, two four-barrel rockets designed to thrust the ship up to 100,000 feet and reach speeds of close to 2,000 miles an hour.

Later this winter North American Aviation Inc. will install a more powerful single-chamber engine for the X15's 4,000-mile-an-hour blast up to altitudes of more than 100 miles.

Capt. James Allavie piloted the B52 which carried the tiny ship to its drop point.

The X15 could be seen only through powerful binoculars as it went through its tests.

The X15, which may be the first vehicle to expose a man to actual space-flight conditions, is set for a long series of gruelling tests at various altitudes and speeds.

Gen. MacArthur Now Ranking 5-Star Officer

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the death of Gen. of the Army George C. Marshall, Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur is now the ranking five-star officer of the United States.

MacArthur also is one of the Army's two remaining superrank officers. The other is Gen. Omar Bradley.

On the Navy side, the last remaining fleet admiral is Chester Nimitz, MacArthur's naval opposite number throughout World War II's Pacific campaign.

In the last stages of the war, Congress authorized the five-star rank. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt promoted four Army generals and three Navy admirals to the new rank.

In order of their dates of rank, the original roster of five-star officers was Adm. William Leahy, Gen. Marshall, Gen. MacArthur, Adm. Ernest King, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Adm. Nimitz and Army Air Force Gen. H. H. Arnold. Eisenhower, however, resigned his commission in 1952 when he ran for president.

Shortly after the surrender of Japan and upon his departure from active service, Adm. William Halsey was given five-star rank.

The only man elevated to five-star position since World War II was Gen. Omar Bradley, who served as the first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Since 1953, Bradley, like MacArthur, has been serving in private industry.

Marshall was the third five-star officer to die this year. Halsey died of a heart attack Aug. 16 and Leahy of a brain hemorrhage on July 20.

(2) Card Of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our friends, relatives and neighbors during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved mother, Mrs. Rena C. Jackson. We especially wish to thank Dr. Ben B. Cobb and his staff, the Rev.'s Filer Seal, Bill Hunt, and Jack Day and Dr. Jaroy Weber. All have our everlasting gratitude.

Mr. W. W. Jackson and Family

Major Oil Need Is Pinpointed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A petroleum engineer and conservationist says one of the major needs of the domestic oil industry is an intelligent understanding by the American public.

William J. Murray Jr., member of the Texas Railroad Commission, said such an understanding also is needed from elected governmental representatives.

Murray testified this week before a Senate-House economic subcommittee investigating the nation's energy requirements of the future.

Murray's formula for a maximum domestic petroleum effort was simple.

He suggested oil - producing states retain exclusive authority to administer conservation regulations. He suggested that any federal controls deemed necessary for the oil industry be understandable, administrable and practicable.

"In regard to the appropriate role of federal government, it is nearly as important to suggest what should not be done as to suggest what should be done," he said.

Experts from all sources for domestic energy testified before the joint group on automation and energy resources.

Some oilmen fear the current investigation originated at least in part as a result of recent suggestions for the establishment of a national fuels agency. Such suggestions have been made in recent months in both the House and Senate. The oilmen fear such an agency would lead to allocation of marketing areas or quotas for each type of fuel.

Murray said the domestic petroleum industry has contributed a large portion of the energy supply which has accounted in considerable measure for the progress and prosperity of the nation.

"Of greater significance, we will be even more dependent upon the domestic industry for future security and for future energy supplies," he said.

Current estimates, he said, indicate petroleum by 1967 will supply 74.5 per cent of the nation's energy. Petroleum's current share is 69 per cent.

". . . it would appear the appropriate role of government in insuring an adequate energy supply must largely involve an intelligent, farsighted petroleum policy," he said.

Oil states, he said, should exclusively administer wise exploration, development and production conservation regulations. He said the states should continue to be encouraged to exchange conservation information in forums such as furnished by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Pappas Honored

Bobby Pappas, operator of the Rendezvous Restaurant, has been awarded a niche in the American Restaurant's Hall of Fame. The citiation said Pappas had combined welfare, health and tourist and political interest to make a successful career."

The Rendezvous was opened Dec. 21, 1939. Pappas was president of the Louisiana Restaurant Association in 1949-50, chairman of the Louisiana Citizens Tourist Committee of the Louisiana Municipal Association 1959-60, member of the Chamber of Commerce. He help organized and is state president of the WAIF, a director of the national United Cerebral Palsey organization and a number of other organizations.

Mother Of 3 Convicted In Fatal Beating

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A mother and her three grown children were convicted of second-degree murder Saturday in the fatal beating of a man last Aug. 4.

The jury returned the verdicts after deliberating about two hours. Sentencing was deferred pending a possible new trial appeal.

Convicted were Rose Rafail, 54, operator of a Uniontown tavern; her sons, Joseph, 24, and Waldia Jr., 19; and her daughter, Beatrice Mills, 30.

The state charged John Shuey, 22, of Brownsville, Pa., was beaten after a quarrel in the Rafail tavern.

METALLIC'S NEW LO-PITCH BUILDINGS

Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.

These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

FRANKENSTEIN?

Oil Companies Learn About Cards

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The oil companies, which were one of the first to jump on the credit card bandwagon, are learning that the handy credit devices are becoming a sort of Frankenstein's monster. But the customer's benefits are growing.

A recent Oil and Gas Journal survey indicates that the cost of handling credit accounts has trebled in 10 years and threatens to go higher.

Inflation hasn't accounted for nearly all of the trouble. Bad debts, slow collections, and the expense of unused accounts have made credit costs soar. They've jumped the average cost of setting up and handling an account from $11 to $19 a year in 1949 to between $30 and $59 today.

Said one oilman: "...The costs of administering these credit accounts are breaking our back."

Motorists needn't fear that the credit card idea will be junked, however. The trend has spread so far that you can buy just about anything with credit cards these days. Oil companies have to compete with each other and credit cards are a useful tool.

For one thing, if you have a credit card of a particular oil firm you're more likely to stay "tied" to that firm's products because they can be bought from the card.

This has meant that oil companies sometimes "shower down" credit cards on individuals—unsolicited. Once upon a time, you had to apply for a card and then wait for long credit checks, and then sometimes the companies acted as if they were doing you a favor when they presented you with your card.

Soon, it may not be necessary to carry a wallet full of credit cards. Several new ideas have cropped up which may revolutionize the business.

Under one plan, a central agency would handle the paper work and collections for a large number of oil companies. It would cut costs by eliminating duplication of credit offices.

Another plan calls for the issuance of a "universal" credit card, good at the stations of all oil companies. A few cooperating oil firms already are trying it.

"The third pitch is the "cash card" movement originating in the east. Oil companies will be asked to join the movement, in which a card-promoting company sells the customer a "cash card" for $5 a year. The card entitles the holder to a 10 per cent discount for cash at service stations, stores, and other businesses.

The central agency plan appeals to some companies, in that they would be relieved of a lot of non-oil paper work. The agency, operating entirely outside oil company setups, would ride herd on slow pays and deadbeats.

Under this plan, the companies would continue to issue their own credit cards, investigate risks and cancel privileges.

There are an estimated 46 to 50 million credit cards in the oil business today, with several companies known to have more than a million cards in circulation. One company figures its "average" customer owns from three to seven cards.

FIRST CHANCE

NEW YORK (AP) — Loring Mandel, a 31-year-old television writer, is getting his first chance at Broadway play - scripting with a best - seller novel.

Mandel was chosen by Allen Drury, author of "Advise and Consent," and the producing team of Robert Fryer - Lawrence Carr to do the adaptation. The project is scheduled for next season.

Clear Weather Brings Sale Of Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Clearing weather over major portions of the grain belt brought selling of soybean and corn futures on the Board of Trade this week.

The setback in soybeans ended three weeks of steady advances in that commodity. Other grains finished mixed, with wheat and rye on the plus side. Oats declined, along with soybeans and corn.

At the close of trading Friday wheat was ¾ to 1⅛ higher than Friday a week ago, corn was ¼ to 1⅞ lower, oats ⅝ to 1½ higher, rye ⅞ to 1⅝ higher, and soybeans finished 2 to 3 cents a bushel lower.

Soybeans suffered a sharp setback Wednesday after recent advances pushed prices up 10 cents or more a bushel. The decline continued Thursday and Friday.

Forecasts that gave promise of favorable weather for completing the soybean harvest was the principal factor in the downturn.

Soybeans have been the most active commodity on the Board of Trade for some time. As a result of Wednesday's trade there was an increase of 1,902,000 bushels in the number of open futures contracts, making a total open interest of 130,726,000 contracts, an all-time high for beans.

In wheat, some soft flour business developed during the week but the volume was disappointing. However, Agriculture Department purchases of flour for European and domestic relief purposes were large and more takings of this type are looked for next week.

Factors contributing to lower prices for corn futures included a government estimate which placed this year's corn crop at a record breaking total of nearly 4 ½ billion bushels.

MAY ORBIT PLASTIC MAN

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —America may orbit a plastic man in advance of the Mercury astronaut to test the amount of radiation the human space pioneer must encounter, it was revealed here Friday. The mannequin would be filled with tissue-equivalent fluid that would absorb as much radiation as a human body. The disclosure was made by Lt. Col. S.E. Lifton, deputy chief of biophysics at Kirtland Air Force Base here.

STORY OF WEEK

Court Agrees To Consider Union Crippling Plan

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed this week to rule on a case that could cripple the political power of labor unions at the whim of their rank-and-file members.

Specifically, it consented to hear arguments this fall on whether a union member can be forced to pay dues to keep his job under a "union shop" contract if part of the dues is spent to support political candidates or doctrines which he opposes or for other purposes not related to collective bargaining.

Under the union shop a non-union worker must join the union within a certain period or forfeit his job. This stipulation was written into the Railway Labor Act by Congress in 1951 and also is governed to some extent by the Taft-Hartley labor - management act.

But it is illegal under the Corrupt Practices Act and Taft-Hartley, with some variations, to use dues money to support any candidate for federal office.

Started In Macon

As a result, major labor organizations such as the AFL-CIO point their political spending at "educating" union members and the public. This is legal unless it can be proved the "education" is deliberately slanted toward candidates or doctrines the union favors.

The test case now before the court was started in Macon, Ga., in 1953 by six non-union employes of the Southern Railway. They were required to join the union under the union shop clause to keep their jobs but claimed their dues were used for purposes other than collective bargaining, in this instance to support office-seekers and doctrines they opposed.

This, they contended, deprived them of their property "without due process of law" and of their constitutional right of free speech.

On May 8 this year the Georgia Supreme Court upheld the workers with this declaration:

"One who is compelled to contribute the fruits of his labor to support or promote political or economic programs or support candidates for public office is just as much deprived of his freedom of speech as if he were compelled to give his vocal support to doctrines he opposes."

The effect of this was to hold unconstitutional that part of the Railway Labor Act which permitted such a contract, and that is the issue the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to review.

The tribunal upheld constitutionality of the union shop itself in a Nebraska test case in 1956. But at that time it seemingly invited a challenge of the political aspect. It said that "if the exaction of dues, initiation fees or assessments is used as a cover for forcing ideological conformity or other action in contravention of the First and Fifth amendments, this judgment will not prejudice the decision in that (the Nebraska) case."

The unanimous opinion was written by Associate Justice William O. Douglas, who is still on the bench.

A spokesman for the Railway Labor Executives Association told United Press International that if the court affirms the Georgia decision, any rank-and-file unionist could legally block the use of union dues for any purpose except negotiating a collective bargaining contract. This could apply to publication of union newspapers, magazines, and a host of other activities.

It also was pointed out that most union contracts would be unenforceable unless the unions could provide affidavits that their members freely acquiesced in their political or "educational" spending.

DARKENS HORIZON

Steel Strike Drags Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel strike put a heavy drag on the nation's economy the past week.

While President Eisenhower's fact-finding board pressed industry and union to reach a voluntary agreement, layoffs mounted, and the inevitability of severe steel shortages darkened the business horizon.

Steel, the weekly trade magazine, warned: "There is nothing —not even an immediate settlement—that can prevent the situation from deteriorating before it improves. Within two weeks, even the largest and best protected users will feel the strike's impact."

It will take at least 30 days after strike settlement to get production back to anywhere near normal. And the government told the steel industry that immediate top priority must be given defense items when production resumes.

Approximately 250,000 workers in steel-dependent industries were idle in addition to the 500,000 striking steelworkers.

General Motors, only one of the Big Three automakers yet to be hit by the steel shortage, stepped up layoffs the past week, bringing month off.

Automotive News said U.S. auto production had reached a five-month high of 135,172 cars the past week but predicted this probably would be the last big production week until steel supplies again become available.

Effects of the three-month strike spread to appliance producers, truck makers, and farm equipment producers.

These other developments added to the picture:

Railroad freight loadings for the week ended Oct. 10 dropped 127,741 cars, or 18.6 per cent, from the corresponding 1958 week, to 558,780. Loss of loadings due to the strike is estimated at two million cars.

October business of heavy construction contractors — with seasonal factors adding weight to the pressures of tight money and the strike—is running 17 per cent under last year.

The Federal Reserve Board said that despite the strike, industrial production slipped little in September, but a greater impact is being felt this month.

Tight money was a factor in causing housing starts to drop 6 per cent in September—above the usual seasonal decline—the Commerce Department reported.

Unemployment figured released the past week indicated that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell may have to eat his hat on the Capitol steps—a pledge he made if October idle exceeded three millions. Unemployment fell by 196,000 to 3,230,000 in September, but effects of the steel strike are expected to keep the total above three million this month.

Retail trade kept up its steady gains with impetus added by cooler weather in many areas and Columbus Day sales promotions. Total dollar volume for the week was estimated at 2 to 6 per cent above a year ago. Best year-to-year gains were in sales of women's apparel, appliances, floor coverings, furniture, and new passenger cars.

Christmas is 69 days away, but the outlook for an adequate supply of appliances is good, despite the steel strike. A survey of major manufacturers and retailers showed little difficulty in meeting the demand is expected. There may be some holes in the supply of small appliances, one big dealer said. Another noted that any shortages are most likely to show up in small stores.

A new sales promotion idea is being tested by Sears, Roebuck in 18 of its stores across the country. It's a teen-age credit card. Youngsters 14 years and over are offered up to $50 credit with a minimum monthly payment of $5. Parents' guarantee isn't required. But papa and mama can stop the account.

Briefly over the business scene: The Federal Aviation Agency is evaluating a Lockheed Aircraft Corp. air traffic control system—called Loctracs—designed to tell operators the location, identity and altitude of every plane in the sky over the United States. . . . New York Stock Exchange President G. Keith Funston predicts 22 million Americans will own stock in the 1970s. There are about 12½ million owners now. . . . Moore-McCormack Lines, Inc., is scheduling for next summer the first U.S.-flag passenger ship voyages to the Soviet Union in 20 years. . . . Christmas trees are going to cost more this year, but the quality is expected to be better. Federal foresters say a six-foot tree from a timber plantation will retail for about $6. . . . Another Christmas note: a shirtmaking firm is going to put out men's shorts adorned with Santa's beaming face. But the yule spirit won't last too long, the design will disappear in laundering.

HINDS COUNTY, MISS.

Jett Drilling Brings In Wildcat

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Jett Drilling Co. has brought in a wildcat oil well in Hinds County.

The Gaddis Farms No. 1, about one mile west of the Bolton Field, flowed at the rate of 175 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 10,722-34 feet. The well is located in section 14, 6 north, 3 west.

The successful venture is expected to increase drilling activity in the area.

Biglane and Alford are continuing to run sidewall coring operations at their wildcat about 7 miles south of McComb in Pike County. The Lane No. 1 in sec. 21-2n-7e was drilled to 11,484 feet, with operators now trying to evaluate the commercial worth of sands found in electrical log.

The venture created interest while drilling was in progress when oil shows were found on the mud pit.

Hargrave Oil Corp. continues to test its Simpson County wildcat, the Peacock No. 1, sec. 24-1n-3e, with no information being released. The well has seven inch casing set at 13,350 feet with reports that about 120 feet of oil sand was logged. The wildcat is about one mile west of the Merit oil field.

In the recently-found McComb oil field of Pike County, Sun Oil Co. is coring below 10,900 feet in its Andrews No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e. The field currently lists two excellent oilers and was discovered in July.

Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. is below 10,000 feet in salt at its Rankin No. 1, sec. 26-7n-19w in Jeff Davis County. The wildcat is set to go to 12,500 feet and is located on the flank of the Prentiss salt dome.

In the recently found deep Grange gas field of Jeff Davis County, Tidewater Oil Co. is preparing to complete its Mikell No. 1, sec. 24-8n-20w. The well is reported flowing three million cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 14,155-68 feet.

Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. is below 8,900 feet in its Smith County wildcat, the Thompson No. 1, sec 35-3n-6e, about 6 miles northeast of Raleigh. Contract depth is 13,000 feet.

Two wildcat tests are being drilled in Copiah County. X. M. Frascogna is below 12,900 feet in his Magnolia Textiles No. 1, sec. 7-9n-7e, near Brown's Wells. Lone Star Producing Co. is below 6,000 feet in its Southern Package No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e, west of Hazlehurst.

Field drilling during the past week saw four new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In the Magee Field of Simpson County, George Hunt completed his Howard-Womack unit No. 2, sec. 34-1n-6e, as a dual producer at 12,878-92 feet and 13,614-45 feet. The well flowed 201 barrels from the 12,878-feet zone and 121 from the deeper sand.

At the Reedy Creek field in Jones County, California Co. finaled its Bemis No. 1, sec. 9-9n-11w, flowing 260 barrels per day from 9,302-26 feet. The operator will not produce from a sand at 11,081-110 feet until authority for dual completion has been granted.

In the Boykin Church field of Smith County, American Petrofina Co. completed its Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-3n-7e, flowing 143 barrels from 11,628-30 feet.

At Little Creek, Shell Oil Co. completed its Jenkins No. 3, sec. 11-4n-8e, flowing 206 barrels per day from 10,793-810 feet.

In the Ansley field of Hancock County, Pioneer Oil and Gas Co. finaled its Holden No. 1, sec. 29-9s-15w, flowing 1,800,000 cubic feet of gas and 66 barrels of condensate per day from 10,810 feet.

Wells abandoned:

Chickasaw County: Kern County Land Co. Penrose No. 1, Sec. 2-14s-2e (wildcat) dry at 5,400 feet.

Clarke County: Broadhead & Stack Butler No. 1, sec. 10-1n-17e (wildcat) dry at 4,130 feet.

Jasper County: Gulf Oil Corp. Heidelberg unit No. 5-6, sec. 5-10n-10w (heidelberg field) dry at 10,814 feet.

Cotton Prices Close Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton prices firmed during the past week for the second straight week, closing $1.05 to $1.80 a bale higher.

The October, 1959 delivery, in which trading expired Wednesday, went off the board 85 cents a bale above the previous week's close.

Referenda for both upland and extra long staple cotton, in which growers will vote to accept or reject marketing quotas for the 1960 crop, will be held Dec. 15.

A rejection of quotas would come as a complete surprise to the trade. In the case of the 1959 crop, 92 per cent of the voting growers approved quotas for the upland crop and 89 per cent for the extra long staple crop.

Exports during the week ended last Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 42,000 bales against 50,000 a week earlier and 34,000 a year earlier. For the current season through Oct. 13, exports approximated 334,000 bales against 508,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Business Briefs

Charles C. Magown, serviceman at Jackson Motors here in Monroe, has been named to membership in the American Motors Society of Automotive Technicians. The society is made up of outstanding Rambler service personnel who have passed an examination on mechanical phases of the Rambler car.

Magown has been employed at Jackson Motors since July, 1946 and has been in automobile service work for more than 20 years.

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — A new ten-lane bowling alley will be built here in the Burr Store building at the corner of Main and highway 82, it has been announced by Jack L. Levkoff of the Dundee Corporation of Miami, Fla., owners of the building.

The lanes will be built by Lester Bennett of Bastrop who also owns a similar operation there. Construction will begin as soon as final plans are approved.

DURING PAST WEEK

Completion Of Two Wells Reported In Local Area

Petroleum exploration activity in the 14-parish Monroe District slowed down last week with only two new producers reported by Duncan S. Cook, head of the local office of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

Abandonments numbered nine, and seven new locations were staked by area operators. Cook's weekly oil and gas report listed 34 active rigs.

By parish, here are the new completions:

CONCORDIA

Omega Field — Germany-Gulmon's Thomas-Wilds No. 4-A in Sec. 21-7-7E, completed to flow 109 bbls. daily through an 8-64 in. choke from perforations at 5080-84 ft., tubing pressure 495 lbs., casing pressure 360 lbs., gas oil ratio 315:1, gravity 41.9.

RICHLAND

Delhi Field — Lensing, White & T. D. Oil Co.'s Gilley No. 1 in Sec. 20-17-9E, completed to pump 32 bbls. daily through a 48-64 in. choke from perforations at 3148-51 ft., tubing pressure 60 lbs., casing pressure 220 lbs., gravity 40.

Following are the new locations:

CALDWELL

Carr Lake Field — E. C. Wentworth et al's McClule No. 1 in Sec. 39-7-6E, located 37 deg., 34 min. north and 2130 ft. east of SW corner.

South Prichard Field — A. J. Hodges Inds., Inc.'s La. C.I.P. No. 6 in Sec. 9-9-6E, located 430 ft. south and 530 ft. east of NW corner of NW¼ of NE¼.

Tew Lake Field — R. A. Campbell's Walters No. 2 in Sec. 1-8-6E, located 350 ft. from S-L and 330 ft. from E-L of NW¼ of NW¼.

CONCORDIA

Lake St. John Field — The Calif. Co.'s Lake St. John Unit No. 38-D in Sec. 2-9-10E, bottom hole is located 275 ft. (dual completion) south and 293 ft. west of surface location in Sec. 2-9-10E.

Monterey Field — Petersen Exp., Inc., Douglas Whitaker & Dorfman Prod. Co.'s Harrison No. 1 in Sec. 25-6-7E, located 387 ft. from W-L and 330 ft. from S-L of NW¼ of NW¼.

GRANT PARISH

Tullos Urania Field — Bert & Glen Loe's Tremont Lbr. Co. B-14 in Sec. 10-9-1E, located 438 ft. north and 512 ft. west of SE corner of NE¼ of SW¼.

The following rigs were active last week:

CATAHOULA

Wildcat — A. J. Hodges Inds. et al's La. Central B-2 in Sec. 9-10-6E, drilling.

Mean Lake Feild — David Crow's Monaghan No. 2 in Sec. 32-9-7E, testing.

South Prichard Field — A. J. Hodges Inds. et al's La. C.I.P. No. 3-A in Sec. 5-9-6E, testing.

Tew Lake Field — Franks, Broyles, Holloway, Nemours et al's Routon No. 1 in Sec. 1-8-6E, set 408 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

CONCORDIA

Wildcat — Sam E. Broadhead's Regina T. Burley No. 1 in Sec. 1-5-7E, set 618 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe drilling.

Blackhawk Field — Hunter Jones' Learned No. 1 in Sec. 49-2-8E, set 667 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

Lake St. John Field — The Calif. Co.'s Lake St. John Unit No. 38-D in Sec. 2-9-10E, dual completion to No. 38, perforated for production at 8334-48 ft. in the 8150 ft. sand.

Monterey Field — Petersen Exp. Inc., Douglas Whitaker & Dorfman Prod Co.'s Harrison No. 1 in Sec. 25-6-7E, set 503 ft. of 9⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

FRANKLIN

Killens Ferry Field — Am. Petrofina Co. of Tex.'s Ayer Tbr. Co. A-3 in Sec. 26-14-9E, drilling tight.

GRANT

Wildcat — Jus-Mears Oil Co.'s Tremont E-5 in Sec. 14-9-1E, testing.

Georgetown Field — J. E. Grandstaff's Rhinehart No. 2 in Sec. 9-9-1E, testing.

LASALLE

Wildcat — Hunt Oil Co.'s La. Delta Hrd. Lbr. Co. H-138 in Sec. 8-5-4E, set 416 ft. of 10¾ in. pipe, drilling.

Wildcat — Olin Oil & Gas Corp.'s Olin-Tensas Delta No. 18 in Sec. 22-6-4E, set 498 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling.

West Catahoula Lake — Sadie Workover, Inc.'s Urania Lbr. Co. No. 4 in Sec. 2-6-3E, testing.

Cypress Bayou Field — Jus-Mears Oil Co.'s La. Delta Corp. B-2 in Sec. 13-6-4E, testing.

Little Creek Field — Nebo Oil Co.'s Nebo-Fee No. 109 in Sec. 34-9-2E, set 352 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, running drill stem test.

Rogers Field — Thornbrough Well Svc.'s Mrs. M. C. Norris No. 1 in Sec. 8-6-3E, testing.

North Saline Lake Field — Ross Prod. & C. Beaird's La. Delta No. 1 in Sec. 35-5-4E, set 506 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe drilling.

South Jena Field — E. C. Wentworth et al's Turner et al No. 1 in Sec. 28-8-3E, testing.

Tullos Urania Field — Balter & Galoob's Town of Tullos No. 1 in Sec. 26-10-1E, testing.

STORY OF WEEK

Court Agrees To Consider Union Crippling Plan

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed this week to rule on a case that could cripple the political power of labor unions at the whim of their rank-and-file members.

Specifically, it consented to hear arguments this fall on whether a union member can be forced to pay dues to keep his job under a "union shop" contract if part of the dues is spent to support political candidates or doctrines which he opposes or for other purposes not related to collective bargaining.

Under the union shop a non-union worker must join the union within a certain period or forfeit his job. This stipulation was written into the Railway Labor Act by Congress in 1951 and also is governed to some extent by the Taft-Hartley labor - management act.

But it is illegal under the Corrupt Practices Act and Taft-Hartley, with some variations, to use dues money to support any candidate for federal office.

Started In Macon

As a result, major labor organizations such as the AFL-CIO point their political spending at "educating" union members and the public. This is legal unless it can be proved the "education" is deliberately slanted toward candidates or doctrines the union favors.

The test case now before the court was started in Macon, Ga., in 1953 by six non-union employes of the Southern Railway. They were required to join the union under the union shop clause to keep their jobs but claimed their dues were used for purposes other than collective bargaining, in this instance to support office-seekers and doctrines they opposed.

This, they contended, deprived them of their property "without due process of law" and of their constitutional right of free speech.

On May 8 this year the Georgia Supreme Court upheld the workers with this declaration:

"One who is compelled to contribute the fruits of his labor to support or promote political or economic programs or support candidates for public office is just as much deprived of his freedom of speech as if he were compelled to give his vocal support to doctrines he opposes."

The effect of this was to hold unconstitutional that part of the Railway Labor Act which permitted such a contract, and that is the issue the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to review.

The tribunal upheld constitutionality of the union shop itself in a Nebraska test case in 1956. But at that time it seemingly invited a challenge of the political aspect. It said that "if the exaction of dues, initiation fees or assessments is used as a cover for forcing ideological conformity or other action in contravention of the First and Fifth amendments, this judgment will not prejudice the decision in that (the Nebraska) case."

The unanimous opinion was written by Associate Justice William O. Douglas, who is still on the bench.

A spokesman for the Railway Labor Executives Association told United Press International that if the court affirms the Georgia decision, any rank-and-file unionist could legally block the use of union dues for any purpose except negotiating a collective bargaining contract. This could apply to publication of union newspapers, magazines, and a host of other activities.

It also was pointed out that most union contracts would be unenforceable unless the unions could provide affidavits that their members freely acquiesced in their political or "educational" spending.

DARKENS HORIZON

Steel Strike Drags Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel strike put a heavy drag on the nation's economy the past week.

While President Eisenhower's fact-finding board pressed industry and union to reach a voluntary agreement, layoffs mounted, and the inevitability of severe steel shortages darkened the business horizon.

Steel, the weekly trade magazine, warned: "There is nothing—not even an immediate settlement—that can prevent the situation from deteriorating before it improves. Within two weeks, even the largest and best protected users will feel the strike's impact."

It will take at least 30 days after strike settlement to get production back to anywhere near normal. And the government told the steel industry that immediate top priority must be given defense items when production resumes.

Approximately 250,000 workers in steel-dependent industries were idle in addition to the 500,000 striking steelworkers.

General Motors, only one of the Big Three automakers yet to be hit by the steel shortage, stepped up layoffs the past week, bringing month off.

Automotive News said U.S. auto production had reached a five-month high of 135,172 cars the past week but predicted this probably would be the last big production week until steel supplies again become available.

Effects of the three-month strike spread to appliance producers, truck makers, and farm equipment producers.

These other developments added to the picture:

Railroad freight loadings for the week ended Oct. 10 dropped 127,741 cars, or 18.6 per cent, from the corresponding 1958 week, to 558,780. Loss of loadings due to the strike is estimated at two million cars.

October business of heavy construction contractors — with seasonal factors adding weight to the pressures of tight money and the strike—is running 17 per cent under last year.

The Federal Reserve Board said that despite the strike, industrial production slipped little in September, but a greater impact is being felt this month.

Tight money was a factor in causing housing starts to drop 6 per cent in September—above the usual seasonal decline—the Commerce Department reported.

Unemployment figured released the past week indicated that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell may have to eat his hat on the Capitol steps—a pledge he made if October idle exceeded three millions. Unemployment fell by 196,000 to 3,230,000 in September, but effects of the steel strike are expected to keep the total above three million this month.

Retail trade kept up its steady gains with impetus added by cooler weather in many areas and Columbus Day sales promotions. Total dollar volume for the week was estimated at 2 to 6 per cent above a year ago. Best year-to-year gains were in sales of women's apparel, appliances, floor coverings, furniture, and new passenger cars.

Christmas is 69 days away, but the outlook for an adequate supply of appliances is good, despite the steel strike. A survey of major manufacturers and retailers showed little difficulty in meeting the demand is expected. There may be some holes in the supply of small appliances, one big dealer said. Another noted that any shortages are most likely to show up in small stores.

A new sales promotion idea is being tested by Sears, Roebuck in 18 of its stores across the country. It's a teen-age credit card. Youngsters 14 years and over are offered up to $50 credit with a minimum monthly payment of $5. Parents' guarantee isn't required. But papa and mama can stop the account.

Briefly over the business scene: The Federal Aviation Agency is evaluating a Lockheed Aircraft Corp. air traffic control system—called Loctracs—designed to tell operators the location, identity and altitude of every plane in the sky over the United States. . . . New York Stock Exchange President G. Keith Funston predicts 22 million Americans will own stock in the 1970s. There are about 12½ million owners now. . . . Moore-McCormack Lines, Inc., is scheduling for next summer the first U.S.-flag passenger ship voyages to the Soviet Union in 20 years. . . . Christmas trees are going to cost more this year, but the quality is expected to be better. Federal foresters say a six-foot tree from a timber plantation will retail for about $6. . . . Another Christmas note: a shirtmaking firm is going to put out men's shorts adorned with Santa's beaming face. But the yule spirit won't last too long, the design will disappear in laundering.

BY ENGINEER

Major Oil Need Is Pinpointed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A petroleum engineer and conservationist says one of the major needs of the domestic oil industry is an intelligent understanding by the American public.

William J. Murray Jr., member of the Texas Railroad Commission, said such an understanding also is needed from elected governmental representatives.

Murray testified this week before a Senate-House economic subcommittee investigating the nation's energy requirements of the future.

Murray's formula for a maximum domestic petroleum effort was simple.

He suggested oil - producing states retain exclusive authority to administer conservation regulations. He suggested that any federal controls deemed necessary for the oil industry be understandable, administrable and practicable.

"In regard to the appropriate role of federal government, it is nearly as important to suggest what should not be done as to suggest what should be done," he said.

Experts from all sources for domestic energy testified before the joint group on automation and energy resources.

Some oilmen fear the current investigation originated at least in part as a result of recent suggestions for the establishment of a national fuels agency. Such suggestions have been made in recent months in both the House and Senate. The oilmen fear such an agency would lead to allocation of marketing areas or quotas for each type of fuel.

Murray said the domestic petroleum industry has contributed a large portion of the energy supply which has accounted in considerable measure for the progress and prosperity of the nation.

"Of greater significance, we will be even more dependent upon the domestic industry for future security and for future energy supplies," he said.

Current estimates, he said, indicate petroleum by 1967 will supply 74.5 per cent of the nation's energy. Petroleum's current share is 69 per cent.

". . . it would appear the appropriate role of government in insuring an adequate energy supply must largely involve an intelligent, farsighted petroleum policy," he said.

Oil states, he said, should exclusively administer wise exploration, development and production conservation regulations. He said the states should continue to be encouraged to exchange conservation information in forums such as furnished by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Pappas Honored

Bobby Pappas, operator of the Rendezvous Restaurant, has been awarded a niche in the American Restaurant's Hall of Fame. The citiation said Pappas had combined welfare, health and tourist and political interest to make a successful career."

The Rendezvous was opened Dec. 21, 1939. Pappas was president of the Louisiana Restaurant Association in 1949-50, chairman of the Louisiana Citizens Tourist Committee of the Louisiana Municipal Association 1959-60, member of the Chamber of Commerce. He help organized and is state president of the WAIF, a director of the national United Cerebral Palsey organization and a number of other organizations.

Mother Of 3 Convicted In Fatal Beating

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A mother and her three grown children were convicted of second-degree murder Saturday in the fatal beating of a man last Aug. 4.

The jury returned the verdicts after deliberating about two hours. Sentencing was deferred pending a possible new trial appeal.

Convicted were Rose Rafail, 54, operator of a Uniontown tavern; her sons, Joseph, 24, and Waddia Jr., 19; and her daughter, Beatrice Mills, 30.

The state charged John Shuey, 22, of Brownsville, Pa., was beaten after a quarrel in the Rafail tavern.

FRANKENSTEIN?

Oil Companies Learn About Cards

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The oil companies, which were one of the first to jump on the credit card bandwagon, are learning that the handy credit devices are becoming a sort of Frankenstein's monster. But the customer's benefits are growing.

A recent Oil and Gas Journal survey indicates that the cost of handling credit accounts has trebled in 10 years and threatens to go higher.

Inflation hasn't accounted for nearly all of the trouble. Bad debts, slow collections, and the expense of unused accounts have made credit costs soar. They've jumped the average cost of setting up and handling an account from $11 to $19 a year in 1949 to between $30 and $59 today.

Said one oilman: "...The costs of administering these credit accounts are breaking our back."

Motorists needn't fear that the credit card idea will be junked, however. The trend has spread so far that you can buy just about anything with credit cards these days. Oil companies have to compete with each other and credit cards are a useful tool.

For one thing, if you have a credit card of a particular oil firm you're more likely to stay "tied" to that firm's products because they can be bought from the card.

This has meant that oil companies sometimes "shower down" credit cards on individuals—unsolicited. Once upon a time, you had to apply for a card and then wait for long credit checks, and then sometimes the companies acted as if they were doing you a favor when they presented you with your card.

Soon, it may not be necessary to carry a wallet full of credit cards. Several new ideas have cropped up which may revolutionize the business.

Under one plan, a central agency would handle the paper work and collections for a large number of oil companies. It would cut costs by eliminating duplication of credit offices.

Another plan calls for the issuance of a "universal" credit card, good at the stations of all oil companies. A few cooperating oil firms already are trying it.

"The third pitch is the "cash card" movement originating in the east. Oil companies will be asked to join the movement, in which a card-promoting company sells the customer a "cash card" for $5 a year. The card entitles the holder to a 10 per cent discount for cash at service stations, stores, and other businesses.

The central agency plan appeals to some companies, in that they would be relieved of a lot of non-oil paper work. The agency, operating entirely outside oil company setups, would ride herd on slow pays and deadbeats.

Under this plan, the companies would continue to issue their own credit cards, investigate risks and cancel privileges.

There are an estimated 46 to 50 million credit cards in the oil business today, with several companies known to have more than a million cards in circulation. One company figures its "average" customer owns from three to seven cards.

Clear Weather Brings Sale Of Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Clearing weather over major portions of the grain belt brought selling of soybean and corn futures on the Board of Trade this week.

The setback in soybeans ended three weeks of steady advances in that commodity. Other grains finished mixed, with wheat and rye on the plus side. Oats declined, along with soybeans and corn.

At the close of trading Friday wheat was ¾ to 1⅛ higher than Friday a week ago, corn was ¼ to 1⅞ lower, oats ⅝ to 1½ higher, rye ⅞ to 1⅜ higher, and soybeans finished 2 to 3 cents a bushel lower.

Soybeans suffered a sharp setback Wednesday after recent advances pushed prices up 10 cents or more a bushel. The decline continued Thursday and Friday.

Forecasts that gave promise of favorable weather for completing the soybean harvest was the principal factor in the downturn.

Soybeans have been the most active commodity on the Board of Trade for some time. As a result of Wednesday's trade there was an increase of 1,902,000 bushels in the number of open futures contracts, making a total open interest of 130,726,000 contracts, an all-time high for beans.

In wheat, some soft flour business developed during the week but the volume was disappointing. However, Agriculture Department purchases of flour for European and domestic relief purposes were large and more takings of this type are looked for next week.

Factors contributing to lower prices for corn futures included a government estimate which placed this year's corn crop at a record breaking total of nearly 4 ½ billion bushels.

MAY ORBIT PLASTIC MAN

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —America may orbit a plastic man in advance of the Mercury astronaut to test the amount of radiation the human space pioneer must encounter, it was revealed here Friday. The mannequin would be filled with tissue-equivalent fluid that would absorb as much radiation as a human body. The disclosure was made by Lt. Col. S.E. Lifton, deputy chief of biophysics at Kirtland Air Force Base here.

HINDS COUNTY, MISS.

Jett Drilling Brings In Wildcat

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Jett Drilling Co. has brought in a wildcat oil well in Hinds County.

The Gaddis Farms No. 1, about one mile west of the Bolton Field, flowed at the rate of 175 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 10,722-34 feet. The well is located in section 14, 6 north, 3 west.

The successful venture is expected to increase drilling activity in the area.

Biglane and Alford are continuing to run sidewall coring operations at their wildcat about 7 miles south of McComb in Pike County. The Lane No. 1 in sec. 21-2n-7e was drilled to 11,484 feet, with operators now trying to evaluate the commercial worth of sands found in electrical log.

The venture created interest while drilling was in progress when oil shows were found on the mud pit.

Hargrave Oil Corp. continues to test its Simpson County wildcat, the Peacock No. 1, sec. 24-1n-3e, with no information being released. The well has seven inch casing set at 13,350 feet with reports that about 120 feet of oil sand was logged. The wildcat is about one mile west of the Merit oil field.

In the recently-found McComb oil field of Pike County, Sun Oil Co. is coring below 10,900 feet in its Andrews No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e. The field currently lists two excellent oilers and was discovered in July.

Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. is below 10,000 feet in salt at its Rankin No. 1, sec. 26-7n-19w in Jeff Davis County. The wildcat is set to go to 12,500 feet and is located on the flank of the Prentiss salt dome.

In the recently found deep Grange gas field of Jeff Davis County, Tidewater Oil Co. is preparing to complete its Mikell No. 1, sec. 24-8n-20w. The well is reported flowing three million cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 14,155-68 feet.

Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. is below 8,900 feet in its Smith County wildcat, the Thompson No. 1, sec 35-3n-8e, about 6 miles northeast of Raleigh. Contract depth is 13,000 feet.

Two wildcat tests are being drilled in Copiah County. X. M. Frascogna is below 12,900 feet in his Magnolia Textiles No. 1, sec. 7-9n-7e, near Brown's Wells. Lone Star Producing Co. is below 6,000 feet in its Southern Package No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e, west of Hazlehurst.

Field drilling during the past week saw four new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In the Magee Field of Simpson County, George Hunt completed his Howard-Womack unit No. 2, sec. 34-1n-6e, as a dual producer at 12,878-92 feet and 13,614-45 feet. The well flowed 201 barrels from the 12,878-feet zone and 121 from the deeper sand.

At the Reedy Creek field in Jones County, California Co. finaled its Bemis No. 1, sec. 9-9n-11w, flowing 260 barrels per day from 9,302-26 feet. The operator will not produce from a sand at 11,081-110 feet until authority for dual completion has been granted.

In the Boykin Church field of Smith County, American Petrofina Co. completed its Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-3n-7e, flowing 143 barrels from 11,628-30 feet.

At Little Creek, Shell Oil Co. completed its Jenkins No. 3, sec. 11-4n-8e, flowing 206 barrels per day from 10,793-810 feet.

In the Ansley field of Hancock County, Pioneer Oil and Gas Co. finaled its Holden No. 1, sec. 29-9s-15w, flowing 1,800,000 cubic feet of gas and 66 barrels of condensate per day from 10,810 feet.

Wells abandoned:

Chickasaw County: Kern County Land Co. Penrose No. 1, Sec. 2-14s-2e (wildcat) dry at 5,400 feet.

Clarke County: Broadhead & Stack Butler No. 1, sec. 10-1n-17e (wildcat) dry at 4,130 feet.

Jasper County: Gulf Oil Corp. Heidelberg unit No. 5-6, sec. 5-10n-10w (heidelberg field) dry at 10,814 feet.

Cotton Prices Close Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton prices firmed during the past week for the second straight week, closing $1.05 to $1.80 a bale higher.

The October, 1959 delivery, in which trading expired Wednesday, went off the board 85 cents a bale above the previous week's close.

Referenda for both upland and extra long staple cotton, in which growers will vote to accept or reject marketing quotas for the 1960 crop, will be held Dec. 15.

A rejection of quotas would come as a complete surprise to the trade. In the case of the 1959 crop, 92 per cent of the voting growers approved quotas for the upland crop and 89 per cent for the extra long staple crop.

Exports during the week ended last Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 42,000 bales against 50,000 a week earlier and 34,000 a year earlier. For the current season through Oct. 13, exports approximated 334,000 bales against 508,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.
These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

Rocket Ship In Testing For Future

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X15 rocket ship swooped more than 11 miles high under its own power Saturday, testing its engines for future trips to the edge of space.

The 50-foot-long black arrow made its second successful powered flight after being cut loose from its B52 mother ship high above the Mojave Desert.

Exhausting its fuel in a four-minute burst that pushed it to more than 1,400 miles an hour, the X15 streaked on a wide arc, made a figure eight, and then circled in to a 200-mile-per-hour landing at 10:23 a.m. A high plume of dust rose behind as the rocket ship skidded along for more than a mile at this desert test center.

The entire flight from drop to landing took 10 minutes. The X15 was dropped at 41,000 feet and climbed above 60,000 feet on its lightning flight.

Test Pilot Scott Crossfield was at the controls, as he has been in all previous X15 flights.

Crossfield, 37, took the X15 up to 50,000 feet in its first power flight Sept. 17.

That was the first flight test of the stubby-winged craft's lower-atmosphere engines, two four-barrel rockets designed to thrust the ship up to 100,000 feet and reach speeds of close to 2,000 miles an hour.

Later this winter North American Aviation Inc. will install a more powerful single-chamber engine for the X15's 4,000-mile-an-hour blast up to altitudes of more than 100 miles.

Capt. James Allavie piloted the B52 which carried the tiny ship to its drop point.

The X15 could be seen only through powerful binoculars as it went through its tests.

The X15, which may be the first vehicle to expose a man to actual space-flight conditions, is set for a long series of gruelling tests at various altitudes and speeds.

Gen. MacArthur Now Ranking 5-Star Officer

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the death of Gen. of the Army George C. Marshall, Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur is now the ranking five-star officer of the United States.

MacArthur also is one of the Army's two remaining superrank officers. The other is Gen. Omar Bradley.

On the Navy side, the last remaining fleet admiral is Chester Nimitz, MacArthur's naval opposite number throughout World War II's Pacific campaign.

In the last stages of the war, Congress authorized the five-star rank. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt promoted four Army generals and three Navy admirals to the new rank.

In order of their dates of rank, the original roster of five-star officers was Adm. William Leahy, Gen. Marshall, Gen. MacArthur, Adm. Ernest King, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Adm. Nimitz and Army Air Force Gen. H. H. Arnold. Eisenhower, however, resigned his commission in 1952 when he ran for president.

Shortly after the surrender of Japan and upon his departure from active service, Adm. William Halsey was given five-star rank.

The only man elevated to five-star position since World War II was Gen. Omar Bradley, who served as the first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Since 1953, Bradley, like MacArthur, has been serving in private industry.

Marshall was the third five-star officer to die this year. Halsey died of a heart attack Aug. 16 and Leahy of a brain hemorrhage on July 20.

Rocket Ship In Testing For Future

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X15 rocket ship swooped more than 11 miles high under its own power Saturday, testing its engines for future trips to the edge of space.

The 50-foot-long black arrow made its second successful powered flight after being cut loose from its B52 mother ship high above the Mojave Desert.

Exhausting its fuel in a four-minute burst that pushed it to more than 1,400 miles an hour, the X15 streaked on a wide arc, made a figure eight, and then circled in to a 200-mile-per-hour landing at 10:23 a.m. A high plume of dust rose behind as the rocket ship skidded along for more than a mile at this desert test center.

The entire flight from drop to landing took 10 minutes. The X15 was dropped at 41,000 feet and climbed above 60,000 feet on its lightning flight.

Test Pilot Scott Crossfield was at the controls, as he has been in all previous X15 flights.

Crossfield, 37, took the X15 up to 50,000 feet in its first power flight Sept. 17.

That was the first flight test of the stubby-winged craft's lower-atmosphere engines, two four-barrel rockets designed to thrust the ship up to 100,000 feet and reach speeds of close to 2,000 miles an hour.

Later this winter North American Aviation Inc. will install a more powerful single-chamber engine for the X15's 4,000-mile-an-hour blast up to altitudes of more than 100 miles.

Capt. James Allavie piloted the B52 which carried the tiny ship to its drop point.

The X15 could be seen only through powerful binoculars as it went through its tests.

The X15, which may be the first vehicle to expose a man to actual space-flight conditions, is set for a long series of gruelling tests at various altitudes and speeds.

Gen. MacArthur Now Ranking 5-Star Officer

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the death of Gen. of the Army George C. Marshall, Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur is now the ranking five-star officer of the United States.

MacArthur also is one of the Army's two remaining superrank officers. The other is Gen. Omar Bradley.

On the Navy side, the last remaining fleet admiral is Chester Nimitz, MacArthur's naval opposite number throughout World War II's Pacific campaign.

In the last stages of the war, Congress authorized the five-star rank. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt promoted four Army generals and three Navy admirals to the new rank.

In order of their dates of rank, the original roster of five-star officers was Adm. William Leahy, Gen. Marshall, Gen. MacArthur, Adm. Ernest King, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Adm. Nimitz and Army Air Force Gen. H. H. Arnold. Eisenhower, however, resigned his commission in 1952 when he ran for president.

Shortly after the surrender of Japan and upon his departure from active service, Adm. William Halsey was given five-star rank.

The only man elevated to five-star position since World War II was Gen. Omar Bradley, who served as the first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Since 1953, Bradley, like MacArthur, has been serving in private industry.

Marshall was the third five-star officer to die this year. Halsey died of a heart attack Aug. 16 and Leahy of a brain hemorrhage on July 20.

HERE'S WHEN A VOLKSWAGEN MAKES SENSE

YOUR BANK

WHEN YOU BUY IT, you pay only $1895. A Volkswagen Panel Truck gives more payload (1830 lbs.) and more capacity (170 cu. ft.) than trucks costing $300 to $700 more. You save right at the start!

WHEN YOU LOAD IT, you load through wide, double side doors and a wide rear door. This means faster, smoother deliveries even on crowded, traffic-heavy streets. Doors on both sides are optional . . , so are split seats.

WHEN YOU DRIVE IT, you get the handling ease and maneuverability of an automobile. A Volkswagen turns sharper, climbs easily, delivers all the speed you need with the famous VW air-cooled rear engine.

PARK

WHEN YOU PARK IT, you park in places that usual trucks can't tackle. (What's more important to a delivery vehicle?) A Volkswagen Panel Truck is 3 feet shorter than standard automobiles.

REGULAR

WHEN YOU FUEL IT, you save money. A Volkswagen uses regular gas. It delivers twice the miles per gallon of usual ½-ton trucks. A Volkswagen makes even small deliveries economical.

SERVICE

WHEN YOU SERVICE IT, you'll find fast, expert service and genuine VW parts in every one of the 50 states. Come in and see the Volkswagen Panel Truck today. Nothing else like it.

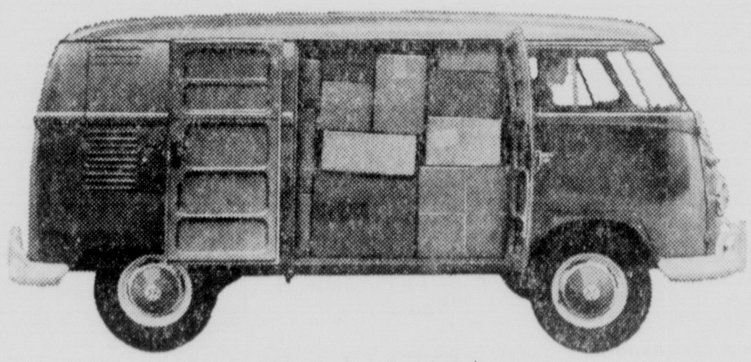
1909 LOUISVILLE · MONROE, Louisiana



HERE'S WHEN A VOLKSWAGEN MAKES SENSE

WHEN YOU BUY IT, you pay only $1895. A Volkswagen Panel Truck gives more payload (1830 lbs.) and more capacity (170 cu. ft.) than trucks costing $300 to $700 more. You save right at the start!

WHEN YOU LOAD IT, you load through wide, double side doors and a wide rear door. This means faster, smoother deliveries even on crowded, traffic-heavy streets. Doors on both sides are optional . . , so are split seats.

WHEN YOU DRIVE IT, you get the handling ease and maneuverability of an automobile. A Volkswagen turns sharper, climbs easily, delivers all the speed you need with the famous VW air-cooled rear engine.

WHEN YOU PARK IT, you park in places that usual trucks can't tackle. (What's more important to a delivery vehicle?) A Volkswagen Panel Truck is 3 feet shorter than standard automobiles.

WHEN YOU FUEL IT, you save money. A Volkswagen uses regular gas. It delivers twice the miles per gallon of usual ½-ton trucks. A Volkswagen makes even small deliveries economical.

WHEN YOU SERVICE IT, you'll find fast, expert service and genuine VW e parts in every one of the 50 states. Come in and see the Volkswagen Panel Truck today. Nothing else like it.

Income Producer

Top bayou location is a feature of this unusual investment property. There is a 3 bedroom concrete block home with a 2 bedroom apartment. In addition to this house, there is an apartment house with four 2 bedroom apartments. This investment property brings in approximately $400.00 a month. A wise investment this month will pay off next month.

Constant Income
MEANS PEACE OF MIND

The happiest, most successful individual is the one who owns and operates his own business. We strongly urge you to investigate the possibilities of this 2-story building in its setting of an entire city block. There are ten spacious rooms with two baths. The location and size are ideal for a doctor's clinic, convalescent home, or funeral home, to mention a few. The successful man is the one who launches out to obtain the facilities he needs for his business, including the right building and location.

Income Producer

Top bayou location is a feature of this unusual investment property. There is a 3 bedroom concrete block home with a 2 bedroom apartment. In addition to this house, there is an apartment house with four 2 bedroom apartments. This investment property brings in approximately $400.00 a month. A wise investment this month will pay off next month.

Constant Income
MEANS PEACE OF MIND

The happiest, most successful individual is the one who owns and operates his own business. We strongly urge you to investigate the possibilities of this 2-story building is its setting of an entire city block. There are ten spacious rooms with two baths. The location and size are ideal for a doctor's clinic, convalescent home, or funeral home, to mention a few. The successful man is the one who launches out to obtain the facilities he needs for his business, including the right building and location.

BUY A HOME FIRST!

A HOSPITALITY HOME

TWO BLOCKS FROM HIGHLAND SCHOOL, WEST MONROE is this neat home. The spacious and attractive pine paneled den will be the center of family living. The living room itself will accomodate more than a dozen guests easily. The lovely lawn is fenced in the back for the safety of the smaller children. Living will be brighter in this home that radiates hospitality, and for a price less than $10,500.

ARE YOU RICH IN CHILDREN

But short on cash? This 4 bedroom older home (JUST 2 BLOCKS FROM MITCHELL SCHOOL) in West Monroe has 1400 sq. feet of living area. Two baths, one with shower stall, add luxury to this budget home. There's a small breakfast room for informal family meals. The back yard is fenced for protection of the smaller children as they play. Seldom do you find a feature packed and spacious home for such a modest price of less than $13,000.

HOME PLUS ACREAGE

If you buy now, you can enjoy Thanksgiving dinner in this cozy 4 bedroom home IN BUCKHORN BEND. There are 2 tile baths (one with shower stall). Mom will enjoy meal preparation in her step-saver kitchen. The 1700 sq. feet in this home will be adequately cooled next summer by an attic fan. The quality and beauty cannot be equaled for twice the price, less than $30,000.

STERLINGTON ASSUME 4½% LOAN

This neat 3 bedroom home is just a few minutes drive from the business district of Sterlington. The tastefully carpeted and draped living room radiates gracious living. All 3 bedrooms are spacious. Two cheery baths eliminate "traffic problems". This lovely home is situated on a 1.8 acre hillcrest site for beauty and privacy. There's no "rich man's price" on this feature-rich home, as it's priced below $13,500.

15 ACRES PLUS FURNISHED CAMP HOUSE

Located just ten miles from town is this small club house or hunting camp. There's barb-wire fencing completely around the acreage and there's some marketable hardwood and young pines. The completely furnished camp club house, or lodge will be the scene of hunting trips or weekend house parties. The kids will fall in love with the pond for wading and splashing. This property will not be surpassed in value as it's priced below $5,500.

FIT FOR YOUR QUEEN

Is this elegant BAYOU HOME. The bedrooms (one's 17x18) will easily accomodate even the most massive bedroom furniture. Beautiful oak paneling and oak block floors help dramatize the spacious den which overlooks the patio and bayou. Luxurious living room carpet and fine draperies are designed to show your furnishings to best advantage. The ultra modern kitchen has built-in oven and range and refrigerator. Year 'round comfort will be yours with the York heating-air conditioning system. This bayou home has features galore, for which you'd expect to pay far more than the low price (below $36,000).

JUST CONSIDER OWNING

This spacious older home convenient to LIDA BENTON SCHOOL, BUSLINE, AND CHURCHES. The bedrooms are over-sized for convenient placement of furniture. Two baths add another touch of luxury. Mom's separate dining room will make any meal the big event of the day. There will be no chilling drafts this winter with the floor furnaces found in this home. The large lot boasts many beautiful camellias, azaliaas, and shrubs. When you consider all these features for just $350 plus closing costs you'll agree home ownership is for you.

TWO IN ONE MAKES INCOME FUN

Live in one side of this spacious NORTHSIDE home and rent the smaller apartment (2 bedrooms, dining room, and living room). The large apartment has 3 bedrooms, living room, and separate dining room.) You'll never be poor collecting rent from this roomy house.

A CHALLENGE

To you find a home to equal this neat, 4 year old home just a few minutes drive from West Monroe. This 2 bedroom home is more than adequately heated by wall heaters. The "larger than most" kitchen has excellent cabinet space. This home should challenge your interest as only $250 down plus closing costs will make it yours.

SWEET AND SASSY

Home FOUR BLOCKS FROM PLUM STREET SCHOOL. This neat 3 bedroom brick home is just nine months old. The kitchen has eye appeal with its many natural finish cabinets and built-in oven and range. The living room is spacious and already draped. Ceramic tile bath with shower over tub is another "plus" feature of this attractive and conveniently located home. You can relax without money worries as a low assumption and payments less than $80 will make this home yours.

CHILDREN SPECIAL

Is this modestly priced (less than $12,000) SOUTHSIDE home. In addition to the 3 spacious bedrooms, there is a den which becomes a hospitable guest room in minutes. The separate dining room will be the scene for Mom's more formal dinners. The huge (100x160) corner lot is enhanced by many trees and shrubs. There is much house, but a small price—less than $12,000.

AN EXECUTIVE HOME

In a SELECT NORTHSIDE LOCATION is this home with 2000 sq. feet of living area. The living room is beautiful with wall-to-wall carpet. The kitchen has every feature a wife could dream of . . . Mahogany cabinets galore, built-in oven and range, disposal and dishwasher. The Mahogany paneled family room with its quarry tile floors will be everyone's favorite spot for family fun and informal entertaining. Next summer will be anxiously awaited by all the family as there is central air conditioning inside and a private swimming pool for refreshing relaxation outside. This is truly a gracious home in a gracious setting.

GOBBLE UP

THIS 3 BEDROOM LAKESHORE HOME for less than $12,000. The kitchen will win any wife's heart with its many pine paneled cabinets and practical vent. The monowall bath has a handy shower over the tub and a built-in linen closet. There has never been a more compact and attractive home for such an astonishingly low price of just $400 down plus closing costs.

FANTASY OF CHARM

Is this beautiful 3 bedroom brick home in its SELECT NORTHSIDE LOCATION. The Mahogany paneled kitchen is a dream with its built-in dishwasher, disposal, oven and range. PLUS: a built-in refrigerator and freezer. Convenient to the kitchen is the lovely Mahogany paneled family room with its soft, indirect lighting and modern fireplace and terrazzo floors. There's a large tile guest bath with entrances from the foyer and bedroom wing in addition to the spacious master bath. Year 'round weather control comfort is yours with the five ton Lennox unit. This home has atmosphere and charm and lacks only your charming family for its owners.

A WORLD OF APPEAL

In this attractive 3 bedroom home JUST ACROSS FROM LEXINGTON SCHOOL. The house is exceptional as it is so well planned there is not an inch of wasted space. The den is ideally located for quiet hours with friends. The large corner lot has many trees which shade the barbecue pit for outdoor cooking. You'll agree not even the low price on this home could be improved, less than $15,000.

LOOKING FOR QUALITY

You're sure to find it in this very attractive 3 bedroom NORTHSIDE HOME, just ONE BLOCK FROM LEE JUNIOR HIGH. The 1½ tile baths add to the convenience of this modern as the minute home. Mom's kitchen is beautiful with its built-in Tappan oven and range and Nutone hood. The 1500 sq. feet of this lovely home is adequately cooled by the central air conditioning. Dad's heart will be made glad at the sight of the double carport. Quality usually cannot be bought for this price less than $20,000.

PRESTIGE HOME

Is this 3 bedroom home in its EXECUTIVE NORTHSIDE HOME. Even the largest of families can enjoy gathering for entertaining or relaxing in this spacious living room. A "plus" feature of this home is found in the 2 complete baths. Dad will applaud the convenience of a small office at home. The 2400 square feet of living area can be adequately cooled by 3 air conditioners. For your future happiness, the price (less than 26,000) cannot be beat.

PRETTY TO THE EYES

AND 2 BLOCKS FROM PLUM STREET SCHOOL is this charming 2 bedroom brick home. You'll thrill to the luxury of carpeting in the spacious living room and front bedroom. There'll be no winter sniffles with the wall heaters in this home. This home rates an "excellent" as it has such a low (less than $10,000) price.

BE THE LUCKY ONE

To own this spacious older home so conveniently located ON BUSLINE AND FIVE BLOCKS FROM LIDA BENTON SCHOOL. The living room and 3 large bedrooms are carpeted. Two baths will be of invaluable assistance in the morning in getting the family off to work, school, or play. There's a comfortable den for the times you need to work or relax quietly. For comfort, roominess, and convenience, this home cannot be equalled at its asking price of less than $8,000.

EASY TO BUY

AND NEAR OLIN MATHIESON is this cozy 2 bedroom home which has so much to offer. There's a spacious living room that will win any woman's heart. This neat home is in excellent repair and has over 1100 sq. feet of living area. There's a workshop in back for Dad. This charming home can be bought for only $250 and closing (total price under $8,600).

YOU STILL HAVE TIME

And money (below $8,000) to buy this neat 2 bedroom home. A more compact and convenient home you'll never find. The house is wired for 220 for better electrical living. You get all the convenience of the home plus location as its NEAR PLUM STREET SCHOOL.

YOU'LL BE PLEASED

WITH THIS NORTHSIDE 2 bedroom home with every feature planned for happy living. The approximately 1600 sq. feet includes a comfortable den for informal entertaining. The living room is spacious enough for a homey air. There's a luxury "extra" bath in this 1½ bath home. The children will eagerly await next summer because of the small cement wading pool in the back yard. For such a home, you would normally expect to pay more than the asking price (below $15,000)

BUY A HOME FIRST!

A HOSPITALITY HOME
TWO BLOCKS FROM HIGHLAND SCHOOL, WEST MONROE is this neat home. The spacious and attractive pine paneled den will be the center of family living. The living room itself will accomodate more than a dozen guests easily. The lovely lawn is fenced in the back for the safety of the smaller children. Living will be brighter in this home that radiates hospitality, and for a price less than $10,500.

ARE YOU RICH IN CHILDREN
But short on cash? This 4 bedroom older home (JUST 2 BLOCKS FROM MITCHELL SCHOOL) in West Monroe has 1400 sq. feet of living area. Two baths, one with shower stall, add luxury to this budget home. There's a small breakfast room for informal family meals. The back yard is fenced for protection of the smaller children as they play. Seldom do you find a feature packed and spacious home for such a modest price of less than $13,000.

HOME PLUS ACREAGE
If you buy now, you can enjoy Thanksgiving dinner in this cozy 4 bedroom home IN BUCKHORN BEND. There are 2 tile baths (one with shower stall). Mom will enjoy meal preparation in her step-saver kitchen. The 1700 sq. feet in this home will be adequately cooled next summer by an attic fan. The quality and beauty cannot be equaled for twice the price, less than $30,000.

STERLINGTON ASSUME 4½% LOAN
This neat 3 bedroom home is just a few minutes drive from the business district of Sterlington. The tastefully carpeted and draped living room radiates gracious living. All 3 bedrooms are spacious. Two cheery baths eliminate "traffic problems". This lovely home is situated on a 1.8 acre hillcrest site for beauty and privacy. There's no "rich man's price" on this feature-rich home, as it's priced below $13,500.

15 ACRES PLUS FURNISHED CAMP HOUSE
Located just ten miles from town is this small club house or hunting camp. There's barb-wire fencing completely around the acreage and there's some marketable hardwood and young pines. The completely furnished camp club house, or lodge will be the scene of hunting trips or weekend house parties. The kids will fall in love with the pond for wading and splashing. This property will not be surpassed in value as it's priced below $5,500.

FIT FOR YOUR QUEEN
Is this elegant BAYOU HOME. The bedrooms (one's 17x18) will easily accomodate even the most massive bedroom furniture. Beautiful oak paneling and oak block floors help dramatize the spacious den which overlooks the patio and bayou. Luxurious living room carpet and fine draperies are designed to show your furnishings to best advantage. The ultra modern kitchen has built-in oven and range and 9' refrigerator. Year 'round comfort will be yours with the York heating-air conditioning system. This bayou home has features galore, for which you'd expect to pay far more than the low price (below $36,000).

JUST CONSIDER OWNING
This spacious older home convenient to LIDA BENTON SCHOOL, BUSLINE, AND CHURCHES. The bedrooms are over-sized for convenient placement of furniture. Two baths add another touch of luxury. Mom's separate dining room will make any meal the big event of the day. There will be no chilling drafts this winter with the floor furnaces found in this home. The large lot boasts many beautiful camellias, azaliaa, and shrubs. When you consider all these features for just $350 plus closing costs you'll agree home ownership is for you.

TWO IN ONE MAKES INCOME FUN
Live in one side of this spacious NORTHSIDE home and rent the smaller apartment (2 bedrooms, dining room, and living room). The large apartment has 3 bedrooms, living room, and separate dining room.) You'll never be poor collecting rent from this roomy house.

A CHALLENGE
To you—find a home to equal this neat, 4 year old home just a few minutes drive from West Monroe. This 2 bedroom home is more than adequately heated by wall heaters. The "larger than most" kitchen has excellent cabinet space. This home should challenge your interest as only $250 down plus closing costs will make it yours.

SWEET AND SASSY
Home FOUR BLOCKS FROM PLUM STREET SCHOOL. This neat 3 bedroom brick home is just nine months old. The kitchen has eye appeal with its many natural finish cabinets and built-in oven and range. The living room is spacious and already draped. Ceramic tile bath with shower over tub is another "plus" feature of this attractive and conveniently located home. You can relax without money worries as a low assumption and payments less than $80 will make this home yours.

CHILDREN SPECIAL
Is this modestly priced (less than $12,000) SOUTHSIDE home. In addition to the 3 spacious bedrooms, there is a den which becomes a hospitable guest room in minutes. The separate dining room will be the scene for Mom's more formal dinners. The huge (100x160) corner lot is enhanced by many trees and shrubs. There is much house, but a small price—less than $12,000.

AN EXECUTIVE HOME
In a SELECT NORTHSIDE LOCATION is this home with 2000 sq. feet of living area. The living room is beautiful with wall-to-wall carpet. The kitchen has every feature a wife could dream of . . . Mahogany cabinets galore, built-in oven and range, disposal and dishwasher. The Mahogany paneled family room with its quarry tile floors will be everyone's favorite spot for family fun and informal entertaining. Next summer will be anxiously awaited by all the family as there is central air conditioning inside and a private swimming pool for refreshing relaxation outside. This is truly a gracious home in a gracious setting.

GOBBLE UP
THIS 3 BEDROOM LAKESHORE HOME for less than $12,000. The kitchen will win any wife's heart with its many pine paneled cabinets and practical vent. The monowall bath has a handy shower over the tub and a built-in linen closet. There has never been a more compact and attractive home for such an astonishingly low price of just $400 down plus closing costs.

FANTASY OF CHARM
Is this beautiful 3 bedroom brick home in its SELECT NORTHSIDE LOCATION. The Mahogany paneled kitchen is a dream with its built-in dishwasher, disposal, oven and range, PLUS: a built-in refrigerator and freezer. Convenient to the kitchen is the lovely Mahogany paneled family room with its soft, indirect lighting and modern fireplace and terrazzo floors. There's a large tile guest bath with entrances from the foyer and bedroom wing in addition to the spacious master bath. Year 'round weather control comfort is yours with the five ton Lennox unit. This home has atmosphere and charm and lacks only your charming family for its owners.

A WORLD OF APPEAL
In this attractive 3 bedroom home JUST ACROSS FROM LEXINGTON SCHOOL. The house is exceptional as it is so well planned there is not an inch of wasted space. The den is ideally located for quiet hours with friends. The large corner lot has many trees which shade the barbecue pit for outdoor cooking. You'll agree not even the low price on this home could be improved, less than $15,000.

LOOKING FOR QUALITY
You're sure to find it in this very attractive 3 bedroom NORTHSIDE HOME, just ONE BLOCK FROM LEE JUNIOR HIGH. The 1½ tile baths add to the convenience of this modern as the minute home. Mom's kitchen is beautiful with its built-in Tappan oven and range and Nutone hood. The 1500 sq. feet of this lovely home is adequately cooled by the central air conditioning. Dad"s heart will be made glad at the sight of the double carport. Quality usually cannot be bought for this price less than $20,000.

PRESTIGE HOME
Is this 3 bedroom home in its EXECUTIVE NORTHSIDE HOME. Even the largest of families can enjoy gathering for entertaining or relaxing in this spacious living room. A "plus" feature of this home is found in the 2 complete baths. Dad will applaud the convenience of a small office at home. The 2400 square feet of living area can be adequately cooled by 3 air conditioners. For your future happiness, the price (less than 26,000) cannot be beat.

PRETTY TO THE EYES
AND 2 BLOCKS FROM PLUM STREET SCHOOL is this charming 2 bedroom brick home. You'll thrill to the luxury of carpeting in the spacious living room and front bedroom. There'll be no winter sniffles with the wall heaters in this home. This home rates an "excellent" as it has such a low (less than $10,000) price.

BE THE LUCKY ONE
To own this spacious older home so conveniently located ON BUSLINE AND FIVE BLOCKS FROM LIDA BENTON SCHOOL. The living room and 3 large bedrooms are carpeted. Two baths will be of invaluable assistance in the morning in getting the family off to work, school, or play. There's a comfortable den for the times you need to work or relax quietly. For comfort, roominess, and convenience, this home cannot be equalled at its asking price of less than $8,000.

EASY TO BUY
AND NEAR OLIN MATHIESON is this cozy 2 bedroom home which has so much to offer. There's a spacious living room that will win any woman's heart. This neat home is in excellent repair and has over 1100 sq. feet of living area. There's a workshop in back for Dad. This charming home can be bought for only $250 and closing (total price under $8,000).

YOU STILL HAVE TIME
And money (below $8,000) to buy this neat 2 bedroom home. A more compact and convenient home you'll never find. The house is wired for 220 for better electrical living. You get all the convenience of the home plus location as its NEAR PLUM STREET SCHOOL.

YOU'LL BE PLEASED
WITH THIS NORTHSIDE 2 bedroom home with every feature planned for happy living. The approximately 1600 sq. feet includes a comfortable den for informal entertaining. The living room is spacious enough for a homey air. There's a luxury "extra" bath in this 1½ bath home. The children will eagerly await next summer because of the small cement wading pool in the back yard. For such a home, you would normally expect to pay more than the asking price (below $15,000)

I GOT MY HEART SET ON YOU MAKIN' THE TEAM, JUNIOR··· BO Mc MILLAN ONLY WEIGHED 138···THE BIGGER THEY ARE THE HARDER THEY FALL····

HATLO'S HISTORY

YOU CALL YOURSELVES GAGMEN? NOT ONE FUNNY JOKE···NOT ONE PIECE OF NEW BUSINESS HAVE YOU COME UP WITH··· AND DON'T THINK I'M NOT WISE TO YOU WRITERS TRYING TO SLIP IN PLUGS···

HE TRIED TO HAVE MERCUTI, THE WRITER, BEHEADED YESTERDAY··· WHO DOES HE THINK HE IS··· THE KING?

HE DON'T KNOW WHEN HE'S WELL OFF··· HE'S PESTERIN' THE COURT CHAMBERLAIN TO CUT DOWN THE NUMBER OF SHOWS HE DOES···

I DON'T SEE WHY WE HAVE TO HAVE A JESTER···· I'D PREFER A LUTE PLAYER WHO TOLD TALES OF DERRING-DO····

WELL, I'LL ADMIT HIS RATING IS SLIPPING·· I'M THINKING OF SOME CHANGES MYSELF. HOW ABOUT FAT PIERROT FROM YOUR UNCLE'S COURT?

JACK THE JESTER WANTS TO HAVE A LOT OF PAINTINGS MADE OF HIMSELF DOING HIS ACT··· HE CALLS IT TAPING THE SHOW, FORSOOTH···

WHAT'S JOLLY JACK REALLY LIKE? I GOT THE REAL LOW-DOWN FROM THE TOWN CRIER LAST NIGHT····

BEHIND THE SCENES WITH THE COURT FUNNY MAN AS HE GETS READY TO WARM UP HIS AUDIENCE···

I SHOULDA USED A FOUR IRON ON THAT LAST HOLE INSTEADA USING A WOOD··· I COULDA MADE A FIVE ON THAT HOLE INSTEADA SEVEN···

"I SHOULDA···I COULDA"·· HE'S AN "IF" GOLFER··· HE PLAYS EVERY HOLE OVER WITH MOAN-AND-GROAN EFFECTS···

HIS IF SCORE IS IN THE 70'S, BUT HIS IS SCORE IS 130···

THERE'S ONE IN EVERY FOURSOME····

BUT "DADDY'S" GOT A PLAN! I DUNNO WHAT, AN' EVEN HE SAYS IT MAY MEAN TH' END FOR YOU, SANDY!

BUT "DADDY" SAYS AT LEAST THEY'LL NEVER BROIL YOU FOR DINNER; HE SAYS HIS WAY YOU'LL HAVE A CHANCE! OH, SANDY, SANDY! MY SANDY!

JUST 'MEMBER, "DADDY'S" NEVER LET US DOWN YET, WHEN THINGS LOOKED TH' BLACKEST! BE BRAVE, SANDY!

OH, IT'S REALLY NOT MUCH OF A TRICK! NOTHING TO MATCH YOUR MAGIC, OF COURSE! BUT IF IT CAN SAVE ANNIE'S FRIEND····

SURE! GIVE IT A TRY; WHY NOT? BUT LOOK AT THOSE HUNGRY FACES!

IF YOU CAN SELL THEM THE IDEA THAT SANDY'S NOT FOR EATING, YOU'LL BE THE GREATEST MAGICIAN I EVER HEARD OF!

ONE CAN ONLY TRY! ARE YOU READY, SANDY?

SO! NO TRICKS! NOTHING UP MY SLEEVES! YOU SAW HIM COVERED WITH A COMMON SHEET! AND NOW, THE MAGIC WORDS GIVEN ME BY A WISE MAN FROM THE EAST!

VERY GOOD, MY FRIEND! VERY GOOD! AND NOW? SUPPOSE YOU BRING HIM BACK!

BACK? WHEN HE IS A MILLION MILES AWAY, TRAVELING WITH THE MAGI? THAT WOULD BE SORCERY, O WORSHIPFUL WHITE GOD!

by Lyman Young and Tom Massey

SO YOUR MASTER'S IN SOME KIND OF SERIOUS TROUBLE, MR. GOOMA?

E-EEK!

YES—I DO NOW VAGUELY RECALL A HURRIED VISIT FROM HOWIE GAYCOTE AND THIS SAME CHIMP ABOUT A YEAR AGO—

YOU ARE GOING TO INVESTIGATE THE MAN'S REQUEST FOR HELP, SERGEANT MORGAN?

YES, BUT WHAT KIND OF HELP DOES HE REQUIRE? MEDICAL..? MORE LIKELY ARMED ASSISTANCE!

YOU LADS GET READY TO TAKE OFF AT ONCE—

THE LETTER SAYS HIS CHIMP WILL GUIDE US TO HIS PLACE—

THE CHIMP'S SURE ANXIOUS FOR US TO GET STARTED!

EE-EEK!

SGT. MORGAN THINKS SOMEBODY MIGHT BE PLAYING A HOAX ON US, TIM—

MAYBE SO, SPUD—YET MR. GOOMA ACTS AS THOUGH HIS MASTER'S LIFE WERE IN SERIOUS DANGER—
